

ANTI-JARGONIST, STRANGER'S GUIDE, ORIENTAL LINGUIST,
AND VARIOUS OTHER WORKS, IMPRESSED INTO A SERIES OF PORTABLE VOLUMES, ON THE HINDOOSTANEE LANGUAGE,
- 21 -
SPECIALY CALLED MOORS; WITH CONSIDERABLE INFORMATION RESPECTING EASTERN TONGUES, MANNERS, CUSTOMS,
&c. &c. &c.

AT PREVIOUS TIME, AND THE VOYAGE TO THE EAST INDIES, MAY BOTH BE RENDERED AGREEABLY SUBSERVIENT TO THE SPEEDY ACQUI-SITION OF MUCH USEFUL KNOWLEDGE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS, INTIMATELY CONNECTED WITH FUTURE HEALTH, FAME, HAPPINESS, AND FORTUNE, IN THAT REMOTE, BUT PROMISING PORTION OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

BY THE AUTHOR OF HINDOOSTANEE PHILOLOGY,
&c. &c.

---

---

OLUME I.

---

---

Edinburgh :

BY WALKER & GREIG,
MILLER, AND ARCH. CONSTABLE
GH; AND BLACKS & PARI HALL STREET, LONDON.

1806.

THE RUDIMENTS
 OF HINDOOSTANEE GRAMMAR.

---

THE present performance being expressly intended for the two-fold purpose of teaching any student to acquire an accurate idea of the grand popular language of Hindoostan, by solitary study himself, and of qualifying him also to instruct others, during a passage of some months to India; it is my intention to be as explicit and intelligible on the subject of pronunciation as the nature of the work will admit. • In this place it becomes my particular duty to warn the learner against the very common practice neglecting to read the preface because a perusal of it alone can obviate several difficulties, which may otherwise occur in these sheets, and should be considered as the indispensable preliminary step to a due knowledge of the nature, utility, application, and extent, of their contents. After this warning, the scholar who shall despise it, must rather blame Himself than Me, for the obstacles he may yet encounter in the acquisition of a most useful tongue; which, I am convinced, may be attained with great accuracy from a work like the present, if due attention be given to the following rules or first principles of Hindoostance pronunciation, elucidated and explained by the Roman Letters, so modified as to discriminate and express, not only the orthoepy, but the orthography of each word in the original character.

The Hindoostance alphabet, like the excellent abecedarian system of the Hindoos, as far as the mere sounds of the letters are concerned, may be here arranged, as nearly as possible in their natural order of enunciation, organic affinity, and consequent interchangeability, for every purpose of pronouncing the language in India, with the utmost precision and effect; but without servilely following the Sanskrit alphabet in every part.

VOWELS.

3	cull u	kill i	wool oo	} progressively the shortest possible sounds of—
5	ca there a e	keel ee	cole cool o oo
2		chyle ue	cowl uo	} diphthongs.
3	hull hu	young yu	word wu

13

by which the whole of the foregoing vowels may be thus

expirated, hu hi hoo ha he hec ho hoo hue huo

inspired, uh ih ooh ah eh ceh oh ooh ueh uoh

liquified, yu yi yoo ya ye yee yo yoo yue yuo wu wi woo wa we wee wo woo wue wuo

REMARKS.

The Roman letters, in the present scheme of writing the Hindoostanee, preserve almost the same powers they actually possess in the Latin language, agreeably to the Scotch pronunciation, and in the most common unexceptionable combinations and sounds in our own tongue.

No mute nor superfluous characters ever occur at the end, nor in any other portion of a word, and two Roman letters are never used to express a sound which can be conveniently effected by one. There are in all forty-nine useful combinations, letters or sounds, in this language, agreeably to the foregoing and following sub-division of the whole, in which, for the conveniency of the learner, all the vowels are illustrated by examples; the consonants are in general self-evident; but, where this is not the case, the subsequent prospectus will remove every doubt on the subject.

- u is invariably the short ă or u in up, fun, sun, never sounded like oo; purdu or pãrdă, a curtain, therefore, cannot be purdoo, nor can moonshec, a teacher, goolistan, moosulman, become, with any propriety, gullistan, mussulman, as they are generally pronounced by persons who have not learned those words correctly from my works, or in India.

In no instance can u have the sound of our pronoun you, because such a word in this work would be written as in page 3, yoo; the scholar must therefore never call u (my very short ă) either you or oo, yoo being in fact the name of the letter which has with us, very absurdly, the various powers of oo oo you, while in this work its name u, and sound ă, are alike consistent throughout.

i & oo being respectively the shorts of e ee, and o oo, is the reason of only three short to five long vowels above.

a must, at first, be prolated like the word awe, until the learner's own ear can discriminate when and where the medial sound, between the extreme long ā and short ă or u, will be most proper.

e resembles ai in hair, pair, fair, pain, rain, &c. ; but the medial shades of this letter, and ee, till they fall into the short i, must be acquired by practice only; I have, therefore, as in u a, marked in my system merely the extremes of short and long vowels.

ee as in bee, see, lec, fee, heel, feel, keel.

o always very long. { As e and ee are to i, oo the longer the better. { so are o and oo to u in the Oriental tongues.

ue composed of ă and e, sounded like the organ of sight, eye, or as ui in guide, guisc.

uo reversed by us in our, how, &c. ; which, formed agreeably to the order of the component parts of this diphthong, ought to be uor, huo ; thus when ought clearly, on similar principles, to be written hwen, or hooen, as Dr Lowth expresses it.

h the perfect aspirate, either before the vowel or after it, as ha ah, in both situations to be as distinctly expressed with the expiration ha, and the inspiration ah, as b is in ba ab both fully sounded and heard.

When h follows any consonant so bh<sub>a</sub>, ee, a brother, it should always have the full expiration, unless denoted by the subser-vient h of which we shall treat among the consonants, page 9.

y like h and w, rather a consonant than a vowel, though i e and ee before each other, or a, &c. are very apt to become y in most languages, and vice versa.

w as y and i e ee are to each other, so is w to o oo uo ; the series yu yi yoo ya, &c. wu wi woo wa, &c. may therefore be also represented as iu eea ooa, &c. recollecting that the hiatus is generally prevented by the change to yu ya wa, &c.

CONSONANTS.

6	bu	bhu	pu	phu	fu	vu	} labials.
	b	bh	p	ph	f	v
5	ngu	nu	mū	lu	ru		} liquids and nasals.
	ng	n	m	l	r
6	tu	thu	du	dhu	ru	ru	} palatials.
	t	th	d	dh	r	rh
4	tu	thu	du	dhu			} dentals.
	t	th	d	dh
4	su	shu	zu	zhu			} sibilants.
	s	sh	z	zh
4	tshu	tshu	dzhu	dzhu			} dento- sibilants
	ch	chh	j	jh
7	ku	khu	khu	gu	ghu	ghu	} gutturals.
	k	kh	kh	g	gh	gh

36 consonants } distinct sounds in the Hin-13 vowels &c. } doostanee alphabet, the name — being in all } and power of which individu-49 letters with } ally are as much alike as possible; our letter h or aitch, as it is most absurdly called, being simply termed hu, a breathing du also standing for delta, gu for gama, &c.
 though the particle kar may be subjoined to the whole; so ukar, ikar, akar, &c. bukar, hukar
 &c. as in the Hinduwee alphabets.

From the foregoing paragraph the reader will now perceive, that the series bu ḅhu pu p̣hu, &c. ngu nu mu lu ru, &c. exhibits the name of each letter unconnectedly as such, while b ḅh p p̣h ng ṇ n m l r shows their sound or power connectedly, in the formation of words. Among the vowels the name and power may always be alike, but with the consonants it must, for obvious reasons, be otherwise, as here illustrated from the Oriental alphabets, which, like our own, require one vowel at least to give utterance to the consonants, as their name implies.

The consonants might be named by any of the vowels as auxiliaries, as well as by u, were not this the shortest sound of a, invariably inherent in the whole of the Nagree or Hindoostanee consonants. The vowel might also stand on either side subserviently, as bu, ub; da, ad; fi, if; pec, eep, with sufficient effect in any uniform system. Our alphabet partakes of both principles, as bee, dec, ef, el, perhaps to distinguish the mutes from the liquids, among which ess might be included, were this at the best, either a very consistent or convenient arrangement in any alphabet.

The ten expired letters, ḅh p̣h ṭh ḍh ṭh ḍh cḥh j̣h ḳh g̣h, seem peculiar to the Hindoos, of which we can form no other idea, than by frequently repeating the following, and such words as I have exhibited them, in this place: viz. a-bhor, a-dhere, u-phill, chur-chhill, nu-thook, mil-khouse, do-ghouse, or by contracting them thus, bhor, dheer, thook, chhill, khuos, 'ghuos, &c. and ringing the changes with this aspirated pronunciation, until it become quite familiar to the scholar, which it must be in the course of two or three days devoted to this essential exercise, in the very threshold of Oriental orthoepy, to prevent the most dangerous mistakes.

The expirates kh gh above must be most carefully distinguished from the gutturals kh gh explained below, because the h in these last and sh zh ch is a mere subservient to express a sound for which we have no character in our alphabet, not less defective in ch sh zh, though possessing the simple character j to denote the compound sound of dzh.

- n as a nasal before j k g and t or d, requires no particular mark, sounding exactly like our own letters nj ng nk nt, &c. in change, rung, sunk, want, &c. but elsewhere it is the French nasal when marked ñ. Preceding the labials it becomes, as in most languages, m.

- r should be every where expressed by a perfect vibration of the tip of the tongue on the upper teeth, as in the word l'amour, which few Englishmen can express well, though the Scottish and Irish find no difficulty whatever.

t & d are formed by carrying the tongue forcibly against the roof of the mouth, while articulating the common dentals t and d of our own alphabet, which are as much softer than ṭ ḍ, as these are harder than the oriental ṭ ḍ, formed with a slight protrusion of the tongue between the teeth. Tub, duck, do; tube, duke, dew, due, will convey a tolerable idea of the difference between palatials and dentals in the eastern tongues; the ṭ ḍ of the four last, even with us, being much softer than in the three first: for in fact some people seem to soften the liquified d and t with us, so far as to say, tshube, jook, jew for due, &c. The lisp of children, and others, will convey a tolerable notion of the very soft dentals ḍ ṭ in question, as essential sounds in the Oriental tongues, which require the utmost assiduity and practice before the learner can perfectly comprehend or express them in the Persian and Hindoostanee languages.

d frequently becomes a very harsh palatial r; thus ghora, a horse, properly ghoda, though very seldom so pronounced.

th in thin and thine does not occur in the alphabets of India, though the Arabs appear to possess similar sounds among their letters; th is therefore uniformly as in hothouse, quasi ho-thuos, according to my system in page 9, already explained.

s sh z zh are to each other as they stand in sin, shin, seize, seizure or seezhyoor, the h here being a mere subservient letter, as in gh kh ch, with no aspiration whatever.

ch j called dento sibilants to shew their component parts as dentals and sibilants, which might be denoted by tsh dzh, were these not more complex than our own soft ch in church (tshurtsh), j in judge (dzhudzh), to which, if due attention be paid now, the reader will never hereafter frenchify the j of just (dzhust) to zhust, as he will probably do at first, until frequently apprised that our j in jam (dzham) is composed of the dental d and sibilant zh, stated above.

kh is the rough guttural k pronounced in the very act of hawking up phlegm from the throat, which becomes tremulous and ruffled, while the root of the tongue is with it forming the sound required. This letter is familiar enough to the Scottish and other northern nations, but very troublesome to the English, who should first try it in mukh, lukh, nukh, &c. before attempting it in khum, khul, and so on.

gh is to g gh, what kh is to k kh; consequently, the guttural Northumberland r, heard in the act of gargling the throat with water, as ghu, glu, glu; mugh, lugh, rugh, are much easier than ghum, ghul, &c. which learners will confound with gum, gul, &c. until the burr in the throat, as it is called, be duly acquired from some person who has this peculiarity, and who would call the word roolam, ghoolam, a slave, very properly, instead of goolam, as those do who have not acquired the gh accurately.

q or our k articulated by raising the root of the tongue simply towards the throat, which must not be in the smallest degree ruffled, as in forming kh, or gh. The q may consequently be styled a deep but liquid lingual letter, produced by clinking the root of the tongue against the throat, so as to cause a sort of nausea. The same sound will be recognized when pouring water in a particular manner from a long necked guglet, as the liquid decanting may represent the lower part of the tongue acting upon the throat or neck of the vessel in question, unruffled by the water gushing from it. A few efforts will soon fix the q in the memory and on the organs of speech, perhaps at the expence of a slight nausea at first.

The vowels, particularly such as are homogeneous, either in quantity or quality, are very interchangeable; and this holds good among the consonants also, even sometimes where affinity is not very striking, as in y j and g, l n and s, m h and w.

! The learner should recollect that c is never used but as a subservient in the combination tsh ch already explained.

To prevent letters coalescing, the , is often inserted between them, that ee oo nk ng sh zh may be distinctly articulated, when necessary, as two separate sounds; so, e,e o,o n,k n,g s,h z,h.

The number of syllables in a word is commonly regulated by the number of vowels. When two consonants intervene, they should be divided, ad-mee, a person; but if one only, it goes to the last, pa-nee, water, ba-hur, out, sa-yu, shade. This holds good likewise when the consonant is expired, whence du-khun, the south, not duk-hun, unless to teach a beginner to sound the h in this word, that he also may not miscall it deccan! as is generally done. Sometimes two consonants meet as in English, gurm, warm, fuṣl, season, swamee, lord, pran, life, though among the illiterate pronounced rather as gurum, fuṣul, puran, &c.

The Prospectus of such letters and combinations, agreeably to their invariable power in the Hindoostanee language, as can be farther illustrated by English examples, and which the reader might still otherwise mistake, may have its uses in this introduction. I have therefore exhibited it, in so obvious a manner, that no one acquainted with the English language can possibly misconceive the particular sound adopted from that tongue.

PROSPECTUS.

y	yu	} always sounded as in	yawn, yoke, your, &c.
sh			shin, ship, rush.
the French } zh			pleasure, i. e. pleazhure.
j or g }
tsh	ch		church, rich.
dzh	j		jugular, judge, (juj).
ph			uphold, uphill.
g	hard		jugular.
nk			sink, brink,
ng			rung, sung.
n			sans, bon, in French.
th			hot house, nut hook, as the th of thin and thine are not used in Hindoo- stanee, see page 11.

For the vowels and diphthongs consult page 3, and always consider u, short ă ; a, long ā ; i short, and ee long, in every situation ; while the two diphthongs, ue and uo, are ever to be treated as the ui or y and ou in guide, gued ; dry, drue ; our, uor. Sans and bon will shew the sound of the nasal ṇ, which is so common in the Hindoostanee.

U in purdu, a curtain ; a in rat, night ; e in bed, (baid) scripture ; ue in uesa, so ; i in mila, found; the hard g in gunge, o ganges! and perhaps a few others, are very liable to be misconceived by a mere English reader, who does not seriously attend to the fixed invariable power of such letters in pages 3, &c. q. v. before he attempts to derive any real benefit from the present plan; I am therefore under the necessity of inculcating again and again the present unavoidable retrospection to the letters and their sounds, to prevent all future disappointment on that head, if possible, before the student can commence the reading of sentences or dialogues, with any satisfaction to himself or advantage to those who may hear him.

Recapitulation, or General Rules for the Accurate Pronunciation of the Letters, intended chiefly for the guidance of those Scholars who may wisely confirm their own Knowledge, by generously instructing others in the grand Colloquial Language of the East, previous to, or during the Passage to India.

1. EVERY short vowel must be constantly sounded as short as possible.

2. All the long vowels in every situation ought, especially at first, to be pronounced as full, long and broad, as the learner can well sound them.

3. The soft d t r cannot be softened too much, and the harsh ḍ ṭ ṛ can hardly appear enough so, till their opposite natures be sufficiently understood from practice, and a sedulous retrospection to page 10, where the nature of these letters is more fully discussed.

4. Those, viz. d t r are formed by bringing the tip of the tongue forwards, almost between the teeth, as in due, tube, rue, while these, ḍ ṭ ṛ, require that organ to be curved backwards and then struck against the roof of the mouth, as in dull, tub, rub. The first are much softer and the last a great deal harsher than our English d t r.

5. The expired bḥ chḥ ḍḥ, &c. must all be very distinctly heard, with a full breathing of the h, as b-ha, ch-ha, to prevent innumerable mistakes of the most offensive nature. Whoever shall rapidly pronounce our words, abhor, adhere, for some time, and during reiterated efforts all at once, shall drop the initial ḥ, he will readily say bḥor, ḍḥere, with the requisite expirate, in its proper place. This one effort is alone applicable to all the other aspirable consonants, noted in page 8, and with the most certain effect, throughout the Hindoostanee tongue ; but the student should cautiously shun the common error of converting these monosyllabic expirates, bha chha, &c. to such dissyllables as buha chuha, &c. lest he frequently confound one thing with another, and be often vexed, disappointed, or abashed by his own blunders, from bad pronunciation entirely. Phun, a snake's crest, has the expired h as clear and as immediately after the p, as r is in prune : phun, therefore, by an intelligent scholar, cannot possibly be confounded with fun, art, or pun, because, added to the remark just made, he will recollect, that in page 4, it is said, two letters are never used to express a sound which can be done by one.

6. The above aspirated letters have been called expirates, to distinguish them from the inspirates buh, chuh, duh, and a thousand others. The aspirate here closes the syllable, and is consequently formed by a sort of inspired catching of the breath, much more difficult to learners than those described in Rule 5. Unless this final aspirate or inspire be carefully attended to, in words like shah, a king, mah, month, no scholar can readily put such nouns in the Hindoostanee oblique plural, shahon, mahon, with the h, now in its expired form. The inspired under discussion may be acquired and retained, by saying aha aha aha, suddenly dropping the final a; but preserving the h as forcibly as inspiration can express it in ah oh eh, &c. without giving the h an Irish or Scottish twist to the guttural kh, which many are apt to do in uhmuq, a fool, by calling this ukhmuq, instead of uh-muq, with a smooth, distinct, inspired h, which alone never can have the smallest guttural rough sound, though as a subservient it certainly makes k and g so, in mukh-mul, velvet, rough-but, desire.

7. The gutturals kh and gh are best acquired by saying ku, khu, khu, (the last as it were with an effort to hawk up tough phlegm from the throat) gu, ghu, ghu, (the last in an effort to gargle the throat forms the Northumberland r) because as ghu is to gu, so is khu to ku. The difficulty must now be much decreased to every person who possesses sagacity enough to discriminate the sounds produced in hawking up viscid phlegm from the throat, and in gargling it with water, or in an attempt to do so, by imitating what is termed the rattle in the throat of a dying man. The true discriminative articulation of kh and gh depends on ruffling the throat in a particular manner, while prolating k and g respectively. Experience has taught me, that kh and gh closing a syllable, of which the initial is one of the liquids or nasals, are more readily pronounced by beginners than vice versa; thus, *ruk*h is easy, compared to khur, and rugh to ghur, *muk*h to khum, or mugh to ghum, and so on. If the proper vibration be given to r irr before ugh, the gh very naturally becomes the Northumberland r in rugh rogh, &c. as any one may try (who has not the burr naturally, and who can pronounce the r as directed in page 10, before the gh explained in page 12.) with the greatest success, though it may still be some time before ghur can be enounced otherwise than gur. Rugh rugh rugh, ghur ghur ghur, often repeated, may remedy the defect soon.

8. Though q be called a guttural, I would rather name it, a lingual letter, because its formation is almost entirely owing to the root of the tongue being raised to the roof of the palate or throat, which last is preserved perfectly unruffled in this operation, whence the real difference between q and the other gutturals already enumerated. Water poured in a particular manner from a long necked guglet, or the hiccup of a man more than half seas over, will, I believe, yield a sound very near the q, which, when duly articulated, has the peculiar property of exciting a nausea in the learner. When followed by u the scholar must never, as in English, change u to w, but call words like qulum, a pen, qazee, a judge, kulum, kazee, never qwulum, quazee, &c. nor qeer, pitch, queer, but keer, or rather qeer, qulum, &c. with the lingual q above described alone.

9. An anxiety to pronounce certain letters remarkably well, is very apt in beginners, not only to have an opposite effect, but also to make them aspirate letters which are not aspirated, such as ch sh zh d t, or to change our common gutturals k g to the rough kh gh and q, more especially when the organs of speech have been just employed in the formation of the q, &c. as in the words, qazee ka ghoolam ghur men hue, the judge's slave is at home. It is ten to one but ka ghur will become qa'ghur, if the learner have by this time a perfect idea of the foregoing q and gh, as distinct sounds from k and gh. This tendency, and a trick of reading words like nisbut, relation, qismut, fortune, as if written nizbut, qizmut, should be carefully guarded against and corrected immediately, otherwise these bad habits will be confirmed with the most pernicious consequences, in spite of all my observations on the consistent uniformity of the Hindee-Roman Alphabet, in which s never can express the power of z, though constantly doing so in our own absurd system of orthography, disgraced with sounds for which there are no characters, and with letters that possess no fixed sounds, whence a species of polygraphic orthoepy has arisen, more like the Babylonian confusion of tongues than a regular scheme, well calculated for the comprehension of juvenile minds during their first efforts on the very rudiments of vernacular speech and grammar.

: 10. Beginners must necessarily pronounce with great difficulty and harshness at their outset, but their own ears soon become the best correctors of such an evanescent fault, which has its uses even, and need not give the smallest real uneasiness to the learner, though it may for a time furnish fools with something to laugh at, instead of themselves, when the tables are turned completely upon them, in conversing with the natives, who, to a bad pronouncer, might bring keera, a worm or snake, for kheera, a cucumber; or gora, a European servant, instead of ghora, a horse.

11. In strict orthoepic propriety, the diphthongs ue (y) uo (ou) should be expressed by ui, uoi, did not this mode militate considerably against Oriental orthography, with which, from an enlarged and progressive knowledge of the languages, we are strongly induced to conform, for reasons that need not be stated in this place.

12. The letters r, rh, are rather nominal deviations from d, dh, than formal characters in the Nagree system, still there is sufficient cause to preserve them, as distinct symbols, in a scheme of this kind.

13. Whoever recollects, that y, though called a semivowel, is now always treated as a consonant in my system, can meet with no trouble in pronouncing kiya, paya, beebiyon, as ki-ya, pa-ya, beebi-yon, nor in reconciling these with kee,a, pa,e,a, beebē,on, especially if he will at the same time consult the rules on the mutation of letters, in pages 6, 33, and 35.

14. In this work our English u in up, sup, cup, is, for cogent motives, still preserved to denote the shortest sound of a in America, (Umuriku) Calcutta, (Kulkutṭu), I must consequently beseech the learner to observe, once for all, that in my mode, position does not alter the power of a letter, therefore purdu, (pārdā) a curtain, cannot become purdoo (pardoo) except by that perverseness and irregularity, which disgrace almost all the alphabets in the world: a censure from which the most philosophical of the whole, the Sanskrit even, is not altogether exempt.

15. The name of every letter comes as near its actual power as possible, whence a, bu, pu, lu, hu, are much more consistent and definite, than our be, pe, ell, aitch, or the Greek alpha, beta, &c. When consonants unite to form words, or appear as finals, the short inherent vowel is dropt before other vowels, whence bd in the Oriental characters is simply bud, not budu, and bad is neither bu-ad nor bu-adu, which it must be, were the names of separate letters in any language ignorantly confounded with their mere power, in the composition of words.

16. The number of syllables in a word, for the most part, depends on the number of vowels, as a, o come! ja, o, go! When two consonants occur between two vowels, they generally are divided, but when one is found, it is most convenient to give it to the last syllable, as bur-tun, a vessel, pa-nee, water, a-ya, came, pa-ya, found. The Arabic and Persian often have final consonants without an intermediate short vowel, as well as the Hindoos and ourselves, who admit of this in the beginning of words also, although no such coincidence as the last can occur in Arabic or Persian. Gurm, usl, hurn, buzrn, rusrn, are instances of the first species, swamee, kripa, of the last, all to be treated, as we would such combinations in our own language.

17. Those learners who content themselves with dialogues are not very likely to have much aid from Moonshees, or native teachers, in acquiring the true pronunciation; they will therefore do well to read the sentences aloud to themselves, after being thoroughly versed in the rules now delivered, as it may be thus in their power to acquire a very correct, distinct, and pleasing enunciation, during their progress through this work. Scholars who commence reading the language in the Oriental characters, will do well to persevere in acquiring a just pronunciation from my Roman Orthography, as I have seen some instances of a relapse to very great inaccuracy in good pronouncers, by a premature and ill judged preference of the Persian character.

When the foregoing principles and observations are well understood by the reader, he can meet with no obstacle in learning the sounds of the Hindoostanee alphabet; and after acquiring them completely, he should commence reading aloud every day, for one month, a few paragraphs of English, according to the plan laid down here for the Oriental tongues; supposing his own language a piece of Persian or Hindoostanee, in which he must forget of course, in many words, the English orthoepy entirely. It will very soon be discovered, that where our letters and sounds follow any fixed general principle, they will commonly coincide exactly with my scheme, and vice versa. Mushroom, British, just, church, such, king, sung, sink, see, boor, fling, swim, war, “ and thousands more, would be so written and pronounced in the Eastern tongues; but to enable the scholar to read this last sentence according to the system proposed, I would be under the necessity at first of writing it in our character thus:”

Aund thō,usaunds mōrai wō,uld bai sō writtain aund prōnō,unsaid in thai ai,austairn tōngguais (or -guiss, -gys) but tō ainaublai thai stshōlaur tō raiaud thhis laust saintainsai akkōr-ding tō thai syustain prōpōsaid, i wō,uld bai undair thai naisaissityu aut furst òf writing it in uor tshaurauktairs thus.

Such an exercise, for the period mentioned above, would confirm the learner's pronunciation more than any thing I know, and his own ears would, in a few days, teach him to call a invariably ææe, never ai; e not ee but ai; u short ä, in no instance oo nor yoo; ch always tsh, and j dzh, &c. In the same manner he would acquire a habit of pronouncing the very soft dentals of due, duke, tube properly, as none of the very harsh sort d t can occur in any English paragraph, provided he at the same time apply closely to the Hindoostanee alphabet, as illustrated and explained in this section of the work. To the man who can forget his own language so far as to bend its sounds accurately to my scheme of letters, we may safely submit the following Hindoostanee story, first in my way, and then in that which many other people would at once adopt, without having studied the subject so long and deliberately as I have done.

Ek badshah ne upue wuzeer se poochha, La sub se bihtur mere huqq* men kya hue, urz kee, ki udl kurna uor ruqeyut ka palna.

---

* The final duplicate here and in hudd, limit, kiss, sen-

Aick baudshauh nai apnai vizier sai puchhau, ke sub sai behtur mairai huck maing kea hy,
arz kee, ke adl kurnau our riot kau paulnau.

If these two, and the English sentence in page 26, read as it would be pronounced in Hindoostanee, do not convey my meaning to the reader, I shall be at a loss how to make it more obvious to him by any written instructions ; he should therefore study this part well before he condemns it either as obscure or unintelligible, and he will assuredly perceive that each perusal of the whole will render it more and more familiar to himself, and to the capacity of any person whom he may thus wish to instruct in the accurate pronunciation or vital portion of a living tongue, without which, profound Oriental learning, for all the useful purposes of life in India, will prove nought but vanity and vexation of spirit. In the belief that the subsequent extract on this theme, from the Antijargonist, may still render the subject more evident, it is herewith submitted to the reader.

The following English words attending to their true pronunciation, would, agreeably to my orthography, be written thus :

---

sation, with a few more, is preserved agreeably to the Arabic orthography, but one only of these finals can be pronounced.

bare,	I	would	write,	ber	gore,	I	would	write,	gor
age	-	-	-	-	ej	ore	-	-	- bile	-	-	-	-	buel	sage	-	-	- hall	-	-	-	-	hal	useful	-	-	- yoosfool

The above words the learner should frequently repeat over, to accustom his eyes and his ears to the orthography of the Hindoostanee; and to the fixed sounds given to the English symbols, used here to express the words of that language.

For his further exercise and amusement, I shall here add an example of Addison's well known simile of the Angel,—first, according to our current English orthography,—secondly, according to the Hindoostanee orthography used here,—thirdly, according to that of the late Sir William Jones,—and, lastly, like the sentence in page 26, to confirm the practice there recommended, as the best I can devise for impressing on the reader's memory my mode of reading English, as so much Hindoostanee in the Hindec-Roman alphabet.

“ So when some Angel, by divine command,

“ With rising tempests shakes a guilty land,

“ Such as of late o'er pale Britannia past,

“ Calm and serene he drives the furious blast,

“ And, pleas’d th’ Almighty’s orders to perform,
 “ Rides in the whirlwind and directs the storm.”

This, according to my orthography, would be written as follows :

So hwen sum enjel, bue divuen kumand,
 With ruezing tempests sheks a gilti land,
 Such az uv let or pel Britanyu past,
 Kam and siren hee druevz thi fyoorvus blast,
 And, pleezd th’ almuetiz ordurz too purform,
 Ruedz in the hwurlwind and duereks thi storm.

But the learner will please to observe the sounds expressed above by a e, and th, not being found in the Hindoostanee system, do not properly belong to mine, though necessarily inserted in this specimen.

The following example of the late Sir William Jones’s orthographical system is exhibited in the Asiatic Researches, Vol. I. page 33.

So hwen sm enjel, bai divain cāmānd,
 With raisin tempests shécs a gilti land,
 Sch az äv lét ór pel Britanya pást,
 Cálm and sirín hi draivz dhi fyúras blást,
 And, plíz’d dh’ ālmaitiz ārderz tu perfórm,
 Raids in dhi hwerlwind and dāirects dhi stārm.

As in page 26.

Sō hwain sōmai aung-gel, byu divinai kōmmaund,
 With rising taimpaists shaukais au gueltyu laund,
 Such auss ōf lautai ōair paulai Britaunniau paust, Kauln aund sairainai hai drivais thai furious blaust, &c.

A tolerably correct pronunciation of the under-mentioned Hindoostanee words might perhaps by many be acquired, if written agreeably to the uncertain orthography of the last column here :

bare ( well )	thus,	baurey	gor ( a grave )	thus,	goar
age ( before )	-	augey	or ( a side )	-	oar
buel ( a bull )	-	biel	sej ( a bed )	-	saidge
hal ( state )	-	haul

But how should we find symbols to express, agreeably to the analogy of English pronunciation, such words as the following: aya, came, sayu, shade, seahce, ink, or how distinguish gunge, ganges, from gunj, a market?

Certainly no two people would agree in regard to their pronunciation. The first three words would prove difficult in the extreme, and if the g were ever allowed the soft sound of j, it would often prove equivocal. Hence the necessity for a fixed system, adapted as nearly as possible to the existing sounds of the Hindoostanee language. By a little attention to the scale of letters in pages 3 and 7; by noting that the power of each letter in the Hindoostanee, is in all cases the same; by recollecting they never admit of a deviation in sound, however various the combination, (excepting in the instances of ee oo œ ch gh kh sh zh, provided for in the scheme already noticed); and by remembering that no letter is useless or mute, (saving the few orthographic examples by the note in page 27, for which an adequate reason will be assigned hereafter, when we treat of Arabic forms);—the pronunciation will come perfectly easy in a short time, thus, aya, sa yu, sé,āhee, and gungé with the hard g in both instances, as if written gung-gé. But a, being in the Hindoostanee invariably broad, as in hall, e long as in vérité, and u short as in sun, the prosodial marks, (–) broad, (ˆ) long, and (˘) short, for those letters are unnecessary; and the diæresis, or division mark (,), is more frequently used here to facilitate the progress of a mere beginner, than from any necessity for it in a, o, ja, o, ao, jao, as these, by a person conversant in my system of orthography, would be pronounced exactly the same in both cases, though so, o, sleep, bo, o, sozv, muz, hub, religion, and some others, require it as marked in page 13, that o o z h may not become oo zh.

General Rules for the Mutation of Letters.

1. The short vowels are all more or less liable to convertibility, not only with each other, but with long vowels and diphthongs also, especially when these are homogeneous. The long vowels are in like manner convertible among themselves.

2. Diphthongs on similar principles are interchangeable together, and with long vowels also ; nay, they occasionally are permutable with the shorts, as already stated.

3. When e ee o or oo is followed by another vowel, a considerable change generally occurs, by the two first becoming y iy, and the last w oo v, or, in other words, these letters often become in ordinary discourse e ee o oo. *

4. The vowels and semivowels, nay, some of the consonants, are met with interchangeable, particularly o oo for the labials b w, &c. yu and j.

5. Independent of the permutability of semivowels and liquids among themselves, h l become s ; m changes more rarely to b w.

6. The consonants are more subject to change in their own immediate series, and a few even go beyond this, as j and g, ch and k, w and yu, ṭ and r, d j and z, s and kh.

7. W reduplicated, or followed by i ee, is very often expressed as v ; a sound which the illiterate in India seldom acquire.

8. One curious vowel consonant, viz. uen, is generally lost in the diacritical point or vowel on, before, or after it, among those who speak Hindoostanee without adverting to the power of this most equivocal letter, which we and the Hindoos, from the nature of our abecedarian system, must regard as a vowel, though the Arabs consider it always as a consonant.

9. Such changes as do not fall under the above rules must be treated rather as anomalies, to be acquired by extensive practice hereafter, than as objects worthy of much attention now ; some of them, in fact, depending on the ignorance, affectation, or presumption of the natives, who frequently are desirous of appearing very profound adepts in the Hindoostanee, by introducing the nasal ŋ, or giving the common letters k g w j s the more learned sound of kh gh v z sh, where these do not exist.

Examples of the above Rules.

1. Hurn, hirn, a deer; nimuk, numuk, salt; sur, sir, head; moojh, mijh, me; jul, jol, water; buttee, batee, a candle; tup, tap, a fever; phir, pher, again; idhur, eedhur, hither; chukhna, cheekhna, to taste; puhla, puhila, puehla, first; buhlana, buhilana, buehlana, to amuse; kheenchna, khenchna, khuenchna, to pull; bar, ber, a time; rikabee, rikebee, a dish; burabur, burobur, equal; thasna, thoosna, to cram; age, agoo, before; peeche, pachhe, behind; ko, koo, for; kyon, kyon, why. Innumerable other instances might be produced here, and after all the examples, were that now requisite in these pages.

2. Bhue, bhuo, fear; suo, sue, a hundred; luo, lue, love; khuemu, khemu, kheemu, a tent; uor, ar, more; foolad, folad, fuolad, steel; biluor, biloor, bilor, crystal; kuon, kon, who? muel, mul, filth.

3. Kea, kya, what; kee, kiya, made, did; ae, aya, came; keon, kyon, why; sae, sayu, shade; Hindoo, Hinduwee, Hindvee, Indian; tuloo, tuloo, sole of the foot; joo, joo, dice, a game, hazard, &c.

4. Yumna, jumna, the river so called ; yog, jog, junction ; mapna, napna, to measure ; neela, leela, blue ; deewar, deewal, a wall ; seb, se<sub>o</sub>, an apple ; de<sub>o</sub>, deb, dew, a demon, god ; suro, surv, surw, the cypress, &c. bundu, burdu, a slave ; puhinna, puhirna, to put on.

5. Deemuk, deewuk, a white ant ; mah, mas, a month ; Eumbu<sub>ee</sub>, Mumbu<sub>ee</sub>, Bombay ; nikulna, nikusna, to issue.

6. Sunskrit, shunskrit ; khidmut, khizmut, kismut, duty ; qumees, kumeez, a shirt ; zumeen, jumeen, land ; bheegna, bheejna, to wet ; chhi<sub>i</sub>ma, k<sub>hi</sub>ma, pardon ; b<sub>h</sub>asha, b<sub>h</sub>ak<sub>h</sub>a, speech ; dok<sub>h</sub>na, dosna, to blame ; duhez, juhez, a dowry ; khurj, khurch, expence ; mushuulchee, musaljee, link boy ; bawurchee, baburchee, baburjee, a cook ; duuwa, daya, a claim ; badshah, padshah, a king ; peel, feel, an elephant ; huwelee, huvelee, hubelee, a mansion ; huweldar, havildar, a serjeant ; butuk, butuk<sub>h</sub>, a duck ; ubtuk, ubtug, yet ; deg, deg<sub>h</sub>, a pot ; aqa, agha, master ; nuqshu, nukhshu, a plan ; fikr, fiqr, thought ; bed, bet, a cane ; baroot, barood, powder ; ka<sub>l</sub>ta, cuts ; bue<sub>h</sub>ta, sits, and such verbs often become karta, buerhta, &c. g<sub>h</sub>o<sub>a</sub>, g<sub>h</sub>o<sub>l</sub>a, a horse. In fact, there would be no end of the examples which might be collected under this rule, as the learner may see by consulting the large Grammar.

7. Nuwwab, nuwab, nabob! fidwee, fidvee, liege; huwelce, huvelee, mansion; nuwees, nuvees, writer; wis, vis, that.

8. 'This can be illustrated by practice only, among the endless instances which must every where occur of the extraordinary letter uen, when represented by u, just before or after any vowel. It is for the most part in Hindoostanee so entirely mute, as not to be distinguished from its accompanying long or short vowel, and following u as in buud, after; luul, red; ruuna, beautiful; tuurcef, praise; mushuul, torch; the coalescence of the two shorts u and u naturally produces the long sound awe, as bad, lal, rana, tarecf, mushal, in the Hindoostanee mode of pronouncing these words, less accurate however than the uu now adopted. See pages 43, 44.

9. Among these we may enumerate guo, ga,e, a cow; nuo, nue,a, new; yuk, yek, ek, one; uf-yoon, ufeem, opium; mueyoor, mor, a peacock; nam, na,on, name; roothna, roosna, to fret; kumul, kuñwul, the lotos; bñejna, bezna, to send, and some of those under 6 above.

When the foregoing rules, with their examples, are well understood, and when the scholar can extend them as far as they will go, he must also advert to those changes which depend upon the expansion, contraction and inversion of words in most languages, and in none more frequently than in the Hindoostanee. To assist him in this necessary exercise, the following instances may suffice. Tegha, tegh, a sword; umma, ma, mother; farigh khutee, farkhutee, a release; dustkhut, duskhut, signature; suwar, uswar, a troop; wabustu, awabust, dependents; puhonchna, chuhonpna, to arrive; mœulluq, umulluq, suspended; fußeel, sufeel, a rampart; durukht, durkut, a tree; inşaf, nisaf, justice; qœful, qœluf, a lock; fuleetu, futeelu, a match or wick; hawun, humam, a mortar; and others too numerous for insertion. The scholar cannot pay sufficient attention to the great tendency which words in the Hindoostanee have to assume or drop short vowels, that occur or should be omitted between two consonants, such as uşul, nuqul, Urbee, waştu, for Urubee, wasitu, uşl, nuql, &c. &c. but particular instances would be endless.

General rules for speaking to the Natives of India, with the greatest chance of understanding them and of being understood, after the learner has acquired an accurate idea of the sounds of their letters, as well as the various mutations or corruptions, to which these are subject.

1. AN order or sentence should never be given or commenced abruptly, without prefacing it with some such expression as soono, hear! lest one half of the words be spoken before the Native has been fairly put on his guard to hear them. Kyoon, why, how, well; kuho, say; bhu,ee, friend; with many others, are prefixed by the natives to sentences, and may in general be considered not only ornamental expletives, but also preparative words like attention, &c. among us, by which the hearer cocks his ears or makes ready for what is to follow. From our seldom or ever using this necessary precaution, it often happens, that before a native is put sufficiently on his guard, the half of an order is already communicated, of which he probably has not distinctly heard one single word, consequently either a repetition must take place or the execution of it will prove very unsatisfactory indeed.

2. The Hindoostanee being naturally very concise on many occasions, as few words as possible should be used at first, to prevent bad pronunciation or worse construction from confounding the hearer, and thereby defeating the speaker's wishes entirely. Thus, "give me a plate," and many such orders, will be perfectly plain by simply saying, "basun," a plate, with that emphasis and look, which in all countries and tongues, denote the want of a thing.

3. A stock of the most necessary nouns and verbs, with a small number of words of place and time, will soon enable a learner, who attends to the last rule, to get what he wants from the people, if he will only recollect, that by simply changing the na of every infinitive to o, he forms their imperative plural at once. This part, of all others, is the most useful to new comers in India, and ought to be acquired accordingly.

4. A slow, easy, distinct, and rather broad manner of speaking will sooner be comprehended by the Hindoostanees, than the reverse, which is moreover deemed a sign of vulgarity or culpable impetuosity, that the better sort of people among them carefully avoid: Their men of rank and genteel manners are commonly much more readily understood, by a novice in the language, than those are who call themselves Moonshees, but who in reality know little or nothing of the very tongue they pretend to teach, while they endeavour to build their importance on a pedantic style and flippancy of speech, that must puzzle every beginner.

5. The Native who receives an order should always be made to repeat what he conceives is to be done, as in this way the chance of misconception is not only obviated, but the learner has often moreover a good opportunity of correcting his own sentences, thus repeated in the true idiom of the Hindoostanee, by the very people who know it best.

6. When the Natives speak English, they commonly give a very instructive lesson on the nature and idiom of their vernacular tongue, of which no scholar of any penetration will fail to avail himself, when he clothes his English ideas in the speech of Hindoostan.

7. There is something rather perplexing in the pronunciation of n before g and k, to those who are not aware, that it then has, even in our own tongue, the power of ng in hunger, hunger; anger, ang-ger; sinking, sing-king; thinking, thing-king: On this principle ng nk must be supposed always to imply the sound of ngk or ngg, unless when thus divided, n<sub>1</sub>k n<sub>2</sub>g, whence Gunge, the Ganges; nunga, naked; kunkur, gravel; and all such words, should be spoken as if written so, Gung-ge, nung-ga, kung-kur, by those who are resolved to pronounce so as to be always understood.

8. When ch or k precedes chh and kh, as in uch-chhā, good, muk-khēe, a fly, it is more with a view of shewing how the originals are written, than with any solicitude to have them very accurately pronounced utsh-tsh<sup>h</sup>ā, &c. as this is almost impossible, but in dek<sup>h</sup>kur, having seen; ruk<sup>h</sup>kur, having placed; and all such words, the h must be very distinctly heard before and after the k, thus, dek<sup>h</sup>-kur, ruk<sup>h</sup>-kur, &c. though this at first will be rather difficult.

9. After the consonants, y may prove at first troublesome in kya, what? pyar, love, &c. till the scholar adverts to its power as the consonant yu in young, yawn, &c. which, with k or p before them, I would write pyung, kyan; y never being a diphthongal vowel here as in our words dry, drue, by, bue, &c. The soft d and t will become dh<sup>h</sup> th<sup>h</sup> if the reader be not constantly on his guard against this deviation, proceeding from a strong desire to soften these letters as far as he can. If the word Jupiter come from deus pater, instead of juvans pater, as some suppose, it will prove that d was so mollified to j by the ancients, as well as by the moderns. See page 10, also 36, for duhez juhez, <sup>1</sup>a dowry, recollecting at the same time, that d t are neither dzh nor tsh, but mere dentals, formed by protruding the tip of the tongue between the teeth while pronouncing them.

10. In cases of moment, when we have to converse with, or interrogate a Native, this should always be prefaced with some trivial discourse, not only to enable the person to overcome his apprehension, but to comprehend the address of a total stranger, whose tone of voice and manner of expression may seem at first so uncommon or indistinct, as to be, for a few minutes, almost unintelligible.

11. Sometimes this dulness of comprehension may be affected to gain time for an evasive or studied reply, as every Hindoostanee is too apt to conceive the most innocent of our queries only so many traps set to catch him in some villany or other. Should this occur to a man conscious of his abilities as a linguist, instead of being disconcerted, he will boldly proceed and convince the Native, that he is not to be put out of his way by any such subterfuges.

12. No attempt to speak to the people of India intelligibly, without a previous knowledge of the scheme of the Letters, can ever be expected to succeed, by those who do not conceive there exists some infallible spell in the very form of a strange character, or in the mere use of dialogues; (without either the proper sound or emphasis, which letters, words, and sentences require,) a property that I have never yet been able to discover in any alphabet or language, which was not previously illustrated and explained in my own, both respecting the individual power of letters, and the grammatical order and construction of sentences.

In drawing a comparison between the Roman alphabet, as applicable to the languages of Europe, and the Oriental, as it regards those of Asia, we may fairly say of both, that in the first, the powers of the letters are very absurdly ever varying; while, in the Eastern alphabets, their forms are not less liable to change, circumstances vexatious enough in each system to beginners. We have too few letters to express all our sounds, while the Hindoostances, on the other hand, possess such a superabundance of characters, that one sound has often three letters, though one of ours have, rather unfortunately, at times four or five sounds in the English tongue. •

Having premised every thing most essential for the just comprehension and pronunciation, or orthoepy, of the Hindoostanee, when spoken to or by us in India, we must now proceed to its orthography, that a similarity of sound may never hereafter mislead us, when we wish to transpose our knowledge from the Roman character, adopted here, to the Oriental alphabets, contrasted with the letters of our own tongue, which all agree well enough till we come to the—

۞ and this, while pronounced as u before explained, merely reminds the learner of its representing the curious vowel consonant, that the Arabians call ۞en, for which, however, neither we nor the Hindoos have any corresponding letter: ۞ final, after a vowel, is almost mute, as in shooroo۞, beginning, while in shum۞, a candle, it rather has the sound of a in water, and in the Hindoostanee the word is rendered shuma, like those examples produced in page 37, q. v. though, on the whole, it is best to preserve the orthoepigraphical plan as much as we can, particularly when the sounds either way differ very little from each other, as any person will perceive who compares tu-ureef, rapidly sounded tuureef, with the common mode tareef, praise, in which last the ūen is less obvious than in tuureef.

u { expressing still the same sound of u in up, u { cup, only denote particular Arabic combinations, to be acquired hereafter.

a shows that ūen precedes, but is almost lost in the sound of its following a; this, therefore, differs in the Hindoostanee very little from the broad sound awe in call, &c.

a in sound as above, but expressive of a peculiar form or combination in the Arabic, the knowledge of which may be at present dispensed with by the mere student of Hindoostanee.

a ditto.

i is to i exactly what u is to u above.

i no difference in the sound, though it certainly denotes rather e than i in the original.

ee { are to ee and oo, respectively, just what a oo { is to a.

∞ see u and i.

œ represents a semi-mute, oo or w, of the original.

w ditto.

h rather a harsher aspirate than h formerly described, and peculiar to the Arabic alphabet, but in Hindoostan pronounced just as the simple breathing hu.

h { discriminate aspirates in the Sunskrit alphabet from h and each other, though the sound as such does not differ from h in the smallest degree.

n { have been detailed in pages 9, 17, and 23, r { which the learner may now consult.

n { the first is peculiar to the Hindoos, the second to the Arabs, still both are pronounced like the common n in run, nurse, &c.

r { letters peculiar to the Hindoos in form, but l { exactly of the same power as r l.

t { noticed in page 10. d {

s { varieties of similar sounds by different letters, like our council, counsel, jilt, gin, &c.

s { s in Arabic resembles our th in thin, but in the Hindoostanee it is merely s of sin, sun.

z { like the above, mere formal varieties of the self-same sound ; we write has (haz) haze, z { expressing the z by s in has, and by z in haze, while the sound is the same in both.

is to t, precisely what  $\text{ṣ}$  is to s, and like it { in Arabic, has the power of th in thine, but { in Hindoostanee is pronounced like t in { tin, tune.

As the Hindoostanee student may often meet with my former publications, in which either the Hindee-Roman system was not so correctly and ultimately fixed as it is now, or the orthography in the Oriental tongues was not deemed of so much consequence as the pronunciation, it is but just to submit the following prospectus to his consideration, to guide him through the present or any other of my Oriental works, in which he will nevertheless find very few deviations from my original plan, that do not entirely depend on the great progress we have made in the learning of the East, since I commenced my large Grammar and Dictionary of the Hindoostanee language. Among these, the words paṇw, the foot, gaṇw, a village, and a few others, were long expressed by gaṇ, paṇ, in which the inflexion plural was not half so distinct as it is now in paṇwon, gaṇwon, &c. though paṇw come as near the true pronunciation, if not more so, than paṇ formerly used.

u	} were formerly represented by	u	} and other Italic vowels, or a, &c.		a
i		i
ue		y	—
uo		ou	—
yoo		eu	—
w		w	w with ° over it.
h		h	h with the figure ° over it.
n		n	n with ˘ or ° ditto.
t		t or t	with ˘ ditto.
t		t	t with the ° over it.
d		d	d ditto ˘.
r		r	r ditto ˘.
s		s	} or s with figures over them.
s		s
z		z	} z ditto, all much more trouble-z		z
			some and less consistent than the z z z, &c. of this Work.

In the whole of the foregoing, the letters t d r alone represent sounds that are not quite familiar to ourselves; for z z z are merely three forms of z for its one sound, as stated in pages 45—47.

Students, who may wisely resolve to proceed as far in the Oriental characters and tongues in this country as they possibly can, will receive every information on the above subject of redundant letters, to express the same sounds, by consulting my Hindee-Roman Orthoepigraphical Ultimatum, lately published for this purpose. That it may prove as extensively useful as possible to those who may henceforth teach, or wish to be taught, a language, so prevalent and indispensable in India as the Hindoostanee is to gentlemen of every description in that distant region, on sound principles, I shall here strongly recommend a reference to the above publication, more especially after the reader has made adequate progress in the present work. In the mean time, by way of specimen, the following quotation from the popular story of Sukāntula, given in the Ultimatum, is presented to the reader with a translation, in this place.

“ Ub age dastan ka yoon buyan hue, ki oos jungul men siwa Khōda ke, ooska koee khubur lenewala nu tha, pur ek pukheroo oos pur upne puron ka sayu kiye tha, is se ooska nam Sukāntula hooa. Wuhan purēe hooee wōh roteē thee, ansowon ke motēe pulkon men piroteē thee; doodh ke liye mōh pusar ruhee thee; hath pañw upne, mar ruhee thee: ki Purwurdugari ālum ne, upna fuḷ kiya, jo Kunn

Moonee kuheen nuhane ko chule the, jon oos turf se ho nikle, dekha, ki yih kya qoodruti ilahee hue, jo is soorut se nuzur atee hue !

oos nuo goole chumun ko goolistan se door dekha, hueran bu rungi boolbooli tusweer ho gu.e.

* Ghultan doore yuteem see thee, lek khak pur,
Ghultani ooskee dekha, we dilgeer ho gu.e.

oos pur onhen nihayut turs aya, duorkur khak pur se othaya, godee men lekur kuhne luge, yih Puree, Jinn, ya kisee quom kee uesee khoob soorut lurkee hue, ki dekhee nu soonee, koochh kuha nuheen jata, uor koochh sumujh men nuheen ata ; kis ne is jungul men lakur khak ke oopur is chand ke tokre ko dal diya tha, ose chhatee se luga, hoo, ye dil men soch bichar kurte, ghur ko phire.

Mukan men puhonchte hee upnee buhun Guotumee ko, ooskee soorut dikhakur, pyar se kuha, ki "jee lugakur buhoot uch-chhee turh purwurish kurtee ruhiyo, uesa nu ho, ki kisee tuor se kotahee ho."

Lurkee kee jo wooh soorut osne dekhee ;

* The Italic e here and elsewhere, denotes i made long, for the sake of the verse, and i shows that ee has been shortened by the same poetic licence, for which we have no other expedient left than these Italics, applicable to u for a, &c. or vice versa.

uor bhāḥee kee, ṡoske ḥuq meṇ yih mihrbanee kee baten ṡoneen, puhle ṡoskee bulaṇ leen, phir god se lekur, upne gule luga, palne lugee;
 din rat chḥatee pur ṡose loṭṭatee ṭhee; mihr o muḥubbut se doodḥ pilwatee ṭhee.

Wooḥ is ṡoorut se pulṭee ṭhee; uor jitne ṡos jungul ke tupuṡḥwee ṭhe, sub ṡos ko pyar kurṭe ṭhe; sub kee wooḥ pyaree ṭhee; ṡon subḥon meṇ muṡḥoor ṭḥa, ki yih Kunn kee beṭee hue.
 Din budin wooḥ buṛee hotee ṭhee, uor ṭookḥmi muḥubbut hur dil meṇ boṭee ṭhee.

Uor bhēe do luṛkiyaṇ wuḥaṇ ṭheen, ek ka nam Unṡooya ṭḥa, doosree ka nam Pruyum-vuda; teenon purwuriṡ pakur jub buṛee hooṛiyaṇ aṭḥ puhur sath khelne lugiyaṇ; ṡon sub-ḥon ko apus meṇ ueṡe pyar ikḥlaṡ ṭḥa, goya ṡon kee ek jan uor joḋa joḋa qalib ṭḥa.

Hur ek ṡon meṇ ṭhee zoohru o mihr o mah,

Jinḥen dekhkur howe Yoosṡof ko chah.

Ugur chahṡe ṡaḥir kure ṡaḥiree,

Buyaṇ ṡon kee howe nu khoobee zuree.

Khooḋa ne upne dusti qoḋrut se, ṡon teen-on ka surapa meṇ surapa khoobiyaṇ bhur dee ṭheen.

Bḥuwen jub ki ghooṡṡe meṇ ṭheen tanteen,

Jigur teeri mizḥgaṇ se ṭheen chḥanteen.

Tulut toof se jis dum ki we hunstiyañ,
To zahid ko bhee soojhteñ mustiyañ.

Hur ek ka wooh puree sa chihru jo nuzur
ata, ko,ee to ghush khata, uor ko,ee deewanu ho jata.

Jo zoolfen theen zunjeeri pa,e joonoon,
Kufe pa,e rungeen thee surgurmi khoon.

Ugurchi zahir men we subhee sir se panw tu-luk tumam hoosn o jumal, uor naz o uda theen, lekin huqeequt men wooh shooulu bhubhooka, ki jis ka nam Sukootula tha, upne ek julwe se, dil o jan donoñ juhan ka phoonk detee thee;
shoohru oskee gurm bazaree ka, dloom oske hoosni alum soz kee, uesee thee, ki aftabi alum-tab ko ek zurru os ke age tujullee nu thee.

Kuhañ tuk buyan oskee hon khoobiyañ,
Surapa theen os men khosh osloobiyañ.

Ulqissu, Kunn Moonee ne, ek din os nazneen se yih bat kuhee, ki “ ub muen teeruth kurne ko jata hoon, thore se dinon men nuha-kur phir ata hoon, tub tuluk too chuen uor aran se yuhan khosh ruhiyo; jo kochh, mutloob ho, Guotumee se kuha kuriyo, wooh teree khañir hañir kiya kuregee, uor jan o dil se sudqe qoorban hokur, sir se panw tuluk terec bulaen liya kuregee. Pur jo ko,ee Tupushwee yuhan awe, adur kur panw puriyo, uor oskee’

khidmut keejiyo, juhantuk toojh se ho suke, kotahee mut keejo." Is is turh wooh ose sum-jha, nuṣeehut dilasa de, ruwanu hooa.

"The story thus proceeds : In that wilderness she had no real protector but the Almighty, though an eagle shaded her with its wings, whence her name of Sukontula. There the babe lay weeping and crying, while the pearly tears were flowing from her eyes ; rolling and tossing on the ground, in vain did she continue opening her little mouth for milk, till the Omnipotent was graciously pleased to conduct the holy saint Kunn to his ablutions that way, and no sooner did he approach the place, than he saw and admired the goodness of divine Providence manifested in the scene that appeared before him.

Seeing this rose-bud lying torn far from the parent bush, he stood motionless with wonder, like a fascinated nightingale. The child seemed a lost pearl cast on the ground, for whose forlorn state he felt grieved to the heart.

Kunn, moved with compassion, ran and raised the infant from the dust, and, taking it in his bosom, thus said to himself. " I cannot comprehend nor say what this angel, fairy, or some body's lovely babe, whose beauty surpasses every thing seen or described, can possibly be : Who can have abandoned a form fairer than Diana, on the cold earth in this desert !" Pressing the child to his breast, and filled with such thoughts, he returned home.

On reaching his dwelling, he showed his sister Guotumee, the baby's face, and observed affectionately, " Pray continue to cherish it with the utmost care and attention ; never let me hear of any thing like the smallest neglect."

When she beheld the little cherub's countenance, and heard the kind injunctions of her brother respecting it, she first blessed the babe, and then embracing it, set about nourishing her tender charge, which was constantly afterwards dandled on her knee, and suckled with fondness and delight.

In this manner Sukcontula was reared, and the hermits or holy men of the wilderness were all very much attached to her ; she was, in short, the darling of the whole, and passed for Kunn's daughter. She grew up apace, and sowed the seeds of affection in every heart.

There were also two other girls, one named Uncoooya, and the other Pruyumvuda. When the three so fostered, increased in strength, they used to play together the livelong day, and were as cordial and fond of each other as if one soul had animated their separate bodies.

Each of them was a Venus, a Juno, or a Cynthia, whom, had even the chaste Joseph seen, he must have loved.

Should the muse attempt their praises in verse, her strains would fall far short of their excellence.

The plastic hand of the Creator had formed them in the image of loveliness itself.

When they shot angry glances at beholders, they pierced their hearts with the arrows of scorn; but while arrayed in the blandishment of smiles, even anchorites themselves felt the fervour of love. The angelic faces of those charmers were no sooner beheld by any one, than he either fainted with delight, or became distracted with passion. Their jetty ringlets formed the chains of frantic lovers, whose blood seemed to tinge the glowing soles of those damsels snow-white feet.

Though the whole were apparently a constellation of the graces, still, in reality, that brilliant star named Sukcontula, with a single spark of her beauty, so inflamed the hearts of both worlds as a universal toast, that the radiant sun himself grew dim with envying her lustre. How shall I describe those charms, which concentrated in her all that is lovely, personified?

•

At length, the hermit Kunn one day thus addressed that beauty: "I am now going on a pilgrimage, and, having performed my devotions, will in a few days return; till then, do thou stay contented here at rest and ease; whatever may be wanted, be sure to inform Guotumee, for she will not fail to please you, and, as a person devoted entirely to you, she will continue to bless and protect you. Should any saint sojourn this way, fall respectfully prostrate at his feet, and perform every office of hospitality to him, without omitting the smallest duty, to the utmost of your power."—In this manner having explained his wishes to Sukcontula, he bade her farewell, and departed.

Before closing this section, the scholar must, for the last time, be reminded of its real utility and importance to him as an Orientalist; he should therefore study it again and again, more especially those portions which warn him to shun bad pronunciation, or point out the road to that which is right.

Much thought and constant practice will do more for the solitary student than he will all at once credit; and if he fortunately meet with a companion more diligent and acute than himself, the road will daily prove smoother and smoother, as they proceed together towards that stage of perfection, which is indispensable to every gentleman who desires to be useful to his employers, and comfortable within himself in British India. To speak and behave in that country as such on all occasions, is of more moment to every civil or military officer in particular, and to the state in general, than superficial observers can readily admit: Hence the subject has never, till lately, obtained that attention which its importance demands, and will yet command, either among the French or us.

The learner who may heedlessly proceed through these sheets, will run the risk of imperceptibly acquiring a pronunciation, which he must afterwards be forced to unlearn; whereas he who shall weigh every letter, syllable, and word well, before he quits this key to the current living speech of India, may yet feel, after his arrival in that country, some gratitude and respect for the only author who has paid unwearied attention, during a space of twenty years, to this subject alone, and who may certainly enable every real student, if he chooses, to speak the Hindoostanee well, long before he sets a foot on our Eastern territories.

To profound erudition as an Orientalist, I make no pretensions; but the point of accurate pronunciation in British India, as far as the Hindoostanee and Persian languages, now spoken there, are concerned, I cannot readily concede to any man, however learned he may otherwise be, or whatever opportunities he may have enjoyed of hearing the latter spoken in its local purity by the Persians themselves, who undoubtedly are apt to change the u of India to a sound like the English e, the Hindoostanee e to ee, a to oo, and some others, which need not be stated in this place.

That this portion of the Monitor is remarkable for repetitions cannot be denied; still the learner, who means really to profit by this apparent blemish, may yet confess, that he required them all, before the various objects connected with much and speedy proficiency in the Hindee-Roman alphabet could arrest that attention, which the accurate pronunciation of living tongues, at our first outset, imperiously requires from every scholar.

Notwithstanding every thing said in page 20 on the gutturals kh and gh, I fear, that mughroor, proud, murghoob, delightful, mukhzun, a magazine, mukhsboos, special, and such words, may still try the reader's skill, and teach him, that retrospective patience and perseverance only can insure perfection. Even is, as, rusm, will, in spite of the caveat in page 21, become again in his mouth iz, az, ruzm, rather than the iss, auss, russm, intended. If my pupil have escaped the snare laid for him in the above instances, let him call me a tautologist with impunity, otherwise I beg leave to observe, that useful truths are not the worse recollected by being frequently repeated.

Words wherein two or more difficulties suddenly catch the tyro's eye, will generally create so much anxiety to pronounce well, that one only will be overcome, while the others escape correction entirely. He must syllable all long vowels before he can possibly do them ample justice as such; and the final h in koochh, &c. should not be allowed to mislead him so far as to say khooch, to which his tongue at first will be too prone, unless he every moment almost think, or say to himself—Take care! no expirate! long vowel! a short! a soft dental! a diphthongal vowel! the consonant yu! no French œu or u, as in œuvre, perdu! &c. this sound cannot therefore exist here. One's own ears will in a few days prove excellent correctors, provided the mind is stedfastly fixed upon the object in pursuit; and where there happens to be no better instructor, I see no other resource for the solitary scholar than a pertinacious trial of the above and similar expedients.

As I mean to take every favourable opportunity of communicating gratuitously my orthoepical knowledge to those who may wish to instruct others, students hereafter will probably have it in their power to obtain correct viva voce information on this essential, but arduous portion of their Oriental studies, and when attainable, it should never be neglected; for no perusal of a work can possibly supply the place of a living intelligent monitor.

The present, in default of a better, will answer every useful purpose, more especially where there are two or three studying it together, or where due attention is unremittingly paid to the context, and great assiduity evinced in reading much aloud, with a full manly voice, that the organs of hearing, more intellectually alert, may constantly regulate and correct those of sight and speech.

In this way, the memory, so requisite in the acquisition of languages, is progressively brought to a high degree of perfection, as experience daily confirms that influence which the eyes, ears, and tongue conjoined, evidently possess over the faculty of recollection. He who reads, hears, sees, and writes a word all at once, may be said to have four strings, instead of one, to the bow of his mind, which, properly bent on the objects of its pursuit, must eventually hit the mark in view, with the well-directed arrow of perception, to leave a vestige behind, which no length of time can obliterate.

---

Hindoostanee Significant Particles.

LONG experience in teaching the Hindoostanee has convinced me, that the shortest road to a very great proficiency in that and other Oriental tongues, is a previous acquaintance with their significant letters, syllables, and particles. I shall consequently exhibit the most common in the subsequent pages, leaving it entirely to the learner's option whether he shall, try to acquire the Hindoostanee in this new way, or prefer the old beaten path of regular declensions, conjugation, &c.

• These will be found in their proper place, together with the usual rules of syntax; the whole being illustrated and confirmed by the dialogues, exercises, &c. in the present performance, collected into one focus here from a great variety of my other publications, in every part of which the scholar will prove more or less expert, in proportion to the pains he may now take with the following etymological view of the Significant Particles, as initial, medial, or final, throughout the Hindoostanee language.

The letters u and a, being merely homogeneous short and long vowels, may be classed together as significant particles or terminations, as far as they will go, in this etymological department of the Oriental tongues: a or u in the nom. sing. becomes e in the inflexion sing. and nom. plur. and in the infl. plur. on; gol-a, a ball; infl. gole, a ball; nom. plur. gole, balls; infl. plur. golon; bund-u, bunde, a slave; bunde, bundon, slaves; sheeshu, shceshe, a glass; shee-she, sheeshon, glasses. They are both masculine terminations, which, particularly a, become ee in the feminine and diminutive form; beta, a son; beṭee, a daughter; ghora, a horse; ghoree, a mare; bhera, a ram; bherree, a ewe; gora, a fair man; goree, a fair woman; golee, a bullet; sheeshree, a vial; chooha, a rat; choohere, a mouse, bandee, a female slave, from bundu, below and above.

In words like gol, round; moord, dead; bund, bound; huft, seven; punj, five; gurm, warm; a and u appear as adjuncts thus: gol-a, a ball; moord-u, a corpse; bund-u, a slave; huft-u, a week; punj-u, a hand; gurm-a, warm weather, summer.

In verbs these terminations greatly resemble our perfect sign ed or d, en, &c.; chah, love; chah-a, loved; mar, beat; mar-a, beaten, a victim; purh-a, dan-a, learn-ed; azmood-u, experienced.

Compounds become adjectives like ours in ed, al, &c. so; doodil-a, distracted; doosal-u, triennial; chuogosh-u, quadrangular; and many are thus formed from nouns, piyas, thirst; piyas-a, thirsty; muel, filth; muel-a, filthy; bhookh, hunger; bhookh-a, hungry.

Sometimes a is a definite sign, bher, a sheep; bher-a, the ram; gung, a river; gung-a, the river, which we have miscalled ganges; khod, self; khod-a, self-existent, i. e. God; doomb, a tail; doomb-a, the sheep with a large tail; pu-ṭun, a city; Puṭn-a, the city we call Patna; a, as a word, means come, in Persian and Hindoo-stance, whence perhaps its use as a vocative sign in both languages occasionally; yar-a, O friend; jan-a, O beloved; buhin-a, O sister.

Terminating words, a resembles our adverbial ly; ṭahira, apparently; uṣl-a, truly; moṭluq-a, entirely;—often ṭahir-uṇ, uṣl-uṇ, &c. u (or un) is a common privative prefix, and sometimes a feminine sign; u-par, shore-less; u-phul, fruit-less; u-mur, im-mortal; u-chook, in-fallible; u-lug, dis-joined; u-mol, in-estimable; u-haṇ, no, from haṇ, yes; shaṭir-u, a poet-ess; mulik-u, a prince-ss;—a may be met with medially, as in bur a bur, breast to breast, equal; lub a lub, lip to lip, brimful; sur a pa, cap-a-pee; runga rung, various; sur a sur, end to end, entirely, &c.

Before na of neuter, and other verbs, a makes them active, or causal, thus; buchna, to escape; buchana, to save, preserve, &c.; buṣṇa, to dwell; busana, to people; soonna, to hear; soonana, to tell, or cause hear; or when substituted for u so. murna, to die; marna. to kill, or cause die; kuṛ-na, to cut, v. n. kaṇna, v. a. buhukna, to stray; buhkana, to miscalc; sumujḥana, to comprehend; •sumijḥana, to explain;—a and u are frequently dropt, more especially u, when it would be as troublesome as our e in words like tigress, hungry, angry, &c. never tigeress, hungry, &c.; kumeen, kumēēnu, mean; unaj, naj, grain; ḍal, ḍala, a branch; eentṛ, ceṇṭa, a brick; sumujhna, sumjḥana, not sumujḥana; puṭna, as already stated, not puṭuna.

The nasal ṇ after a does not prevent its inflective and plural e, nor the feminine ee in words like duswaṇ, dusweṇ, dusween, the tenth boy, girl, &c.—aṇ forms the nominative plural of all feminines in ee, which last then becomes iy; golec, a bullet; goliyaṇ, bullets; choohee, a mouse; choohiyaṇ, mice; and of some Persian masculines, as saqce, a cup-bearer; saqiyaṇ, cup-bearers;—a or o, followed by a, generally requires an intermediate y or w to prevent the hiatus of such homogeneous sounds, whence verbs, in ana, ona, have their perfect tense rather in aya, oya, than in a,a, o,a, and such plural inflexions, as ma-yoṇ, mothers, duwa-yoṇ, medicines, for ma-oṇ, duwa-oṇ, &c.; gana, guwana, to sing, &c. chḥana, chḥuwana, to shade, overcast, are formed on this principle, as ga,ana, chḥa,ana, would be troublesome.

Almost every tense of the verb has a in the singular number, for all the persons masculine, ee for the feminine singular, e for the masculine plural, and iyaṇ, or ceṇ, for the feminine; conjugation therefore is little more than a mere repetition of the declension of nouns, as now illustrated under this letter, or rather significant particle a or u, which are so often interchangeable as to be almost one and the same; whence bandee, for bundee, a female slave, with hundreds more.

The learner will do well to acquire a habit of ringing the changes of a e ee iyaṇ oṇ, till they become perfectly familiar to his ear, adverting at the same time to their various uses in grammar; viz. a is almost always a masculine, singular, uninflected sign; e is both a masculine singular inflexion and a nominative plural; ee is a feminine singular, iyaṇ, or ceṇ, its nominative plural; oṇ the plural inflexion of most nouns, in a or u, as formerly stated on the principles of substitution; but oṇ is rather an adjunct to all the rest.

By inflexion is meant that part of a noun or pronoun, which, with the aid of prepositions, or postpositions, forms what are called the various cases of nouns:

I, infl. me, cases, of me, to me, &c.

We, infl. us, cases, of us, to us, &c.

Gola, a ball; golc ka, ke, kee, of a ball; gole ko, to a ball, a ball, &c.

Gole, balls; golon ka, ke, kee, of balls; golon ko, to balls, balls, &c. golon se, from, with, or by balls.

The postposition ka itself, coming under the inflective rule of a e ee, should always in the genitive be repeated so, gole-ka, ke, kee, of a ball, a ball's; which last translation is, for many reasons, by far the best, and ought alone to be used at first for of.

Gole and golon, from gola, are as much inflections from it, as me and us, him and her, are from I, we, he, she, and as such are governed by postpositions in the cases accordingly.

i is the genitive sign of Persian words, as hokm i hakim, the order of a judge; but, after a vowel, it becomes e, mooc sur, the hair of the head.

When the natural order of adjective and noun is inverted, i or e is thus used, murd i nek, a virtuous man; gomashtu e chalak, a clever agent; otherwise nek murd, chalak gomashtu, as in our language.

Neuter verbs, having i as a radical letter in the active or other forms, change it to e or ee.

Phirna, v. n. pherna, v. a. to turn; veer.

chhilna, v. n. chheelna, v. a. to rub, scrape, &c.
 sumiṭna, v. n. sumeṭna, v. a. to contract.

e is the masculine inflexion singular and nominative plural of a or u, to such an extent, that almost every final e may be treated by the learner as an inflexion of a or u, so—Kinaru, a side, edge, &c. kinare, aside, apart; aga, front, fore part; age, before; mara, beaten, driven, &c. mare, through, from, by; neccha, low; neeche, below, &c. In Persian, e or ee restricts the noun to one, either definite or indefinite, as goole, a flower individually; durukhte, the particular tree, &c.

e may be met with as a vocative sign, e sahib, O sir! a singular postposition among the pronouns, oos-e, to him, him; and as the singular affix of the 2d and 3d persons of the aorist or subjunctive, mar-e, if thou or he beat, &c.; nor must we forget its use already noticed, as a genitive sign, lolce e fuluk, the courtesan of the sky, viz. Venus, or the star so called. A retrospective glance at i will show how e is used as an active sign among verbs, whence miṭna, to be crazed; meṭna, to obliterate; miṭwana, to cause craze, &c.

As the final radical of a verb, it is apt to be dropt before another vowel, which will account for de,o, give you ; le,o, take you ; becoming simply do, lo, from de, give thou ; le, take thou.

Sometimes e disappears in the aorist and future also, for similar reasons, ho, if thou or he be ; ja, if thou or he go ; hoga, he or it will be, instead of ho,e, ja,e, ho,ega. At other times the hiatus here is obviated by the intervention of w, thus, howe, jawe, howega, and elsewhere by y, or rather the change of ee before vowels to iy, agreeably to pages 23, &c. which contain observations of extensive use in all the Oriental tongues, and peculiarly applicable to Hindoostanee verbs.

By adding ñ to e, so eñ, the nominative plural of all feminines, which do not terminate in ee, is formed ; bat-eñ, word-s ; kitab-eñ, book-s ; ubroo-eñ, eye brow-s ; in this way also the pronominal dative, and accusative signs plural, oon-eñ, to them, them ; besides the aorist plural, mar-eñ, if we or they beat ; jaweñ, if we or they go ; howeñ, if they or we be ; sometimes hon ho,eñ, for the reasons stated above.

ee has just been treated as the feminine and diminutive sign, naturally flowing from the masculine and augmentative a ; luṛka, a boy ; luṛkee, a girl ; russa, a rope ; russee, a string ; luṛka gata, a boy sings ; luṛkee gatce, a girl

sings ; luṛke gate, boys sing ; luṛkiyaṇ gatiyaṇ, (or gateeṇ) girls sing.

ee is a feminine termination, when the word is not by nature masculine : panee, water ; mo-tee, a pearl ; gḥee, melted butter ; jee, life ; du-hee, curds—excepted, which are all masculine ; as also such words, sipah-ee, a soldier ; malee, a gardener, &c. for the reason now assigned.

Adjectives become nouns, or vice versa, by assuming ee ; khoob-ee, good-ness ; bḥula-ee, well-fare ; burā-ee, great-ness ; beemar-ee, sickness ; wuẓn-ee, weight-y ; puhar-ee, a mountaineer ; Khōoda-ee, God-head ; murd-ee, man-hood ; doṣṭ-ee, friend-ship ; haṭh-ee, hand-y ; (whence, an elephant, as haṭh means the hand.*)

* This and similar words, with a final inspirate, are uncommonly troublesome to beginners, though the h be often a very essential discriminative letter as in sath, with ; bagh, a tiger ;
dbodh, milk ; gurh, a fort ; koochh, some ; thus distinguished from sat, seven ; bag, a bridle rein ;
dood, smoke ; ghur, a house ; kooch, the breast ; and kooch, a march. In koochh, with a few such, the h is scarcely perceptible to the ear, and in all the rest, in fact, it is by no means a full very distinct aspirate ; sath must not therefore be made sathu nor satuh, but merely sath.

Rusm-ee, custom-ary ; kitab-ee, oblong, i. e. book-like ; Hind-ee, India-n ; azar-ee, disease-d ; occasionally with an intervenient w a or g, eesu-wee, Christ-ian ; doonya-wee, world-ly ; chuoksa-ee, alertness ; chuokus, alert ; bundu-gee, slave-ry ; deewanu-gee, madness ; udhik-a-ee, over-plus ; sewuk-a-ee, service.

As an emphatic, ee and hee are thus used, yih-ee, this very ; wooh-ee, that very ; muen-hee, myself ; malik-hee, the owner's self ; something like the e formerly explained, which the Persians call ee.

When final a of infinitives or participles becomes ee, they express instrumental, local, or abstract nouns ; kuturnee, scissars ; koorelnee, a poker ; orhnee, a covering ; bustee, a village ; gintee, an account ; dhurtec, the world ; bolee, speech, from kuturna, to clip, &c.

The second person singular of every tense of the Persian verbs ends in ee ; and as an affix to infinitives, in that tongue, it denotes propriety, fitness, &c. kooshtun-ee, worthy of death ;

with a smooth gentle inspiration, as close after the t as l is to r in curl. purl. &c. in our language.

khcordun-ee, eatable, from the verbs to kill, to eat.

When one ee follows another, it is naturally dropt as troublesome, whence kee, dee, pee, lee, see, for kee,ee, dee,ee, &c. the regular feminine perfects of verbs with radical e, or ee.

Generally speaking, ee may be treated as a significant affix in the Hindoostanee, of such extensive use, that practice only can ascertain it; thus, after the a of many active imperatives, it forms a species of abstracts or participials, like our own, and applicable to season, price, &c. kuṭa-ee, cutting; boṭa-ee, sowing; dhoḷa-ee, washing; luṛa-ee, battle, fighting, &c.

Followed by the particles an, on, it becomes iy in the nominative and inflexion plural, choohiyaṇ, mice (unless when the a is omitted, as in choohiyaṇ kḥeltiyaṇ, or kḥelteen, mice play) choohiyaṇ ko, to mice.

O, though sometimes a vocative prefix like e, is generally substituted for the nom. signs a or u, but affixed to every other letter to form the vocative plural of all nouns; beṭo, O sons; bundo, O slaves; luṛkīyo, O girls; kitabo, O books;—on has been already discussed as the plural inflexion by substitution, and by addition it must be evident enough in kitabon-ka, ke, kee, of books; ubroo-on se, from eye-brows; murdon ke agc, before men.

O forms the second person of the aorist and imperative plural mar-o, if you beat, beat you, and after numerals seems definite; teen-o, the three; char-o, the four; but intermediately it has a conjunctive or adverbial influence, din o rat, day and night; hath o hath, from hand to hand; rat o rat, the whole night.

In Persian o is the conjunction, and also the pronoun he, o-ra, to him.

oo an instrumental or adjective affix, mar-oo, killing, fatal; jhar-oo, a broom; dekha-oo seemly; deedar-oo, sight-ly.

As a prefix oo resembles the Latin ex, re, &c. oo-jarna, to extirpate, eradicate; oo-gulna, to reject, chew the cud; oo-tarna, to dismount, &c. Followed by the nasal ñ, it denotes the first person sing. of the aorist, mar-oon, if I beat, and the indicative of hona, to be, hoon, I am. Sometimes it looks like a privative oo-hoon, no, from hoon or han, yes.

ue—the common vocative sign, ue luke, O boy; ue dost, O friend; constituting also the second and third person singular of hoon; hue, thou art, he is, made plural by ñ huen, we or they are. As hona, to be, was probably at first hu-na, to breathe, or be, we can thus account for the seeming irregularity of this verb, by supposing the ancient regular aorist has now become the present of the indicative hu,oon, hu,e, hu,o, hu,en, omitting the u in hoon; ho, as the verb stands at present, a hypothesis confirmed by the future huega, of which hereafter. This diphthong is very conspicuous also among the pronouns, mucn, I, tuen, thou.

uo, like o, is a conjunction, probably contracted from uor, and; as pu is sometimes from pur, on; it is a prominent letter in kuon, who; juon, who; tuon, that; and being often interchangeable with o and oo, the scholar should get a habit of treating all three, as one only and the same sound.

hu—appears to be the root of the verb hunā, to be, now honā, as I have just explained. This letter is peculiar to the third personal pronouns, yih, wōoh, he, she, it, but among these and the rest, it is frequently suppressed, whence cōnen for cōnhen, them, to them; toomh, toom, you: han or an, means place in composition; wuhan, there, that place; ha, like y, keera, a worm; keeruha, wormy.

ah, a sigh, is, I think, more expressive than our word, as it must be expressed by a full inspiration after a, and being feminine, the noni. pl. is ah-en, the infl. ah-on; ha,e, alas! dooha,e, tiha,e, help, help, alas! alas! ho, be; hue, is, art; hoon, am; han, yes; 'hee, very, self; he. the vocative sign, O.

Yu, a useful intervenient consonant between homogeneous vowels, aya, came, instead of a,a; kiya, for kee,a, did; and kya, for ke,a, what? to prevent the hiatus, as formerly illustrated.

Ya, means or and O; ya khoda, ya eesa, O God! O Jesus! also or God, or Jesus; ye, these; yo, this; yoon, thus.

When y e i ee or ue, is the prefix of pronominals, it commonly conveys the idea of proximity, expressed in English by this, thus; itna, tantus; kitna, quantus; uesa, talis; kuesa, qualis; idhur, hither; kidhur, whither? yuhan, here; kuhan, where? yoon, thus; kyoon, which way? how? why? uela, this side; wuela, that side; puela, farthest off, &c.

wu, an intervenient like yu, homogeneous with o and oo, as y is with e and ee; it frequently expresses and, wu-ghueru, et cætera; and occurs as a subservient in ordinals, duswan, the tenth; panchwan, the fifth; omitted ad libitum, as chuothan, fourth; this an may therefore be deemed equivalent to our th in eleventh, egarhan, &c. and so on.

Every verb having a radical final vowel, assumes and drops w in the aorist and future at pleasure, but the others do not, whence bowe, bo,e, he may sow; bowenge, bo,enge, they will sow; chule, (never chulwe) he may walk or go. If the radical (i. e. the letter before the infinitive na) be ee, the effect is thus, seewe, siye, he may sew; seewe ga, siye ga, he will sew; partly explained in a former section.

wa, means a-mañ, &c.; pesh-wa, a foreman, or leader, also open; wañ, wen, wcen, noted above as th: wa,e, alas! wa,c wuela, luck-a-day! wah, bravo! wah wah, admirable!

wōoh, wuh, (formerly wa) he, that, it, she.

we, they, wōoh bolta, he speaks; wōoh boltee, she speaks; we bolte, they speak; we bol-tiyan, they (females) speak.

bu bur or ba, a preposition c . . .
ba-hoormut, with honour, hon . . .
dut, with violence, violently; bu- . . .
pos, right, properly; bur-wuq . . .
ably; dur bu dur, from door i . . .
from place to place; roo bu roo . . .
bu roz, day after day, daily; l . . .
tice, justly; dust bu qub,u. saw . . .

bu sur, respectfully, i. c. with hand at head, viz. cap in hand; ba, father, son, generally reduplicated baba, (like ma, mother, mama,) whence bee, ba<sub>ee</sub>, and beeb<sub>ee</sub>, a lady, matron; baboo, nobleman, with ube, sirrah, in contempt.

be, without, also a useful privative, be-ja, mal-a-propos, out of place, unseasonably; be-aram, restless, be-dum, breathless; be-hoormut, dishonoured; intermediately, ja-be-ja, here and there.

As b is not only interchangeable with the other labials, but o oo also, the student will not be surprised to meet with seb, se<sub>o</sub>, an apple; talab, tala<sub>o</sub>, a pond; tub, tuo, then; jublug, juolug, until, &c. often tud, jud.—Bi, dis, &c bi-lugna, to dis-join; bi-lug, a part; desee, native; bi-desee, foreign; bi-chulna, to retire.

This letter, being an expletive prefix to Persian imperatives, as bu, bi, bo, be, &c. is much used, boogo, speak; bidih, give; bya, come, &c. probably meaning, do speak, pray give, come along.

In Arabic it is met with so, bil-lah, by God, bu Ulee, by Ulee, &c.

Bee, the feminine of ba, must not be confounded with bh<sub>ee</sub>, also; buhee, she floated, also a ledger; bh<sub>ee</sub>, friend, brother, &c.

Bo, boo, smell, scent; likewise sow, from bona, to sow.

bu, I suspect, is a root denoting stability, time, eternity, whence ub, now, this time; kub, when? jub, when; tub, then; bul, strength; bar, ber, time.

It is curious enough, that in some of the Indian tongues, b is a prominent letter in the future tense, as in abo, ibo, of the Latin; and not less so, that boo, ba, in both Persian and old Hindee differs little from our own verb be.

In every numerical series of two, b is the leading letter, baruh, twelve; bees, twenty; baces, twenty-two; butees, thirty-two, &c. whence one would suppose, that do, doo, two, was formerly ba; bis, biped, biennial, &c. confirm the supposition.

pu, as a contraction of pur, means on, at, &c. whence oopur, upon, above, &c.

phu seems a radical, denoting the blowing with the breath, and the blooming of a flower, or the expansion of any thing; phoonkna, to blow, breathe; phool, a flower; phul, a fruit; phoolna, to swell; phulna, to bear fruit; phum, a snake's hood or crest; phen, foam, froth; phootna, to burst; phuṭna, to crack; phoolka, light; phāha, a flake:—pa, pa'e, the foot, paw; occasion-

shu-pa, sun-pa, fat-nas, doobla-pa, lean-nas, &c.; sur a pa, from head to foot; pa-bund, feet bound, riveted; pa-mal, trodden, destroyed; pa-cha, taken under; ap, self, your honour, &c.; pee, a beer, the root of pee-na, to drink, whence, piy-as, thirst, viz. a desire to drink; pa, a root connected with primary objects, perhaps from its meaning the dawn of day.

pa-pa, payu, the same as pa, pue-zar, a shoe or slipper; pue-tut pue, successively, foot after foot.

pa, pa, a quarter, whence puone, a quarter less, as puone teen, 24, viz. a quarter less three.

ap, lustre; op-na, to polish; op-chee, clad in armour.

fee, fi, equivalent to in, at, per, &c. fil-hal, at present; fee guz, per ell, &c.

Wu is pronounced, except as wu, for a significant particle, though useful enough to express the negative particle w in nuwwab, nuwab, whence nuwababon nabob.

ay, has been noticed as a plural final in the radical ay, ay.

rateq, nights; bol-en, we or them; inh-en, to these; bol-ten, they, you (collectives); spote, ah-on, signs; but in bol-en, to speak, unen, tuen, it is rather a singular sign, and the same among the ordinals, tees-wan-wen-wen, the thirtieth.

n is also a very conspicuous letter among adverbs of place, as yuhan, wuhan, &c. already enumerated. This n is often redundant, and at times omitted.

n occurs in the genitive of ap, like ka, ho, kee, upna, upne, upnee; and as the infinitive sign it is liable to the very same inflexion, na, ne, nee, as a verbal noun or adjective, according to the concord or government of the sentence. In one verb it is used for the sake of the sound, an, ke, ake, having come.

Some adjectives, &c. are formed by na, doo-na, double; bhoot, a ghost; bhoot-na, an imp.

Under various forms of un; na, ni, nir, this radical may be met with as the paramount sign of negation, privation, &c. na tumam, imperfect; ni kumma, use-less; nir-as, hope-less; nir-mul, limped; nirala, uncommon.

Among the pronouns, the plural is marked by n instead of n, thus: in, these; con, those; jin, whom; kin, whom; for the very obvious reason, that mere nasals would make such words seem too insignificant.

Persian and other infinitives are apt to end in this letter, also many pronouns, nul, aus, &c.

etc. evince the prominent inanity of this sound, corroborated by words in most languages, as nemo, nihil, ninny.

Various modified n marks feminines and diminutives, malce, gardener; malin, his wife; dhobce, a washerman; dhobin, a washerwoman; joolaha, a weaver; joolahin, joolahun, his wife; sher-nee, a tigress. Peer-un, Meer-un, diminutives from Meer and Peer, proper names.

The affix un resembles our ly, ittifaq-un, accidental-ly; quṣḍ-un, purpose-ly.

nuh, the nail; nakhoon in Persian.

nuo, nuya, new, likewise nine.

nuce, a tube, reed, cane, pipe.

ne, an expletive before active verbs in the perfect tenses, muen ne diya, I gave, muen ne nuheen, I did not give, or I gave not.

nu, though in general a simple negative, occasionally expresses or; koochh nu koochh, something or other; kubhee nu kubhee; sometime or other; nu kuheen, somewhere or other.

The nu, ne nu, in verse, may be made long, and pronounced ne.

The na, also an affix to denote that; pea-nee, a pea-hen.

The na to the pronoun of the first person, in some tongues, and in Arabic applicable by a peculiar inflexion to place, instrument, &c.; muḡsud, destination; muhkumu, judgment-seat; muqtul, place of execution; mis-ṭul, a rule; or reciprocity, as, moḡqatulu, carnage; moḡbahuṣu, argumentation.

As an affix in beg, khan, a lord, m denotes the feminine begum, khanum, a lady.

ma, maṇ, mother; mah, a month.

moo, hair; moh, pity; muya, sympathy.

moonḡh, face, mouth.

mue, wine; mui, with; bu mui, along with.

muen, I.

men, in, at, on, &c.; menḡh, rain.

mu resembles the nu in khwāh, mukhwāh; nolens volens, expressed also by huḡ na huḡ, the hocknock of jargonists. Before the imperative this negation commonly assumes t, as mut, dont.

muo, some places or towns are so called in India.

lu, ru, differently modified with the vowels, as al, el, r, ar, &c. appear as radicals denoting possession, agency, existence, &c. which will be found, in some measure, to pervade our own and other tongues, puh-la, first, doos-ra, second, tees-ra, third, the s of these seems merely for the sound.

Sometimes these letters occur as mere subser-vients, in nir-as, hopeless, dholana for dhoana, to cause wash, &c.

ra, re, rec, is to the first and second personal pronouns, &c. what ka, ke, kee, is to every other word in the genitive; mera, mere, meree, of me, my, mine; tera, terc, teree, of thee, thy,
thine; huma-ra, re, rec, our, our's; toomha-ra, &c. your, your's. In Persian, ra is equivalent to ko, to, for, o-ra, to him.

re, o, bap re, O father; ma ree, O mother.

reh, a sort of fuller's earth. —

rah, a road; rah-ec, a traveller, wayfarer.

roo, the face; roo bu roo, face to face; ab-roo,
reputation; ub-roo, eye-brow.

rooh, the soul.

rue, rate, ratio.

ru-ee, bran.

ra-cc, mustard.

ra-c, opinion.

These, and others like them, prove the absolute necessity of great accuracy in pronunciation, as thousands such are met with in the Hindoostanee.

The palatials ṭ ḍ, with their aspirates ṭh ḍh, are little if ever used as significant or even ex-pletive particles, nor am I yet aware of their application as Sanskrit radicals.

ḍ very often becomes a harsh r, and ṭ sometimes the soft r; as such they will occasionally be met with affixed to other words: thus, chum-ra, leather; chum-ree, cuticle; cham, hide; pug-ra, a large turban; pug-ree, a small one; pug-one, very large; and though this application of ra, ree, ur, ar, do not always hold good, they may nevertheless be traced as subservient affixes of some sort or other, in many words terminating as above.

ṭho will often be heard in counting so, ek ṭho, one (knife, &c.); panch ṭho, five (chairs, &c.); and must be carefully discriminated from to, the mere expletive, hue to, he is I believe.

t seems a leading letter in the second personal pronoun, too, tuen, thou; toom, you; tera, thy, &c. the correlatives, tuon, tuhan, tuesā, &c. It is moreover the paramount sign of the present tense, immediately after the root of the verb, and before the a, e, ee, een, of masculines and feminines in both numbers; marta, I, thou, he, (males) beat; marte, we, you, they, (males) beat; martee, I, thou, she, (females) beat; marteen, or martiyan, we, you, they, (females) beat.

In the old verbs the use of t was even more obvious as a present sign, murun, to die; murut, he dies, &c.

te, the old word for se, from, sometimes sitē.

ta, that, to, till; affixed, ness, sum-ta, same-ness; komul-ta, soft-ness.

tha, was, had, did; the, thee, then, &c.

thah, a bottom, ford; u-thah, bottom-less.

tuh, fold, doubling, down, below.

to, that, also, &c. in Persian, thou, and often contracted and affixed as ut or simply t.

too, toon, tuen, thou.

tuo, then, yes, well; like tub, then.

This letter takes the lead in every series of three, under the various forms of tee, ti, tree, tir, te, and in many compounds from this number; thus, doo ha,ee, twice alas! ti ha,ee, thrice alas! ti-pa,ee, a tripod; tri-sool, trident.

ut or iyut, like the affix ta, will be found in many words; thus, admiyut, humanity, shukhsiyut, self-importance, and padshah-ut, king-dom.

at, Arabic plural sign, warid-at, accident-s; moofrid-at, simple-s.

at, the custard apple, affixed like ta booht-at, abundance, from buhoot, much, sometimes a,et, pucha,et, an assembly, a jury of five.

aṭh, eight (in composition); uṭh, ur, us, as.

ot, shelter, cover; uti, very in Sanskrit.

tue, a fold, ply, correlatively, as many, so many.
after kue, jue, how many, so many.

ṭue, passing over; ṭue-kurna, to cross.

tu,een, like ko ; but a compound postposition requiring ke, murd ke tu,een, to the man, or simply the man.

The other dentals are seldom of much use etymologically, except d, very conspicuous in the third persons of Persian verbs.

De, give, let ; de,o, do, the plural ; ane de, let come ; do, doo, two, used in several compounds, as doosra, a second ; doona, doogna, double.

donon, both ; doodila, distracted ; lit, two-hearted ; doo ha,ee, ti ha,ee, twice and thrice alas ! help ! help ! justice ! justice !

s being convertible with h, in duh, dus, ten, mah, mas, a month, &c. we can so far account for it as the pronominal inflexion in yih, is ; wooh, oos ; though more difficult to trace it in jo, jis ; kuon, kis ; tuon, tis, &c.

su, denotes association, su-kha, su-khee, a comrade ; suhna, to put up with, bear ; sujjun, a lover.

sa, se, see, son, like ; a particle of similitude discernible in uesa, wuesa, juesa, tuesa, kuesa ; from yih, wooh, jo, tuon, kuon, or kya, meaning like this, that, which, &c. it means also ish, as kala-sa, black-ish, hura-sa, green-ish.

se, from, with, by, to, &c. sometimes sitce, and formerly son, te, &c.

sa, sometimes is used discriminatively, as kuonsa, juonsa, tuonsa, koçesa, whichever, which of two, or many, &c.; it often requires ka after the noun, huewan ka sa, brutal; luçke ka sa, boyish; ungoor ka sa, like a single grape.

sah, a banker; si, three; si puhur, 3 o'clock; sitara, a three-stringed instrument; sisalu, triennial; si goslu, triangular.

so, the same, so, he; so, sleep thou; so, o, sleep you.

soo, as a prefix, expresses any thing good, soor, angel; soochal, good conduct, &c. whence perhaps sona, to sleep, also gold, both of which the Asiatics are very fond of; sohna, to fit, become, evidently from soo and hona contracted to sohna.

suo, sue, 100.

sayu, saye, shade.

sa,çe, zealous; sa,çe, earnest to bind a bargain; sa,ecç, master, lord.

sahee, a porcupine.

su,çe, exertion, endeavour.

sh, of little use except in ish, at the end of Persian roots, or imperatives, as posh-ish, cloth- ing, saz-ish, collusion. In Persian, sh sometimes expresses the third personal pronoun.

sho, a washer, in composition; deg-sho, a scul-ling; moordu sho, a corpse cleaner.

z and zh, unless as a contraction of uz, from, &c. in the Persian, have no significant power.

za, from zadu, born, means a son; mir-za, a knight, being literally meer-za, the son of a lord.

jun, juna, have the same import in Hindoo-stanee, muha-jun, high-born; sowur ka juna, a pig, or hog's son.

zee and zoo, as prefixes, mean possessed of, &c.; zee-rooh, possessed of life, living; zoo-fconoon, artful.

chu, chee, eechu, sundooq-chu or -chee, a box; deg-chu, or -chce, a pot; bagheechu, a small garden, from sundooq, a chest, deg, a large pot.

* cha, or chae, tea; chah, desire.

chi, what? chhee, fy! chhee chhee, fy for shame!

chee, a particle both of diminution and agency, bundooq-chee, musquet-er; tumboor-chee, a drum-mer.

* Many words with final a assume e in this manner, to which the learner must constantly advert in his progress among the Oriental tongues.

chhu, six; in comp. s, chhi chhe; soluh, sixteen, is a change and contraction of chhu uor duh, six and ten.

chuo, in comp. four; chu6-duh, fourteen; chaogoshu, quadrangular; chuo-gird, around; chuo-kunna, circumspect; lit, four-eared.

j denotes the relative state of pronominals and adverbials, jo, who; juonsa, whichever; jo ee, whoever; jub, when; juhan, where; juesa, so, like which; jitna, so many; jita, so much; jue, as many; jyoon, just as; jidhur, whither; joheen, as soon as.

k is generally interrogative, kuon, what? kya, what? kub, when? kuonsa, which? kuhan, where? kuesa, how? kitna, kita, kue, how much, many? kyoon, why? kidhur, whither?—k. contraction for kurna, as h. d. a. r. &c. is respectively for hona, dena, ana, rukhna, &c.

ka, ke, kee, a genitive, possessive, or adjective sign, to be always translated by 's, and treated as an adjective affix; ubka sal, now's year, viz. the present year; ubke sal ka khurch, this year's expence; ubke sal ke khurch ko, this year's expence for; oos ka bap, his or her father; oos kee ma, his or her mother; oos ke bap se, from his or her father; oos kee ma ko, to his or her mother; oos ke do bhāee, his or her two brothers; oos kee do buhinen, his or her two sisters.

kee is often the fem. of kiya, done, made, &c.; yiz kee, he said, as stated in page 73.

ko, to, for, at, or simply the accusative sign; ghore ko do, give (to) the horse; ghore ko mut maro, dont beat the horse.

uk, ak, k, the agent, &c. puer-ak, a swimmer; sewu-k, a servant; mend-uk, a frog; ghuo-k, ditto, from swim, service, a ditch, and ghuo ghuo, the cry of a frog, the largest of which are the best teachers I know of the burr, or Northumberland r, expressed by gh in my system, in this hoarse ghuo ghuo of the Indian frogs, which certainly articulate the sound required with great precision in their responsive salutes from one brink of a water to the other, during the rainy season in Bengal. If cats occasionally converse by a modulation of their voices not unlike the human speech, the frogs and crows of the East are not behind them in these gutturals of speech kha, qa, gha; and I have often heard the Indian starling, or muena, pronounce the word ṣaḥib, master, more correctly than most of our countrymen in the Eastern hemisphere, who generally say sab, instead of sau-hib, with a full, manly, distinct sound of the long syllable sa and the expired hib.

As a diminutive sign, k or uk is conspicuous in murd uk, a manikin, tifi'uk, a little child, &c.

ke, kur, as, having, ly; mar-ke, mar-kur, having beaten; sometimes mar-kurke, mar-kurkur, kyoon-ke, kyoon-kur, because, as how; jan-kur, knowing-ly.

ki, that, who, which, saying.

koo, bad, opposed to soo, koo-chal, misconduct, koo-dhung, un-mannerly.

kue, how many? ku,ee, several.

que, reaching, vomiting.

g applies to the future tense of verbs, affixed to the aorist terminations oon e en o, and prefixed to the masc. sing. and plural a e, or the feminine ee, een, iyan; ja, oonga, ja, ega, ja, enge, ja, oge, ja, oongee, ja, egee, ja, engcen, ja, ogeen, &c. I will go, and so on.

The foregoing significant particles will prove so truly convenient for the analytic and synthetic process with Oriental vocables, on which very great proficiency in the Hindoostanee must ultimately depend, that I cannot now resist the impulse to furnish every facility of this sort to the inquisitive scholar, by way of exercise to his memory, before he applies his judgment progressively in the derivation and composition of words, as they pass in review before him, through the whole of the examples. Under this impression, I have collected below, the most common prepositive, adjunctive, and intermediate inseparable particles, (or words used as such) which could not appear before as mere letters, that they also may be learned completely by heart with the postpositions, &c. which follow in pages 103, 104, &c.

Prepositives.

ghuer, other ,	ghuer şuḥeeḥ, in -correct.
khilaf, opposite ,	khilaf uql, un -reasonable.
kum, less ,	kum zor, pith- less .
udum, without ,	udum foorşut, leisure- less .
bud, bad ,	bud şoorut, ill -favoured.
zisht, ill ,	zisht roo, ditto, ugly.
pust- } low ,	pust- } himmut, ill iberal.
doon- }	doon- }
tung, narrow ,	tung dil, narrow minded.
goom, lost ,	goom hosh, insensible .
door, bad ,	door mut, un -wise.

which have all a privative, negative, or defective tendency, in a variety of compounds, such as the instances here produced, merely for the learner's future guidance through innumerable derivatives of the same species in this and all languages.

The particle la has been omitted in its proper place, though like na of great use as a privative : la-char, helpless ; la-ghurz, dis-interested ; la-hul, in-explicable.

khooṣh , pleasant ,	khooḥṭubū , good-humoured .
khoob , good ,	khoobṣoorut , well-favoured .
nek , virtuous ,	nek mizaj , good-natured .
shuh ,	$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{grand,} \\ \text{royal, \&c.} \end{array} \right\} \begin{array}{l} \text{shuh rah, high-way.} \\ \text{rae baṇs, the royal bamboo.} \\ \text{raj haṭh, the head market.} \end{array}$
rae ,
raj ,

express good in their compounds ; the three last often apply to the vegetable and animal kingdom, importing bulk, excellence, &c.

qabil , able ,	qabil ilaj , remediable .
laiq , proper ,	laiq suza , punishable .

sometimes the order of the words is inverted in these and other examples.

ṣahib ,	$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{lord, master,} \\ \text{\&c. like } pra\ddot{e}- \\ \text{ditus.} \end{array} \right\}$	ṣahib uql , a wise man .
meer ,		meer mujlis , a president .
uhl ,		uhli kar , a tradesman .

ziyadu,	{	denote	{	ziyadu tulub, exorbitant ;
fcozool,				fcozool-
		excess,	{	ziyadugo, talkative ;
			{	khidmut, officious .
hum, with ,	{	concord, &c.	{	lum muktab, a school-fellow ;
ek, one ,				hum dik, unanimous .
				ek jins, congenial ;
				ek dil, unanimous , &c.
neem,	{	half,	{	neem pokht, half dressed .
udh,				udh mooa, half dead .
pesh, before ,				pesh-wa, fore-man .
pus, after ,				pus khoordu, leavings .
dur, in ,	{		{	dur soorut, in case .
				dur kar, in need .

Adjunctives.

hut,	{	ness, &c.	{	kurwa hut, bitterness .
wut,				buna wut, management .
gee,				tazu gee, freshness .
pun,				moṭa pun, fatness .
puna,				bewa puna, widowhood .
ana,				ghur ana, household .
anu,				nuzur anu, a present , &c. zun- anu, womens apartments .

eenu,	{	sal eenu, yearly-	{	pay, wages, &amp;c. roz eenu, daily- chob eenu, wooden .

the three last denote, fees, fines, places, adjectives, &c. as above.

wala,	} man,	doodh wala, a milk-man.
wal,		koṭ wal, police officer. wuya,		nuchwuya, a dancer.
iya,		mukhun iya, a butter-man.
waha,		hul waha, a ploughman.
aha,		duor aha, a runner.
hara,		lukur hara, a wood-monger.
war,	} &amp;c.	commedwar, a candidate, hopeful.

The whole of the foregoing assume various forms in composition, such as al, el, eela, uela, har, uha, era, which are used as adjectives, agents, &c. thus, rus eela, juicy, luscious; ghur-uela, domestic; pa,el, sure-footed, a good pacer; sump era, a snake-catcher, with many more.

In the feminine with many nouns they occur so :

walee, woman, doodh walee, a milk-woman, checre walee, a virgin, ruseelee ankḥ, a luscious eye.

kar, bud kar, an evil-doer, kisht kar, a planter. gar, khidmut gar, a waiting servant, goonuh-gar, a sinner.

gur, suoda gur, a trader, ṣaboon gur, a soap-boiler.

dar, dookan dar, a shop-keeper, zumeen dar, a landholder, farmer.

The whole of the above, and a number below.

imply maker, doer, holder, keeper, &c. as agents in er or adjectives of our language.

burdar, bearer, hooqqu burdar, a pipe man, ni-shan burdar, standard bearer.

bur, carrier, pueghum bur, a messenger, prophet, ruh bur, a conductor.

ban, keeper, bagh ban, a gardener, durban, a door-keeper.

wan, ——— garree wan, a carter, kishtee-wan, a boat-man.

man, ——— goon man, an artist, boodh man, a wise man.

baz, player, shutrunj baz, a chess player, rindee baz, a wencher, dumbaz, a puffer.

kush, drawer, tar kush, a wire drawer, hooqu kush, a smoker.

saz, maker, zumanu-saz, a time-server, sookhn-saz, an orator.

geer, taker, rah geer, a wayfarer, dust geer, a patron, goolgeer, snufflers.

furosh, seller, mue furosh, a wine merchant, puneer furosh, a cheese-monger.

khhor, eater, khoon khhor, khoon khwar, a murderer, blood-thirsty.

khwar, drinker ,	shurab-khwar, or khor, a wine-bibber, sood khor, a usurer.
khan, teller ,	qissu khan, a story-teller, Farsee khan, a Persian scholar.
go, speaker ,	durogh go, a liar, rast go, a teller of truth, candid.
undaz, thrower ,	gol undaz, a gunner, teer undaz, an archer, burq undaz, a musqueteer.
chula, —	gol chula, a cannoneer.
cheen, seizer ,	sokhn cheen, a carper at words, gool cheen, a florist.
rez, shedder ,	khoon rez, a shedder of blood, a murderer, rung rez, a dyer.
kun, digger ,	gor kun, a grave-digger, moohur kun, a seal-engraver.
zun, } mar, }	  striker, killer, &amp;c.   rug zun, a phlebotomist, rah- zun, butmar, a robber, high- way-man, foot-pad, &amp;c. chiree mar, a bird-catcher.
shikar, catcher ,	mahee shikar, a fish-catcher, ahoo shikar, a deer-catcher.
les, licker ,	rikabee les, a plate-licker, a scophant, a toad-eater.
doz, sewer ,	khuemudoz, a tent-maker.
sho, washer ,	deg sho, a pot-washer, a scullion, moordu sho, a corpse-washer.

- dan, knower, hisab dan, an accountant.
- indu, — nuwees indu, a writer.
- bos, kissing, pa bos, kissing the foot, dust bos, kissing the hand.
- jo, searcher, ueb jo, a fault seeker, a critic.
- shunas, } knower, { qudur shunas, a discerner of fuhm, } &c. { merit, a patron, kuj fuhm, perverse.
- suwar, mounted, &c. shuh suwar, a swift rider.
- nusheen, sitting, tukht nusheen, seated on a throne.
- bukhsh, giver, khuṭa bukhsh, a pardoner of sins.
- posh, hider, purdu posh, a concealer or win-ker at faults.
- purust, adorer, shikum-purust, a belly-worshipper, an epicure.
- purwur, } protector, { ghureeb purwur, protectnuwaz, } &c. { ing the poor, yuteem nuwaz, the orphan's friend.
- bund, binder, jild bund, a book-binder, nuḷ bund, a farrier.
- amoz, taught, nuo amoz, a novice, tyro, &c.
- purdaz, manager, kar purdaz, managing business,
 a factor.
- nooma, shewer, rah nooma, a conductor.
- ashob, inflaming, dil ashob, inflaming the heart.

fureb, stealer, dil fureb, a heart-stealer, a mistress.

ungez, exciter, atush ungez, an incendiary, fit-nu ungêz, a mutineer.

azar, disturber, murdoom-azar, a tyrant.

koosha, opener, mooshkil koosha, a solver of difficulties.

goodaz, melter, dil goodaz, heart-melting, affecting, tun goodaz, melting the body, enervating.

ruo, walking, tez ruo, swift-footed.

been, seeing, pesh been, foreseeing, provident.

khwah, } wisher, { khuer khwah, a well-wisher.

undesh, } think- { door undesh, provident.

tulub, } er, &c. { rishwut tulub, wanting a bribe, corrupt.

soz, burner, alum soz, burning the world, a great beauty, a tyrant.

ufshan, shedding, gool ufshan, scattering roses.

fishan, — ushk fishan, shedding tears.

ufroz, illuminating, buzmi ufroz, cheering an assembly.

mohun, } attractor, { mun mohun, } heart-alrooba, } dil rooba. } luring.
          } ahun rooba, the magnet.
          } kuh rooba, amber.

zadu, } born, { shuh zadu, king's son, a prince.
 zad, } &c. { khanu zad, domestic.
 za, } { wilayut za, born abroad.

bhur, full, all, &c. { pet bhur, a belly-full.
 { rat bhur, all night.
 { din bhur, the whole day.
 { kumur bhur, up to the waist.

jog, able, khane jog, eatable, peene jog, drinkable.

wur, } possessing, { jan wur, having life, an ani- awur, } { mal, dilawur, brave.

mund, fayudu mund, profitable, beneficial.

wunt, bul wunt, powerful, strong.

nak, huol nak, fearful, timid.

geen, ghum geen, sorrowful.

een, chob een, wooden.

sar, shurm sar, full of shame, ashamed.

aloodu, gurd aloodu, dusty, khoon aloodu, bloody.

amez, mukur amez, deceitful.

goon, neel goon, blue coloured.

fam, gool fam, rose-coloured.

mail, subzee mail, greenish.

the last ten or twelve adjunctives apply to possession of quality, colour, &c.

dan, nas dan, a snuff-box, numuk dan, a salt-cellar.

khanu,	bawurchee khanu, the cook-room, kitchen.
ghura,	bhoom ghura, a ground floor or cellar.
muḥul,	chor muḥul, a seraglio.
sura,e,	hurum sura,e, ditto.
sala, sal,	ṭuk sal, the mint , ga,o sala, a cow- house.
gah,	aram gah, a sleeping room.
stan,	Hindoo-stan, India.
istan,	gool-istan, a rose-garden.
usthan,	dew usthan, a temple, house of God.
shun,	gool shun, a rose bed.
zar,	lalu zar, a tulip bed.
baree,	goolab baree, a rose garden.
waree,	phool waree, a flower garden.
gunj,	nuwwab gunj, viceroy-market.
gola,	lon gola, the salt-market.
ṭola, }	muchhlee ṭola, fish-street, &c.
ṭolee, }
abad,	ukbur abad, the city of Ukbur, viz. Agra.
nugur,	chundur nugur, moon-town, our Chan- dernagore!
poor,	ghazee poor, hero-town.
shuhr,	unoop shuhr, the incomparable city alias Anopshire!
gurh,	futih gurh, Fort Victoria.

bhoom, beer bhoom, warrior-land.
 bazar, qasim bazar, the market of Qasim.
 khund, rohil khund, the Rohila country.
 ganw, chut ganw, lamp-town.
 mala, rag mala, a song or tune book.
 namu, shah namu, the book of kings.
 the whole from dan might be termed local adjunctives, as they all seem to imply some place, repository, town, &c.

The intermediate particles have been almost all discussed among the significant letters or syllables, in pages 65, and 77, pur, on, dur, in, and ka, of, excepted; dugha pur dugha, tit for tat, afut pur afut, calamity on calamity, pue dur pue, successively, khet ka khet, the whole field, are examples enow to show the nature of such compounds.

Simple Postpositions.

ka, ke, kee, like—ra, re, ree, na, ne, nee, of, 's,
to, &c.

ko, to, for, at, in, &c.

pur, on, at, after, by, &c.

se, sitee, with, from, by, to, &c.

men, in, on, after, at, &c.

tuk, tuluk, lug, toree, le, to, up to, &c.

hokur, through, by.

have been termed simple, from their governing the mere inflexion of the noun, seldom or never with it requiring ke, kee, &c. though the compounds often drop these, and rest satisfied with the simple inflected word, particularly pas, oopur, and a few others. Pur ko, pur se, men se, ke tu, een ko, ke pas se, as a sort of reduplicated postpositions, are used like our own,—from within, from below, &c.

I have inserted ra and na, &c. above, rather to show their great affinity to ka, ke, kec, than to have them also considered, like ka, postpositions, for they are merely pronominal genitive signs, like our own mine, thine, his, her, your, &c. His being just a contraction of he's, i. e. of him, may help to explain the ooska, ooske, ooskee, his, her, in Hindoostanee; if we advert also to the Latin suus, sua; cujus, cuja; kiska, kiskee, whose, viz. who's, of whom, applying as adjectives to his, her, whose, in concord with the noun; sua mater, ooskec ma, his or her mother.

Feminine Postpositions.

turuf, janib, near, towards, side.

turuh, manner, like, way, mode.

khatir, for, sake, mind, heart.

muurifut, by, through, means, medium.

nisbut, respecting, compared with, relation.

have been so called because they require kee, ree, and nee, of the words which they govern, (being in fact all feminine nouns, used elliptically as postpositions) while the compounds (as masculines in the same manner) take ke, re, ne.

Compound Postpositions.

tu,een, to, for, &c.

kune, to, for, &c.

pas, near, to, with, nigh to, &c.

yuhan, wuhan, chez, at, 's, here, there.

nuzdeek, qureeb, ncre, or, near, by, &c. with.

copur, above, upon, besides.

neeche, tule, below, beneath, under.

undur, bheetur, in, within.

bahur, out, without, abroad.

sath, sung, sumet, soodhan, humrah, shamil, with, together, along with, &c.

hath, to, with.

peechhe, buud, buuduz, after, behind.

pure, codhur, costuruf, cospar, on that side, beyond.

wure, idhur, isturuf, ispar, on this side.

age, samhne, sunmookh, rooburoo, moowqabil, hoozoor, hote, ruhte, before, against, opposite,
in presence of, &c. &c. during.

aspas, chuogird, gird, gird pesh, around, about.

buruks, bur khilaf, in opposition to, contrasted with, vice versa.

ghueruz, bujcoz, wurae, siwae, bughuer, chhor, bina, bidoon, besides, except, without.

beechee, beechmen, durmiyan, mud, mabuch, be- tween, among, amid, in, &c.

waste, subub, baiis, liye, karun, mare, laluch,
for, on account of, through, from, by, &c.

iwuz, budul, sunte, bumunzili, instead, for.

burabur, moowafiq, qabil, bu moojib, misal, musl, manund, like, according to.

laaiq, moonasib, worthy of, proper for.

huqmen, in regard to, respecting.

war par, through and through.

Though the simple postpositions cannot well occur prepositively, the compounds often do, and, in this way, the noun is frequently between them both, siwa khooda ke, or khooda ke siwa, besides God. The Persian prepositions, be, bur, mui, pesh, &c. are sometimes found so in the Hindoostanee, in which a number of other words, meaning reason, place, sake, side, way, &c. may be met with as postpositions, like huqq, right, above, to which men, in, with, &c. is of course either expressed or understood in such sentences as, beemar ke huqq men ubhee shurab uch-chhee nuheen, with regard to the patient, wine is not good at present, meaning, as far as concerns, in respect to, considering, &c.

Local Adverbials.

Yuhan, here, wuhan, there, kuhan, where? juhan, where, tuhan, such or that place, kuheen, somewhere, anywhere, uor kuheen, elsewhere, kuheen nuheen, nowhere, hur kuheen, everywhere, kuheen nu kuheen, somewhere or other, juhan kuheen, wherever, yuhan kuheen, hereabouts, wuheen, that very place.

idhur, hither, odhur, thither, kidhur, whither? jidhur, whither, tidhur, that place.

Yuhan se, hence, wuhan se, thence, kuhan se, whence? &c.

Temporal Adverbials.

* ub, now, kub, when? jub, when, tub, then.

aj, to-day, now, kul, yesterday or to-morrow, purson, the day before or after.

ub tuk, aj tuk, hunoz, hitherto, yet, kub tuk,
how long? jub tuk, until, jub se, since, kub se,
whence? &c.

tub tuk, so long, aj kul, now-a-days, ubhee,
just now, immediately, &c.

kubhee, ever, kubhee nuheen, never, kubhee kubhee, sometimes, seldom, kubhee nu kubhee, sometime or other, roz roz, daily, bar bar, often, kue bar, how many times, jue bar, so often, tue bar, as often, pher or phir, again, baree baree,
alternately, ek bar, once, do bar, twice, &c. tis pur, thereafter.

Adverbials of Quality, Quantity, Number, Manner, &c.

uesa, so, wuesa, such, kuesa, how? juesa, as,
tuesa, thus.

* It is rather singular, that all the derivatives of this word frequently change b to d or o, whence kud, when? juo lug, until, &c.

ita, this much, oota, that much, kita, how much? jita, so much, tita, thus much.

itna, so many, ootna, witna, that many, kitna, how many? jitna, so many, titna, that many.

yoon, thus, woon, that way, kyoon, how? jyoon, as, so, &c. tyoon, that way, &c. yoon kur, this way, kyoon kur, how? what way? &c.

ku,ee, several, kue, how many? jue, as many, tue, so many.

khoob, well, khurab, ill, &c. from the adj. good, bad, &c. puhle, first, rather, doosre, secondly, &c.

han, yes, nu, nuheen, no, not, nor, neither, kyoon nuheen, why not? ulbuttu, certainly, mootluq, not at all, hurgiz, by no means, never, mut, don't.

shayud, perhaps, ho to ho, may be.

yuune, viz. to wit, namely, nuheen to, otherwise, else.

ulug, apart, jooda jooda, separately, ek ek, one by one.

milkur, leke, together, ukşur, generally.

buhoot, ziyadu, much, too much, very, uor, more, bus, enough, qureeb, almost, thoṛa, little, buṛa, great, very, goya, as if, şirf, fuqut, only.

Conjunctions.

uor, uo, o, wu, and; bhee, also, even, both, likewise.

ya, khwah, chaho, or, either, to, tuo, pus, well, then.

ugur, gur, jo, if, ugurchi, although, jubki, since.

kyoon kur, because, wherefore, isliye, therefore.

ki, jo, ta, that, whether, when, go ki, provided.

siwa, except, wurnu, unless, tis purbhee, tuobhee, still, nevertheless, at least, such, truly, such kur, indeed.

pur, lekin, but, umma, mugur, wulekin, bulki, nay, moreover, hurchund, although, tahum, uzbuski, halanki, still, notwithstanding, bu shurt ki, on condition that, provided.

Interjections.

Shabash! afrceñ! wah wah! kya khoob! dhuni dhun! wah jee! kya bat huc! denote joy praise, like our bravo! well done! ha'e ha'e! hue hue! wa'e wa'e! wa'e wuela! imply grief, as alus! lackaday! chheç chhee! chul chukhe! dloorho! indicate aversion, disgust, fye fye! be- gone! choop! choop ruho! hush! silence! bus, stop! plenty! scono! kyoona jce! hear! you sir! bap re bap! father father! ma rec ma! mother mother!

After what has been laid down in page 40, no one can find fault with the collection here made of all the most useful words in the language, which, as postpositions, adverbs, conjunctions, &c. often run so much into each other's divisions, that they cannot well be discriminated so exactly as could be wished. Among them all, hee, ever, just, &c.; sa, as; kur, as; liye, wastu, account; turuf, side, ward; turuh, manner; an, dñur, place; ta, quantum; is, this; oos, that; kis, what; sc, from, &c. will be very conspicuous; but kisliye, wherefore? &c. are so easily resolvable, like qua propter, and similar words in the Latin and other tongues, by reperusing the significant particles, and the chapter on the composition and derivation of words in this Work, that we need not enlarge farther.

In proportion as the student acquires a knowledge by heart of these vocables, selected in the foregoing pages for that express purpose, before he proceeds to the sentences hereafter given, in support of grammatical rules, the more readily will he comprehend the drift of every example, especially if he will at the same time progressively encrease his mental store of adverbials from my Dictionary or Vocabulary, which can always be consulted for nouns, verbs, &c. as they may be required to explain any portion of Hindoostance composition, when, from the context, the meaning is not quite obvious. Every real student will reflect on my earnest remarks in the preface, so applicable to the matter in hand ; and in every practicable case of this kind should trust almost as much, if not more, to his own genius and resources, as to research and pains with any lexicon whatever.

—— has been termed man's surest guide through life, and his great boast over the brute creation ; yet animals are less subject to error, though they trust almost entirely to ——, in the grand objects of their care and existence. To man —— seems artificial, while to brutes —— appears intuitive ; the former therefore requires something very like ——, before he can trust to ——, in which the latter are said to have no —— whatever, their hopes being limited to this —— alone.

The scholar must ~~now~~ learn, from thought alone, to fill up the blanks of the preceding sentence as well as he can, and in future to do the very same thing with every Hindoostanee paragraph, of which he may happen to know, or find in a dictionary, the same proportion of words, as he does in the English above, remaining ignorant, however, of the rest, as they are supposed to be produced by his own manly perseverance and deep reflection.

The fruits of such efforts will be stamped with different degrees of value, as the learner feels impressed with the idea, that he in some measure discovered them himself, or owed them to the labours of another person. As the first, they will be fondly cherished and retained long in his mind, like the darling children of his own fancy and judgment, while, in the latter view, they may be more frequently treated as a mere spurious breed, and committed to a very fallible stepmother's charge, viz. the memory only. The man who cannot think, will not easily be taught, by this or any book, his own language, far less a foreign tongue, so difficult as those of the East in general are : I must therefore beseech my pupils, in this stage of their progress, to commence seriously with the art and practice of thinking, more fully elucidated in the Preface, to which they may hence refer with every advantage.

Hindoostanee Declension of Terminating Letters or Particles.

	Singular.	Plural.
Nominative	a or u.	e, like the singular inflexion.
Inflection	e	oṇ, by substitution for a or u of the nom. singular.
Gen. Uninfl.	e ka.	oṇ ka,
Ditto Infl.	e ke.	oṇ ke,
Ditto Femin.	e kee.	oṇ kee.
		} meaning of -'s, and being a sort of possessive or adjective form.
Accus. and Dat.	e ko.	oṇ ko, to or for .
Vocative	e re.	o, substituted for a or u.
Ablative	e se.	oṇ se, with, from, by, &amp;c.

Nouns terminating with every other Letter.

Nom. b, d, ee, &c. when masc. b, d, &c. and to fem. eṇ is added, or aṇ, if they end in ee.

Infl. none oṇ is added to the nom,
Gen. Uninfl. — ka. oṇ ka. sing. the ee of

Singular.		Plural.
Ditto Infl. — ke.	oñ ke.	which, how-
Ditto Fem. — kee.	oñ kee.	ever, general-
Accus.&amp;Dat. —ko.	oñ ko.	ly becomes iy
Voc. — re.	o.	before añ, oñ,
Abl. — se.	oñ se.	as golee, a pill , goliyañ, goli- yoñ, pills .

The learner may now form as many cases, with the whole of the postpositions, as he pleases, giving them such names as will most readily convey the idea intended, by the words so used, viz. donative, locative, instrumental, social, &c. but he should ever recollect, that the simple postpositions require the inflexion, if any, of the noun, while the compounds govern the inflected, and the fem. postpositions, the feminine genitive. thus, gole ke pas, near the ball; bundoñ kee khatir, for (the sake of) slaves; bandee ke sath, with the slave girl; bandiyoñ kee turuh, like slave girls; though it must be confessed, that ke is frequently omitted, ghur pas, near the house. •

When a or u, as exceptions, happen to be indeclinable, they fall under the rule for nouns in b, d, ee, oo, &c. dana, a wise man or wise men;

dana ka, ke, kee, &c. danaṇ ko, &c. bula, evil;
bulaṇ, evils; bulaṇ ka, ke, kee, &c.

Adjectives are declined exactly as nouns, only they have not the inflexion ṇ nor aṇ, when their accompanying nouns have them.

gora murd, a fair man.	gore murd, fair men.
gore murd ka, ke, kee,	gore murdoṇ ka, ke,
of a fair man, &amp;c.	kee, fair men's, &amp;c.

gora, a European.	gore, Europeans.
gore ka, ke, kee.	goroṇ ka, ke, kee.

khoob luṛka, a good boy.	khoob luṛke, good boys.
khoob luṛke ka, ke,	khoob luṛkoṇ ka, ke,
kee, &c.	kee.

khooboṇ ka, ke, kee, of the good, opposed to—
of the wicked, budōṇ ka, ke, kee.

bhulee luṛkee, a good girl.	bhulee luṛkiyaṇ, good girls. bhulee luṛkee ka, ke,	bhulee luṛkiyoṇ ka, ke,
kee.	kee.

Comparison in Hindoostanee is very simple, and greatly assisted by se, meaning than, or by the words like our very, more, most, &c.

luṛke se luṛkce goree hue, the girl is fairer than the boy; luṛkce se luṛka gora hue, the boy is fairer than the girl;* luṛka buhoṭ gora hue, the boy is very fair; pur luṛkee oos se uor goree, but the girl is more fair or fairer; such wooh sub se goree hue, true, she is the fairest of the whole.

Pronouns.

They follow the general rule of declension, with some slight deviations, so:

Nom. muen, I.	hum, we.
Infl. mcojh, me.	hum or humon, us.
Gen. me-ra, -re, -ree, of	hum -ara, -are, aree, of
me, and my, mine.	us, our, ours.
too, tuen, thou ; toom, toomh, you , declined exactly as above.
N. yih, he, this, she, it ; wooh, he, that, &amp;c. ye, they, these ; we, they, those.
I. is, him, her, and it, this ; cos. him, &amp;c. in or inhon, them, these ; con, conhon, them, those.

And in like manner are the interrogative, relative, and correlative, pronouns declined.

---

* Lit. boy than girl fair is—girl than boy fair is; a transposition which finely elucidates the nature of Hindoostanee construction, thus contrasted with our language.

kuon, kis, who? juon, jo, jis, who; tuon, tis, that, &c.

ko,ee, any, has kisee, and kya, what? kahe, in their respective inflexions.

ap, self, is commonly up-na, -ne, -nee, own, in the gen. though it also often admits of ka, ke, kee, instead of na, ne, nee.

In the same member of a sentence the pronoun and its possessive form cannot follow each other, as in our language, but rather take upne, upnee. I will go to my house; muen upne (never mere) ghur ko ja, oonga, if you will go to yours; u-gur too.n upne (never toomhare) ghur ko ja, o, and he to his; uor wooh upne (never ooske) ghur ko.

They nevertheless say, I and my brother, as we do, muen uor mera bha,ee; he and his friend, wooh uor ooska dost; they and their sisters, we uor oonkee buhinen.

The pronouns yih, wooh, he, this, that, &c. are of course also adjectives.

N. yih lurka, this boy, ye lurke, these boys.

I. is lurke, in lurkon, never inhon lurkon.

N. wooh lurkee, that girl, we lurkiyan, those girls.

I. oos lurkee, oon lurkiyon, never oonhon.

though as mere pronouns, inhon and conhon be in constant use.

We may here recapitulate, that moojh-e, toojh-e, is-e, oos-e, kis-e, tis-e, are equivalent to moojh-ko, &c. as hum en, toom hen, in hen, conhen, &c. are to humko, humon ko; and at the same time observe of the other pronouns, that with other nouns in on they do not retain it, hum log, we people; hum teen buhinen, we three sisters; hum teen buhinon ko, to us three sisters; hum teenon se, from us three; humon pur, on us. Mere, tere, humare, toomhare, occasionally supply the place of moojh, &c. or vice versa, but more rarely.

While ra is to the two first personals, what ka is to all nouns, the last may, by the intervention of a noun, be used after moojh, toojh, hum, toom, so—moojh ghureeb ka bap, the father of poor me; toojh bechare kee ma, the mother of helpless thee; hum duolut mundoṇ ke ghore, the horses of us wealthy; toom bhulon kee bat, the speech of worthy you.

As the active preterite expletive ne inflects declinable nominatives, muen and tuen excepted, the learner must not be surprised to meet with inflexions as nominatives, thus; kuon aya, who came? wooh admee jis ne diya, that man who gave; tis ne mara, he beat or killed; muen ne dekha, I saw; oos ne pukra, he seized.

Having thus given an abstract, or bird's eye view of declension in this language, for the benefit of the general grammarian, in his rapid flight through this region of Oriental philology, we shall next proceed to a similar sketch of the only conjugation to be found in the Hindoostanee tongue.

The auxiliary verb has been sufficiently discussed among the significant particles, we may therefore observe once for all, that na, to, being dropt, the root of the verb remains, which is moreover always the imperative second person singular; pal-na, to foster, foster-ing, with ne, nee, but the terminations alone will suffice in this way, as they will all branch off from the root of any verb, in this order; pal-a, -ee, -e, -een, or -iyan; -ke, -kur, -kurke, -kurkur, &c.; of which the subsequent scheme will give the learner an adequate notion, by studying the whole with due attention to the root pal, from pal-a, nourished, to pal-kurke, having nourished. This part of the verb very conveniently expresses many of our adverbs, bhoolkur, inadvertently, i. e. having forgotten.

Hoo,a expresses our been, is, was, according to circumstances, and often appears to have no meaning at all, it is therefore omitted or expressed on such occasions at the discretion of the speaker; mucṇ hoo,a hoon, &c. I have been, &c.; too hoo,a tha, &c. thou hadst been, &c.; panee gurm hue? is the water hot? haṇ gurm hoo,a, yes it is hot. There may be a very nice distinction in the use of the present and perfect, apparently promiscuously, but it seems not less obscure than, he is arrived, he has arrived, &c. in our own language.

A species of second future of hona is formed from the indicative, instead of the aorist, viz. hoonga, huega, huenge, hoge, expressive perhaps of some doubt. A future, or polite imperative, is commonly formed by affixing iye, or iyo, to the imp. sing. second person, as, jaiye, jaiyo, go, pray go; and, you will be pleased to go, also expressed by jaiyega.

With other verbs, instead of iye, &c. jaiye occurs, or, changed thus; dcejiye, pray give; keejiye, please do; kḥajaiye, pray eat, or kḥaiye.

There are no irregular verbs in the language, because kiya, done, moo,a, dead, are merely redundants from keena, moona, the old words for kurna, to do; murna, to die.

Hooa, liya, diya, गया, are easily accounted for; the last would have been gaya, did not that mean he sung, and sometimes jaya still is used in its regular form.

It may be proper to remark, that hona means to be, exist, remain, &c. besides being like esse, often used inversely with datives for the verb rukhna, habere, to have, with which the learner will be on his guard, when translating the languages of India.

The expletive ne, before preterite active verbs, will be best learned from practice; but the scholar must recollect, that when nominatives are used accusatively, the verb agrees with them rather than with its own proper nominative, and that accusatives, on the other hand, with ne, keep the verb in an indeclinable state entirely so; larkon ne larkiyaṁ mareṇ, boys beat girls; larkiyaṁ ne larkon ko mara, girls beat boys; a curious regimen, which will soon become familiar by a little attention, as the rule certainly runs through the whole language, with very few exceptions. The pluperfect is often substituted for the perfect, sipahee kul aya tha, the soldier came (lit. had come) yesterday; and the other tenses, like those in most languages, run much into each other.

Before the tyro can possibly pronounce well, with ease and fluency conjoined, he will find it absolutely necessary to read and ponder over the whole of the preceding sheets, at least ten times, if he at the same time be resolved to comprehend the subject thoroughly; previous to his farther advancement in this language, a measure which I recommend sincerely to him, from a conviction, that he will yet feel grateful for the present importunity on my part, as his progress afterwards will certainly both delight and astonish himself. Not less than twenty readings of the extract from my Ultimatum, in page 50, will suffice to enable any scholar to read it with equal facility as so much Latin or English; but these readings must be performed in a loud audible voice, either for the reader's own ears to admonish and correct him as he proceeds, or for his fellow students, as hearers, to make their own remarks on the performance progressively, with the most beneficial effects to every one concerned in such a pursuit.

A literal version of the first paragraph in the story of Sukcontula, carefully compared with the translation in page 54, may throw such light on the subject as will render the student's future labour light as a feather; I shall consequently indulge him with it in this place.

“ Now forewards story of thus relation is, that the wilderness in besides God of, her any care taking person not was, but a bird her over own wings of shade making was, this from, her name is Sukcontula. There fallen is she weeping was, tears of pearls eye-lids on stringing was, milk for taking mouth opening remained had, hands feet own continued striking had, when protector of world—own favour made, that Kunn saint somewhere bathing for gone had, just as that quarter from turned out, saw, that this what power divine is! that new flower of parterre to, flower place from far having seen, bewildered in manner of nightingale picture became, rolling pearl orphan like was, but ground on, rolling it of seeing, he sorrowful became.”

However uncouth, redundant, preposterous, or defective, this verbatim et literatim translation may seem, it cannot be much more so than a similar view of other tongues would often exhibit; and as the present mode is, after all, the most rational groundwork for rendering one language into another faithfully, the scholar may now, by way of exercise, turn my bad version here into the best English in his power, and then let him compare it with mine in page 84. Such a habit once acquired, will not only, in the first instance, give the learner a great command of words, with an accurate idea of the grammatical arrangement and idiom of the Hindoostanee, but may hereafter qualify him as a most faithful and expert translator or interpreter of Eastern tongues.

Taking it for granted, that my advice has been studiously followed, and the comparison made accordingly, it will probably appear, that my version cannot stand the test of rigid examination, and, on the whole, in point of elegance, may fall greatly short of my pupils efforts to excel me. To anticipate defence when the objections are unknown, might be premature, and to repine at superior talents would prove me illiberal in the extreme, more especially while stimulating my young friends to enter the lists in a fair trial of skill with their instructor.

I shall next analyse the first paragraph of the story, and as every word of it will be found in the Vocabulary, the student cannot be better employed than in finishing the whole, as I have begun, either at present, or when he has deliberately perused! all the grammatical portion of this Work. See page 50, as we proceed.

Ub, now, well, whence ubhec, just now, immediately, already, le ub, well then, ub tub, on the go, just a-going, and many others; age, before, on, forwards, henceforth, &c. inflected from aga, front, forepart, whence several derivatives, distinguishable by the initial ag or ug, all connected with the radical meaning; dastan, story, narrative, novel, romance, &c.; ka, of, 's, agreeing with buyan, detail, relation, the nominative of hue, is, dastan ka buyan hue, story's detail is; yoon, thus, in this way, so, from which yoon hec, just so, for nothing, without labour, &c.; Hindoostanee zcoban mucn ne yoon hec seekhec, I learned the Hindoostanee tongue, the best way I could, without taking any pains to acquire it, may safely be said by many a Jargonist, who is not aware, that yoon hec expresses so much in this useful language; ki, that, who, which, when, saying, thus, as follows, &c. a handy little word, which practice will elucidate much better than precept; cos, the, that, it, him, her, inflexion of woch, generally implying remoteness of the object; but when proximity is not essential, wcn is more applicable to our he, she, or, used indefinitely than yih. this person or thing, nearest or last spoken of; was here an adjective in concord with jungul, a desert, wood, wild, waste, wilderness, jungle! &c. but governed by the postposition men, in, &c. siwa, siwa, bunder, except, save, but, placed positively though one of the compound postpositions; Khoda, God, an exception to the general rule of nouns in a.u. being inflected to o, ke, of, o, as, &c. often apparently redundant, being the inflected genitive sign governed by siwa, a compound postposition, for which in English we cannot always find any meaning; khoda ke siwa, will necessarily be rendered by us, besides God, the Almighty excepted, &c. in which, ke, as a significant word, can have no place, though on other occasions it may become to, as in hukm ke moowafiq, according to orders. oska, her, his, its, of her, &c. From the nature of the English language, more attention is paid to the gender of the possessive person than the thing possessed of; in Latin and Hindoostanee it is the reverse, whence oska ghur, his or her house; oskee kitab, his or her book; oska tap, his or her father; ho, as, any, libation, care, heed, intelligence, notice, news, his, long, sating, infl. of lena, to take, being governed by wala, man, person, one, &c. in the compound here used; khubur lene wala, a protector, guardian, friend, care-taking-person, in the masc. to agree with Khooda, God.

Nu, not, tha, was. In the Oriental tongues, ~~round~~ logic and grammar go often hand in hand, where with us they seem to separate, and in no instance more than in negative sentences like—I saw no body; I will give him nothing; he is nowhere to be found; no soldier will be permitted, &c. which can be rendered in Hindoostanee by no other mode than—I saw not any body; he is not anywhere; any soldier will not be permitted; and, I will not give him any thing, muen cosko koochh nuheen doonga.—Were we asked how it was possible to see nobody, nothing, &c. the question might puzzle us, and our answer could not be very satisfactory to people who make speech and common sense more subservient to each other than we do, at least in such examples as the present, not less perplexing than the ungrammatical phrase, my lord, used by one man individually, or a thousand together, when addressing a peer of the realm. Her of any protector was not—we would change to—she had no protector—or, she had not a protector—a case in point which will illustrate the subject, as well as a hundred more could do.

ni Par, but, yet, &c. which may always be discriminated by position from pur, on, above, as this last never can be initial, though pur, a feather, may; ek, a, an, one; pukh-eroo, a bird, fowl, &c. from punkh, punchh, a wing, &c.; eroo, a modification of ar, er, hara, noted in pages 83 and 96; cos, her, him, it; pur, over; upne, own, inflected to agree with puron, wings, governed by ka, of, in concord with sayu, shade, shadow, shelter, protection, &c.; kiye, inflected from kiya, the redundant past participle of kur-na, anciently keena, to do, make, act, &c. This form, and the inflected present participle kurte, doing, bear some analogy to the Latin ablative absolute, explicable in the Hindoostanee so—sayu kiye hooe kee halut men, in the state of sheltering. You will see him coming, asko ate (hooe kee halut men) dekhoge; I hear them speaking, con ko bolte soonta hooe, that is, bolte hooe kee halut men, in the act of speaking; tha, was, stood, remained, &c. probably the perfect tense of the verb thana, to stay, remain, now obsolete, which would regularly be thaa, subject, like kee,ee, to the elision of the final homogeneous vowel, as stated in page 78

Is, this, to which bat, a word, circumstance, affair, matter, particular, &c. is understood, being like res and negotium in Latin, of great use in the Hindoostanee; se, from, to be carefully discriminated from se, inflected from sa, like, us, ish, of page 87; coska, her, agreeing with the masc. noun nam, name; Sukcontula, the Sacontala of Sir William Jones; hooa, is, was, &c. In the use of such verbs, we and the Hindoostanees differ greatly. If told by any of us, which we would be very apt to do, “the man you saw yesterday in my house was my uncle,” they would probably, with a smile, observe, “and is he not your uncle to-day,” or with a look of condolence, might enquire how, when, and where he died, because their own idiom teaches them in all such sentences to use is for was, unless the person spoken of be since dead, and no longer the relative in question. On similar grounds, where we mention our having been at a particular time in a given place, thus,—recollect we also were that year at Dihlee,—they would often use are, so—yad rukho hum bhee os sal Dihlee men huē.

Wulan, there, that place; puree, fallen, fem. past part. of purna, to fall, with its auxiliary sign hooe, is, frequently redundant, and of course omitted; wooh, she, he, it; rotee thee, crying was, imperf. indicative fem. third person singular, in unison with wooh, she; anscowon, infl. plural of ansoo, a tear, properly ansoo, on, for which consult pages 33, 35, &c.; ke, of, plural, to agree with motee, pearls, this being one of the very few nouns in ee, which are not feminine by this termination, enumerated in page 71.

Pulkon, eye-lids, pl. infl. of puluk, whence the u is dropt, as explained in pages 65, 66, governed by men, on, in, &c.; pirotee thee, threading was. It would require the hair-splitting genius of Eastern poets to divine the climax of beauties in the sentence before us, which they would term a sweet string of the most lovely pearls, formed by the eye-lashes of the child, piercing the lucid globules as they are shed by the eyes, rendered still more brilliant by minute pearly drops strung around them. This may be to Oriental eyes very fine, though it rather militates against our sounder judgment on all such similes, and the childish jingle of rotee and pirotee, with which, I recollect, the Hindoostanee bard was so delighted himself, that his eyes literally sparkled with joy, as he exclaimed, after a most significant but ineffable clink of the tongue, kya khoob! how charming!

Doodh, milk, ke, of, for, governed by liye, taking, account, resolvable like kiye, already elucidated, into liye hooe kee halut men, in the state of taking; mooñh, mouth, face, &c.; pusar ruhee thee, stretching, remained, had, the pluperfect of the continuative verb pusar ruhna, to remain stretching, from pusarna, to stretch; hath pañw, hands, feet; upne, own, plural in concord with hath pañw, in the nom. pl. used for the accusative. Mar ruhee thee, striking, remained, had, just such another verb as the last, from marna, to beat, strike, kick, drive, and kill, &c.

ki, when, then, that, &c.; purwurdu-gar, the protector; i, of; alum, the world; ne — has no meaning though an active perfect expletive of constant occurrence in this language, before every perfect tense of transitive verbs, which has no present form; muen ne mara, I killed; toom ne nuheen mara, you killed not; wooh maraga, he will kill; hum marte the, we were killing; too ne mara tha, thou hadst killed; upna, own; fuzl, grace, favour, &c.; kiya, made, did, acted, &c. whence the use of ne; jo, when, as, that, if, where, &c.; Kunn, moonee, a saint, the holy man; kuheen, somewhere; nuhane, to bathe, inflected by ko, for, similar to our old infinitives, for to drink, for to speak, still common in the East; chule the, gone, had, in the plural, out of respect to the saint, though an individual, which is the common practice, and like our own address to one person, you were angry, you are pleased, instead of thou wast; thou art, retained by the Quakers very grammatically, though now-a-days rather a quaint mode of speaking to any one; jon, appears contracted from joheen, just as, the moment, instantly as; oos, that; turuf, or turf, side, quarter, &c.; se, from, on, at, &c.; ho nikle, came out; perfect tense, third person, plural for singular of the verb ho nikulna, to turn out, come out, issue forth, &c. a compound of hona, to be, and nikulna, to issue, &c.

The perfect should be nikula, but is generally contracted in such verbs, as by page 66

We form similar verbs with the help of adverbs, which often materially alter the nature of the original; and the same effect follows in Hindoostanee, by the coalition of two verbs, thus; kaṭna, means simply, to cut; kaṭ-dalna, to cut off, from ḍalna, to throw, equivalent in composition to off, away, as dena, to give, ḍaḍna, to give away.

The reader may, by consulting the Section on the Verbs, acquire the most ample information on a subject, which he will soon find of the utmost importance in this language; dekha, beheld, saw, perceived, observed, &c.; ki, that; yih, this; kya, what? qoodrut, power; i, explained in page 68, under murdi nek, a man virtuous, for nek murd, a virtuous man; ilahee, divine, hue, is; yih kya qoodruti ilahee hue! implies wonder, admiration, &c. of the divine power, as we say,—alas! what a man he was!—when shall we see his like again? so do the natives of India, with congenial feelings, exclaim,—hae kya admee tha! oska burabur phir kub dekhenge? in other words,—he was an honest fellow, and we ne'er shall see his like again; jo, which, that, &c.; is, this; soorut, manner, way, appearance, countenance, &c.; se, in, from, with, by, on, &c.; nuzur, sight, atee, coming, feminine, to agree with soorut, of that gender from its termination t; hue, is, ops, that, nuo, new, fresh, &c.; gool, flower, rose; e, for i, of; chumun, a bed, parterre, walk, garden, &c.; ko, the accusative sign, governing retrospectively the only inflectible word, os, that, near it; gool-i tan, flower-place, rose-bed, garden, a famous book of Suudee's, which, like other roses, has its literary and moral thorns; se, from, down, far, away, remote, &c.; dekh, having seen, the root or imperative of dekhna, to see, behold, &c. used for the preterperfect participle, dekh-ke, dekh-kur, &c. as in pages 120, 121; hue-ran, bewildered, distracted, perplexed, fascinated, &c. In this and goolistan, the n is made nasal, merely for the sake of the verse, which is frequently the case in all such words, bu, in, one of the prepositions noticed in pages 107, and 77; rung, manner, style, colour, way, i, of, bool-bool, the nightingale, supposed by the Eastern poets to be captivated with the rose's blushing charms; i, of; tuṣweer, picture, painting, image, &c. used here, either from the nightingale's partiality to the rose as the picture of beauty, or from some story of a painted rose, with which the bird may have been fascinated; ho gu-e, became, the perfect tense in the third person plural of ho-ja na, to become, which is rather expressed here as to be go, though ho-ana, to become, be occasionally used; ghultan, rolling, teasing, tumbling, agitated, &c.; don, a pearl; e for i; yuteem, orphan; doori yuteem, a common term for what we call the lune pearl, as a non-pareil; see, like, as, in the form dekh-ke, with Sukeontula, vide page 87, which this example will farther elucidate, con ho khoda, my hum son bunaya hue, God made them like us; thee, was, lek, for lekin, but, khak, ground, earth, dust, &c. pur, on; ghultani, for ghultanee, agitation, from ghultan, agitated; coshee, her, in concord with the fem. noun ghultanee, dekh, as before; we, lit. they, but from veneration for Saint Kunn, used for wooh, he; dilgeer, heart-seized, sorrowful, &c. see page 97; hogue has been just mentioned.

A sedulous examination of this analysis will do more to pave the way for analysing the remainder of the quotation, or any other piece of Hindoostanee, than a thousand mere rules acquired by rote, with which a poor school-boy's memory is generally overloaded, like an ass's back, while his mind is allowed to remain as empty of thought, its proper food, as a heron's belly is of meat; whence from our public seminaries we have spouting automats in abundance, who seldom evince great mental energy or conception, till they learn the positive necessity through life of thinking and acting for themselves, rather as intelligent, efficient beings, than sheer, passive machines or vehicles of useful knowledge.

In the whole of the preceding process, I have purposely omitted the technical terms, verb, noun, adjective, &c. as self-evident in English to every man, who can expect any real information from this performance, on which he ought not to enter, if still ignorant of the first grammatical principles in his own mother tongue, or if yet unable to generalise the grammar of any language, he may have preposterously learned before his own, so as to be applicable, with a few trifling exceptions, to every other in the world, which we could very readily accomplish, were we invariably to begin at the right end, with vernacular speech, on sound principles first.

For persons whose education has been conducted on a rational, thinking system or plan, the preceding sheets of this publication, retrospectively studied as recommended, will suffice to make them already very promising Hindoostanee scholars; but for those who, from youth, inexperience, and want of thought, must follow the humdrum track of grammarians, the subsequent pages may contain special advantages, being more in detail, and more easier, from repeated rules or observations, both calculated by dint of hammering, to drive something into every body, whose soul is sluggish enough to require hard knocking, before one can rouse it to persevering exertion, even during this very essential pursuit of future ease, honours, and fortune, in the distant regions of the East, through the medium of the grand colloquial speech of all India.

---

The Noun,—and first of the Article.

1. The articles a, the, as in Latin, are commonly inherent in the simple noun, kitab la o, may signify, according to circumstances, either bring a or the book, consequently every noun almost may assume a or the in declension, and elsewhere, thus; beta, a son, or the son; beta ka, of a son, or the son; murd, a or the man; murd ka ke kee, of a or the man; murdoṇ ka ke kee, of men, or the men.

2. Ek, one, sometimes ko ee, any, express the indefinite a, an; and wooh, he, she, it, that; yih, he, &c. this; hee, or ee, very, the definite article the. In Arabic words, ul is used, as ul-qōra'. the koran.

Declension.

3. Nouns are declined, like those of both ancient and modern languages, on the twofold principle of inflexions and postpositions combined in one, which still exists among our pronouns, I, me; thou, thee; he, him. The necessity of the inflexion or oblique in all the real cases here, cannot escape the most superficial English scholar, although the mere nouns like — of a man, to a man, from a man, can give no adequate idea of pronominal inflexion in that tongue.

4. Particles termed, from their apparent preposterous situation, postpositions, perform the office of our prepositions, in the formation of the various cases of every noun, which must then appear, if declinable, in the inflexion, as our—of him, to him, from thee: never—of he, from thou.

5. Except the nom. gen. and voc. the number and names of the various cases depend entirely on the nature of the postpositions, which the learner may subdivide into oblique, i. e. dative, locative, social, instrumental, ablative, causal, communicative, &c. thereby forming as many cases as he pleases, in the true spirit of logical subdivision.

6. The postpositions so nearly resemble the prepositions of other languages, that none of them require any particular notice here, but ka, of, 's, which last is by far the most convenient, as the possessive or adjective form, in almost all translations from the Hindoostanee.

7. Ka, of, 's, has not only all the governing qualities of a postposition in the Hindoostanee, but is itself a declinable adjunct, that admirably proves the intimate connexion between genitive and adjective forms in most languages. As an adjective affix, which every scholar should consider it, ka, ke, of the masculine, inflexion; and plural, becomes in the feminine kee for both numbers, without any further inflexion; in government it is retrospective, but in concord prospective.

8. Ka, followed by a masc. sing. noun, which is not affected by any subsequent postposition, may be termed the nominative or simple possessive case, uorut ka betā, a woman's son; ke is the same in its inflected or plural state, uorut ke betē ka, a woman's son's, or of a woman's son, uorut ke dus betē, a woman's ten sons.

9. Kee is the foregoing genitive sign preceding a sing. or plural feminine noun in every case: murd kee betce, a man's daughter; murd kee betce ka beta, a man's daughter's son; murd kee betiyaan, a man's daughters; yih kam kee kitab hue, this is a book of use, or a use-ful book; wooh koochh kam kee nuheen, that is not of any use, or is a useless book.

10. The postpositions are simple and compound; the first require the mere inflexion of a noun, while the second govern its inflected or feminine genitive. The simple hardly exceed twelve in number, but the compounds are many, as may be seen in pages 103, 105, &c.

11. Ka, of, -s; ko, kune, to, for; se, sitee, from, by, to, with, on; pur, on, at, by; men, in, at; and the rest are a species of primitive particles, whose satisfactory deduction is now very difficult; on the contrary, sath, with; pas, near; tu, een, to, for; waste, for; age, before; hath, hand; mare, through, from; tiye, khatir, for, are generally nouns, adjectives or verbs, which require ke or kee between them and the noun.

12. Bete ka, of a son, or a son's; beton-se, from sons; beton ke hath, (with verbs of selling) to sons, and bete ke sath, with a son ought

now to demonstrate the difference of simple and compound postpositions, because the last example, including all such, is merely elliptical of betē ke sath men, in a son's company, or in the company of a son, sath in reality meaning company, as sathee does a companion.

13. Almost every word which terminates in e may be considered as inflected from a; the postpositions therefore that end in e are generally mere inflexions; betē ke age, before the son, when analysed, is betē ke age men, in front of the son, aga being a noun which signifies front, van, forepart, &c. ghur ke peeche, behind the house, or in the house's rear, ghur ke peeche men.

14. Simple postpositions seldom govern the inflected genitive, but compounds frequently require the mere noun or inflexion only, the intermediate ke being dropt, betē pas, near a son; betōn age, before sons.

15. When the compound postposition is otherwise a feminine noun, like turūh, manner, way; khāṭir, sake, for; turuf, side; nisbut, relation; the intermediate ke becomes kee, betē kee khāṭir (ko), for (the sake of) a son; lurkee kee turūh (men or se), like a girl; on the very same elliptical principles as the rest; because were men or 'se added to the last example here, it would be just—in a girlish way, or, in the manner of a girl.

16. Although, strictly speaking, three or four declensions may be found in the Hindoostanee, it will be convenient here to reduce the whole to two, because every noun which ends in a u, or an, is declined like beṭa, a son, thus :

First Declension.

Singular.	Plural.
N. beṭa, a son .	beṭe, sons .
G. beṭe, ka, ke, or kee, of a son, or a son's .	beṭon ka, ke, or kee, of sons, or sons'.
D. beṭe ko, to a son .	beṭon ko, to sons .
A. beṭe ko, a son .	beṭon ko, sons .
V. beṭe re, O son .	beṭo, O sons .
A. beṭe se, with, from, &amp;c. a son .	beṭon se, by, with, &amp;c. sons .
N. purdu, a curtain .	purde, curtains .
G. purde ka, ke, or kee, of a curtain, or a curtain's .	purdon ka, ke, kee, of curtains .
D. purde ko, to a cur- tain .	purdon ko, to curtains .

Singular.	Plural.
A. purde ko, a curtain.	purdoṇ ko, curtains.
V. purde re, O curtain.	purdo, O curtains.
A. purde se, from, &amp;c. curtains.	purdoṇ se, with, &amp;c. curtains.

Second Declension.

Singular.	Plural.
N. murd, a man.	murdo, men.
G. murd ka, ke, or kee, of a man, a man's.	murdoṇ ka, ke, or kee, of men, men's.
D. murd ko, to a man.	murdoṇ ko, to men.
A. murd ko, a man.	murdoṇ ko, men.
V. murd re, O man.	murdo, O men.
A. murd se, with, &amp;c. a man.	murdoṇ se, from, &amp;c. men.

17. Nouns in a, aṇ, and u, instead of being indeclinable, like the second declension, in the singular, substitute e for a or u in the first number, and nominative plural, but drop them entirely in every other case of the last number; whence gole ka, of a ball, or a ball's; gole se, with a ball; gole, balls; goloṇ ko, to balls, &c.

18. When words are feminine and terminate in ee, they assume aṇ in the nominative plural, converting ee to iy through all the plural cases ; all other feminines take eṇ—beṭiyan, daughters ; kitab-eṇ, books ; but these affixes, aṇ, eṇ, are often dropt, especially when numerals denote the plural ; in other respects, every noun not ending in a, aṇ, or u, is declined like murd, as these also are when exceptions.

19. All the postpositions have a variety of meanings, which the learner ought carefully to recollect, as he may often meet with se and others signifying from, with, to, by, at, on, &c. according to various circumstances, which cannot be adverted to in a work of this kind,—yuhan, yihan, cehan, ihan, here, and wuhan, there, as adverbs or nouns of place, also require, ke, they commonly denote our 's and the French chez, discriminating this and that abode, when a person has two : ṣahib ke yuhan ja o, ṣahib ke wuhan nuheen, go to the gentleman's house here, not there, viz. in the country, or elsewhere.

20. The voc. sing. in the second declension, being like the nom. often requires the sigus uc, e, be, urc, uree, o, prefixed ; but in the plural the o is generally affixed, while re, ree, sometimes also occur so in the singular even, as ne bap ! or bap re ! O father ! bap re bap ! O father, father ! ma ree ma ! O mother, mother ! yar-o ! O friends !

raja-o! or rajo! O princes! The accus. post. is often omitted, and has with us no meaning,—lurkee (ko) mut maro, do not beat (to) the girl; or, in other words, the nom. is very often used for the accusative.

Gender.

21. Males and females are naturally masculine and feminine, whatever their terminations may be; ce, t, sh, are in general feminine, while a, u, and all the rest, there being no neuter in Hindoostanee, may be treated as masculine finals, till the scholar learns the reverse from practice, the Grammar and Dictionary.

22. Feminines are formed from masculines by substituting for, or adding ce, in, un, nee, anee, a in, a, &c. to their finals; lurka, a boy, lurkee, a girl; dhobee, a washer-man, dhobin, a washer-woman; sher, a tiger, shernee, a tigress; naik, a lad, naika, a lass.

23. Nur occasionally denotes the he, and ma-du the she, as in Persian. There are some nouns like admet, homo; usamee, a client; which have the common gender as applicable to either sex, and many others are doubtful, fikr, care; jan, life; tukrar, repetition; lufz, a word, &c. appearing sometimes in one gender, and at other times in another, among the best speakers and writers of Hindoostanee. A few words, viz. ma, a mother; hap, a father; murd, a man; porut, a woman, as in other tongues, have no literal affinity in their genders.

24. All feminines, even those in a and u, belong to the second declension, with a considerable number of masculines also, as exceptions from the first, and a few are common to both declensions.

25. The plural inflexion in the second declension is a syllable longer than the singular, except in certain words, where the penult is a short vowel, which is then dropt,—Puthur, a stone; burns, a year; giri, a knot, have puthron, baron, giron, not puthur-on, v. pages 65, 66.

26. Some nouns of the first and second declension may be confounded in the collection plural by on being a substitution for the final letter of the former, but an addition to it in the latter or second declension; burda, a five; bundon ka, ke, or kee, of stones; band, a button; band-on ka, ke, or kee, of buttons.

27. Sometimes a masculine noun, like sage, a cog-bearer, admits of an on in the nom. pl. as an adopted Persian nominative, (resembling radii, data, phenomena, in English) which occasionally holds good for the inflexion also, especially in the dukhunc Hindoostanee, as this often prefers ruqeeb-an, yar-an, to ruqeeb-on, rivals, yar-on, friends.

28. A great variety of plurals is adopted from the Arabic and Persian, viz. at, uen, ha, jat, &c. as will be exhibited hereafter, and the termination at is occasionally affixed to Hindoostanee nouns, as chuokee, a post, chair, stool, watch, chuokiyat, stations, guards, &c.

29. The first and second declensions differ in the possession and want of a singular inflection, in the substitution and addition of inflective, vocative, and nominative particles, and in the second admitting of both masculines and feminines, while the first is in a great measure restricted to the former only, though they agree in having the very same plural inflexions and vocative particles, in their masculine, nominative plurals, being almost entirely like the singular numbers, and in assuming the very same postpositions for all the cases.

30. The result of the foregoing premises is, that there are seven adventitious particles, divisible among the declensions as follows:

First	{ a } nom.	is	and nom. plur.	lurk-a,	boy.
	{ e } inflec.	is		lurk-e,	boy, -s.
Second	{ ee } singular as a substitute.	is		lurk-ee,	a girl.
	{ an } nom. fem.	is		lurkiy-an,	girls.
	{ en } { ee } any other let.	is		kitab-en,	books.
Common	{ on } inhective	is		lurkiy-on,	girls.
in both	{ } { } { }	is		lurk-o,	O boys.

1. In words like ga-a, ga-o, a cow; ga-en, ga-on, cows; gla-o, a wound; un-kha-o, an eye, the nasal a alone is, for obvious reasons, added in the plural. Dho-on, stroke, reap, a hair, and words of this sort, have dho-en, ro-en, un-kha-yen, dho-on, un-kha-yen, in the nom. pl. and inflexions.

Illustration of the preceding Principles.

1. and 2. page 139.

What is on the table?	Mez pur kya hue?
A book and a pen.	Kitab aur ek qulum.
Give me the book.	Kitab moojhe do.
Take the pen to my brother.	Qulum mere bhaee ke pas le chalo.
But return in a moment.	Pur koee dum mein phi ra.o.

When yih and wroh occur as the, it will be equally convenient to resolve them into this and that, as proximate and remote pronouns for he, she, or it, to be illustrated as such hereafter.

hee and ee, as definite affixes, never can be very troublesome, since they merely give an emphasis or force to the word, similar to our very, self, indeed, self-same, even, just as, &c. in expressions like,—this is the very soldier who fled,—yih wrohee sipahee hue jo bhaga tha;—go thyself sm.h.—uho hee ja; on which it would be premature to enlarge farther in this place.

3 and 4.

- Get some grass from the groom and give it to the horse.
 To which shall I give the grain, to this or that?
 Where are all the grooms?
 Collect all our grooms here, don't omit even one, for the whole are required to be present just now.
- Su,ees se koochh ghas mangla, o uor ghore ko do.
 Kis ko danti doon is ko ya cos ko?
 Sub su,ees kuhan huen?
 Sub humare su,eeson ko yuhan hazir kuro ek hee ko mut chho-ro, kyoon kur chahi-ye ki subhee ubhee muojood hon.

5.

- Go to the dog and give him water to drink.
 Come with the dog here and tie him with these ropes.
- Kontu ke pas jaku, uor pee-ne ko
 Kotte ke rith a, o yu-han uor uo, rasi-yen a, o ho

The donative and objective case above is distinguished by ko, the *in*erant by ke pas, the social by ke satli, and the instrumental by se, but they only prove, that simple postpositions require the inflexion, while compounds govern the inflected genitive.

6, 7, 8, &c.

The boy's   sister's friend's father's mo- ther's brother's wife's three sons are now coming here.	Chhokre kee buhin ke dost ke bap kee ma- dur ke bhaee kee jo- ree ke teen bete ub- hee yuhan ate huen.
---	---

The girl's brother's friend's mother's fa- ther's sister's hus- band's three daugh- ters are now coming here.	Chhokree ke bhaee ke dost kee madar ke bap kee buhin ke khusum kee tern-be- tiyan ubhee yuhan atiyan huen.
--	---

Cows' milk is very use- ful, and better than buffaloes' milk, do not therefore pour the one's milk into the other's.	Ga, o ka doodh bahut kam ka hue, uor bhuen ke doodh se bihtur, is liye ek ke doodh ko doosre ke doodh men mut dalo.
---	--

With the assistance of a vocabulary, if the learner will form a few such sentences, without minding either their inelegance or even absurdity in English, he will soon overcome this bugbear, ka, ke, kee, to most beginners, and wonder, after analysing the above examples, and those of his own making, why it should hitherto have puzzled himself or any other body.

I shall repeat here, that its government is retrospective, and its concord prospective; whence chhokre kee buhin, &c. in the first instance, and chhokree ke bhace, &c. in the second; chhokra, a boy; chhokre, the infl. governed by kee, feminine, because in concord with buhin, sister, and so forth.

Let ka be supposed a final declinable adjunct, that makes every genitive a sort of adjective; thus, kam means use, kam ka, of use, that is, useful.

Singular.

Plural

N. kam ka kootta, a kam ke kootte, useful useful dog. dog.

G. kam ke kootte ka, kam ke kootte ka, of a useful dog's. useful dogs.

D. kam ke kootte ko, kam ke kootte ko, to to a useful dog. to useful dogs.

Singular.

Plural.

- A. kam ke kootte ko, kam ke kootton ka, useful dogs.
 V. kam ke kootte re, kam ke kootto, O useful dogs.
 A. kam ke kootte se, kam ke kootton se, with from a useful dog. useful dogs.

In the genitive singular, ka, ke, kee, are not fully inserted above, rather from want of room than any thing else:

A useful bitch's two kam kee koottee ke do pups, pille,
 proves, however, that every genitive must be, as already inculcated, declined ka, ke, kee, to prepare the scholar for meeting one or all of them, according to circumstances in this very case, which should at first be invariably translated by 's, in preference to of.

Our own language has many such genitive adjectives, in lieu of others, more learned at least, if not so elegant; ga, o ka doodh, cow's milk; gudhee ka doodh, asses milk, to which we do not yet prefer masciñe, or asine, whatever may be done in half a century hence in matters of this sort; ga, o ke doodh ka, ke, kee, of cows milk, or cows milk's; ga, o ke doodh men, in cow's.

ga, o ke doodh ka rung soofaeh hue, cows milk is white; ga, o ke doodh kee qeemut ka thikana aj kul koochh nuheep, there is no medium in the price of cows milk; literatim, cow's milk's price's medium to day to morrow may not be.

It is now to be hoped, that we have got fairly over this stumbling block, ka, ke, kee, which has long proved a formidable obstacle in every happy fellow's way, who merely sat down to smoke his pipe, or dose over the Hindoostance in India, instead of studying the subject with the avidity and resolution which its importance demands; as if a few whiffs of a chillum would inspire the student with grammatical knowledge, or that a sound nap over his book might enable him to find out this useful key to the language, by simply dreaming about it and the innumerable difficulties in the way of pronunciation alone, which must stare even a learned Persian in the face, the moment he turns it towards the popular speech of India.

10, 11, 12, 13, &c.

Mat jao is pille kee ma Do not go near the no-ke par deewane kee ther of this wheel

turuḥ (men subau- ditur).	like a madman, i. e. in the manner of a madman, in a mad- man's way.
------------------------------	---

Here kee governs pillā, a whelp, in the infl.; and is, this, is the pronominal adjective, also inflected by kee to agree with pille; pas, as a compound postposition, requires the inflected genitive ma ke; and turuḥ, being a feminine noun, elliptically used as a postposition in this sentence, very naturally governs the feminine genitive deewane kee.

The principles in pages 140, 144, with the ample list of postpositions in page 103, cannot fail to make the learner master of this department, provided he will revise the whole, and recollect, that those words which end in e come from nominatives in a, inflected to e, by some other invisible postposition that may easily be understood from the examples already produced.

13.

The context alone of any sentence can demonstrate the particular meaning of the postpositions in question.

- He hit with a ball.           gole se mara.
 He brought from with-   bahur se laya.
   out.
 He said to the boy:       lurke se kuha.
 Seize him by the hand.   osko hath se pukaro.

Under principle 14th, ke, with compound postpositions, is often dropt, and even they at times are omitted, leaving the ke in apparent discord with the noun following.

A king who had (no   Ek padshah jiske (yu-son) not a son. vide    han) beta nu tha.
                                   page 129.

A king whose son was   Ek padshah jiska beta not a poet.               shair nu tha.

Yuhan above, is more frequently understood than expressed; the student should, therefore, on seeing a final e, ke, or kee, for which he cannot otherwise account, presume some ellipsis or other, as in jiske beta nu tha, meaning—in whose house, family, &c. there was no heir.

Adverbials assume kā, ke, kee, on all occasions, whence,

- Kuheen ka hakim yu- The governor of some han ke hakim ke sath jaega, wuhan place will go with the ke hakim kee kha- commander of this tir kuhan ke hakim place, for the chief of ke yuhan, ub ke sal. that place's sake, to i. e. now's year, now the house of the ma- of year in. gistrate of (what do you call) yon place,
 this year.
- Bahur ka sahib aya hue A strange gentleman khubur deejio! i. e. (or one from with*without's gentleman.* out) has arrived, pass the word.

This used formerly to be the exclamation of the durwan, or porter, in India, to apprize the master or mistress of the house, that some visitor or other had arrived; but when I left that country, it was becoming less common.

21, &c.

Gender, as in the French and other tongues, is a subject of considerable difficulty, which can be overcome by constant practice and attention alone. Most words having an initial t, with a penult ce, like tusweer, a picture, tujweez, determination, are feminine. The examples, as they occur under other heads, will sufficiently illustrate that of gender, both in its formation and concord, provided the learner will only recollect that ee merely denotes the feminine of adjectives ending in u or ā: uch-chha ghora, a good horse; uchchhee ghoree, a good mare; nek murd, a good man; nek uorut, a good woman; murd uor uorut kee nekee, the man's and woman's goodness; puhar-ee kootta, or koottee, a highland dog, or bitch; jungulee bukra, or bukree, a wild goat, he or she. A retrospect to ee, as a significant particle, in pages 70, 71, &c. will obviate all future ambiguity respecting this termination, which is so common in the Hindoostanee.

24.

N. bula, evil.bula,ē, evils.G. bula ka, ke, kee, of evil.bula,ō ka, ke, kee, *of evils, &c.*D. &c. bula ko, to evil.bula,ō ko, evils.V. bula re, O evil.bula,o, O evils.

being feminine, is declined like kitab, a book.

dana, a wise man.dana, wise men.dana ka, ke, kee, a wise man's, of a wise man.

dana,ō ka, ke, kee. &amp;c.

dana ko, &amp;c.

dana,o, &amp;c.

The student must be prepared to encounter a good many nouns similar to bula and dana in the course of his reading, and the way to discriminate them as such is to note every word terminating with a-en as a nom. pl. of some feminine in a, consequently of the second declension, and indeclinable in the singular. When the postpositions do not inflect final a or u to e, or when a-on terminates any word, it also must either prove a masc. or fem. of the second declension, as an exception from the first, and should ever after be treated accordingly ; dana-on ke nuzdeek is zindugee kee bula-en khooda kee turuf barha awen ki hum sub bur wuqt bihisht ke waste kumur band hen, In the opinion of the wise, the miseries of this life often proceed from God, that we may all in time prepare for heaven.

Singular.

Plural.

raja, a prince.

raja or raje, princes.

raja, } ka, ke, kee, a or }
raje, } prince's, &c.

raja-on, } ka, ke, kee, of
 or }
rajon, } princes, &c.

25 and 26.

Singular.	Plural.
raj, a kingdom.	raj, kingdoms.
raj ka, ke, kee, a king- dom's.	rajon ka, ke, kee, of kingdoms.
gor, a grave.	goron ka, of graves,
gor ka, ke, kee, of a grave, a grave's.	also of Europeans, page 116.

N. tegh or teghu, a sword.

G. &c. tegh or teghe ka, ke, kee, of a sword, &c.

N. chushm, the eye, chushmu, a fountain.

G. chushm ka, of the eye, chushme ka, of a fountain, chushmon ka, of eyes, or fountains.

N. shoohrut or shoohru, a report.

G. shoohrut, or shoohre ka, ke, kee, of a report, &c.

N. juguh, a place.      jughen, places.

G. jugih ka, ke, kee,      jughon ka, ke, kee, *of
of a place.      places, &c.*

Like the last may be declined tuuh, manner, shoobuh, doubt, with a very few more, in all of which the singular inflexion of u to i or e is more or less perceptible. The plural cases drop the u entirely, as juguhen̄ juguhon̄ would be much more troublesome than jughen̄, &c. above.

Juguh, being feminine, is in the plural like bula in page 160, though in the singular it seems rather to be of the first declension, as jugih, jugch, something resembles the purdu, purde, of page 144; but there are too few words in uh, to assign a third declension for them only.

When shoohrut assumes t, it is feminine, but masculine as shoohru. Qubeelu, family, wife, is a regular masculine of the first declension, and ru,veyut, a subject, even with masculines is constantly feminine. Wooh murd meree ru,veyut hue, that man is my tenant, vassal, subject, &c.

---

Adjectives.

32. Adjectives are of the first and second declension, declined exactly as substantives having the same terminations; they are consequently subject to inflexion, like ka, ke, kee, and when used as nouns they can assume the plural an̄ and inflexion on̄, but not otherwise, as already explained in page 116, q. v a            a,            boy;            e,            e,            boys.

 gor-    lūrḱ-    a fair    gor-    lūrḱ-    fair
          ee            ee,            girl;    ee,            iy-aṇ, girls.

e            man's;    oṇ            men.
 gor-    ka, a fair    gor-    se, from fair
          ee            woman's;    iy-oṇ            women.
 In poetry, lūrḱiyaṇ goriyaṇ is admissible, but not goriyaṇ lūrḱiyaṇ, fair girls.

33. Ordinals require the addition of waṇ to the cardinals, whence,

waṇ-    a,            boy; weṇ-    e-            boy.
 dus-    lūrḱ-    the 10th    dus-    lūrḱ-    se, from the 10th.
          weeṇ-    ee,            girl; weeṇ-    ee-            girl.

34. The adjunct of similitude sa, se, see, soṇ, denoting like, ly, iṣh, resembles ka, as an adjective particle of infinite use in the Hindoostanee, being commonly affixed to one or other of the pronominals in their correlative series; thus, uesa, wuesa, kuesa, juesa, tuesa, all of which,
 as well as others, for which we have no room here, may be resolvable into is-sa, like this, ossa, like that, kis-sa, like what, &c.

35. When compounded with adjectives, sa alone does not require in them the inflexion, kala-sa, blackish, with nouns, or when changed to se, see, it commonly does.

sa luṛka,                      boy;    see luṛkee,    girl.
luṛke-                      a childish    luṛkee                      a girlish see luṛkee,                      girl;    sa luṛka,                      boy.

kala sa ghoṛa, a blackish horse.

kale se ghoṛe ka, ke, kee, a blackish horse's.

kale se ghoṛe, blackish horses.

kalesee ghoṛee, a blackish mare.

kalesee ghoṛee ka, ke, kee, a blackish mare's.

kalee see ghoṛiyaṇ, blackish mares.

in which the declension seems double, as in jis-tis, whosoever, and some other pronouns.

36. The comp. and super. degrees, being best formed by se, than, meṇ se, sub se, or by repeating the adjective, the reader can form these at pleasure, either in this way, woh mōjhi se bhūla hy, he is better than me; of those fair ones she is the fairest, oon goriyaṇ meṇ yih sub se goṛee hy; gorce gorce luṛkee, a very fair girl, -or by inserting more, very, &c. the boy is very fair, yih lurka buhoot gora hy, as in our own language.

lurke	lurkee	goree	girl	boy.
	se		hue, the	is fairer than the
lurkee	lurka	gora	boy	girl.

gore	gora	gora,	boy,
	se	or sub se	the fairest &c.
gorce	gorce	gorce,	girl,

are sufficient in the mean time to shew the regimen and concord here.

37. When comparison relates to an individual or one of many, ka intervenes: ungoor ka sa chhala, a blister like a single grape; ungoor sa nuya gosht, new flesh like a cluster of grapes, or the granulations of a wound. Expertness, however, in the proper use of ka and sa, on such occasions, can be gained by great practice and experience alone.

38. When Persian or Arabic comp. and sup. are used, it is generally thus,—bih, good, bihtur, better, bihtur-een, best, khosh, khosh-tur, khosh-tureen, like our own pleasant, pleaster, -est, or most pleasant, &c. fazil, doctus, ufzul, doctior, fuzul, doctissimus, and many more, are formed in a manner that will be fully detailed hereafter.

39. The cardinal numbers are declined like other nouns, with this peculiarity, that both the vocative and inflexion are often substituted for the mere nominative ; thus, teen, teeno, teenon, seem all to denote three, the three, although used adjectively and with nouns, they occur so, teenon fuqeroon se, from the three mendicants, perhaps definitely.

40. These numerals are not in fact the only words of the above description, as burson, dinon, muheeson, puhron, and such inflexions, frequently supplant the nom. pl. burus, years ; din, days ; muheene, months ; puhur, watches ; in expressions like burson goozre, years have elapsed, perhaps elliptical of burson ke din goozre, years' days have passed.

After what has been stated in this place, and in pages 114, 115, 116, &c. the declension of nouns and adjectives can hardly require any farther illustration, except to observe, that all adjectives which do not end in a, u, or nu, are, as in English, indeclinable, and that many of those even, which have these terminations, admit of no more change than our own, as the circumspective reader will soon perceive in his progress through this language.

Certain Arabic words have their feminines in u, before noticed in page 65, to which we may now add, hamil, bearing, carrying, hamilu, pregnant, fazilu, docta, from fazil of page 166, to which the learner may refer, before going any farther, since the references, in which I often indulge, are partly intended to supply that pause in a concatenation of reflection and remarks, so essential to rational minds, when employed upon any subject so interesting as the grammar of a living language.

The Persian genitive and adjective sign, i or e, has been discussed in page 68, and resembles our of, while ka is liker 's, hakim ka hookm, the judge's order; ashiq i pak for pak ashig, a chaste lover.

If nouns in ee convert it to iy, before an and on, those in oo will, on similar grounds change this to ow, as in anscowon, te's, quoted in page 132. Some exceptions in a are apt to be inflected by the illiterate; so, huwa, air, duwa, medicine, becoming improperly huwecduwe, duwon, &c. instead of duwa, duwaen, duwon, huwaen, huwaon, &c.

The Pronouns Personal, &c. are as follows.

1st Person.

Singular.	Plural.
N. muen, I.	hum, we.
G. me-ra, re, or ree, my mine, or of me.	hum-ara, are, or aree, our, our's, of us.
D. moojh ko, to me.	humon ko, to us.
A. moojh-e, me.	hum-en, us.
V.
A. moojh se, from, &amp;c. me.	humon se, from, &amp;c. us.

2d Person.

N. tuen*, thou.	toom, ye, or you.
G. te-ra, re, or ree, of thee, thy, &amp;c.	toomh-ara, are, or aree, of you, your, &amp;c.
D. toojh ko, to thee.	toomhon ko, to you.
A. toojh-e, thee.	toomh-en, you.
V. too re, O thou.	toom re, O you.
A. toojh se, from, &amp;c. thee	toomhon se, from, &amp;c. you.

---

* Too. or toon, more common, though less conciliating after muen here than tuen; as too, however, is retained in the voc. or reciprocating case with the nom. the reader can readily call on too also, whenever he pleases.

3d Person Proximate.

Singular.

Plural.

N. yih, he, she, it, this      ye, they, these.
       the.

G. is-ka, ke, or kee, of      inhon-ka, ke, or kee,
       him, her, this, his,      their, their's, of them.
       its.

D. is-ko, to him, to her,      inhon ko, to these, to
       it, or this.      them,

A. is-e, him, her, it.      inh-en, them, these.

V. yih-re, O this,      ye re, O these.

A. is-se, from, &c. him,      inhon-se, from these, from her, it, or this.      them, &c.

3d Person Remote.

N. wooh, he, &c. that.      we, they, those.

G. oos-ka, ke, kee, of      conhon-ka, ke, kee, &c.
       him, his, her, &c.      their, theirs, of those,
       them.

D. oos-ko, to him, &c.      conhon-ko, to them, to that,      those.

A. oos-e, him, that.      conh-en, them, those.

V. wooh-re, O that.      we-re, O those.

A. oos-se, from, &c.      conhon-se, from, &c. him, &c. that.      them, those.

As adjectives, yih and wooh may be seen in page 118.

The (reciprocal, reflective, or general personal and possessive) pronoun ap, upna, self, own.

Singular and Plural.

N. ap, self, I, thou, &c. he, she, &c.

G. up-na, &c. ap-ka, &c. of self, own, my, thy,
his, her, &c.

D. ap-ko, upne ko, to self, &c. me, thee, &c.

A. ap ko, upne-ko, self, me, &c.

V.

A. ap se, upne se, from, &c. self, &c.

This last pronoun is the same in both numbers, and applicable to I, we, you, he, as well as to self, selves, my own, his own, their own, &c.

41. The genitive or possessive form above, inflected so,—ra, re, ree, na, ne, nee, (as ka, ke, kee) is not only used adjectively, but personally even in preference to the others, which may in general be accounted for by the inflected or feminine genitive being required before compound, and sometimes even with simple postpositions.

D. Mere ten kuba, he told me; mere copur, by himself; tere pur, on thee; teree turuf, towards thee; ap ne upne tu een mara, he slew his self.

Never moojh ke copur, or mere-ke tu,een, &c. ra and na, being in fact anomalous substitutes for ka, ke, this seldom or never can immediately follow them as a postposition, in their pronominal capacity.

42. The dat. and acc. are used almost promiscuously in the Hindoostanee, so that the learner must not follow them too rigidly as stated in the sketch, which is done merely in compliance with our customary forms: he should moreover recollect that e and en, are postpositions peculiar to the pronouns, and occur like ko as dat. or acc. signs occasionally.

43. The on and hon, of all the pronouns, may be omitted without invalidating their plurality in the least; whence hum, toom, in, &c. are in constant use, instead of humhon, toomhon, in-hon, of the foregoing series, and kin, jin, &c. for kinhon, jinhon, of the next.

44. Ap and upna are very puzzling words; the last is much used reflectively, and even in cases where we would say my, thy, &c. only.

He speaks to himself, ap se ap bolta hy.

He fights with his self, upne se apṛta hy, which may likewise mean, he fights with his own people, family, &c.

45. The final h, after toomh, inh, &c. is very arbitrarily inserted, and by the moderns much omitted, especially in speech.

---

INTERROGATIVES.

Example 1.

Singular.	Plural.
N. kuon.	kuon, who, what, which?
G. kis-ka, -ke, or -kee.	kinhon ka, &c. whose, of whom? &amp;c.
D. kis-ko.	kinhon ko, to whom? &amp;c.
A. kis-e.	kinhen, whom? &amp;c.
V. kuon re.	kuon re, O who, what?
A. kis-se.	kinhon se, from whom?

Example 2.—which has no Plural in the Hindoostanee.

N. kya, which, what?
G. kahe ka, &c. of which? &amp;c.
. kahe kc to or for which, to what? kahe ko, which, what?
. kya re, O which, what?
A. kahe se, from which?

Relative.

Singular.	Plural.
N. juon.	juon, who, which, what.
G. jis-ka, &c.	jinhon ka, &c. whose, of which, &amp;c.
D. jis-ko.	jinhon ko, to whom, to which.
A. jis-e.	jinhon, whom, which, &amp;c
V.	.
A. jis-se.	jinhon se, from whom. from what, &amp;c.

46. The English of each of the above three Examples is the same in both numbers, and the whole are much used in a reiterated form, both in the nom. and inflexion. They also occur in the formation of many adverbials, and often assume the sa, se, see, already noticed in the preceding pages, but more fully explained among the subsequent illustrations, where they may be consulted by the intelligent s

Correlative.

Singular,

N. tuon,	that, or this.
G. tis-ka, ke, kee, of	he, she, it,
D. tis-ko, to	&c. also him,
A. tis-e,	her, his, &c.
V.	correlative-
A. tis-se, from	ly.

Plural.

tuon,	these,
tinhoŋ-ka, of	those.
tinhoŋ-ko, to	they,
tinheŋ,	them.
tinhoŋ-se, from	their,
	&c.

Pronominal Adjectives.

Example 1.

N. ko,ee,
G. kisee ka, &c. of
D. kisee ko, to
A. kisee ko,
V. ko,ee re,
A. kisee se, from

{ a, an, any one person, body, or thing.

Example 2.

koohh,	some,
kisoo ka, of	little,
kisoo ko, to	few,
kisoo ko,	persons,
kisoo-se, from	bodies, or things.

17. Kon, or ko, ke, jo, je, so, ko,oo, are still in use for kuca, &c. especially jo, so, which are in fact even more familiar than juon, tuon, and must be employed accordingly. When a noun intervenes, kuon, ko,ee, &c. are frequently un-inflected. — Toon kuon sahib ke nuokur ho?

~~what~~ gentleman's servant are you? toe ko,ee sa- hib ka noukur hue? art thou any gentleman's servant.

48. Ko,ee and koochh are often so blended with each other, both in their meaning and inflexions, that it is no easy matter to separate them by any discrimination whatever. In the plural they occasionally admit of kinhoon, kinheen, kinoo, kinee. Jo-ko,ee, whoever, and some others are doubly inflected to jiskisee, jin-kinhoon, jistis, &c.

49. The declension of all the nouns and pronouns is founded on one general principle, that every case, but the nominative, requires a postposition expressed or understood for its formation, along with the simple oblique or inflexion of the noun or pronoun which the postposition governs, when such nouns are capable of having any change whatever.

50. In our language, the pronouns alone can illustrate the general doctrine of the difference between a case and an inflexion he, he, wone; his, cos; his (contracted from hoss), oosha; I, me, me, moojh; of me, mine, maer. As we therefore cannot form the various cases of the above, without the inflexion and preposition united, neither can the Hindoostanees make their cases without observing the same rules, wherever the word is inflectible.

51. They differ from us essentially in one point only,—to me,—from me,—on me,—are common to both grammars, but the moment a compound postposition occurs, it commonly requires the inflected or feminine genitive. Near me, mere pas ; toomharee turuh, like you ; is an idiom that appears to us rather near mine, near of me, your manner, and in fact may often be so applied ; meree bat bolta hy, he is speaking of me, or repeating my words.

52. As all the pronouns are inflected in the singular, they may be placed so far under Declen. 1. and every learner who knows to which nominative the obliques mcojh, toojh, humon, toomhon, is, in, cos, con, kis, kin, jis, jin, tis, tin, kahe, kiso, kisee, kinhoon, &c. belong, after what has been said above, will be able to decline the whole series, with the aid of simple and compound postpositions, in every possible case and form.

53. The scholar cannot too often observe, that the genitive here is also a possessive or adjective pronoun, which may always be made still more obvious in the whole series, by affixing ka, as an inherent component part of almost all the pronouns, with which this declinable commodious particle can assimilate, instead of the ra, na, already discussed. Kiska, kiske, kiskee, resembles the Latin cujus, cuja, and jinhon ka, ke, kee, quorum, quarum.

54. Every such genitive, therefore, as well as all pronominal words in a, whether this termination prove innate or adventitious, may be treated as adjectives, and inflected in the same way.

55. Before we take leave of the pronouns entirely, I must observe, that muen and tuen are perhaps the only declinable words which the affix ne, mentioned in page 119, does not put in the oblique; muen ne diya, I gave; tuen ne liya, thou took.

56. All the pronouns require the ka to agree in number with them; muen upne bap ka beta hoon, or hum upne bap ke bete hucn, may both mean, I am the son of my father, notwithstanding the difference of construction. Among us, no scholar would say, you was taught, though speaking to one person. I hope the following examples, and those in page 176, will put this matter beyond all doubt in future.

Too ujub tūriḥ ka luonda hue, thou art a strange brat.

Toom zor tumashe ke lūrke ho, you are a very comical boy.

---

Illustrations.

On the personal pronouns we must recollect, that the courtesy and arrogance of the natives make the plural often apply to one person : toom kuon ho, who are you? hum sipaḥce huen, I am a soldier; uor we humare bḥaee huen, and he is my brother; hum toom jate the, you and I were going. This will prove at first rather perplexing to the scholar, but he may readily overcome the difficulty with a little attention, and should from the commencement learn to speak in the singular or plural number, with facility and ease, as he may find it his interest or duty to do so among the natives hereafter.

41.

As mere, terc, are used for mcojḥ, tcojḥ, these last are by the poets occasionally substituted for the former, in expressions like tcojḥ ishq, thy love, mcojḥ dil, my heart, but they seldom occur so in common discourse.

Mooj<sup>h</sup> natuwa<sup>n</sup> kee halut, the condition of hapless me, with the examples in page 119, clearly shows how ka, ke, kee, may follow such pronouns in the genitive, which is properly formed by ra, re, ree.

42.

Kyoon<sup>n</sup> cose bcolate ho, why do you call him?
 yih (toomhe<sup>n</sup> or) tooj<sup>he</sup> kya hue, what is this to (you, or) thee? When e en are found as pronominal postpositions, ko, &c. cannot appear, but the emphatic ee may sometimes deceive the learner, if not apprized of this, in sentences such as, isee ko maro cosee ko mut, beat this (here) one, not that (there) one; mooj<sup>hee</sup> se kuha toom ne, you told me indeed, or myself.

43.

It is probable enough, that in, on, &c. are the remains of some dual form, and inhon, conhon, &c. the real plural, though the distinction, if it ever existed in the Hindoostanee, seems now-a-days to cause little or no difference in, the application of these pronouns, unless perhaps to apply in, on, from courtesy to one person, that inhon, conhon, may more readily discriminate many, or that the addition of on rather belongs to such words in the pronominal than adjective state. Danu con ghoron ko do pur panee ubhee conhon ko mut pilao, give those horses grain, but do not yet give them water to drink,—in which, though conhon ghoron, cannot be used ; either con ko, or conhon ko, may. See page 118.

44.

Ap, self, is subject to the same rule that khod is in Persian. I will tell my friend, if you will inform your brother, that he also may apprise his acquaintance, muen upne dost se kuhoonga jo toom upne bhaee se kuhoge, ki wooh bhee upne ashna ko khubur dewe ; mun bu dosti khod khahum goft, ugur shooma bu-raduri khod ra khaheed goft ki o neez bu ashnae khod khubur bidihud. In page 118, enough will be found to elucidate the rule ; but perfection must, after all, depend more upon practice than precept.

46.

Kuon kuon, kis kis, kya kya, jis jis, jiskis, jis kisee, jistis, somewhat resemble the Latin quisquis, cujus cujus, &c.

Kuonsa, juonsa, tuonsa, ko, eesa, rather assimilate with qui libet, quivis. We kuon kuon kitaben huen? what sort of books are those? moojhe kuonsee doge? which of them will you give me? juonsee chaho tuonsee lo, whichever you choose, take the same; kis turuh cose bunaoon, how shall I make it? jis turuh ho sukr tis turuh bunao, in the way it can be done, make it in that manner. Consult pages 111, 164, &c.

47, &c.

Wooḥ dhobee jo pichhle sal humare yuhan tha so aj phir aya hue, the washerman who was with us last year, the same has returned.

As both jo and so are occasionally other parts of speech than pronouns, the student must distinguish them from the context. Jo wooḥ uesa kure so too bhee kur, if he act thus, do thou do so. Ki, from the Persian, is frequently met with, as who, which, that, or, than, when, saying, viz. and must through time be acquired by dint of practice.

54.

Kuonsa din, what day, uor kuonsee rat, and which night, toojh bin, without thee, khaḥshee se goozre, have passed with pleasure.

55.

oos lurke ne kaṭa durukht ko, that boy cut the tree; kis ne cose chhooree dee thee, who gave him a knife? osee se poochho muen ne kisee ko chhooree dete nuḥeen dekha, ask himself, I did not see any body give a knife.

56.

56.

The remarks in page 176, will render this evident enough to those who know why you requires are, were, in our language, and that my, thy, your, our, may be plural in one sense, while singular in the other, and vice versa. Mere ghore, my horses, humara ghur, our house, in which mere is plural as to horses, but singular respecting me; and humara singular as to house, but plural regarding its owners, &c.

The Verb.

57. The imperative in the second person singular, is the root or radical portion of every verb in the Hindoostanee, which must always be discovered by 58; and in general, as in our language, is also a significant, useful noun.

58. Every infinitive terminates in the inflectible particle na, nē, nee, mentioned in page 81, but here meaning to, which, like the other post-positive particles, is invariably affixed to the second person sing. of the imperative, chah-na, to love, the Hindoostanee being in this respect of position, as in some others, diametrically opposite to ours.

59. The perfect tense, including the participle, is formed by adding (masc.) a, e, (fem.) ee, een, iyaṇ, to the root of the verb, the final letter of which, if a vowel, assumes y, or is changed to iy, as explained in pages 73, 77.

60. The present tense and participle merely require the letter t, as a temporal sign, to precede the several particles enumerated as past signs in 59, and which all occur here exactly under similar circumstances: chah-ta, chah-te, chah-tee, chah-teen, chah-tiyaṇ, love, lovest.

61. The aorist, subjunctive present, or imperative, assumes for both genders, oon, e, e, singular, and en, o, en, plural, in the order of persons observed here, and, like the present of the indicative has often the auxiliary signs.

62. The future springs from the aorist by adding g, as a fut. sign prefixt to the perf. a, &c. thus ga, ge, exactly in the order of persons observed in 61, and with respect to genders, &c. as in 59.

. 63. The pluperfect participle is either expressed by the root or imperative's self, or by the various particles ke, kur, e, kurke, and kurkur, promiscuously affixed to the root, for that most useful portion of the verb.

64. The result of the foregoing principles on the verb palna, to breed, or any other, is as follows, in the scheme below, which the diligent student will carefully compare with the sketch already exhibited in page 121, that a real knowledge of both may at once enable him to master every Hindoostanee verb, the moment it falls under his discussion, either in a sentence or the vocabulary: This can instantly be accomplished, by separating the root from na, or any other of the moveable particles, like oon, e, kur, and in this manner even the auxiliary hona, to be, exist, can be regularly conjugated.

		Singular. In all the Persons. Plural.
		M. & Infl. Fem.		M. Fem.
Inf. ger. noun, &c.		-na,	ne, -nee.	-ne,	neen, niyaṇ.
Pres. tense and part.		-ta,	te, -tee.	-te,	teen, tiyaṇ.
Perf. tense and part.		-a,	e, -ee.	-e,	een, iyaṇ.
Imp. & aor. M. & F.		-oon-	e-e-	en-o-	en-
Future	{ after all the above aorist particles.	-ga,	-gee.	-ge	-geen -giyaṇ.
Pluperf. part.		-ke,	kur, e, kurke,	or	kurkur.

N. B. The inf. or gerund masc. belongs to the first, and the fem. to the second declension. The root pal is also used as a pluperfect participle.

65. As the particles above enumerated are applicable, in the very same manner, to all verbs whatever, and as the whole drop e in the second person sing. of the aorist to form the root, or rather the second person sing. of the imp. it naturally follows, that there is but one conjugation in the language.

66. By taking for granted, what may almost be proved, that kee-na, moo-na, dee-na, lec-na, are the ancient infinitives of kurna, to do; mur-na, to die; de-na, to give; le-na, to take; and also supposing that o and oo, j and g, are nearly the same interchangeable letters, we shall not find one single irregular verb in the whole Hindoostanee language.

67. Hoon, &c. affixed to participles present and past, has exactly the same power and use as our am, do, have, &c. muen hota hoon, I am existing, or do exist. He hath been, wohn hooa hue. Hooa, means is, was, or been, and occasionally appears redundant.

68. When these signs are omitted, the mere present becomes not only indefinite, but also a past tense in the subjunctive mood. Jo muen lurka hota uesa nuheen kurta, were I a boy I would not act so, or had I been a boy I would not have done so; jo muen wuhan sota kisee ko nuheen jugata, had I slept there, I would not have waked any one.

69. To express the imperfect of the auxiliary ho-na, the word tha, was, did, had, is in use, and is probably a contracted perfect of the obsolete regular verb thana, to stay, be stationed, which to this day means a station, post.

70. From the above tha, and the indefinite present or participle, comes the imperfect tense, muen hota tha, I was existing, or did (then) exist; too hooa tha, thou did exist, or had been.

71. The whole of the compounds have just now been elucidated, and the simple tenses, having formerly been adjusted in 64, they require no repetition here. The frequent substitution of one tense for another, especially the pluperfect for the perfect, will be evident enough in the Exercises.

72. In the passive voice, the perfect participle of the active verb assumes jana, to go, be, affixed through its various tenses, which may nevertheless be followed by such parts of hona, as particular tenses may still require. Hum mare gu,e the, we had been beaten; toom mare gu,e hoge, you may have been beaten.

73. The perfect participle passive, in all compound tenses, seems to require guya, but commonly drops it in those which are simple. Muen mara guya hoon, I have been beaten; muen mara ja,oonga, I shall be beaten.

74. The personal pronouns, as in Latin, are not always expressed, the termination, auxiliary or sense, generally pointing out the particular person.

75. When they do occur, it is commonly so: Muen, I; too, thou; wook, he. Yih, he, this. Hum, we; toom, you; we, they. Sye, they, these. are used only when requisite, in contra-distinction to that, those.

76. The third person is often substituted for the other two, from the Oriental practice of introducing words like slave for I, and worship, honour, gentleman, &c. for you.

77. Although the Hindoostanee verbs have often inherently potential, permissive and other properties, they nevertheless require also certain compound forms to express them, the last or subservient portion of which is generally conjugated like all other verbs.

78. These compounds are formed in five different ways, and may be conveniently termed radical, preteritive, inflective, participial, and reiterative, from the nature of their composition.

79. The radical (1.) is a very extensive class, comprehending, besides numberless adverbial infinitives, the potential and completive forms.

80. Under the preteritives, (2.) are all the passives, desideratives, requisitives, proximates, and frequentatives.

81. When the infinitive occurs in the inflected, (3.) instead of the radical form, a considerable number of inceptive, permissive, and acquisitive verbs are produced, all highly useful in the Hindec tongue.

82. The participial (4.) combinations are also very numerous, and may be sub-divided into continuative and stationary.

83. A very few come under the reiterative (5.) class, in which the subservient part has of itself little or no very obvious meaning whatever, although certainly deducible from other significant words.

84. The result of the above enumeration, systematically considered, is thus :

1. Radicals.

1. Adverbials, from their signification with us, kaṭ-dalna, to cut off ; gir-puṛna, to fall down ; kḥa-jana, to eat up.
2. Potentials, bol-sukna, to be able to speak.
3. Completives, pee-chookna, to be done drinking ; kḥa-chookna, to finish eating.

2. Preteritives.

1. Passives, mara-jana, to be beaten.
2. Desideratives, } to wish
3. Requisites, } mura-chahna, ought } to die.
4. Proximatives, } also to be about
5. Frequentatives, bola-kurna, to make a habit of speaking; jaya-kurna, to have a trick of going; pyra-kurna, to practise swimming; aya-kurna, to make a practice of coming.

3. Inflectives.

1. Inceptives, seekhne-lugna, to begin to learn; bolne-lugna, to begin to speak.
2. Permissives, jane-dena, to let, or permit to go; ane-dena, to let come.
3. Acquisitives, ane-pana, to be allowed to come; jane-pana, to be allowed to go.

4. Participials.

1. Continuatives, purhta-jana, or ruhna, to continue reading.
2. Statisticals, gate-ana, to come singing; rote-duorna, to run crying.

5. Reiteratives.

1. Subservients, bolna-chalna, to converse, &c. byahna-burna, to marry, with perhaps a few more.

85. The inflected infinitive at times supplants the radical and preteritive forms. In this way, however, mueṇ nu chul sukta, I cannot walk; mueṇ chulne sukta, I can, are very liable to confusion; and as mueṇ nuheen chulne sukta, is not a very musical sentence, the ne therefore, I think, ought always, on such occasions, to be entirely avoided.

86. The passives and participials change in both their component parts, according to the gender and number of their nominatives.—Wooḥ marce guṇee thee, she was slain; we gate aṇe the, they came singing; wooḥ roteṇ ruhce, she continued weeping.

87. The reiteratives are in fact doubly conjugated, oos se mueṇ nu kubḥoo bola nu chala, I never had any thing to say to him, resembling in this respect the pronouns in page 181.

88. Mueṇ kuh chooka, I have already said; uesa mut bola kuro upne nuokur se, do not make a habit of speaking so to your servant; jo mueṇ ane paṇoon toomhare yihan, to toom ko janē deṇoon upne yihan, if I be allowed to come to your house I will permit you to go to mine, with a few such, are well calculated to elucidate this department now. In the Exercises they will again appear, but on the whole are so essential for immediate colloquial purposes, that the learner ought to lose no time in acquiring this most useful part of the language.

89. The power which transitives have of prefixing ne is lost the moment they are compounded with any neuter verb. Mueṇ ne kḥana kḥaya, I have eat my dinner ; mueṇ kḥachooka, I have done eating.

90. Bolna, to speak ; lana, to bring ; chookna, to miss, end, &c. ; luṇa, to fight, and a few others, though apparently transitives, nevertheless do not admit ne ; tueṇ ne kuha, thou said ; lueṇ bola, thou spoke ; toom ne liya, you took ; we lae ṭhe, they had brought.

91. The addition of negatives in the Hindoostanee is so very easy, that a few examples only can be requisite to illustrate the mode completely ; nu is common to all the modes, but peculiar to the imp. and nuheen to the rest ; toom jante nuheen ? don't you know ? mueṇ nu janta ṭha, I did not know ; mut poochḥo, don't ask ; nu janiyo, don't suppose.

92. The learner must be careful not to confound emphatic interrogatives and affirmatives with negative expressions ; mueṇ ne bḥeja hue, I have sent ; tueṇ ne bḥeja, thou hast sent ; mueṇ nu- heen bola hoon, I have not spoken; toom nuheen lae ho, you have not brought.

93. Hindoostanee syntax and construction will appear so easy and simple in the Dialogues or Exercises hereafter presented to the scholar, as to preclude the necessity of all further observation, in a short introduction of this kind. Persons versed in the analysis of a sentence in any language, can be at no loss, after a few trials, with the examples which may occur here; and such as really wish to become masters of the Hindoostanee, need not limit their enquiries to these pages, as long as my other works are in print.

94. The composition and derivation of words is equally obvious and attainable, after recollecting the contents of pages 65, &c. with the few particulars inserted below, for the use of mere beginners.

95. When the infinitive is thus met with—chah-na, to love, phir-na, to turn, khel-na, to play, dur-na, to fear, little penetration can be wanted to discover the noun, as in our own tongue, 57. Should the root end in n, the scholar must recollect not to confound the infin. and perfect together, which he will at first be apt to do in ginna, to count; sonna, to hear;

jāhna, to know, and some others, as their perfects are gina, soona, jana.

96. Sometimes the inf. and noun are the same, as kḥana, to eat, also food. In the fem. this occasionally denotes the instrument, as kutur-nee, a pair of scissors, from kutur-na, to clip. The perfect, or participle, is also the noun, as chooma, a kiss, kuha, order, advice, mara, or mara hooa, a victim, &c. from choom-na, to kiss, kuhna, to tell, marna, to beat, kill. This also as a fem. is a noun like bolec, speech. The present part. likewise is a noun in both genders, as kḥata, a waste book, receiver or granary, from kḥana, to suffer, admit, &c. bustee, a village, from busna, to dwell, inhabit; gintee, a muster, reckoning, from ginna, to count, &c.

97. Adjectives require kurna to become active compound verbs; with hona they are neuter, kḥura, erect, kḥura-k. to raise, kḥura-h. to rise, gurm, hot, gurm-k. to heat actively, gurm-h. to heat, or grow warm. Nouns are also used in a similar manner with kurna, to make, kḥana, to eat, suffer, receive, dena, to give, pana, milua, to get, rukḥna, to place, bandḥna, to tie, ana, to come, in such combinations as fikr-k. to think, galec-d. to abuse, galec-kḥana, to be abused, nuzur-ana, to appear, or come in sight.

98. In some instances the auxiliaries in 97 are preferred to the regular passive form, whence mar-khana, to get a beating; or marajana, to be beaten, have often the same meaning.

99. The neuters and actives are in general so well distinguished in this language, from each other, that the learner can seldom confound them, as in our tongue, together. The transitive forms generally spring from the neuter or intransitive by assuming a before na, or by prolonging the short vowel of the neuter, in the active infinitive. For the causals wa commonly suffices before na; julna, julana, julwana, to burn, to cause burn; kḥoolna, kḥolna, kḥoolwana, to open, cause open, &c.

100. The scholar should always recollect, that in this way he may discover a number of very useful verbs by a slight attention to the connection between one and the other form: chulna, to go, chulana, to drive; soonna, to hear, soonana, to tell; buchna, to escape, buchana, to save; seekḥna, to learn, sikḥana, to teach; mur-na, to die, marna, to kill; bḥoolna, to forget, bḥoolana, to mislead, are a convincing proof of the truth of my remarks and assertions, which, as the scholar proceeds in his career, he will find more and more worthy of his assiduous observation.

101. From the foregoing hints the learner may almost at pleasure furnish his self with many verbs apparently not inserted in this work, agreeably to the same principles in his own tongue, evident in the examples—to make haste, to take care, to give vent, to tie fast, to get a beating,—but for ample information on this portion of the Hindoostanee, he must attend to the Exercises and Vocabulary, and in the mean time recollect that the above auxiliaries will there be contracted to k. kḥ. h. d. p. m. a. r. &c.

A summary of the whole verbal principles will now be conspicuous enough in the following table, which comprises the form of every intransitive and transitive verb in the language, with the entire passive voice of every active verb, comprehended in one conjugation, from which there is hardly a single exception or irregular in the Hindoostanee.

		Imp. bol, speak . Inf. and Ger. bol-na, to speak .
		Present.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bolte	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bolta	hoon, } hue, } hue, } hue, }
		I, thou, he, &c. speak, do speak, or am speaking.
		Perf. Ind. and Def.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bole	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bola	hoon, } hue, } hue, } hue, }
		I, &c. spoke, or have spoken, &c.
		Imperfect.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bolte	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bolta tha,
		I, &c. did speak, or was speaking, &c.
		Pluperfect.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bol- suke,	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bola tha, bole the,
		I, &c. had spoken, did speak, or spoke.
		Aorist, Imp. and Future.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bol- chookenga, chookega, chookega, chookenge, chookoge, chookenge,	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	boloon, bole bole bolen bolo bolen	-ga, -ge,
		I, &c. speak, may, can, shall , or will speak, may I speak, let me speak, speak thou, let us speak, speak you, &c. &c.
		Future-Completive.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	chookenga, chookega, chookega, chookenge, chookoge, chookenge,	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	chookenga, chookega, chookega, chookenge, chookoge, chookenge,
		I shall have spoken, thou, &c. shalt have spoken, &c.
		Dubious.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bolte	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bola	hoongga, hogga, hogga, hogga,
		I, &c. may be speak- ing, &c.
		Conditional and Potential.
muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bolte,	muen } too } wooh } hum } toom } we }	bolta,
		Had I spoken, I would have spoken, or I, thou, &c. might have spoken, were I, &c. speaking, &c.

* The present and perfect participles, strictly speaking, are discriminated by hoo-a affixed; this however is so often omitted as to confound the two parts of the verb together, but the context commonly prevents misconception. Hoo-a (for ho-a) the perfect of ho-na, to be, has been already noticed, and accounted for in 66, 67, &c.

When the verb is transitive, all the perfect tenses will often remain wholly uninflected, while their pronouns, on the contrary, will be thrown by ne into the inflexion, as far as they can, thus :

muen	}	ne mara hue,	}	ne mara hoga,	}	ne mara tha,	}	I, thou, he, &c. beat, or have beaten.	}	I, thou, he, &c. may have beaten.	}	I, he, &c. had beaten, did beat, or simply beat.
too
oos hum toom
oon

The pluperfect participle bol-kur, bol-ke, &c. having spoken, has appeared in detail, and merits every attention from the learner, not only as the participle which joins two or more members of a sentence, by suspending the meaning, till it closes, but also as a convenient adverbial form of the greatest use in the language, in such expressions,—salib ke yihan jakur, humara sulam kuhke ooskee topee mang-ke, ose lekur phir a.o. having gone to the gentleman's, given my compliments, and having borrowed his hat, return with it here. Whatever you do, act deliberately, jo koochh ki toom kuro

so soch-ke kuro, from sochna, to think ; duor-ke ja-o, go quickly, i. e. having run.

The future of the infinitive and participle generally occurs so, bola-chahna, to be about to speak, bolne-pur, bolne-wala, about to speak, but such combinations can give little or no trouble to any scholar, who has really studied the foregoing principles. The scholar cannot well forget that a for the fem. sing. becomes ee, and that ee in the fem. plural must be een or iyañ, as exhibited in 59; he must moreover recollect, that e of the 2d person imperative singular is always dropt in that mood; whence, bol too, speak thou; ugur too bole, if thou speak.

No transitive verb can now be difficult in the active, we shall therefore here exhibit the passive, from which the learner will also acquire the verb jana, to go, or to be, as the auxiliary with hona, in this voice.

[illegible]

The w may be omitted or inserted at pleasure in all verbs whose root ends in a vowel. They even occasionally drop the e and o also, whence ho, o, howe, ho, e, ho; howeṇ, hoṇ, hoṇ, are all used promiscuously, and consequently ho, oon, hoon, ho, oonga, hoonga, howega, ho, ega, hoga, in the future. This tense in the auxiliary is often pronounced huesa, huenga, (with rather a present than future meaning) being formed by affixing ga, ge, to the present of hona, exactly as the future is upon the aorist in the above table. We may now reconcile do, lo, bo, and doon, loon, with de, o, le, o, bo, o, de, oonga, le, oonga, and all contractions of this kind, from verbs like dena, lena, bona, hona, &c. On similar principles the short vowel u, in many infinitives, is omitted in other parts of the verb, whence sumjha, nikla, &c. in the perf. sumjhoonga, nikloonga, in the future, (never sumujha, &c.) from sumujhna, to understand, nikulna, to issue; but on this theme the reflecting student will look attentively back to the significant particles at the beginning of this Work, whence he will learn how to reconcile and account for every trifling literal deviation that can present itself, in any portion of the Hindoostanee.

Cardinals.

1 Ek	26 Chhubees
2 Do	27 Sutaees
3 Teen	28 Uṭhaees
4 Char	29 cantees
5 Panch	30 Tees
6 Chhu	31 Ektees
7 Sat	32 Butees
8 Aṭh	33 Tetees
9 Nuo	34 Chuotees
10 Dus	35 Puentees
11 Egaruh	36 Chhutees
12 Baruh	37 Suentees
13 Teruh	38 Uṭhteas
14 Chuoduh	39 cantalees
15 Pundruh	40 Chalees
16 Soluh	41 Ektalees
17 Sutruh	42 Bealees
18 Uṭharuh	43 Tetalees
19 connees	44 Chuoalees
20 Bees	45 Puentalées
21 Ekees	46 Chhealees
22 Baees	47 Suentalees
23 Teees	48 Uṭhtalees
24 Chuobeas	49 conchas
25 Puchees	50 Puchas

51 Ekawun	76 Cḥhihuttur
52 Bawun	77 Suṭhuttur
53 Tirpun	78 Ụtḥhuttur
54 Chuowun	79 ɔnasee
55 Puchpun	80 Ussee
56 Cḥhuppun	81 Ekasee
57 Sutawun	82 Be,asee
58 Ụtḥhawun	83 Tirasee
59 ɔnsuṭh	84 Chuorasee
60 Saṭh	85 Puchasee
61 Eksuṭh	86 Cḥhe,asee
62 Basuṭh	87 Sutasee
63 Tirsuṭh	88 Ụtḥhasee
64 Chuosuṭh	89 Nuo,asee
65 Puensuṭh	90 Nuwwe
66 Cḥhe,asuṭh	91 Ekanwe
67 Sutsuṭh	92 Banwe
68 Ụtḥhsuṭh	93 Tiranwe
69 ɔnhuttur	94 Chuoranwe
70 Suttur	95 Puchanwe
71 Ekhuttur	96 Cḥhe,anwe
72 Buhuttur	97 Sutanwe
73 Tihuttur	98 Ụtḥhanwe
74 Chuohuttur	99 Ninnanwe
75 Pucḥhuttur	100 Suo.

As several of the foregoing are pronounced differently, I shall here insert such, in order to prevent any misconception, in this place:—

Chhe, - - - - 6	Chhachhut, - - 66
Tuentees, - - 33	Ursuth, - - - 88
Chuontees, - - 34	Birasee, - - - 82
Urtees, - - - 38	Ekanuwwe, - - 91
conchalees, - - 39	Biranuwwe, - - 92
Tuëntalecs, - - 43	Tiranuwwe, - 93
Urtalees, - - - 48	and so forth:
Tripun, - - - 53	also Nubbe, &c. 90
Puchawun, - - 55	Sue, - - - 100
Tresuth, - - - 63

Ordinals.

1st Puehla.	6th Chhut-wan.
2d Doosra.	7th Sat-wan.
3d Teesra.	8th Ath-wan.
4th Chuotha.	9th Nuo-wan.
5th Panch-wan.	10th Dus-wan, &c.

Collectives.

Gunda,	four.	Suckra,	a hundred.
Gahee,	five.	Huzar,	a thousand.
Besee,	a score.	Lakh,	a hundred thousand.
Chaleesa,	forty.	Kuror,	ten million.

N. B. The whole series of numbers, from ten to ninety, may be rendered very simple indeed in this way, dus o ek, bees o do, tees o teen, chalees o char, teen beese, char beese, &c.; but dus ek, bees ek, rather mean about 10 (9 or 11) or 20 (19 or 21) as an elliptical mode of expressing—dus, ek kum ya zee,ad, ten, one more or less.

Fractionals.

The following fractionals are so intricate, that practice only can make them agreeable :

Tiha,ee	$\frac{1}{3}$	Sarhe teen	$3\frac{1}{3}$
Pa,o, chuoṭh, or } chuoṭha,ee }	$\frac{1}{4}$	Puone char	$3\frac{3}{4}$
		Suwa char	$4\frac{1}{4}$
Adha	$\frac{1}{2}$	Sarhe char	$4\frac{1}{2}$
Do tiha,ee	$\frac{2}{3}$	Puone panch	$4\frac{1}{3}$
Puwun, puona, } or teen pa,o }	$\frac{3}{4}$	Suwa panch	$5\frac{1}{4}$
		Sarhe panch	$5\frac{1}{2}$
Suwa	$1\frac{1}{4}$	Puone chḥu	$5\frac{3}{4}$
Derh	$1\frac{1}{2}$	Suwa chḥu	$6\frac{1}{2}$
Puone do	$1\frac{1}{2}$	Sarhe chḥu	$6\frac{1}{2}$
Suwa do	$2\frac{1}{4}$	Puone sat	$6\frac{3}{4}$
Urha,ee	$2\frac{1}{2}$	Suwa bees	$20\frac{1}{4}$
Puone teen	$2\frac{1}{4}$	Sarhe tees	$30\frac{1}{4}$
Suwa teen	$3\frac{1}{4}$	Puone puchas	$49\frac{3}{4}$

	DAYS.		207
Suwa suo	125	Sarhe nuo suo	950
Derh suo	150	Suwa huzar	1250
Puone do suo	175	Derh huzar	1500
Suwa do suo	225	Puone do huzar	1750
Urha,ee suo	250	Suwa do huzar	2250
Puone teen suo	275	Urha,ee huzar	2500
Suwa teen suo	325	Sarhe teen hu-
Sarhe teen suo	350	zar, &c.	3500
Sarhe sat suo	750

Days of the Week.

Hindoostanee.	Hinduwee.	English.
Etwar *	Rubee-bar	Sunday
Som-war, or Peer	Som-bar	Monday
Mungul	Mungulbar	Tuesday

---

* The Moosulman's Etwar, or Sunday, commences with what we, as well as the Hindoos, call Saturday night, Suneechur kee rat, and so on throughout the week. As this confusion of time may be productive of mischief, in cases of evidence for capital offences, the reader will not, I trust, be displeased with the present digression. Suppose a Moosulman were on his trial for murdering a Hindoo on Tuesday night, Mungul kee rat, in our, and the Hindoos sense of the word, all the witnesses, if Moosulmans, and aware of the above circumstance, could Hindoostanee.	Hinduwee.	English.

Boodh	Boodhbar	Wednesday
Joomerat, or Biphe	Brihsputbar, or Lukheebbar	Thursday
Jooma	Sookrbar	Friday
Suneechur, or Bar	Suneebbar	Saturday

---

save the criminal though guilty, by swearing positively to his being far from the spot on Mungul kee rat; because this, in their way of reckoning time, coincides with what we, and the Hindoos, call Somwar kee rat, Monday night; while our Mungul kee rat, on the other hand, is in fact named Boodh kee rat, by the followers of Moohummud, though we and the Hindoos would certainly call this Wednesday night of theirs, our Tuesday night, and vice versa. Now, in such a case, an alibi might be clearly established by the evidences upon oath, and that too without being guilty of perjury, as they are here supposed to know that their different depositions will be taken down, and translated verbatim as they make them, viz. Mungul kee rat, which we would interpret as Tuesday night, and the alibi set up on this foundation, clears the prisoner, while it screens the witnesses also, because they may safely say, we swore to his being absent from the spot where the murder was committed, on Tuesday

N. B. Dīn, is a day, aj, this or to-day, aj rat, this night. But war or bar only occurs in composition, unless we admit mas ka bar, the last day of the month, as an exception; but I question night it is true, according to your ideas of the matter, yet we undoubtedly meant no more by doing so, than that on our Monday night, the culprit was many miles distant from the place the crime was perpetrated at, upon your and the Hindoos Tuesday night. If this proposition can be reversed, so as to affect the life of an innocent man, I tremble at the very idea of it, and shall feel truly happy indeed, if the present extended digression put people in future more on their guard, in all matters depending upon time; particularly my military readers, who may yet be employed on the most important services, whose success must often depend on the accuracy of the instructions, given in Hindoostanee, to an inferior native officer. In night attacks, ambuscades, signals, sallies, &c. to be concerted some days previous to their execution, between a Moosulman and a British officer, if the latter has ordered the former to carry a particular operation into effect on Mun-gul kee rat, as Tuesday night, his expectations will evidently be anticipated one whole day, as the Moosulman, according to his notion of time, will in this case do the duty required upon Mon-

---

if this be good Hindoostanee, although much used by all our domestics in Bungala, either for the last or first day of the month, as these may be connected with muster or pay day.

Lunar Time.

Moḥurruṃ	Rujub
ṣufur	Shuḡban
1. Rubeeu-ool uwwul	Rumuzan
2. Rubeeu { <sup>ool ṣanee</sup> ool akhir	Shuwwal
1. Jumad-ool uwwul	ẓilqad, or ẓeeqadu
2. Jumad- { <sup>-ool ṣanee</sup> ool akhir	ẓilhij, or ẓeehijju

Hindoo and English Months.

Chuet, commences from the } March.
11th to 13th,

Buesakh, April.

Jeth, May.

Usarh, June.

Sawun, or Srawun, July.

day night. To point out the possible fatal tendency of such a blunder, on particular occasions, is a task that I shall leave entirely to the reader's own imagination, being much easier conceived than described, in its fullest extent.

Bhadon,	August.
Koonar, or Asin,	September.
Katik, or Kartik,	October.
Ughun,	November.
Poos, or Poh,	December.
Magh, or Mah,	January.
Phagoon, or Phalgun,	February.

Money Table.

Dam, Uddhee, Dumree, Chhedam, Udheela,
 $1\frac{1}{2} =$     1 and 2 =    1 and 2 =    1 and 2 =    1 and 2 =

Puesa, Tuka,* Ana, Pa,olce or Sookee, Udhelee,
 1 and 2 =    1 and 2 =    1 and 4 =    1 and 2 =    1 and 2 =

Roopiyu, Moohur or Ushrufee.

1 and 16 =    = onc.

This however varies much in its value, and the extremes may probably be 18 and 14 roo-

* Or pukka puesa, a double puesa, the other being named kucha, or single. The Bungalcees call roopiyu, tuka; and the one-fourth sookee, sekce; the final ee is frequently changed to a, in such words, without affecting their meaning, whence sooka, seeka, pa,ola, &c. though udhela, and udhelee, as may be seen above, are very different things. The Chhedam is moreover termed dookra; but, after all, except pees to the moohur, according to its intrinsic worth in gold, or the caprices of the money-changers at the time, as they frequently extort whatever they please in this way, from all other classes of people. As very satisfactory lists, and most useful tables of weights and measures, are now inserted in the several Registers published in the East Indies, it would be absurd in me to reprint them. I shall therefore refer all sojourners, for every information of this sort, to the most accurate Works, which are procureable at the printing-offices of the several Presidencies in British India.

---

with the puesa, ana, roopiyu, and moohur, the stranger will not at first have much business or connection. As he prolongs his stay or extends his enquiries, he will learn what kuorees and puns also are.

---

---

DIALOGUES.*

EK padshah tha jiske      THERE was a king (yuhāṇ) ek betēe      who had a daughter, thee, pur ko,ee beṭa      but he had not a son.
 nu tha.

Is bazar ka dustoor kya      What is the custom of hue?      this market?

Yih wōoh-ee hue.      This is the (he or) man.

---

* The student must refer to the large Collection of Dialogues just published, for that extensive variety which cannot be expected in a small Work of this kind.

The words dustoor, bazar, begum, ṣoorut, surdar, Moosulman, Moonshee, feel, mooftee, Hindoo, being frequently written correctly at once by most people, so far establishes the general propriety of my system of Hindee-Roman orthography. On this occasion let me caution the scholar not to allow any Moonshee to insist, that particular examples are never used among them, until he can speak Hindoostanee well enough to convince all such wiseacres of their total inability to comprehend the nature and

Ko,ce dum men phire- He will return in a
ga. breath.

Ul ghurz yih hue, ki The short of it is this, muen kul ja,ooinga. that I will go tomorrow.

Wuhan sub hee hue. The whole are there.

Muen tojhh se kam I will take the business loonga uor cose from thee and give doonga. it to him.

tendency of what is asserted here, without being sufficiently versed in both languages. As no native can patiently submit to too and tojhh, all of them have an interest in crushing expressions similar to that in the text, without having penetration enough to perceive, that in cases of displeasure, endearment, familiarity, and adoration, these are perfectly just. They cannot even comprehend the introduction of a single member of a sentence to illustrate a rule, and therefore often observe, Who will return? What man is to go? Why will he go? We never speak so. This cannot be right—after instances which may be produced by the scholar in the course of his reading. The learner gets perplexed, the Moonshee persists in a speech, of which the other cannot comprehend one-third, the dispute naturally ends in mutual chagrin, if not abuse, without the smallest advantage to either party.

- Wooḥ kuon hue?      Who is he?
- Ap (or ṣaḥib) ke ba-      The brother of your wurchee ka bḥaee.      worship's cook.
- Ṣaees ke pas jakur,      Go to the groom, put yih danu coṣ' ke age      this grain before him, rukḥkur, dekḥo ki      and see that he gives wooḥ ghore ko kḥi-      it to the horse.
lata hue.
- Mucṇelchee hokurisee      I have come on the part surkar meṇ ayaḥoon      of the king as ampadshah kee turuf      bassador to this go-
se.      vernment.
- Ye kuonse janwur      What sort of animals
huen?      are these?
- Moorghabec huen.      They are wild ducks.
- Ketne ko mere kha-      For what will you sell wind ke hath* be-      them to my master?
choge.
- Toomharee danist meṇ      In your opinion is the is ghur ka pcechḥa      rear of this house

---

* Were ko here used instead of ke hath, the meaning would be perverted to—For how much will you sell my master as a slave? A learner once in my presence asked a Moonshee about a book, and concluded with saying, will you sell it to me? in these words: Hum ko (for humare age se khooshnoma

hue?

handsomer than the front?

Hurgiz, bur uks mere khiyal men iska aga peeche se buhoot soothra hue.

By no means, on the contrary, I conceive the front is much more elegant than the rear.

Bat yoon ho to ho wu-zeer ke nuokuron age, pur bukshee
ke chakuron ke nuz-deek koochh uor hue.

The matter may be so among the minister's servants, but it is otherwise with the general's domestics.

Kuhan raja ka beta uor kuhan yih shoohru.

What connection is there between the prince's son and this report?*

Raje ke bete uor is shoohre men yih luga, o hue.

There is this connection between the prince's son and this report.

hath) bechoge? Will you sell me? The man very respectfully replied, muqdoor kya, ap mera ghoolam nuheen, how can I do so, your honour is not my slave?

* Lit. where is the prince's son, and where this report?

Khansaman ke yuhan      The steward has not a aj ke bazar ke khurch      single penny about ko ek puesa bhee nu-      him for to-day's marheen, suoda kuhan      ket expences, how se lawega, uor mere      will he bring proviyuhan jo such pooch-      sions, and in fact I ho ek phootee kuo-      have not even a bad ree bhee nuheen.      farthing.

Jub ki murdon ke yu-      If men have their male han bawurchee, khid-      cooks, men servants mutgar uor khuwas      and pages to serve onkee khidmut pur      them, women surely ruhen chahiye ki uo-      ought to have their rutan ke yuhan bhee      cook maids, waiting bawurchin, khidmut-      maids, and damsels garin o suheliyan,      to attend them.
 bhee ruhen.

Yih kuhne men kis      In what manner is it soorut se awe hue?      expressed?

Kya hooa or hue?      What is the matter?

Toomhara iradu kya?      What do you mean?

Kuon shor kurta hue?      Who makes a noise?

Toom kya kuhte ho?      What do you say?

Boola o cose.      Call him.

Toomharee kya sulah      What is your advice?
 hue?

Yih sub se bihtur hoga.	This will be better than all.
Ekhee hue.	It is the same thing.
Koochh furq nuheen.	There is no difference.
Toom buhoot ahiste (or dubee awaz se) bolte ho.	You speak very low.
Toom Ungrezee bol sukte ho?	Can you speak Eng- lish?
Sulees Hindoostanee to kuho.	Speak easy Hindoosta- nee.
Wooh phir kuho.	Speak that again.
Toom buhoot juldee bolte.	You speak too quick.
Muen nuheen sumujh- ta hoon.	I do not understand.
Kuho to wooh kya kuh- ta hue.	Tell me what he says.
Bhooliyo mut.	Do not forget.
Kuhan se aye ho?	Whence came you?
Idhur a.o.	Come hither.
Pas (or nuzdeek) a.o.	Come near.
Chule ja.o. Rookhjut.	Go away.
Aj kee kya khubur? lit. day's what news?	Is there any news to- day?
Toom kuese ho or khue- rafiyut?	How do you do?

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| Toomharee oomr kya ?  | What is you age?  |
| Moojhe uor durkar nu-heen. i. e. me to morenecessary not. | I do not want more.   |
| Uor nuheen chahiye.   | More is not required.   |
| Kuho sa,ees se ki ghoratueyar kure.   | Tell the groom to getthe horse ready.                         |
| Chabook uor gol topeedo.  | Give me the whip andround hat.                                |
| Palkee merc pas bhejo.  | Send the palkee to me.  |
| Upna kam jo bilitur nukuro to muen toom-hen juwab doonga.               | If you don't do yourbusiness better, Iwill turn you away. |
| La, o hazree.   | Bring breakfast.  |
| Misrec do.  | Give me the sugar-candy.                                      |
| Koochh uor doodh tola, o.   | Bring some more milk.   |
| Muen ubhee bahurjaya chahta hoon.   | I want to go out di-rectly.                                   |
| Khane ko kya hue ?  | What is there for din-ner?                                    |
| Hath dhone ka paneela, o.   | Bring water to washmy hands.                                  |
| Soono ek na, o hum kodurkar hue Kulkutetuk jan : ko.                    | I want a boat to go toCalcutta.                               |

Is ka bhara keta hue? What is the fare of it?

Toom kubtuk chul su- When can you go?

koge?

Hum ubhee jaenge. We will go immediately.

Juld na,o echan la,o. Bring the boat here quickly.

Is wuqt juwar hue? Is the tide in now?

Nuheen sahib bhattha hue. No, Sir, it is out, or ebb.

Hum ko kinare pur Put me on shore.
otaro.

Idhur ko chulo. cod- Go this way. Turn that hur ko phiro. way.

Kya hue os bustee ka What is the name of nam? that place?

Wuhan kuon ruhta Who stays there?
hue?

Wuhan koochh khane Can we get any thing
peene kee cheez mil- to eat or drink there?
tee hue?

Uch-chha, wuhan na,o Well, take the boat le chulo ou luga,o. there and put to.

Dekho na,o isee juguh Keep the boat here, and rukho, our toom sub remain all at hand, hazir ruho, hum ub- as we shall return hee phir ate huen. immediately.

- Chulo na,o juldee k̥holo. Come, let us set off quickly.
- Maro dand, zor se ʈano, soostee mut kuro. Row fast, pull away, don't be lazy.
- Koochh k̥hura kuro
dhoop kee aṛ ke waste. Put up something to shelter us from the sun.
- Kue ghur̥ce din churha hue? or What o'clock is it?
- Kue ghur̥ce din hue? Bring a chair quickly.
- Palkee juldeemunga,o. Get porters, and send my baggage along with me.
- Mooṭhiyon ko boola,o,
our humare sat̥hee
sat̥h humaree cheezbust b̥hejwa do.
- Toom ṣahib kuhaṇ co-troge? Where do you mean to go Sir?
- Subse uch-ch̥he punch-wale ke ghur hum
ko ek bargee le pu-hoonchawen. Let them carry me at once to the best tavern.
- Chulo hum ko puhooncha,o D— ṣahib ke
yuhā. Come take me to Mr D—'s.
- Wooḥ kuon hue?--toom kuon ho? Who is that? who are you?
- Ko,ce hu.? Is any body there?

Kyoon top (bujee, chhotee, or) dughee?	Has the gun fired?
Haan sahib.	Yes, Sir.
Khidmutgar ja o hath moonh dhone ka pane la o.	Boy, go bring water to wash with.
Miswak munjun de.	Hand me the tooth-brush and powder.
Dekh keta din churha hue.	See what o'clock it is.
Khodawund ghuree teen ek aya hue.	Your honour! three bells or so.
Kuhar, ek jora kupra la o.	Bearer, bring me a suit of clothes.
Koortee our topee ko jhara.	Brush my coat and hat.
Bal buna o.	Dress my hair.
Moze kanton sumet humen do.	Give me my boots and spurs.
Ghore pur zeen band-hee hue ki nuheen?	Is the horse saddled or not?
Garee tueyar kura o.	Get the carriage, coach, &c. ready.
Nu nu munu kuro.	No, countermand it.
Suwaree ke ghore ko hazir kuro.	Order the saddle horse.

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| Humare sath toomhenjana hoga.   | You must go alongwith me.   |
| Ubtuk sahib ootaha hue?   | Is your master up yet?  |
| Hañ sahib pur kuheenbahur guya hue.   | Yes Sir, but is gone outsomewhere.  |
| Toom ko koochh muu-loom hue ki kuhanguya ?  | Do you know where heis gone to?   |
| Moojhe muuloom nu-heen.   | I don't know.   |
| Hazrec tueyar hue?  | Is breakfast ready?   |
| Hañ sahib ub kurtahoon.   | Yes, Sir, I am nowmaking it.  |
| Khoob khuolta paneela.o.  | Bring the water boilinghot.   |
| Cha buna.o.   | Make the tea.   |
| Humen do ek piyalu,doodh, misree, ekunda, mukhun, ro-ice, chumcha, moo-lee, halim, moorub-bu. | Give me a cup, milk,sugar, an egg, but-ter, bread, a spoon,raddish, cresses, jam. |
| Ek palkee (ya bocha)our kuhar zuroorhue.  | I want a palkee, (ora chair) and bearers.   |
| Ek din ka bhara kyahue?   | What is the fare perday?  |

Seedha age chule ja,o.	Go straight forwards.
Duehne phiro.	Turn to the right.
Daen (hath) phiro.	Turn to the left (hand.)
Juldee chulo.	Go fast.
Ahiste zuru chulo.	Go a little slower.
Wuhan ja,o,—burhke ja,o,—khuṛe ruho.	Go there,—go on— stop.
Eehan ruho jub tuk ki hum phir awen.	Stop here till I return.
Isee dum hum * phir awenge.	I will be back immediately.
Agedourke ja,o khubur le ki—ṣahib ghur men hue ki nuheen.	Run on before, and en- quire if Mr — be at home or not.
Ruho, ruho, palkee neechhe rukh do.	Stop, stop, put the chair down.
Toomhara ṣahib ghur men hue?	Is your master at home?
Palkee ootḥa,o our chu- lo ghur ko.	Take up the chair and go home.
Is guṭhree ko le chulo ghur.	Carry this bundle home.
Palkee men se ye chee- zen coṭha lo.	Hand these things out of the bag
Hum, khana khaenge —ṣahib keyuhan,	I, dine ' Mi — —'s, ' you must go there

* This hum can only be defended on the plea, that as the natives, in this respect, (hum us, we must in return hum them.

- |                            |                         |
|----------------------------|-------------------------|
| toomhen sipuhree ko        | in the afternoon.       |
| wuhan jana hoga.           |                         |
| A, o moze ootaro.          | Come take off my boots. |
| Koochh shurab pance        | Bring some wine and     |
| la, o.                     | water.                  |
| Pance khoob thundha        | Cool the water well.    |
| kuro.                      |                         |
| Jo khana tueyar hue, to    | Bring dinner, if ready. |
| la, o.                     |                         |
| Khana mez pur aya.         | Dinner is on the table. |
| Thorre rotee la, o.        | Bring some bread.       |
| Saf chhooree kanta do.     | Give me a clean knife   |
|                            | and fork.               |
| Humen do numuk, ra-        | Give me salt, mustard,  |
| ee, mirch, achar, sir-     | pepper, pickles, vi-    |
| ka, shurab, pance,         | negar, wine, water,     |
| gosht, saf basun.          | meat, a clean plate.    |
| Burtun oottha leja, o.     | Take away the things.   |
| Jhilmil oottha, o.         | Open the venetians.     |
| Duwat, qulum, kaghuz       | Bring pen, ink, and pa- |
| la, o.                     | per.                    |
| Yih khuṭ — sahib           | Carry this letter to Mr |
| ke pas leja, o, uor ju-    | ——'s, and wait for      |
| wab ke liye buche          | an answer.              |
| ruho.                      |                         |
| Is chithee ko leja, o. Be- | Take this one to Mrs    |
| bee — ke yihan,            | ——'s, and if she be     |

jo batur gucen ho, to oske durban ke hath de a.o.	out, deliver it to the porter.
Wooh gora kuon hue.	What European is that?
Wooh kiska ghora?	Whose horse is that?
Yih kiska ghur hue?	Whose house is this?
Palkee ka hookm de.	Order the chair.
Hum ko dak ke ghur men puhconcha.o.	Take me to the post- office.
Bunarus tuk dak ka muhsool keta?	How much is the post- age to Bunarus?
Jub dak wala yuhan awe tuo poochho ki humare waste koee khu hue ki nuheen.	When the postman comes, enquire if he have any letters for me or not.
Humara nam toom jan- te ho?	Do you know my name?
Hañ sahib Pin hue.	Yes, Sir, it is Pin.
Nuheen, bewuqoof, nam humara Fin hue, uo likha hooa hue isee kaghuz pur ki dak ka piyadu dak ke sahib ko dikhlawe.	No, blockhead, my name is Fin, and is written on this pa- per, that the post- man may shew it to the postmaster.
Toom kya चाहते ho?	What do you want?

- |  |  |
|--|--|
| Toom se inuen koochhmangta nuheenhoon, pur ek pue-yam lekur aya.     | I have nothing to askfrom you, but havecome with a mes-sage. |
| Pokarke bolo, tuo humsoonenge.   | Speak loud, and I shallhear you.                                     |
| Choop ruho.  | Hold your tongue.  |
| Ruh rulike uor bolboljooda kur, bolo, tuohum sumjhengetoomharee bat. | Speak slowly and dis-tinctly, I shall thenunderstand you.        |
| Toomhara nam kya?  | What is your name?   |
| Toom kuhañ ruhte ho?   | Where do you live?   |
| Humara sulam upnesañhib se kuho.   | Give my complimentsto your master.                                   |
| Toom jante cos admeeko?  | Do you know thatman?   |
| Poochho to cos se toomkya chahte ho.   | Ask him what he wants.   |
| Kuho cos se ki toomub chule ja, o, kul fu-jur pher a, o.                 | Tell him to go away,and call to-morrowmorning.                   |
| Jud puhconche tud humko khubur do.   | When he comes, letme know.   |
| Is ko Hindoostanee zu-ban men kya kunteho?                               | What do you call thisin Hindoostanee?                                |

Chuokee ke neeche se sotha la, o cos kaghuz ko.

Bring that paper from under the chair.

Humaree ghuree mez pur rukho.

Lay my watch on the table.

Aj din phurchha hue?
Nuheen, sahib, budlee hue, bulki burusta
hue.

Is it a fair day?
No, Sir, it is cloudy,
nay it rains.

Dekho asman koochh
khole hue.

See if the weather be cleared up.

Koochh ek saf hone luga.

It is about clearing a little.

Bichhana bichhaya
hue?

Is my bed made?

Ubtuk nuheen kiya.
Musihree khoob jharo jo muchhur nu ruhe.

I have not yet made it.
Brush the curtains well,
that no musquitoes may remain.

Jootee ko uchhee turu saf kuro.

Clean my shoes well.

Hum ko buree fujur
juga o.

Wake me very early in the morning.

Chiragh jula o.

Light the lamp.

Buttee boojha o.

Blow out the candle.

Durwazu bund kuro.

Shut the door.

Katcha dushman hath chubot	Move a little to the right.
Do teen qadum baen surko.	Move a few steps to the left.
Ek do qadum huto.	Fall back a step or two.
Dooshman hutne luge.	The enemy are about retreating.
Ue sipahce toom ne kuha ki kul we ad- mee awenge.	O soldier, you said those men would come to-morrow:
Kin ne yih bat toom se kuhee.	Who told you this?
Admee con ka bola ki we fujur ko awenge.	-Their man said, that they would come in the morning.
Hum ne wooh cheez jo ap ne bhejee con ko dikhlake uor urz kee jo bat ap ne moojh se kuhee.	The thing which you sent I shewed him, and represented what you had told me.
Soono: khidmutgar se poochho ki toom ne hazree tuiyar kee hue ya nuheen?	Hear: ask the khid- mutgar whether he hath prepared the breakfast, or no?
Ue shahaf kul hum ne toom ko hookna diya Meer Hasan kee	Well bookbinder, yes today I gave you an order to bring

Mangharce lane ho,
toom nu lae is liye
toomharce ghustut
se humara khulul
hoon.

Hum ne cosko kuha
tha kul, too fulane
ke bagh men jakur fulane malee se goo-
lab jamun thore se
amanglaiye, woon to nu gaya humare
kahn kee kya pur-
wa hue cosko?

Mear No'uns' Mear,
nuwee you have be brought it by this,
through your neg- lect, I have been interrupted.

I said to him yester- day, having gone to such a one's garden,
beg a few rose-ap- ples from such a gardener, he did not go; what obedience does he pay to my orders?

Ne can only occur with an active preterite
verb. To this rule there are exceptions, as ne never can occur with the imperfect, neither can it with some few verbs, such as bolna, lana, hoolna. If the sign of the accusative be not in the sentence, the verb is governed by the object; if ko be in the sentence, the verb par- takes of a neuter state, remaining totally un- changed. Some words may be compounded with verbs at pleasure. For instance urz, fikr, which may either be governed or remain com- pounded ; as muen ne urz kee, muen ne fikr kee, might with equal propriety be kiya ; the sentence being the accusative. A native would imagine the scholar a sorry Jargonist were he not to use ne when necessary, or make use of it improperly, and the knowledge of this may be productive of much benefit. If a servant were to say to his master, muen ne diya ; he would probably conceive, that what had been sent was not delivered : the master might naturally desire the reasons : the servant would persist, in the very same words, on its having been delivered ; which the other, through ignorance, would construe the reverse : the master becoming incensed, the servant frightened, blows or abuse might follow. Thus, a good servant may be lost for having performed what he had been ordered, and whose only fault was, speaking too grammatically ; or, in other words, above his employer's comprehension. The ne will be met with, as well as the preposterous concord of preterites with their objects, in many parts of these sheets, which from every novice ought to meet with due attention, that this intricate, but essential portion of Hindoostanee Grammar may be duly acquired.

Kuhar, Muhra, Bho, ee,
&c.

A Chairman, or a Pal-kee Bearer.

Kyon muhre toam kis
ke eehan kuharee karte ho uor kud ke se ho Kulkutte men?

Come! chairman, in whose service are you, and when did you arrive in Calcutta?

Toomhare sath ketne
uor kuhar huen?

How many other chairmen are with you?

We, sub nire toomhare des bha, ee huen ki
nate rishte ke?

Are they all your countrymen only, or your relations?

Kuonae zat kuharon
kee useen hue ki ziyadu roopay uoron
se eehan kumawe?

What tribe of chairmen is there here who make more money than the rest?

Hur ek mas kee kutona ee se toom log kya karte ho?

What do you do with every month's earnings?

Upne pas toom poon-
jee kur rukhte ho ki mas mas upne des ko bhejte ho?

Do you preserve it as a stock by you, or remit it every month to your own country?

Humara yahan toom log upne upke buchra (ya bearer) kahe
ko kuhlate ho?

With us why do you term yourselves
buehra, (or bearer)?

Kya aj tak toom ko
kisoo ne nuheen ku-ha hue, ki bearer hu-maaree zuban men
buree neech bat hue, juesa qeilee ya muzdoor, uo ki buehra cosko kuhte jo soon-ta nuheen?

Le ub chule ja.o.

Surishtedar ya uhli kar moolkee.

Kyoon jee toom malgozaree ke kam se koochh waqif ho?

Putta kis ko kuhte
huen uor qubooliyut
kya hue?

Rue uor ruebundee ka

What has no one yet told you, that bearer is in our tongue a very low word, like slave, or drudge, and you know that bueh-ra means a deaf man?*

Well, now walk off.

A Revenue or other Civil Officer.

Pray, my friend, are you well versed in the revenue department?

What do you call a lease, and its counterpart what?

Have you any other

---

* So very tenacious are the ignorant Indians of rank, title, and respectability, that it is a known fact the chairmen here have an idea, that bearer is an appellation little below lord or duke. This is the mystic charm which makes them detest their own word kuhar.

- uor ko,ee nam hue?      names for the rate or rent adjustment of lands?
- Rue ke burabur jo uor      Should you not recolko,ee nam yad nu      lect another word ho tuo os ka uhwal      for the rate, you can buyan war kuhq?      explain the nature of it in detail?
- Malgoozar jo hueñ so      Do the farmers pay the qistbundee pur sur-      revenue by instalkaree muhsool pu-      ments to govern-hoonchate hueñ ya      ment, or in the gross?
ekuñhan?
- Is turuh ka khiraj uk-      Does this species of sur fusl ke age beech      revenue commonly men ya peeche pu-      come in before, or hoonchta hue?      during, or after the crop?
- Mu,afee yuñe lakhira-      Does free land or that jee zumeen se koochi      not assessed pay any bhee hoozoor men da-      thing at all to Gokhil hota hue ya nu-      vernment, or not, by heen, peshkush ya      way of acknowledgtabuidaree ke roo se?      ment?
- Purgunon ke tush-      Who formerly settled khees age kuon kur-      the assessment of ta tha?      the several districts?

Qanoongo uor putwree men, kya furq
hue?

In what respects do the county register and town or village-clerks differ?

Kisee kaghuz puttur ka nam baz-namu hue, uor cos kee muṇnee kya?

Is any paper called a deed of abdication or rejection, and what does it imply?

Dur een wila jud kisee zumeendar pur moḥṣṣil chḥoṭte huen, ṭulubanu lugta hue ki nuheen, uo kis qudr?

In these days when constables are put over any landholder, is dunage exacted or not, and to what amount?

Moofuṣṣul men moostajir ko nankar mil-tee hue ki zumeendar ko?

In the country, do the contracting farmers or landholders receive the sustenance money?

Jis kaghuz men kisee
gaṇw kee zumeen, talab, baghat, siwanu wughuere ka ḥwal likha hooa ho to is ka kya nam hue? Moowazinu ya Rugba-kundee kuh-late huen.

What is the name of the paper which contains an account of the tanks, orchards, boundaries, &c. of any village? They call it moowazinu,
&c.

Uch-chha, ub toomhen rookhsut hue.      Good, you are at liberty to withdraw.

Moonshee.      Secretary, or Teacher

Kuho sahib, toomharee danist men Hindee zuban ki Farsee kuonsee ziyadu mooshkil hue?      Pray, Sir, in your opinion, whether is the Hindoostanee or Persian language the most difficult?

Hindee ke ishkal men koochh shoobuh nuheen, lekin Farsee se ziyadu durkar, isee waste hum muqdoor bhur seekhte hueen—toom hum ko sikhla sukoge?      As to the difficulty of the Hindee there can be no doubt, but it is more necessary than the Persian; we therefore are striving to learn it. Can you teach us?

Bhula toomhare khiyal men kuho to os shukhs ke waste jo moamilu ya surokar rukhta hue kya awam kya khuwas se Hindoostan bhur men in dono zubanon men se yuune Farsee uor Hindee      Do say, in your idea, for the person who has transactions of all sorts, with both the high and the low throughout Hindoostan—of these two languages, viz. the Hindoostanee and Persian, which is the

kuonsee poorzuroor
hue?

most requisite?

Sirf Farsee uor Urubee اُفاز jo rekhte men shamil hueñ con ko jo poochho tuo chun-dan dooshwar nu-heen, pur tanceñ uor tuzkeer bunui tumeezi tuluffooz thenthi Hinduwee
ko duryaft kurna
yihan tuk sunglakhi hue jo aj tuk kisee se bu khoobee hasil nu hooa uor nuho-ga kyoon kur ki mu-harut ilmee goyaek tilismee chiree, a hue ki jyon jyon ko, ee
ose pukra chahe
tyon tyon wohn kafir hath se door bhagte.

In regard to the mere Arabic and Persian words which occur in the mixed languages, they are not so very difficult, but the masculine and feminine, with the discrimination of pronunciation in the pure Hinduwee, to learn them is so arduous a task, that no
one as yet hath properly acquired it, nay, never will, for perfection in science is like an enchanted bird, which the more one tries to catch,
the farther it flies
from him.

Hindee zuban kee tuhseel ke liye toomha-ree kyaa gulahi hue,

In acquiring the Hin-doostance tongue,
what is your advice,

saf kuho to ki muen cos ke bu moojib zuban sikhoon our toomharee is bat ka humeshu ihsanmund ruhoonga.

speak candidly, that I may learn the language accordingly, and remain eternat-ly obliged to you on that account.

Ko,ee cõhdedar.

An Officer.

Kuho myan toom kuon
pultun ke ho ?

Pray, Sir, to what regiment do you belong ?

Toomhen koochh muu-loom hue ki cos kee bhurtee puehle ku-han hoo,ee thee ?

Do you know where it was first raised ?

Aj kul toomharee tu-mam pultun yuhan tueenat hue ki uor kuheen ?

Is the whole regiment on duty here or not ?

Toom kya cõhdurukhte ho uor kubse cõhde-dar hoo,e ?

What office do you hold, and how long have you been an officer ?

Toom se (or uese) cõhdedaron ? etabui hu-mare yuhan ke lush-kur men ket to jawan uksur rukhte huen ?

Under such officers as you in our army, how many men are generally placed ?

Jud toom kuheen dihat men ja'o tujenatee pur wool shukhs ya
 hakim jis ke yuhan toomharee chuokee puhru ruhta hue so toom ko koochh deta hue kudhee ki
 nuheen?

When you are stationed any where in the country, does the person or magistrate where you are on duty, ever make you a present of any thing or not?

Toomharee shuruh kya hue toomhen mah bu mah pooree mil-tee hue ki nuheen?

What is your pay, and do you receive the whole monthly or not?

Kuho to jis wuqt ko,ce
 toomhare sipahiyon men se kisoorukeyut pur koochh zoolm kure tub toom is ka kya fikr kurte ho jo phir usee hurukut hone nu pawe?

Well, when any of your soldiers is guilty of any oppression on the country people, what steps do you take to prevent such an offence again?

Jo toomhare ruhte ku-ee ek admec ke tu-ruf se surkar ke khuzane pur daka pur-ta tuo toom muqdoor blur dukneton to

If in your presence several people were to attack the treasure of government, would you, to the utmost of your power,

HINDOOSTANEE

seete jee pukarte ki aunt durobust ko mardalte ?

seize the robbers alive, or would you kill the whole on the spot ?

Fujur se puhur bhur si-pahiyon ka puhru
ruhta hue, ya ki fujur se do puhur tuk ?

Does a soldier's continuance on guard last from sun rise till nine o'clock, or till twelve o'clock ?

Jo bat hum ne kuhee hue toom se so toom-hen hur soorut se saf muuloom ho, ee ki nuheen ? juwabdene man koachh chinta
mut karo jo, ee ho be, huga o kuho hum hurgiz boora nu ma-nenge.

Do you clearly understand all that I have told you or not ? in answering me be not in the least apprehensive, speak whatever you please without reserve, I will not take it in the least amiss.

Khuer ub jaiye.

Well, you may now go.

Khansaman ya Khid-mutgar.

A waiting servant, Butler, or Steward.

Soono to 'ambara nam
kya hue ? nor tipne sahib ka bhee nam
butla o

Prav what is your name ?
let me know also your master's name

Kud se cos sahib ke eehan nuokur ruhe ho?

Toomhara wutun ku-han hue uor eehan
se ketee door hoga?

Logi ukhur wuhan jate
huen khooshkee kee
rah ki turee kee?

Bharee jins cos molk men kya kya hotee hue? uor kis cheez
kee ziyadu pudaish
hue?

Toomhare ma bap jeeto
huen ki nuheen, uor toom kudhee jate ho upne logon kee mo-
laqat ke tye?

Toomhen koodh khu-har ho ki tamba casing ke bazar men ki bhaa bikta hue?

Kya tamir ke baat nuneen kun seko ki ek paise ka tamir pue-

How long have you been in that gentleman's service?

Where is your native country, and how far may it be hence?

Do people in general go there by land or water?

What is the most important article of trade in that country, and what things are produced in greatest abundance there?

Are your friends alive or not, and do you ever go to see your friends?

Do you know at what rate copper sells in the market here?

What, cannot you even say that one penny's worth of copper will sa bħur hoga ki nu-heen ?

be the weight or size of a penny or not ?

In dinon toom jante ho ki ek ser doodh kete ko bikta hue shuhur men, uor batur ket-ne ko.

Do you know now a-days at what rate a quart of milk sells in the city and in the country, for how much ?

Bus ub toom ja,o.

You may now depart.

When the reader is able to analyse and comprehend the foregoing dialogues on grammatical principles, he may then safely venture upon my large Collection, from which, and the Exercises in these sheets, he will quickly attain a facility of speaking the Hindoostanee on all occasions. The word yuhan, here, is so variously pronounced yihan, eehan, ihan, and even hi,an, that I sometimes let it pass, for obvious reasons as eehan, &c.

---

---

EXERCISES.

THE subsequent verbal, and free translations, will do more to unfold the idiom and syntax of the Hindoostanee to beginners, than a volume expressly written on the subject. Whoever shall persist for a few months, with other stories or extracts, in this manner, will not only acquire an extensive stock of words, but a great facility of producing extempore the most accurate, if not elegant, English versions, from any portion of a Hindoostanee work, and vice versa, as more particularly illustrated by the 9th exercise. A — is placed to represent any particle, which cannot well be translated, like ne, &c. that the reader may be able to follow every word, with ease and advantage, as he proceeds through the whole of the exercises.

I.

Do lūr<sup>h</sup>ké bhōok<sup>h</sup>he piyase kisee ke yuhan gu<sup>h</sup>e, osne hur ek kē s<sup>h</sup>u<sup>h</sup>oor kee azma<sup>h</sup>ish ke waste

ek turuf mez pur koochh shurab uor misree rukh dee, uor doosree turuf thora thundha panee uor rookhee rotee. Uql-mund lurke ne rotee uor panee se upne pet ko bhura uor piyas ko bhojiaya, uhmug lurke ne shurab kee lal rungut uor misree kee mithas jo dekhee, buhoot rughbut se conko piya uor khaya, pur fayudu koochh nu hooa, bulki oskee piyas ziyadu hooee, mugur upne pet ko khalee huwa se bhura hooa paya, lekin upnee chook ka elaj koochh nu kur suka, kyoon ki wuqt gozur guya tha. Such hue ki buhoot cheezen buzahir khoobtur hue, uor ba-tin men hasil conka thora hue, choonanchi phool-na goolab ka, sath rung uor boo ke, ugurchi khooshucoma hue, lekin phoolna kupas ka in-san ke huqq men dulkhund moofed hue.

Two children hungry, thirsty, some one's house went, he—each one's abilities of trial for sake, one side table on, some wine and sugar place gave, and other side, a little cold water and plain bread. The wise boy—bread and water with, his own belly—filled and thirst—quenched, the silly boy—the wine's red colour and the sugar's sweetness when saw, much delight with, them—drank and ate, but good any not was, nay his thirst more became, though his belly—mere air with filled—found, but own mistakes remedy any not make could, because the time past gone had. True it is, that many things apparently excellent are, and interior in produce their little is, for instance, the blooming rose of, with colour and fragrance—although beautiful is, yet the flowering cotton of, mankind of respect in, ten fold beneficial is.

Two hungry and thirsty boys went to a person's house, who, in order to try their several abilities, placed before them on one side of the table some wine and sugar, and on the other side, a little plain bread and cold water. The intelligent boy filled his belly and quenched his thirst with the bread and water, while the foolish youth, attracted by the red colour of the wine and the sweetness of the sugar, eat and drank them with great avidity, but without the smallest advantage. On the contrary, his thirst increased, while he found his belly filled with mere air; but he could not rectify his error, because the opportunity was lost. The fact is, that many things apparently are excellent, yet their intrinsic value is small indeed; thus, although the rose blooms with all the charms of fragrance and beauty, still the flowering of the cotton tree is ten times more beneficial to mankind. *

II.

Jo dana luṛka hue, upnee kitab upne ghur men be kuhe purhta hue, uor luṛka nadan upnee kitab ko kḥel ke waste taq pur ḍal rukhta hue, ugurchi coske ma bap is bud chal se huzar munḥ kureṇ. Puchla luṛka cos useel ghoṛe ke turuḥ hue, ki jis ke waste koṛa zuroor nuheen, uor doosra cos khuchre moonh-zor ke burabur hue jo lugam nuheen manta. Ghuruz ek luṛka jo such poochho to goya zoomboor ke shuhd ke peechhe hue, uor coske nesh ke turuf nuzur nuheen kurta, uor doosra nacheez teetree ke peechhe duorta hue, uor yoonheen upnee miḥnut ko sirf coske rungeṇ puroṇ pur burbad deta hue.

Whoever wise lad is, his book own house in without bidding read does, and a boy ignorant

---

* The moral is obvious, that one's own language, as the most useful, should be first cultivated and well understood; ergo, the vernacular tongues of the countries we visit as rational beings, should be attained before we commence their learned languages.

own book—play on account, a shelf on tossing place doth, although his mother, father this bad conduct from, thousand prohibitions make. The first youth that noble steed's manner is, that whom for whip necessary not is, and the second that mule headstrong to like is, which bridle not obeys. In short, the one boy, if truth you ask, then as if bee's honey after is, and its sting towards sight not makes, and the other, worthless butterfly after running is, and thus his labour—merely its painted wings after, on the wind giving is.

A boy who is wise, reads his book at home without orders, and an ignorant youth, for the sake of play, throws his book on the shelf, although his parents forbid such misconduct a thousand times. The former lad resembles the noble steed for whom no whip is required, and the latter is like that headstrong mule which does not obey the bridle. In short, one boy seems in reality to be in pursuit of the bee's honey, regardless of its sting; while the other hies after a worthless butterfly, and thus, for its painted wings alone, he gives all his labour to the winds.*

---

* Many military men, who, comparatively speaking, can

III.

Ek burā suodagur tha, coske do betē the thore dinon men, wooh suodagur murguya, bap kee duolut dono ne banṭ lee, ek ne do teen muheene men upnee sub duolut coradee boore admiyon kee ṣulāḥ se. Doosre ne suodaguree ikhtiyar kee, bhūle admee ke kuhne se, ek fuqeer hooḡa, doosra duolutmund. Pus jo koḡee bhūle kee bat manega coska bhūla hoga, uor jo koḡee boore kee manega coska boora hoga juesa in donon ka hooḡa.

A great merchant was, his two sons were, few days in the merchant died, father's property both—share took, one—two three months in, his own whole wealth dissipated bad men of counsel by, the other traffic selection made, good men of advising from, one a beggar became, the other wealthy. Thus, whoever the have little to do with the Persian, have wasted days upon it, that might have produced much more solid advantage, had they been devoted to Hindoostanee, since hardly one in a hundred can expect situations, in which the learned languages of India are requisite, and even then the Hindoostanee is indispensable, for such obvious reasons, that he who runs may read.

---

virtuous of direction shall obey, his welfare will be, and whoever wicked of (words) shall follow, his evil will be, as these two of was.

There was an opulent merchant who had two sons; the merchant died in a short space of time, and both divided their father's property between them. One of them in a few months dissipated the whole of his fortune, at the instigation of bad men, the other engaged in commerce by the advice of good people. The first became a beggar, the second, a rich man. Thus, whoever shall follow the counsel of the good, will prosper, and he who lends an ear to the wicked, will not succeed, as in these two examples here. *

IV.

Ek lūṛke ne tufawoot se dekḥa ki chumun
ke kinare pur ek phool nihayut khoosh rung

---

* Had a taste for literary improvement sooner met with but a small share of the countenance that hath too often been given, by example, to dissipation, pride, ostentation, and folly in India, that country would have long ago produced better Orientalists than it can even yet do, and many more men able to converse with the natives, as gentlemen, in their several vernacular tongues.

phool ruha hue, jub lurka oske nuzdeek puhoochla to os gool kee khooshboo uor rung ne yuhan tuk loobhaya ki be ikhtiyar oske torne kee khwahish oske dilmen pueda hoo.ee, jo-heen upna hath oske putton lug puhoochaya woheen osko buhoot se kanje paton ke neeche nuzur a.e, mare duhshut ke, hath kluench liya uor khalee hath chula गया. Ittifaq-un oska chhota bha.ee door se dekhata tha is bat ko duryaft kurguya, ugurchi omr men chhota tha pur dil ka bura, on kanton se nudura, nidhuruk phool tor liya, bulki sath oske ek phul bhee uesa toofu hath aya ki jitna os phool ke torne men dookh suha tha so bhee dil se bhoola diya. Pus jo shukhs ki kanton ke dur se phool nu le suka oska dinagh kub moquttur hoo.a uor kya phul osne paya?

A child—distance from saw, that avenue's side on, a flower extremely well coloured bloom continuing is, when child its' vicinity arrived, then that blossom's fragrance and hue—here to allured, that without will, it's plucking of desire, his heart in created was, just as own hand its leaves to had conveyed, instantly him to a great many thorns, leaves beneath, sight came, through fear—hand pulled back and empty handed went away. By chance his young brother far off seeing was this matter—conception made notwithstanding age in little was, bat heart in big, those thorns of not afraid, boldly the flower plucked off, nay with it a fruit also so fine hand (to) came, that as much that flower's plucking in pain borne had, that even heart from forget made. Then whatever person, who prickles of fear from, blossom not take can, his senses when perfumed was and what fruit hath he got?*

A boy saw a very beautiful flower at the side of a walk; when he approached the place where it was, the fragrance and hue of the flower were such, as to create an irresistible desire in his breast to pluck it. Just as his hand reached the leaves, he discovered a number of thorns under them, and, struck with fear, he withdrew his hand, and went away without his object. The boy's younger brother by chance perceived at a distance what had past; and although he was very little, having a stout heart, he was not afraid of the prickles. He boldly plucked the flower, and along with it obtained also a very fine fruit, which soon made him forget the pain he suffered in procuring it. When a person is deterred from possessing a rose by the appearance of its thorns, his organs of smelling will never be regaled by its fragrance, nor will he derive the least advantage from any fruit, under similar circumstances. *

---

* These interrogatives become idiomatical negatives in the Hindoostanee, and should be recollected as such by the learner.

V.

Do lurke nuo juwan ek hee sath ilm seekhne luge, ek lurka conh men buhoot uch-chha nek-bukht tha, costad jo subuq cose purha deta so yad kurleta, uor upnee kitab upne ghur men purha kiya kurta. Doosra ghafil burā shureer tha, jo upne hum-comr kee miħnut pur huṇsa kurta, uor humeshu yih bat upne hum-muktub se kuha kurta, “too gudha hue,” cose ukṣur yih juwab diya kurta, “yar thore dinon men dekha chahiye kuon ho.” Akhir imtiħan ka roz an puhconcha conh donon ko ilm ke durya men puerna pura, dana lurke ne is uħmuq ko buhoot peechhe ju-

---

* The rose may represent the flowery Persian; the fruit, a useful tongue like the Hindoostanee; and the thorns, such difficulties as must at first occur in the acquisition of either.

halut ke girdab men, shurm se doobte hoo, e chhōra, uor pookarne luga. Ue yar! jo toomhare khiyal men be-woqoof nuzur ate huen, so we ukṣuron ke nuzdeek uqlmund ho niklenge, uor jo uese wuqt toom ne seekha to toomhare kam nuheen ane ka, la ḥaṣil hue. Ugur upne hum-jolee pur ub hum bhēe ṭhuṭhe maren to humaree baree hotee, moowafiq is muṣul ke, ki jo jeete so hunse, lekin danaon ke nuzdeek nihayut buṛed hue, kya dostee uor kya uql se, uesee halut men ufsos kee juguh tuzḥee kurna.
 Ub mucṇ upnee bat ko muoqoof kuronga, is nuṣceḥut uor kuhawut se ki hona ek khoobee ka der kur bihtur hue nuhone se uor jitnee jul-dec ho suke boore kam ko chhōrkur bhule kee turuf ana uch-chha hue.

Two boys—young, one very society (in) sci- ence a learning began, one boy them of very good well-disposed was, the master, whatever lesson him to read gave, it remembrance made, and his book own house at, to read made a practice. The other inattentive very wicked was, who his comrade's labour at to laugh used,
 and always this observation his own school-
 • fellow on 'to repeat used, "thou an ass art."
 He him to generally this answer to give used,

Friend! few days in to see behoves who may be. At last trial's day having come arrived, them both to science's sea in to swim behaved, the wise boy—this fool—much behind ignorance's whirlpool in, shame through sinking—left, and to exclaim began. O friend! who your opinion in foolish sight coming are, the same they generality's presence wise turn out, and what such time you—have learned, it your use not coming of, without effect is. If own companion at, now we also jokes could crack, then our turn would be, according this saying to, that who wins may laugh, but wise men among very remote is both friendship, and also reason from, such situation in, regret stead ridicule to make, now I own remark—finished will make this advice and proverb with, that being one good of, late, better is, not being than, and the more speed be can, bad conduct having left, good towards to come, proper is.

Two youths began to study together, one was a good prudent young man, who read his book at home and acquired whatever his master desired him; the other was an idle wicked boy, who always laughed at his companion's labour, and used to say to him, what a fool you are! on which his school-fellow commonly replied, we shall see by and bye who is the greatest. At last the day of trial came, when they were both obliged to swim in the ocean of science; the wise boy left the blockhead far behind him, sinking through shame in the whirlpool of ignorance. The promising scholar then exclaimed, My friend! I think fools in your estimation will turn out wise men in other peoples' eyes, and that you have now learned this fact, when perhaps too late. Were I inclined to laugh at the folly of a comrade, it would now be my turn, agreeably to the proverb, "he may laugh who wins;" but it is inconsistent with both friendship and wisdom, to substitute ridicule for regret, on such occasions; I shall therefore conclude with beseeching you to recollect, that "better late than never," and to turn over a new leaf as soon as possible.*

---

* Were my young military readers aware of all the fatal consequences which may yet ensue from their ignorance or deficiency in the Hindoostanee, they would here anticipate that day of trial, which may otherwise terminate in the loss of honour, fortune, and life, and set seriously to work immediately; since to attempt to direct and command men advantageously in the hour of peril, with whose language one is not well acquainted, is a task, which even presence of mind in other respects cannot always accomplish with any prospect of success.

VI.

Do shukhs bahum hokur nikle ki kisee door des men ja ruhiye, thore dinon ke beech ek moolk men ja puhconche. Ek ne duryaft kiya ki diljume'e uor khoobee ke sath jo yuhan ruhiye to zuroor hue ki puhle yuhan ke ruhneharon kee bhakha seekhiye, ghuruz con ne seekhee, doosra itna mughroor tha ki uwanconnas kee zuban ko higarut se nu seekha, sirf durbaree uor alimon kee zuban tuhseel kee. Quzakar buud kuce burus ke dono kisee bustee men aye, wuhan kee bhakha uor os moolk kee ek thee, pur wuhan ke ruhne walon ne hungamu muchakur ghuer moolk ke hakimon ko qutl kurdala tha. We dono moosafir joode joode mukanon men bazar men the ki conhen khoniyon ne conhen pukra uor ulug lejakur hur ek se poochhne luge ki toomhara yuhan kya kaha hue? Jis ne mohawuru uwan ka seekha tha khoobee se juwab diya osko conhon ne sulamut chhota, uor doosre moosafir ne jo sirf hakimon heen kee zuban se juwab diye, os umboh ne jul kur khufgee se sir oska kat dala.

Two men together being set out, that a certain distant country in should go stay, a few days of space in, a country in having gone, arrived. One recollection made that, satisfaction and welfare with if here would dwell, then necessary, is that first here of inhabitants of dialect, should learn, in short he—acquired (it), the other so proud was, that vulgar of language—contempt from not learned, only the court and literati's speech acquisition made. Chance by, after some years—both same village in came, that where of tongue, and that country's one was, but there of residents—tumult having made strange country's magistrates—execution performed. These two travellers separate places seized and aside having taken each one of asking began, that your here what business is? Who—dialect vulgar of, learned had, propriety with answer gave, him—they—safety (in) left, and the other traveller—who only the magistrates of tongue in reply gave, that crowd—inflamed anger with head his cut off.

Two travellers set out together to live in a distant country; one of them found, that to remain there with safety, satisfaction and pleasure, it was necessary first to learn the common language of the inhabitants, and he did so accordingly. The other was too proud to acquire the vulgar tongue, he therefore despised it, and studied the language of the court and learned alone. By chance a few years afterwards, they both met in a village, where the people had risen upon the foreign magistrates of the place, and destroyed them. In their way from this massacre, they observed our two travellers in different parts of the market, and interrogated them separately as to their business there. He who spoke the vulgar tongue, answered them so mildly and clearly, that they allowed him to depart safe and sound; the other traveller, however, could only speak to them in the native language of the very magistrates who had been murdered, which enraged the populace to such a degree, that they cut off his head. *

---

* This is so possible and probable, that a resident in Turkey will do well to learn the Turkish speech before he dabbles in the Arabic language, lest an insurgent rabble make him shorter by the head, for not keeping an intelligible tongue in it. A heedless youth may affect to treat this tragedy as a farce; but he may yet find his self all in the wrong, when seeing a comedy of errors on the stage of real life in British India, unless he now heeds the moral as he ought, and arms in good time against the risk of future mishaps.

VII.

Nuql hue, ki ek kishtee men do shukhs su-war hoðe, ek òn men munṭiqee tha, dosra puerak. Munṭiqee ne puerak se poochha, kuho yar tommene koochh ilm munṭiq ka bhee seekha hue ki nuheen, wooh bola, ki muen ne ubiuk munṭiq ka nam bhee nuheen sòna, seekhne ka to zikr kya. Sconkur ufsos luga kurne, ki tomm ne upnce adhee òmr juhalut ke durya men dōbañe. Itne men ek toofan numood hooa, puerak ne thutholee se munṭiqee ko kuha, kuho salib koochh puerna bhee ap ko ata hue ki nuheen, yih bola mooluq nuheen, phir òsne huef khakur kuha, ki tommene upnce saree òmr burbad kee.

—A story is, that a boat in, two people seated were, one them of a logician was, the other a swimmer, the logician—swimmer of asked, say friend you—any science logic of even learned have or not, he said, that I—as yet logic's name even not have heard, acquiring of then mention what, having heard, regret began to make, that, you, your half life ignorance's sea in have sunk. Such (discourse) in, a storm appearing was, the swimmer—joking with logician to observed, say Sir, any swimming even you to coming is or not, he replied at all not, then he—sorrow feeling cried, then you, your whole life (to) the winds have given.

It is related, that two people were on board the same vessel, one of them was a logician, the other an expert swimmer. The logician addressed the swimmer thus, “Pray tell me, my friend, if you have also acquired the science of logic or not.” He replied, I have not till this moment even heard of the name of logic, learning it therefore is out of the question entirely. When the enquirer heard this, he began to pity the other in these words: Alas! you have sunk the half of your life in the ocean of ignorance. On this a storm arose, the swimmer jocosely thus questioned the logician. Well. Sir, does your worship understand any thing of the art of swimming or not? He answered, I really know nothing at all about it. Then said the swimmer, heaving a profound sigh, you have indeed thrown away your whole life on the winds.*

---

* A profound Orientalist in India, without Hindoostanee, might often be as unfortunate as the logician, if he were to

VIII.

Ek Padshah ne upne Wuzeer uor Meer-bukhshee se şulah-un poochha, mal uor lushkur ke jumū kurne men meree uql koochh kam nuheen kurtee, ugur mal jumū kuroon to lushkur nuheen ruhta, jo fuoj rukhoon to duolut nuheen ruhtee. Wuzeer ne urz kee, Khoodawund! duolut jumū keeje, jo fuoj nu ruhegee to koochh nooqsan nuheen, kyoon ke, jub zuroor hogee rukh leejega. Jo meree bat ka ap ko bhurosa nu ho, to oskee yih duleel hue, ki ek burtan men thora shuhd rukhwadeeje, ubhee huzaron mukhiyan gird oske a jumū hongeen. Joheen shuhd ka basun rukhwaya, lakho mukhiyan bat kurte oske gird a-liptiyan, tub osne kuha, ki, dekho huzrut, jo fidwee ne urz kiya tha, so ap ne dekha. Phir Meer-bukhshee ne kuha, ugur meree urz sono to fuoj rukhiye jo wuqt pur kam awe, os wuqt mal hurgiz koochh fayudu nu kurega, ugur ap ko yuqeen nu ho to meree bat ko imtihaan kur leeje, ek handee men shuhd rat ko is jugih rukhwa deeje, jo mukhi-confide in his learning alone to carry him over that extensive region, with honour and safety, through either the ordinary or extraordinary occurrences of life.

---

yañ cospur a-lugē, to merce bat j̄hooṭh hue, uor jo nuheen to such, cōske kuhne pur rat ko shuhd ka basun jo rukḥwaya, to ek mukḥee bḥee nu a,ce. Khoolāṣu iska yih hue, jub up-nee fuoj upne qub,ce se gu,ce, phir rozi siyah men mal bḥee khurch kecḡega to moyussur wuesee nu hogee.

The following analysis of this eighth exercise, will serve as a most useful specimen for the Hindoostanee scholar, because I have endeavoured to blend the Oriental practice in this operation, as far as possible with our own. To make these completely assimilate is impossible; all therefore which we can expect is, that practical approximation which I have now attempted. In doing this, I employed four learned natives, and selected from their separate labours, every thing which could aid the general design of the present exposition, without sacrificing either our or their notions of grammar too far to each other. To expect always uniformity in the construing or parsing a long sentence in any language, is, in fact, to look for consistency and perfection, where they probably never will be invariably found. The learner should not be surprised if his Munshee objects to, or differs from, many parts of this analysis; since it is given rather as an imperfect specimen of what has been done, than as the faultless mode of what may be yet accomplished in Hindoostanee grammar. Lest the scholar prematurely and imprudently venture on grammatical disquisitions with his native teacher, I conceive it my duty to refer him to the Technical Terms in the Vocabulary, that he may not only acquire the words in question, but also learn to regulate his flights in Hindoostanee Philology among the natives, by the extent and quantity of his verbal plumage in that popular tongue.

Ek, one, an, a, ismi udud,* a numeral; but here tunkeer or nukiru, the indefinite article. Padshah, king, ism, a noun, fiʿl ka faʿil, the nominative of the verb. Ne, mazee mootu uddee ke raʿi ka hufi lazim, the active preterite's nominative's expletive, which, as it cannot be translated in English, has been expressed by a — in these * Means a noun of number, as may be seen in the Vocabulary under ism, i, and udud, or noun, of, and number. Tunkeer and nukiru may be prosecuted in the same manner, as soon as the student finds a knowledge of the Hindoostanee technicals in Grammar very necessary.

---

sheets. It must be carefully discriminated from the negative nu, and the learner should always recollect, that ne throws every inflectible word into the inflexion. A little attention to the effects of this particle on nouns, and its occurrence, either expressed or understood, with the preterite of transitive verbs only, in the stories exhibited here, will soon make the subject plain enough to every capacity; especially if a proper reference be made occasionally to the remarks already made on this apparently puzzling, but easy and useful expletive. Upne, his, own, &c. zumeeri mooshturuk, mootušurruf ḥaluti izaḥut men, a general pronoun in the inflected genitive, termed by us reciprocal, reflective, or emphatic, and equivalent to the possessive adjective or genitive form of all such pronominal words. It is here introduced for ooske, his, by a rule in both the Hindoostanee and Persian languages, which always requires the reflective pronoun, upna and khod, in the same member of a sentence after muen, &c. instead of mera, tera, ooska, &c. This regimen will be met with so often, that the scholar cannot fail to discover very soon the nature of it in the course of his progress through this and other works. Wuzeer, minister, ismi şifutee, moʔaf mufool, a kind of concrete noun, agreeing with upne, and governed by se. Uor, and, hurfi utf, a conjunction. Meer-bukhshee, generalissimo, ismi şifuttee moorukkub, a compound concrete noun. Se, from, (with, to, of, at,) hurfi muṇuwee moofrid, a simple postposition. şulah-un, deliberately, tumeez, an adverb, formed by the affix un in many Arabic words like quṣd-un, purposely, uwwul-un, firstly, &c. Poochha, asked, fiḥli mazee mootuḥḍdee moṭluḳ waḥidi moozukkuri muṇ-roof, a transitive verb in the indefinite preterite masculine, singular number and active voice. The nominative to it is padshah, with its appropriate expletive ne, already explained. Mal, treasure, ismi jins, muṇtoof iluehi, an appellative noun, conjoined with the next substantive. Uor,* and, utf. Lushkur, army, ismi jins muṇtoof moṇṇaf iluehi, an appellative noun, conjoined with the preceding and connected with the next, by—Ke, of, 's, hurfi muṇuwee moofrid mootuṣurruf, ulamuti izaḥut, a simple inflected postposition, and

---

* This word, having been already mentioned, requires no farther notice, a circumstance that will of course occur to many more, as the contrary practice would subject us to endless and useless repetitions, no less tiresome to the reader, than inconvenient for the limits of so small a work.

the genitive sign. Jumū kurne, collection making, muṣduri moorukkub mootuṣurruf, inflected compound infinitive, or gerund. Men, in, ḥurfi muṣnuwee moofrid ṭlamuti zurf, a simple postposition, and a local or temporal sign. Mereē, my, zumeeri mootukullimi waḥidi moowunnuṣ ḥaluti izafut men, *the first personal pronoun in the feminine genitive singular, as a possessive or adjective form, agreeing with—*ṭql, judgment, ismi moowunnuṣi sumaḥḥ, an arbitrary feminine noun. Koohh, any, (some, &c.) ismi tunkeer, an indefinite noun, like ek, though we would rather term it, in this place, zumeer or ṣifut, a pronoun or adjective. Kam, we, ism, and here the mufool, *or accusative to the verb, as the sign ko is either understood, or the nom. is used for the accus.** Nuheen, not, ḥurfi nufee, a negative particle. Kurtee, makes, fiṭli ḥal moowunnuṣi muṭroof, the feminine present tense, active voice, in con-

---

* This constantly happens, especially in short familiar sentences, or when the verb has a second case, and wherever a noun assimilates with a verb, as in the present instance, to form a species of simple verb, like kām-k. to avail, fikr-k. to make reflection, or to think, &c. in which the ko would prove very inconvenient. The learner will thus, in future, be able to reconcile the idea of mufool with the mere nominative of a noun.

cord with the nom. uql. Ugur, if, ħurfi shurt, a conditional conjunction, which requires the aorist or subjunctive. Mal, treasure, ħaluti faḥl burae mufool, the nominative used for the accusative, as illustrated in the note below. Jumū kuroon, collection would I make, fiḥli moorukkub moozaru mootukullimj waḥid, a compound verb in the aorist, first person singular. To, then, ħurfi juza, the inferential subjunctive particle to ugur. Lushkur, army, ħaluti faḥl, nominative. Nuheen, not. Ruhta, remains, fiḥli lazimee ḥal moozukkur, a neuter verb in the present tense masculine, (to which hue is understood) to agree with lushkur. Jo, if, ħurfi shurt, a conditional conjunction. This like uor, and, other, is also a pronoun, to which the learner should always advert in those sentences where much of their explanation might depend on a recollection of this fact. Fuoj, army, ismi moowunnusi sumaḥe mufool, an arbitrary feminine noun in the accusative, whose ko is dropt. Rukhoon, I would, &c. keep, fiḥli moozaru mootuḥdee mootukullimi waḥid, a transitive verb in the aorist first person singular. To, ħurfi juza. Duolut, riches, ismi jins moowunnusi qiyasee, a regular appellative feminine noun. Nuheen ruhtee, not remains, fiḥli ḥal moowunnusi munfee, a negative present je- minine, in concord with duolut. Wuzeer ne, the minister, both explained above. urz, representation, ismi mcowunnuṣi sumāḥee mufool, an arbitrary feminine noun accusative. Kee, made, fiḥli mazēe moṭluq mootuḥḍdee mcowunnuṣi waḥid, a transitive verb in the indefinite preterite singular feminine, to agree with its mufool, accusative, urz. Kiya, kee, a in the feminine should be kee, ee, but one ee is dropt, tuḥseeni tuluffcoz ke waste, euphonic gratia. This would subject the feminine genitive sign kee, and the feminine perfect, to great confusion, did not the context generally prevent it. It is a curious, and probably a peculiar fact, that transitive preterites rather assume the genders and numbers of their accusatives than nominatives, whence kee above, the nominative of which is wuzeer. Khodawund, Sire, ismi moonada ḥurfi nida muḥzoof, a noun in the vocative whose sign is omitted, or, in other words, the nom. is used for the voc. Duolut, wealth. Jumū kecje, or keejiye, pray collection make, fiḥli moorukkub umri tuuḥzeemee, faḥl mcozmir, a compound verb in the respectful imperative, whose nominative is concealed. Jo, if, ḥurfi shurt, a conjunction. Fuoj, the army, faḥl, nom. Nu ruḥgeee, should not remain, fiḥli moostuqbul moowannuṣi ghaḥibi waḥid, munfee, * a negative verb, in the third person singular feminine of the future. To koochḥ, then any. Nooqaṣan, injury, ism, noun. Nuheen, not, but the auxiliary hue, is, seems either expressed in, or understood to, this negative. Kyoonaḥ kc, because, ḥurfi tuu-leel, an efficient particle. Jub, when, zurfi zuman bura, e shurt, an adverb of time used conditionally. zuroor, necessary, ṣifut, an adjective. Hogee, will be, but here with zuroor, fiḥli moostuqbuli moorukkub waḥidi moowannuṣ, ḥurfi juza mooquddur, a compound verb in the future feminine singular, to which the inferential subjunctive particle is understood. This verb hona, is generally termed rabīṭi zumanee, a temporal conjunction, as what we consider substantive verbs are often called ruwabiṭ connectors, or joiners, from the root ruḥṭ construction, &c. Jo, if. Mereebat, my observation, ismi jinsi moowannuṣ moozaf o

---

* The Oriental mode of terming a verb munfee, negative, because connected with nufee, a negative, has no advantage that I can perceive; on the contrary, it tends to make a distinction where there is no real difference, and thus introduces an endless string of negative conjugations, which are the mere affirmatives repeated before or after a negative particle.

moozaf iluehi, an appellative fem. noun, connected with meree in the possessive state. Ka, of, 's, harfi muṭnuwee moofrid ṭlamut ḥaluti izafuti ghuer mootuṣurruf kee, a simple postposition, and the uninflected sign of the genitive case, agreeing with bhurosa. Ap, you, (yourself, your worship,) zumeeri mooshturuk tuuzeemee, the common respectful pronoun; but here equivalent to zumeeri mookhatub, the second personal. Ke, to, harfi muṭnuwee moofrid o ṭlamut ḥaluti mufool kee, a simple postposition and the sign of the accusative or dative. Bhurosa, confidence, ismi moozaf, fa'il, a noun in the nom. connected with bat. Nuho, may not be, fi'uli moozarū munfee wahidi ghaib, a negative verb aorist third person singular, contracted from nu-howe, like ho, hōe, as detailed in the Verbal Table. To, then. cos, it, zumeeri ghaibi wahid mootuṣurruf moozaf iluehi, the third inflected personal singular, forming the genitive case with—Kee, of, 's, as before, but here ta-nees men, in the feminine. Yih, this, ismi isharruc qureeb ḥaluti fa'il wahid men, the proximate demonstrative in the nominative singular. *

---

* In Hindoostanee, every noun to which the genitive signs, ka, ke, kee, ra, re, ree; na, ne, nee, are affixed, is termed moozaf iluehi, and it

Duleel, proof, ismi wahid moowunnuṣi sumae, moosharun iluehi moozaf, an arbitrary fem. noun, connected with both the remote and proximate demonstrative, though in Arabic ṣifuti mooshubbuh, a species of adjective. Hue, is, rabīti zumanee, the temporal conjunctive particle, which is not considered by the natives as a verb. Ki, that, kafi buyaniyu, the descriptive ki, which is of the utmost consequence in this language, as it frequently saves much circumlocution, though at other times it certainly appears to us more like a mere expletive. Ek, a, ḥurfi tunkeer, indefinite article. Burtun, a vessel, ismi jins muḥdood, zurf, an appellative limited noun of reception. Men, in. Thoṛa, a little, ṣifuti moofrid may either precede or follow the moozaf or governing noun; in the Persian, on the contrary, the moozaf must always precede the moozaf iluehi. Very little attention to this note will prevent the scholar's ever forgetting a matter which will otherwise often escape his memory. Duleel having been demonstrated by the isharu, yih, is here also termed moosharun iluehi, by the reciprocal effect which the Orientalists denote; by such words as fajil, mufool; ṣifit, moof; izafut, moozaf; utf, muutoof; uida, moonada, &c.

---

wahidi mcorakkur, a simple adjective in the masculine singular. Shuhd, honey, ismi jins, muo-poor, mufool, an appellative qualified noun in the accusative. Rukhwadeeje, pray cause to place, umri haziri mcorakkub tuuzeemee mootu, uddee bilghuer, zameer ap cos men fa'il, a compound causal verb in the respectful imperative second person, having the pronoun ap as the nominat. noticed under keeje. Ubhee, just now, zurfi zumani takeedee, an emphatic adverb of time, compounded of ub, now, and hee, just, every, the. This particle hee, ee, in the plural heen, een, is of the utmost importance, and should be carefully observed wherever it occurs, that it may not be confounded with the postposition e, en, in moojhee ko diya, he gave to me indeed, to my very self; conheen ko diya, he gave to their selves, to these very men. Huzaron, thousands, ismi udud jumu tusreefee bura, e haluti fa'il, a numeral used in the inflexion for the nominative plural, on principles already detailed. Mukhiyan, flies, ismi moowunnus haluti fa'il jumu men, a feminine noun in the nominative plural. Gird, round, hurfi muunuwee mcorakkub, ya zurfi mukani ghuer muhdood, mooraf, a compound postposition, or unlimited series of place, connected with—coske, it, ismi isharic bued mootuşurruf ḥaluti ızafut men, the remote demonstrative inflected genitive, governed by gird, transposed, like many others, from the ordinary construction, cosine gird. A, having come, fiḡli muḡtoof, a verb used as a conjunction. An is often met with for a by assuming n, either burae tuḡseeni. carffooz, the euphony of speech, in this part of the verb ana, to come, or to prevent its being mistaken for the imperative or root of the verb, as stated in 81. Jumḡ, collected, şifut, an adjective, or rather a participial word, forming here a compound neuter verb with hona. The learner ought on this occasion and many others to recollect, that Oriental and occidental grammarians often see things in a very different point of view, he will never therefore wrangle or dispute with a Moonshee on such a theme, until he acquires an adequate command of language for such abstruse and difficult discussions. Hongeen, will be, fiḡli istiqbali ghaḡib jumḡ, moḡwunnus, a verb in the third person plural feminine future tense. The nasal ḡ of such plurals as have another n, is commonly lost in the kuşruti istiḡmal or hurry of practice; whence hongee for hongeen, or hongiyaḡ, and jatee huen or jatcen, or jatiyaḡ hucḡ. Joheen, the instant, zurfi zumani takeedee, the em- phatic adverb of time, corresponding with wo-been, that moment, toheen, the moment. Shuh, honey, ism, mcozaf iluehi. Is, is, again con- cord with—Basun, a vessel, ism, fa il hurae mu- fool, a noun in the nominative instead of the ac- cusative, governed by—Rukhwaya, caused place, already explained. Had the accusative been used, the sentence would have been should be basun ko rukhwaya. Lakhoon, myriads, ism, udud kusrut ke waste, a numeral of frequency, or number, like huzaron. Mukhiyan, flies. Bat

kurte making speech, ismi haliyu mcorukub fi hal ke muonee men, the compound absolute case denoting the immediate state of a thing. No por- tion of the verb is more useful than this, nor less understood by us. If we suppose all such expressions elliptical, and supply what is want- ed by hooe kee halut men, of state in, the dif- ficulty vanishes at once, and the state expressed by the verb becomes perfectly evident without any relation to the gender or the number of the nominative. I heard him (in the state of a speaker or while) speaking, muen ne cose bolte (hooe kee halut men) soona hue. cos cheez ko muen ne girte (hooe kee halut men) dekha hue,
I saw the thing falling. These expressions must often prove ambiguous, because we cannot po- sitively say here, whether the speaker or the thing was falling, and others may certainly occur still more equivocal than this. coske gird, it around, formerly explained, A-liptiyan, adhered, fiḡli lazimee moorukkub mazee mootluqi ghaḡli jumr moowunnus, a compound neuter verb in the indef. ite feminine perfect, third person plural, to which mukhiyan is the nominative. Most, if not the whole, of such compounds may be analysed by considering the first portion as the mazee muḡtoofu, pluperf. participle, thus—A, an, akur, ankur, anke, &c. having come, liptiyan, they clung, but as this is of little moment to the mere beginner, it requires no further elucidation at present. Tub, then, zurfi zumani ghuer muḡdood juza, shurt muḡzoof, an unlimited adverb of time, correlative to a relative adverb here omitted. cosue, he, zumceri ḡlaḡbi wahid mootuḡurruf ḡaluti faḡil meḡ muḡ mazee mootuḡdde ke faḡil ka ḡurf, the personal pronoun's third person singular inflexion; used for the nominative case along with the transitive perfect particle, or expletive ne before discussed. Kuha, said, fiḡli mazee mootluq ghaḡbi wahid, a transitive verb in the indefinite third person singular, requiring cosue for woth, and the whole sentence as its accusative. Ka, that hurfi buyan, and generally precedes such accusative sentences to kuha, which, by ku being understood, may become kuhee, though the nominative be masculine. Dekho, behold, auri hazir jumy, the imperative in the second person plural. huzrut, your worship, nam miconada, a noun in the vocative, like khodawand. Jo, who ismi muosool, the relative. Fidree ne, servant, ismi munsoob fa'il, a derivative noun as a nominative with ne, like wuzeer ne. urz, representation, ism, a noun. Kiya tha, made, (made had, make did,) fi'li mazee mootu uddee bu'eed wahidi gha'ib, a transitive verb in the third person singular of the pluperfect, but here, as very often happens in the Hindoostanee, equivalent to the perfect only. Had not urz here been considered a component part of the verb, and jo uhwal, the statement, its accusative, kee thee, would have been preferred, for reasons already assigned. So, the same, jwabi muosool, the correlative particle after the relative. Ap ne dekha, your honour saw, formerly analysed. Phir, then, hurfi utf, a conjunction. Meer bukhshee ne kuha, your merce urz, the general observed, if my representation, and illatrated before.* Scono, you would hear, fiṇḍi mōṣarū mōkhatub jumū, the aorist in the second

---

* Among polite people, the personal pronouns are used nearly on the same principles that we observe among ourselves. The speaker commonly puts his self in the singular, and the person addressed in the plural number. In our presence it has become a practice, which has been gaining ground for a century past, among the natives, for the speaker to exalt his self also by assuming the plural number, to the great confusion of all grammar and propriety. We have very naturally proved as arrogant as our Indian subjects, and consequently adopt hum, we, for muen, I; and humara, our, for mera, my, on all occasions; nor can we relinquish this bad habit, without running the risk of voluntary degradation, among a race of men, who lose no opportunity of taking that trouble out of our hands, wherever they possess art or power enough to do so with impunity. The learner, while aware of the above circumstance, should nevertheless, as much as possible, follow the regular grammatical mode in all translations or speeches where his dignity cannot be affected in the humble garb of muen, I, mera, my, as it might be when contrasted with his servant's consequential hum, we, humara, our. They occasionally carry their insolence so far person plural, which, except in the second person singular, is exactly the imperative, as exhibited in 61 and the Table. To, that, to the hurfi shurt ugur, the inferential particle to the conditional if. Fuoj, army, 15th. Rule. ye, pray keep. Jo, which. Wagt, time. zurn zumani ghuer mukdood, an unlimited noun or even, as to salute their masters with too, thou; and tera, thy, which is very seldom proper, except in some precativè sentences that cannot well be mistaken or misconstrued as disrespectful. The third person is frequently substituted for the other two, which rather adds to the confusion in this department of the language; especially as the third person is also put in the plural, when speaking either civilly or respectfully of any individual. The dative is likewise, with many neuter or inverse verbs, equivalent to our nominative, as we must in general prefer the direct mode of translating expressions like hum ko muqloom hue, it is known to us, we know; cos ko shuoq hue, a desire is to him, he has a desire. Milna, to meet, accrue; hona, to be; lugna, to seem; ana, to come; with a few others, often require the inverse form just discussed, and consequently add still more to the apparent intricacy of pronominal construction in this tongue.

---

adverb of time. Pur, in, on, ħurfi muḡnuwee moofrid, a simple postposition. Kam, use, ism. Awe, may come, fiḡli moozarū ghaḡibi waḡid, arist third person singular, the nominative being fuḡj, and the relative jo, which may nevertheless be the utt conjunction that. Kam-ana, in fact, is a species of inverse compound verb, a form of great use to express to avail, benefit, &c. oos wuqt, then, or that time, ismi isharu, e buḡed mootuşurruḡ muḡ wuqt jis pur, men, ko, wughuere mooquddur huen, the inflected remote demonstrative with wuqt, to which men, ko, &c. are understood. This, in fact, is the cause of wooh, &c. being inflected to oos, is, kis, when joined with wuqt, turuḡ, juguḡ, &c. page 106. Mal, treasure, ism, faḡil, a noun, nominative. Hurgiz, ever, ħurfi nufee takeed, the emphatic negative particle, which has always nu expressed or understood. Koochḡ, any. Faḡidu advantage, ismi nukiru, an indefinite noun. Nu kurega, not will make, fiḡli moostuḡbuli munfee waḡidi ghaḡib, the negative future in the third person singular. Ugur ap ko, if to you. Yuqeen, then, ismi şifuti mooshubbuh, a concrete noun, properly an adjective, in this place. Nu ho şay ko, not may be, then my observation, tiḡan, trial, ism, a noun. Kurleeje, ek handee men shuhd rat, make a vessel in, how-ney night. Ko, at, yuhan uhlant zart a za-man, here the sign of a noun of time. In, this,

 ismi isharu, e qureeb mootusurru, the demonstrative pronoun inflected yih, phur,
 (in) zurfi mukani ghuer muhde, an uninflected adverbial noun of place. We may again notice that men, in, is understood, and inflects yih to is, and juguh to jugih, by a rule in the grammar, stated in page 162, &c. Rukhwadceje, cause place. Jo mukhiyan cospur a-lugen to meree bat jhooth, uor jo nuheen to such hue, if flies it on a-light, then my remark a falsehood is, and if not, then truth is. It would be a mere repetition to elucidate this farther, but the learner may profit by observing the partial coincidence here between the compounds, a-light from light, and a-lugna, from lugna; because this may lead him to reflect beneficially on this mode of composition in his own and other languages, however much its nature and existence may escape ordinary observers, or be obscured by the corruptions of long usage. To arise, awake, alight, befall, become, mistake, and a hundred more, so nearly resemble ho-ana, jag-oothna, cotur-purna, a-purna, ho-jana, that no one can fail to discover the analogy here, or be at a loss to account for it in many tongues. coske, his, (he's) ismi isharu,e bu,eed mu,i hurfi muṇnuwee moofrid mootuṣurruf ulamut izaḥuti moozukkur kee, a remote demonstrative along with a simple postposition, the inflected sign of the masculine genitive, agreeing with—Kuhne, speaking, muṣduri mootuṣurruf, the inflected infinitive or gerund, governed by—Pur, according to, &c. As all infinitives, and most participles, are likewise nouns which fall under the first declension, the reader will advert to this circumstance, and be hereafter prepared to treat every part of the verb ending in a by that rule. Rat ko shuhd ka basup, night at honey's vessel. Jo, za,iḍ bura,e tuzeeni kulam, an expletive by way of ornament to the sentence. Rukhwaya, caused place. To, za,iḍ bura,e tuzeeni kulam, as before. Ek mukḥee bḥee nu a,ee, one fly even not came. All plain enough, except bḥee, even, uṭf bura,e takeed, an emphatic conjunction. Khoolāṣu iska yih hue jub, the result it of this is when, nothing can be easier to an English scholar. Upnee fuoj upne qubze se gu,ee, one's army one's power from hath departed. In this sentence, as in many others, the zumeeri mooshtuzuk, or common pronoun ap, upna, assumes the power of one, any person, and in that point of view is a most useful word, though it certainly may also mean, here and elsewhere, your, my, &c. Phir, then, hurfi tuuqeeb waste juza ke, a conjunction, connected with the inferential to hereafter. Rozi, day, ismi zurf zuman muozoof, * a noun of time, qualified by—Siyah, dark, şifut, an adjective. Men mal bhee khurch keejiyega to mooyussur wuesee nu hogee, in, treasure even expenditure one should make, still procurable such not will be. As fuoj is feminine, these words wuesee, &c. follow in that gender. Keejiye, keeje, keejiyo, keejo, keejega, keejiyega, a precative imperative, conditional reflective, or impersonal form of the Hindoostance verb, not easily explained. The natives term it umri istuqbalee or khoozooee, the imperative future or precatice; but whether this is compounded of the verb jana to go, be, or jec life, sir, with a vocative particle, may yet be fully considered in some other Work ; it is however certain, that ap, self, your worship, one, (the French on) in the third person, either expressed or understood, seems its only proper nominative in such expressions. Mueṇ rah pur chula jata tha, uor ek a ek jee meṇ aya ki (ap) ooske yuhan jaiye, I was going along the road, when suddenly it occurred to me that (myself) should go to his house. This last may also be rendered, ki mueṇ ooske yuhan jaooṇ, which so far proves the nature and extent of this subjunctive form.

---

* In the Hindoostance, the muozoof, as in the Persian, naturally follows the şifut, but this order can be reversed in the former, without any effect on the adjective or noun; whereas, in the latter, an izafut is requisite as in rozi-siyah, the present example, and in nek murd, or murdi nek, a good man, a man good; gora lurka, or lurka gora, a fair boy, a boy fair.

The learner should now collect the whole of the foregoing words of the exercise as a rigid literal translation, thus :

“ A king—own minister and generalissimo of deliberately asked, treasure and army, of collection making in my judgment any use not makes, if treasure collection would I make, then army not remains, if army I would keep then riches not remains ;” finishing it exactly as I have begun. .

He may afterwards try his hand at an idiomatical English version in this way :

“A certain king had occasion to consult his prime minister and commander in chief. He observed, that his judgment was embarrassed with the alternative of filling the treasury or collecting an army : for, said the monarch, if I amass treasure, my forces are disbanded ; should I raise an army, I must part with my money.” In these momentous times the discussion may both amuse and instruct the scholar, who will, I think, join issue with the old warrior, “ That in days of calamity and darkness an army cannot always be had for either love or money.”

IX.

The eye, nose, ear, and tongue, one day began to quarrel among themselves, each affirming that it was more advantageous to mankind than the other. The eye observed, without me day and night would prove alike, for nothing but darkness would reign on the face of the earth. In short, every one said a great deal in his own behalf, when the tongue made this observation : What you mention my friends may be all very true, yet surely none of you can be ignorant of the fact, that as my powers alone distinguish man from brute, it therefore behoves, that I be greater than you all in the estimation of the wise. Yes, cried the ear, recollecting itself, my forward scholar! after the lessons which you have received from me, as your master.

The subsequent literal version of the above, will clearly point out where, and how far both languages coincide with or differ from each other. This is the practice I so strongly recommend to every scholar at first, who really desires to acquire through time, and from the natives themselves, a facility of blending the elegance and fidelity of translation as much as possible together, because I conceive it the one best calculated to insure complete success, after sufficient practice with their aid, in the manner now illustrated.

Ankḥ, nak, kan, uor zoḥban, ek roz luge jḥugurṇe apus meṇ, ek ek kuḥta ki woḥ tḥa ziyadu faḥidumund insan ko doosre se—ankḥ bolee, kina mere diṇ o rat hote dono burabur. Bare ḥur ek ne kuḥa buḥot koochḥ ooṣke upne ḥuqq meṇ, jub zuban ne kiya yih kulam. Jo toom kuḥte ho yaro howe sub buḥot rast, pur ulbuttu toomhoṇ meṇ koṇe nu ho suke na waqif is bat se. Ki merēe qoodrut ukelee jooda kurtee insan huewan se, isliye chahiye ki muen ho uzeez toom sub se, beech kluyal uqlmundoṅ ke.

Haṅ kan pokara, ap sochke, mere honhar shagird! buṅ tuuleem ke jo toom ne soonee moojh se, toomhara oostad hokur.

It will not prove a very easy task to produce a version more true to the original than the present, a reversion therefore would only waste time to no purpose. The very few places in which the two differ, must by this time strike every student's eye, who has not taken a premature, and consequently an unprofitable glance, at this portion of the work. I need hardly observe, that the more literal and faithful a translation is rendered in any language, there is the less chance of its being either elegant or even intelligible among the people, who are best qualified to judge of its merits, in both these points. When this English story was submitted in the above literal dress to the natives, it certainly did not require much explanation to make them fully comprehend the meaning and purport of the whole, which they, much more idiomatically and elegantly, expressed thus :

Ankh, kan, nak, uor zuban, ek roz apus men jhugurne luge, hur ek inñ men se kuh ruha tha ki muen admee ke waste sub se ziyadu moofeed hoon. Puhle ankñ bolee ki moojh bughuer doonya men rat din burabur ruhta, siwa e tareekkee ke, rooc zumeen pur koochñ nu nuzur ata, ghuruz hur ek ne upne upne huqq men buhoot koochñ bujaee kee. Is men zuban ne yih bat kuhee, yaro jo toom kuhte ho so ho sukta hue, lekin jo muen kuhtee hoon, cose toom men se koee inkar nukur sukega, dekñho shurf merree goyaae se insan uor huewan men imtiyaz hotee hue, is liye chahiye ki muen aqilon ke nuzdeek sub se ziyadu uezeez ruhoon. Kan phir soon kur bol ootha, han shagirdi rusheed! yih bat such hue, pur buyd merree tuuleem ke.

---

The next exercise, which is a species of allegorical tale in the Oriental manner, is left without an idiomatical translation, as a task, or trial of skill, for the scholar, when farther advanced in his own and this language. The style is of course more elevated and flowery than any of the preceding, it will therefore serve as an excellent introduction to the higher and more difficult compositions, in prose and verse, of the Hindoostanee tongue, which the student must never attempt, until not only well grounded in the grammatical principles, but in the necessary stock of Arabic and Persian words for such an enterprise. In the Poetical Exercises, by making some allowance for the unavoidable transposition of words in a poem, the assiduous scholar will perceive nothing very formidable even in the learned or Court dialect of the Hindoostanee, because, if he knows the rudiments well, he can at once reduce these Odes, or any other, into plain prose, which, through a literal version, must lose every appearance of intricacy and difficulty, that may at first have alarmed him. The Paraphrases will, it is hoped, prove no bad specimens of the poetical productions of the East, in an English dress, if we mean to express rather what the Poet would have written, as a European author, than what he has done as an Orientalist.

X.

Do juwan the, ek ka nam Istiqlal Mawtūḥummil tha, doosre ka Ghōrōor Aram-ḥūb, conḥon ne bahuṃ milkur moolki nadaneḥ ko chḥora, uor quṣri surfurazee kee tulash meṃ kishwuri ilm kee rah lee. Chundān door nu burhe the, ki kohi pusund ko puhconche, os pur se upnee munzili muqsood ko kale koson dekha. Tub wuhan se otre uor age burhkur jo nigali kee to ek doraha nuzur pura, dekhte hee hueran hooe, donon ne duryaft kiya ki hur ek rustu isee muqam se surfurazee ke qusr ko jata hue, is waste ke wuhan do nishan the, ek pur khutti julec se saf yih likha tha, ki yih kam kee rah hue, uor doosre pur a see khutti se, nam kee rah, lekin yih rustu ugurchi pechdar tha, pur chuora saf soothra. Buhoot se na-azmoodukar os pur chulte the, uor oske donon kunaron pur goolab phoola hooa buhar de ruha tha, uor bure bure durukht sayedar nihayut phucle hooe, aflat ke kurce dhoop se conko buchate the. Ghuraz onhen boolboolon ke chuhchuh uor loliyon kee khoosh ilhaniyan os rahi door duraz ko yon tue kurwatee theen jo shoobut sufur kee motluq muuloom nu hotee thee, uor ruste ke hur ek mor pur ek ek saqee turruhdar khooshwuzu imrut ka piyalu hath men liye hooe, uiyash rahiyon kee mihmanee ke waste nuzur ata tha. We uish o ushrut ke khueme ki ja bu ja manund meenaron ke khure the, nassafir jo on men buethe ya sote the conkee khidmut men ek ek chuonree burdar muk-hee jhulne ko hazir tha, is men rah ke mowuk-kilon ne Ghosoor ko isharu kiya uor turgheeb dee, ki a_o humare peechhe peechhe chulo, conke kuhne ke bumoojib betu ummol chula uor Istiqlal se kuha, toom humaree moowafuqut kuro; soonte hee is juwan ne cosse kuha ki su-furi asa_ish toomhen moobaruk ho. Ghuruz Istiqlal kam kee rah ko uql uor tumeez kee door-been se bukhoobee dekhne luga, akhir duryaft kiya ugurchi yih rah behur kee sunglakh con-chee neechee hue, pur seedhee uor qureeb to hue, uor is juwan ke waste isse bhee uchhee ek bat bun a_ee ki aftabi rastee kee kirm se higarut uor tuussob kee ghuta jo mooddut se chha ru-hee thee, so wooheen phatne lugee uor coskee roshnee se ja bu ja ruste men kitne nwee uor khoshue ungoori muash uor insaf ke jo coljhe hoo_e durukhton men paton ke ojhul lutke hoo_e

 the nuzur a_e, ulawu is ke con durukhton ke juron ke puthron se ku_ee ek chushme diyanutdaree uor khod moekhtaree ke josh marti dekhe, yih sub koochh dhyan kur Istiqlal ne upnee hee sulah pur himmut bandh kam kee rah ko turjeeh dee. Yih bat such hue ki coske kanon ne nughmu o_surod kee awaz se koochh loof nu oothaya, uor coskee ankhon ko mihan ke julwue rungarung se chukachuondh ne lu-gee, pur sufur men zad rahi moowwer wuhan kē puhonchne tuk ku mnu hooa, lekin muhulli surfurazee men dakhil hoke jo phirkur ni-gah kee, to upne humsufur ko usna, e rah men dekha, uor quzakar woth cos wuqt rustu chhorke kisee bostani rungcn men ek khoosh rung gooldoom ke peechhe be tuhasha duor ruha tha.

Akhir is juwan ko coskee numood uor turuh-daree kee kushish ne yuhan tuk nach nuchwa-ya uor do dila kiya, ki duorte duorte narusa, ee
o ghuffut ke ghar men gira, uor woheen cos ghar ka moonh bund ho गया. Istiqlal yih majura, e huebut ufza qusri surfurazee kee bu-lundee se dekh kur, upnee tudbeer kee khoobee
o muzbootee pur bagh bagh hooa uor afreen kee, phir upne 'dilmen kuha, kya khoob hooa ki muen ne kam kee rah lee bur khilaf Ghoroqr ke, uor bud sulahon ke bur uks umul kurke bur wuqt munzili moorad ko puhoncha.

Two youths were, one's name Perseverance Patient was, the other's Pride, Lazy, they together associating country of ignorance left and palace of promotion's search in Province of Science's road took. Very far not advanced had when Hill of Selection at arrived, it on from, own stage's end black miles at descried
Then thence descended and forwards marching when observation made, then a cross road sight came, seeing on, perplexed became, both conception made that each way this very place from, exaltation's palace to leading is, because that there two posts were, one upon writing conspicuous in plain this written was, that this useful road is and other upon the same writing in, famous way, yet this road though winding was still broad, clean, pleasant was—many novices it upon going were and its both sides upon, the rose blooming its charms to give remain did, and great great trees umbrageous much spread sun's beams fierce rays from them saving were. In short, them the nightingales warbling and damsels' melodious notes, the road long thus beguiling were, that toil journey's at all felt not was and way's every one turn at, individual individual cup-bearer comely well bred, nectar's cup hand in holding, jovial way-farers of entertainment for, sight coming was. The delight and pleasures tents that here and there like minarets standing were, travellers who them in seated or sleeping were, their service for one one fan-holder flies driving away for ready was, this on, the highways Genii, Pride to sign made and temptation gave, thus come us after after along, their bidding/to according thoughtless went and Perseverance to said, you us like do, hearing just, this youth him to said, well path of ease you to welcome be. In fine Perseverance useful way reason and discrimination's spy-glass with well examine to began, lastly perception made, ~~although this~~ path rugged, stony up down is, nevertheless straight and short is, and this lad's sake for, him to also auspicious one circumstance happened, that sun of truth's rays' from, contempt and prejudice's lowering clouds, that long since overcasting were, the same that instant break to began and its light from here and there road on, how many fruits and clusters of the grapes of ordinary life and justice, which entangled trees on, leaves of covering under, hanging were, sight came, besides this, those trees' roots of rocks from, many a fountain honesty and self guidance of bubbling up saw, this all something reflection making, Perseverance own very counsel on resolution assuming, useful road to preference gave. This matter truth is, that his ears melody and songs from any delight not obtained, and his eyes to there of splendour, variegated from, dazzling not came, but journey in viaticum comfortable, there of arriving till wanting not was;

and place of promotion in entered having, when turning look gave, then own fellow traveller half way espied, and as fate would have it, he that time road having left, some garden flowery in a beautiful goldfinch after, without reflection to run continue did. At last this led its appearance and beauty's attraction more to dance led and distracted made, that running running incapacity and neglect's abyss in fell and instantly the pit's mouth shut became. Perseverance this calamity terreur exciting palace of promotion's height from seen having, own determination goodness and firmness at rejoiced was and praise made, then own mind in said, how good was that I useful road in opposition Pride to, and bad advisers to contrary acted having, in time end of wishes to have arrived.

This will prove one more opportunity for the learner to display his prowess as an English composer, somewhat in the style of the celebrated Vision of Mirza, though the allusions here can forcibly strike those minds only, who seriously observed the preposterous policy, in the College of Fort William, of allowing the students, for some years after its first establishment, to study any Oriental language they pleased. The consequence naturally was, that the idle and gay flocked to the Persian class, and deserted all the rest. Many expulsions became from time to time necessary, and terminated in an order, still in force, that every student should commence with the Hindoostanee at least, without which, from its great difficulty in the pronunciation alone, it would have been almost entirely deserted,

Whatever may be asserted on the brilliancy of fancy which sparkles through many literary works in the East, few men will dispute the palm in favour of the Oriental writers, for that correct taste and sound judgment, which are so conspicuous on comparison in the classics of the West. Among many other instances of bad taste, the most prominent in my estimation is the pedantic style which disfigures almost every prose production now extant in the Hindoostanee language, and which renders it often wholly unintelligible to every reader, who is not as deep in Arabic or Persian lore, as the learned man who composed the book itself. If excellence in a popular tongue consisted in writing any thing far above the conception of the people for whom it is intended, every body must allow, that the Hindoostanee authors and translators stand unrivalled in this species of composition. In fact, to say the least that can be observed on so absurd a perversion of talents and learning, most of the literary efforts of this description, that I have yet seen, might be very good Arabic or Persian, for any thing I know to the contrary, were they not disjointed and disfigured by the occasional introduction of a Hindoostanee postposition or verb, which, like the casual flash of lightning in a dreary night, serve but to render the surrounding darkness still more visible. This false taste is no where more discernible and preposterous than in the prefaces of Oriental works, which are in general composed in an affected idiom, so much beyond the level of ordinary capacities and acquirements, that very few of the men, who can comprehend the body of the publication itself, are qualified to wade through the wonderful display of erudition which announces its birth. Such a profound harbinger, one would imagine, is absolutely requisite in India, to stamp a proper value on any literary performance, of which, in the preliminary portion, at least, it may commonly be asserted with great truth, that it must be an incomparable book, because nobody can well understand the introduction to its contents. To expose and explode this monstrous abuse of a living colloquial language, by giving it a new and impartial bias, has been my constant study, for some years past and I am not altogether without hopes of yet establishing my success, on the broad basis of public utility to ourselves, as the Rulers of British India, and to its inhabitants of every description also, as our subjects. If we are to indulge any prepossessions on the score of language or laws, I think sound policy and justice will point out the Hindoos as the most proper objects, being still the great, ancient, and useful mass of the people in our East Indian Empire. At all events, it cannot be disputed, that our Magistrates ought to be as well qualified to comprehend a Hindoo's complaint, viva voce et propria persona, as to understand a Moosulman of any rank or description whatever. In spite of the clamour which the soi disant FAITHFUL, and their abettors at home or abroad, may raise against all my exertions of the present nature, I shall persevere in the great work of reform which I have so successfully begun. As nothing can facilitate this object more than easy, familiar, and accurate translations from one tongue to the other, the learner is here presented with the first Fable in Dodsley's excellent Collection, as a specimen of all the rest, which have lately been published in that plain, general, useful, middle style, which ought ever to take the lead in a popular speech, whose worth depends much less on its literature, when contrasted with the languages of Europe, than on its general prevalence and utility, when compared with any other Oriental tongue, in the extensive regions of India. Those Moosulmans who, from local circumstances, and a habitual tendency to pedantry, know little of the wonderful pliancy and copiousness of the Hindoostanee tongue, independent of its modern sources, will no doubt object to many Hindawee words that may be safely introduced into the broad, conciliating, unaffected style, which I have recommended. To them, from real experience, I can oppose a whole host of Hindoos, with a potent band of those Mooslims also, who in Hindoostan maintain that intercourse with the bulk of the people, among whom they have resided for centuries, which is so favourable to the formation and existence of a grand popular language. When Moosulmans treat of abstruse and scientific subjects, they must lean to Arabic, as the Hindoos cæteris paribus will do to the Sanskrit; but in the ordinary concerns of life, and in the judicial, military, commercial, and revenue departments, such necessity and predilection are less frequent, except where local dialects or circumstances impose a preference, to the partial exclusion of some, or all the rest.

XI.

The Israelites, ever murmuring and discontented under the reign of Jehovah, were desirous of having a king like the rest of the nations. They offered the kingdom to Gideon their deliverer, to him, and to his posterity after him : he generously refused their offer, and reminded them, that Jehovah was their king. When Gideon was dead, Abimelech, his son by a concubine, slew all his other sons to the number of seventy, Jotham alone escaping; and by the assistance of the Shechemites, made himself king. Jotham, to represent to them their folly, and to shew them, that the most deserving are generally the least ambitious, whereas the worthless grasp at power with eagerness, and exercise it with insolence and tyranny, spake to them in the following manner :

Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem, so may God hearken unto you. The trees, grown weary of the state of freedom and equality in which God had placed them, met together to choose and to anoint a king over them: and they said to the Olive-tree, Reign thou over us. But the Olive-tree said unto them, Shall I quit my fatness wherewith God and man is honoured, to disquiet myself with the cares of government, and to rule over the trees? And they said unto the Fig-tree, Come thou, and reign over us. But the Fig-tree said unto them, Shall I bid adieu to my sweetness and my pleasant fruit, to take upon me the painful charge of royalty, and to be set over the trees? Then said the trees unto the Vine, Come thou and reign over us. But the Vine said also unto them, Shall I leave my wine, which honoureth God and cheereth man, to bring upon myself nothing but trouble and anxiety, and to become king of the trees? we are happy in our present lot: seek some other to reign over you. Then said all the trees unto the Bramble, Come thou and reign over us. And the Bramble said unto them, I will be your king; come ye all under my shadow, and be safe; obey me, and I will grant you my protection. But if you obey me not, out of the bramble shall come forth a fire, which shall devour even the cedars of Lebanon.

Bunee Israēel humeshu khooda kee badshahut men̄ koṛkoṛaya buṛburaya kurte the, is waste ki manund uor quomon̄ kee con men̄ badshah nu tha. Akhir Juedoon ki conka himayutce tha cos se kuha ki too badshahut kur, hum ne terec poosht dur poosht kee sultunut qubool kee, cosne juwan-murdee se upnee numana, bulki con logon̄ ko jutaya ki badshah toomhara khooda hue. Jub wooh murguya, Ubee mulik, ki coska beta hurum se tha, cosne Joṭham chhoot, Juedoon ke jo uor suttur bete the, con ko mardala uor Shuekhmiyon̄ kee mudud se badshah hooa. Tub Joṭham ne, con-kee himaqt ke jutane ko uor is bat ke shabit kurne ko, ki jo bharce bhurkhum hote huen̄ conko ukshur huokha kum hota hue, bur uks coske kumeenon̄ ko raj kee khwahish buhoot hottee hue, ki is men̄ zoolm uor ghoroor buhoot aa keeje, kuha is tuor se ki soono ue Shuekhmiyo merec bat ki khooda toomharee bhee sonega. Ek wuqt durukhton̄ ne bhee upnee be purwae uor buraburee kee halut se, ki jis pur khooda ne con ko'rukha tha, bezar hokur, apus men̄ ek

badshah shuhrane ke liye mushwarut kee, uor aetoon se kuha, humara too badshah ho. cos ne kuha ki muen upnee chiknaee kee khoobee ki jis se khoda uor khilqut khoosh huen cose chhotkur hakimee ke bojh se rakhooshee cotha-qonga uor rookhon pur hookoomut kuroonga?
 Bayd coske unjeer se kuha ki too humaree surdaree qubool kur. cosine bhee juwab diya ki muen hookoomut kee kurwahut ke liye upne uch-ohhe phulon kee mithas chhoroonga, uor durukhton ka surdar bunoonga? Phir gachhon ne ungoor se kuha ki too sahibee qubool kur.
 Wroh bola ki muen upnee shurab kee luzzut, ki jis se ullah uor coske bunde khoosh huen, tu-joonga, uor peron kee badshahee ke waste dookh durd riyasut ka suhoonga? hum upnee upnee qismut pur rahee huen, ja-o kisee uor ko sultanat ke liye dhoondho. Tub sub brichhon ne mukoe se kuha ki a too humara badshah ho.
 cosine kuha ki muen ne toomharee badshahut qubool kee, toom sub mere saye tult chuen se rehoo, ugur moojhe manoge to punah men rukhoonga, nuheen to mere kanton mein se ek ag-pada hogee, ki toom sub ko Lubnai ke surw samet jula kur khak kurdegee.

It being pretty generally conceived, that there is no such thing as a Hindoostanee story without either Arabic or Persian, I now submit the following to the Public. In it there is not one word of these languages; still the Hindoostanee here preserves its character and regimen so perfectly, that I am convinced the whole will be understood by all classes of men in India, who have yet learned what Hindoostanee means.

XII.

Ko, ee kuheen ko chithee likhta tha, ek tiha, et cos ke pas a buetha, cos ke likhe ko luga dekhone, tuo cos ne chithee men likha, jo buhootsee ba-ten likhnee theen so nuheen likhee gu, een, kyoon ki mere kune ek niput chibilla buetha hue, is liye nuheen likheen. Wooh bola, upne bhed kee batchet jo likhnee ho so likhte kyoon nuheen, muen to koochh toomhara likha hoo, a nuheen dekha, tub is ne kuha, bhula jo toom ne nuheen dekha, kuho to, yih kyoon kur jana jo muen yoon likha hue. Is bat se buhoot lujaya, ankhen neeche keen uor sir oopur na-oothaya.

A person was writing a letter to send somewhere, when another came and sat down beside him, who began to look at the letter. He then inserted in the epistle, thus, "I had a number of circumstances to state, which have not been put down, because there is a very silly fellow sitting by me, on this account they are omitted." The other said, "Why don't you write any secrets which you intended; for my part I have not seen a syllable of your writing." On which the writer observed, "Well, if you have not seen it, pray inform me how you know that I have written so and so?" At this the other was so much abashed, that he fixed his eyes on the ground and could not lift up his head, to look the writer in the face.

I would recommend the next story, of the man who heard badly, to the serious attention of all indolent dialogists, who will not often be in a better situation, with those they address, than the deaf man was in with his friend. In fact, to expect much good from mere dialogue knowledge, is nearly as preposterous, as to wonder why a blind man does not recover his sight by placing a pair of spectacles on his nose.

XIII.

Kisee suodagur ka ek shukhs buehra ashna tha, quzakar suodagur beemar hooa.—Buehra ooskee yadut ko chula, rah men chulte hooe yih bundish bandhee, jo sahib sulamut ke peechhe puehle yih poochhoonga: Kuho sahib mizaj kuesa hue, wooh kuhega uch-chha, muen kuhoongaameen, phir poochhoonga ghiza kya khate ho, wooh kuhega dal khooshka, muen kuhoongà nosh jan, tis pur yih suwal kuroonga, toomhara moolij kuon hue? Wooh kuhega Mirza fulan beg, muen kuhoonga, khoda ooske hath ko shufae kamil bukhshe. Akhirush yihee munsoobu thuhurakur ooske ghur puhoncha, sulamoon ulek kurke nuzdeek ja buetha. Luga poochhne, kuho yar tubiyut kusee hue, mureez ne kuha kya poochhte ho mare tup ke murta hoon, soon-tehee bola ameen, khoda uesa kure. Becharu beemar ek to beemaree se julta hee tha, is bat uor bhee julaya, phir poochha, yar ghiza kya khate ho? kuha khak; bola nosh jan bad, yih soonkur uor bhee doona khufu hooa. Phir kuha, soono dost toomhara moolij kuon hue, ghoosse men to bhura hooa tha hee bola, Mulik ool muot; kuha buhoot moobarik, khoda ooske hath ko jud shufa bukhshe.

A certain merchant had a friend who was hard of hearing ; by chance the merchant fell ill. The deaf man went to enquire after him, and, while going along the road, he made up this discourse. Then after salutation I will first ask this—" Well, Sir, how are you?" he will say, " better;" and I shall rejoin, " very good." When I inquire as to the diet he uses, he will say, " rice-pudding;" to which I shall answer, " may it do you much service." I shall afterwards put the question, " pray who is your physician?" he will of course tell me, " Dr such a one is," and I may safely add, " may God prosper his hands in the accomplishment of his work." At length having settled this plan he reached the house, and, after the usual compliments, he seated himself near the patient. " My friend," says he, " how are you?" the sick man replied, " do not you see that I am dying of a fever;" on hearing which he observed, " excellent! I hope God will keep you so." The poor patient was already pained enough with his disease, but this made him much more so. The deaf man next asked, " what is your diet my friend?" and was answered, " fiddlesticks;" " may they do you much good" the other rejoined; on hearing this he became in fact doubly enraged. His visitor then inquired thus, "do you my good fellow, say which of the faculty attends you?" boiling with indignation, he cried, "his worship Dr Death." "I give you joy," quoth the deaf man, "and may the Lord speed his prescriptions."

The following story, translated from the Persian, will serve as a useful exercise for beginners; I have therefore given it without an English translation.

XIV.

Ek shukhs ne kisee durwesh ke pas jakur teen suwal kiye, ek to yih, kuhte ho ki khoda hazir hue muen to kuhcen nuheen dekhta hoon, jo hue to moojhe dekha, o woh kuhan hue. Doosre yih, ki admec ko tuqeer ke liye uziyut kyon dete huen, jo koochh kurta hue so khoda kurta hue, insan ko hurgiz koochh qoodrut nuheen, kyon ki be chahe khoda ke koee koochh kur nuheen sukta, dur soorut ugur insan ko qoodrut hotee, tuo sub kam upne waste bihtur kurta. Teesre yih, ki dozukh kee ag men Shuetan ko khoda kyon kur julaega, kyon ki khumeer oska ag hue; pus ag se ag ko kya dur? Durwesh ne ek dhela muttee ka oottha-kur coske sir men mara, wooh rota Qazee ke yihan chula गया. Ya huzrut! fulane Durwesh se teen suwal muen kiye, tis ka moojhe koochh juwab nu diya, bulki matee ka ek dhe-ma mere sir men uesa mara jo ubtuk durd kur-ta hue. Qazee ne Durwesh ko bolake kuha, kyoon iske, toom ne, sir men matee ka dula ma-ra uor iske suwal ka juwab nu diya. Durwesh ne kuha dhela hee iska juwab hue, yih kuhta hue mere sir men durd hue, wooh kuhan, ku'esa hue, moojhe dekhade, tuo muen khoda ko dek-hadoon. Kyoon merree nalish huzrut ke pas kee, jo kiya khoda ne kiya, be irade khoda ke ise nuheen mara, moojhe kya taqut jo muen maroon, surisht iske khak se hue, khak se kyoon kur isko dookh puhoncha? Wooh shukhs na-dim hoo'a, Qazee ne juwab Durwesh ka pusund kiya.

XV.

Ode from Wulee.

1.

Khoobroo khoob kam kurte huen,
Yek niguh men ghoolam kurte huen

2.

Dekh khooban ko wuqt milne ke,
Kis uda se sulam kurte huen.

3.

Kum nigahee soon dekhte huen— wule,
Kam upna tumam kurte huen.

4.

Kholte huen jub upnee zoofan ko, şcobuh şadiq ko sham kurte huen.

5.

Kya wufadar huenge milne men,
Dil se sub ram ram kurte huen.

6.

şahibi lufz eos ko kuh nu suke,
Jisko khooban kulam kurte huen.

7.

Dil lejate huen ue Wulee mera,
Gool-rookhan jub khiram kurte huen.

Paraphrase.

1.

What havock yon beauties display,
Where thousands of hearts they enslave:
One look is enough for the gay,—
And, more than enough for the brave.

2.

Behold how the fair ones draw nigh,
So graceful their motions appear;
Each step is admir'd with a sigh,
Each sigh is condens'd to a tear.

3.

Though glancing they carelessly dart,
Fell arrows of scorn from their eyes,
Those lodge in so mortal a part,
Our souls are their victims and prize.

4.

If damsels, Aurora! combine,
To spread their dark locks o'er thy car,
The curtains of Night will be thine,
Each face—a bright evening star.

5.

In loving how can they be true,
While honey distills from each tongue;
We captives bid freedom adieu,
They spare not the old—nor the young,

6.

The bard whom those maidens address,
In silence quaffs all that they say;
Nay—wisdom is forc'd to confess,
His wits have been ravish'd away.

7.

Lo! Wulee the pride of our swains,
Hath lately forsaken his lyre—
To gaze on the maids of the plains,
Whose gait fills his breast with desire.

Sonnet by the Late Nuwwab Asuf ood Duolu.

1.

Yih ushk chushmon men ub jum ruhe nu ruhe,
Hoobab war ko, ee dum ruhe ruhe nu ruhe;

2.

Too upne shewu, i juor o jufa se mut goozre,
Teree bula se mera dum ruhe ruhe nu ruhe;

3.

Qumur ko hota hue hur mah men kumal o
zuwal,
Tere bhee hoosn ka alim ruhe ruhe nu ruhe.

4.

urq hue rookh pur tere khoosh nooma sunum,
lekin,
Humeshu gool pur yih shubnum ruhe ruhe nu
ruhe.

5.

Yih wusf teree jooda, ee ka kya likhe Asuf? *
Yih ittifaq hue bahum ruhe ruhe nu ruhe †

* What can Asuf say of thy absence,—how describe it?

† The constant reiteration of ruhe in the Hindoostanee verses, has rather a monotonous appearance than effect, when pronounced with the impressive cadence and emphasis that are here required; but how shall I transfuse the

6.

Juḥan men too mera pyara humeshu qa'im
ruhe,

Labon pur dum hue mera thum ruhe ruhe nu
ruhe.

Translation.

1.

Are lucid drops in either eye,
Love's magic gems set there?
Or do they glisten, sink and die—
Mere twinkling spheres of air.

elegance which the intervening negative nu diffuses over this portion of the original, in which similar expressions are no less beautiful than significant. Ruhe ruhe nu ruhe, transcends my powers of communication in our own language, I shall therefore either cherish the hope, that future trials will prove more fortunate, or rest contented in the interim, with comparing it to those passages, so well known in the unrivalled soliloquy of Hamlet, "To be or not to be," &c. which I fancy will fade in every version from our mother tongue.

The words literally considered will run thus. ruhe, if it stay; ruhe, it will stay; nu ruhe, should it not remain; nu ruhe, it will not remain. By phrases of this sort the great uncertainty of any circumstance is denoted.

2.

Each killing charm at once display,
Here, tyrant! strike thy dart;
Take full revenge—but near me stay,
'Tis worse than death to part.

3.

Thy rival planet if we see,
Through monthly changes run,
From waning where is beauty free,
Though radiant as the sun?

4.

True, on thy cheeks youth blooming glows.
But, oh, frail mortal hear!
Yon virgin dew which decks the rose,
Just shines—to disappear.

5.

Yet, Asuf, why the boon deplore,
That chance alone can give!
Sure, absence wounds his breast no more,
Who slighted,—hates to live.

6.

May thou, beloved! here remain
In bliss, like saints above;
Take this last breath! returned again,
To sigh—how much I love.

XVI.

An Ode from Suoda.

1.

Ghuer ke pas yih upnahee tooman hue ki nuheen,
Julwugur yar mera wurnu kuhan hue ki nuheen?

2.

Mihr hur zurre men moojh ko to nuzur ata hue, Toom bhee took dekhiyo sahib i nuzran, hue ki
nuheen?

3.

Dil ke poorzon ko bughul men muen liye phirta
hoon, Koochh ilaj oon ka bhee ue sheesheguran hue ki
nuheen?

4.

Pas i namoos moojhe ishq ka hue ue boolbool, Wurnu eehan kuonsa undazi fighan hue ki nu-heen?

5.

Age shumsher toomharee ke bhula yih gurdun,
Moo se bareektur ue khoosh-kunaran hue ki
nuheen?

6.

Jorm hue ooskee wufa ka ki jufe kee tuqata,
Koe to bolo yuhan moonh men zaban hue ki
nuheen?

7.

Poochha Suotla se muen ek roz ki ne aware,
Tere ruhne ka moniyyun bhee mukan hue ki
nuheen?

8.

Yek bu yek hoke bur-ashcoftu luga yih kuhne, Koochh tojhe uql se buhra bhee miyan hue ki
nuheen?

9.

Dekha muen qusri Fureedoon ke dur oopur hue
ek shukhs,
hulqe-zun hoke pookara koee eehan hue ki
nuheen?

Freely Translated.

1.

I often wonder, whether the radiant object of my adoration smiles upon others or not, yet where is the spot that God is not there?

2.

Yon glorious orb to me appears in every beam; do you also, O ye enlightened! pray behold if this be really so or not.

3.

I am wandering about with the fragments of a broken heart in my hand, say, O doctors!
if there be any balm for cementing them or not?

4.

Songstress of the night, I also feel the mild influence of divine love, were it otherwise, what degree of noisy praise is there that my voice could not reach?

5.

Before thy faulchion, this neck of mine indeed is more slender than the finest hair, is it so or not, O ye daughters of genuine devotion!

6.

Is the justice of providence to blame, or is it the fault of my wayward fate? do let some people say here, if a tongue be in their head or not.

7.

I one day asked of Suoda, O wanderer! hast thou or not any fixed residence on earth?

8.

All at once becoming enraged, he began to say, "Silly body, is there one atom of sense in thy possession or not?"

9.

I have long since with my mind & eye espied a weary wight at the palace gate even of the mighty Fureedoon, who knocking roars out—
"Is there any one here or not?"

Closely Translated.

In my foolish imagination I conceived another possessed not
The radiant object of my love—else where is he not?

2.

The sun of the universe in every atom shines
to my perception;
Look, ye enlightened, for a moment—and see if he be there or not!

3.

A broken heart, I wandering, carry within my bosom!
Have you a cure for this, ye skill'd in art? or have you not?

4.

O nightingale! I feel the reverence due to love;
Else what is thy cause of lamentation that I have not!

5.

Say, is my love to blame? or my hard fate?
Tell me who can—is there a tongue to speak or not?

6.

Before the sword divine, this little neck
Is smaller than a hair—say, angel, is it not?

7.

I one day enquired of Suoda the pilgrim—

"Hast thou a fixed dwelling-place or not?"

8.

Empassioned at the question, abrupt he answered—

"Hast thou the light of reason, friend, or not?"

9.

"Behold! at the palace-gate of the (late) monarch Fureedoon,

"A man calls aloud—is any one here or not?"

Paraphrase.

1.

What else, I oftentimes pensive ween,

Can various creeds and tenets mean,

Whence flow the ardent pray'r,

But that of Mooslim, Pagan, Jew,

Must, as the Christian's, each be true;

For God is every where.

2.

Thus in one circle we divine

The radii from its bounding line

Concentric still unite;

So from the wide extended round

Of all religions, will be found

One only Lord of light.

3.

Yon solar orb in every ray Shines forth the glorious god of day,
Oft with refracted beam;
On shifting clouds does he retire?
Or can they quench his awful fire?
Speak, sages! do I dream?

4.

With broken heart and wounded soul,
I wandering search from pole to pole,
For balm to heal my woes;
Still not one doctor can I find,
Like death to cure my tortur'd mind,
O come and bring repose!

5.

Sweet bird of eve, thy plaintive note
Could never drown my louder throat,
If rev'rence due to love,
Did not silence my moans and sighs,
And bid me turn these streaming eyes,
To the great God above.

6.

Before whose dreadful sword, this neck
Is like the cobweb's finest wreck,
That floats upon the air;
Look, angels! tell me ay or nay,
Ye sure! can the truth display,
And will the whole declare.

7.

That providence is just I own,
 Though fortune sternly on me frown;
 The fault perhaps is mine :
 Come, cherubs ! teach the soothing plan
 Of calm content to wayward man,
 And let me not repine.

8.

Once I the pilgrim Suoda spied,
 And then in earnest to him cried,
 " Hast thou no fix'd retreat ?"
 Enrag'd, responsive, thus he spoke,
 " Sure, silly friend, you only joke,
 " Or never heard of fate.

9.

" With reason's eye here take a glance—
 " Through time and space's vast expanse,
 " (Nor blink it with a tear)
 " At one, by Cesar's palace doors,
 " Who knocking there incessant
 " Is any body here ?"

The freedom of paraphrase has led me to introduce one stanza, viz. the 20, which is not in the original, to compensate for the loss of another, by condensing its 7th and 8th here, into the latter only, as the reader will easily perceive on comparing both together.

XVII.

Ghuzul, Mirza Kazim Ulee Juwan* kee.

1.

Ueyam huen juwanee ke jub tuk buhar hue;
Peeree jo a,ee phir to khizañ ashkar hue.

2.

Ghufut nuheen hue khoob ghuneemut yih wuqt
jan,
Soon goshi jañ se pund, ugur hoshiyar hue.

3.

Moo,e soofued lawega puegham ujul ka jub;
Tub koochh nu ho sukega, ubhee ikhtiyar hue.

4.

Gur hue tumeez furq soofued o siyuh men kur,
Eksañ nu yar gurdishi luel o nuhar hue.

5.

Tuhseel kurke ilm kee, uch-chhe umul too kur, alum men admee ka isee se wuqar hue.

* Juwan is the assumed poetical name termed Tukhulloos, which the native poets are so fond of, that very few of them omit it. It is customary to introduce the Tukhulloos in the last stanza of every ode, in the most appropriate and neatest manner, as in the poems now before us.

6.

Chahe ugur ʔzeez ho, pueḁa kumal kur,
Uor be kumal chushmi khula, iq meḁ khwaḁ hue.

7.

Namurd keene kee jo zoobaḁ kurte hueḁ duraz,
Toohmut, conhoḁ kee tegh o qulum ka shi, ʔr hue.

8.

Kurte hueḁ nek namee ko dum se husud ke qutl,
Hur ek-con meḁ ghatee hue uor nabukar hue.

9.

Nuosheerwan o Hatim o Roostum se ub hue kuon?
Name niko conhoḁ ka suda yadgar hue.

10.

ʔdl o sukhawut uor shuja, ʔt kur ikhtiyar,
Ek ek kee juhaḁ meḁ bina pa,edar hue.

11.

Muḁwe jumal ooska ho, jisko nuheen zuwal,
Dil hoosni-aḁizee pu tera bequrar hue.

12.

Peekur mue, e ghoo-roor nu bud must hoojiyo,
Jooz durdi sur, nu uor koochh ooska kloomar
hue.

13.

Jis ko, Juwan! kisee se koodoorut nuheen hue koochh,
Dil ooska a,ene kee numuḁ be ghobar hue.

A verbal Version of the above.An Ode, Mirza Kazim Ulee Juwan by.

1.

Season is youth of when till, spring is;
 Age when arrived, then indeed autumn evident is.

2.

Inattention not is good, blessing this time reckon,
 Hear thou ear of soul with counsel, if wise be.

3.

Hairs white bring will the message fate of when;
 Than any thing not be able will, now power is.

4.

If be discrimination, difference white and black in make,
 Alike not, friend! revolution of night and day is.

5.

Acquisition made having science of, good deeds
     thou perform,
 World in man of, this indeed from, honour is.

6.

Wish may if dear to be, exist perfection cause.
 World worthless (man) eyes of people in despicable is.

7.

Cowards malice of who tongue making are long,
Calumny, them of sword and pen of employment is.

8.

Making are reputation to breath with envy of slaughter,
Every one them of assassin is and worthless is.

9.

Nuosheerwan, and Hatim and Roostum of, now is what?

Name good their, ever memorial is.

10.

Equity and generosity and bravery make choice,
Each one of, world in, foundation firm is.

11.

Absorbed (in) glory its be, which to not decay.
Heart, beauty fading on, thy unsteady is.

12.

Drunk having the wine of pride, not intoxicated be.

Besides a headach no other else its crop sickness is.

13.

Whom to, youth! something with stain not is any,
Heart his, mirror of manner without spot is.

A Free Translation.

1.

While the season of youth continues, we may really enjoy it as the spring of our lives, but when age comes on, we must perceive winter's approach through the falling leaves of autumn.

2.

Oh! consider the present time as a precious blessing, which folly alone can despise; and if you be prudent, now lend an attentive ear to my admonitions.

3.

When grey hairs summon man to the grave, it will be too late to reform, youth is therefore the season for mental exertion.

4.

If you can discriminate light from darkness, O my friend! then immediately learn a most useful lesson from the regular vicissitudes of day and night.

5.

Now store your mind with science, and perform worthy actions, since from these alone a man is esteemed in the world.

6.

Should you court popularity, cultivate your genius and talents, for the illiberal and illiterate are despicable in the eyes of mankind.

7.

Cowards who dart their tongues envenomed with malice, employ their dagger and pen in calumny's service.

8.

They who blast innocence with the breath of envy, are all to a man worthless assassins.

9.

Though not a vestige of Nuosheerwan, Hatim, and Roostum, now remains upon earth, still the fame of their great actions will prove eternal.

10.

Practise justice, generosity, and every noble virtue, because each of these will prove more durable than a monument of brass.

11.

As the mind loses its energies by admiring perishable beauty, do you contemplate that glory which alone is a stranger to decay.

12.

Never allow the favours of fortune to intoxicate you with pride, lest you subject yourself to its giddiness and distraction.

13.

He whose heart, O youth ! is free from every stain, has a conscience clear as the limpid stream.

Paraphrase.

1.

Fair youth is the season which mortals should prize,
As the spring of both body and mind,
Through summer and autumn, see life swiftly flies !
With old age, its cold winter, behind.

2.

Awake ! now sweet Hebe benignantly cheers,
Like Aurora, the morn with her rays !
O hear, my young friends, ere the dark night appears !
For improvement, these—these are the days.

3.

Exert every nerve while the soul is in tune,
The high summits of learning to gain ;
Should time's hoary locks bring death's warning
at noon,
Then indeed you may labour in vain

4.

If reason or genius your bosoms yet fires,
With advantage contemplate this truth!
As daylight itself before darkness retires,
Clouds may lower on the sunshine of youth!

5.

Now quickly employ every moment you can,
Adolescence with honour to crown,
For science should ever distinguish the man
Who aspires or to rank or renown.

6.

In arts and accomplishments emulate all,
Persevere to fame's temple, in view;
While envy and ignorance shamefully fall.
Merit's bays, there, are waving for you.

7.

The dictates of malice let cowards obey,
Armed with pencil, stiletto, or pen,
Leave slander's base weapons, which innocence
slay,
To assassins—the basest of men.

8.

True worth is a lamp, with celestial flame,
That will shine when this globe shall decay.
Though monuments sink in the dust,—a good name
Is the dawn of eternity's day.

9.

By just and magnanimous actions the brave Gather laurels unfading on high ;
From earth far removed, and the sting of the grave,
In heaven,—where they never can die.

10.

See pleasure and fortune both fade like the rose,
When its dew drops of morn disappear !
But glory's immortal fresh blossoms disclose,
Like the myrtle, spring's charms through the year.

11.

Indulge not too freely in pride nor in wine,
Those false lights of this visible gloom !
Which coxcombs and profligates borrow to shine,
As mere glow-worms in vice's dark tomb :

12.

While juvenile minds, which no passion inspires,
That an angel might blush to descry,
Reflect the pure image that virtue admires,
In the tear of mild sympathy's eye.

XVIII.

Ghuzuli Hafiz.*

1.

hijabi chihru'e jan meeshuwud gheobari tunum, Kheosh an dume ki uzañ chihru purdu bur figunum.

2.

Chooneñ qufus nu suza'e choo mun kheosh ilhan ust, Ruwum bu goolshuni rizwan ki moorghi an chumunum.

3.

uyan nu shood ki koja amudum koja boodum,
Diregh o durd ki ghañil zi kari khyeshitunum.

4.

Chigoonu tuof koonum dur hureemi alumi qoods,
Ki dur surachu'e turkeeb tukhtubundi tunum.

* The intimate connection between the Hindoostanee and Persian languages, renders every apology for the appearance of the above Ode from Hafiz unnecessary, because we can no more separate the grammar of these tongues entirely from each other, than we can totally disjoin the Greek and Latin rudiments.

Mura ki munzuri hoor ust muskun o mawa,
Chura bu koo'e khurabatiyaṅ boowud wuṭunum.

6.

Ugur zi khooni dilum boo'e mooshk mee'ayud,
ujub mudar ki humdurdi nafu'e khotunum.

7.

tirazi pueruhune zur kushum mubeen choon
shumu,

Ki soz hast nihance durooni pueruhunum.

8.

Biya o hustiye lafiz zi peshi oo burdar,
Ki bawo'joodi to kus nushnuwad zi mun ki
munum.

A Free Translation.

1.

The shade of this body obscures the radiance of my soul, welcome that hour, when I may tear the veil from its celestial countenance.

2.

Such a cage doth not become a warbler like me, who soars, as a bird of Paradise, to the regions of bliss.

3.

I know not where I now am, nor where I formerly was; woe is me, I have neglected my own self!

4.

How can I wing my flight round the temple of the pure empyrean, while confined within the bars of this terrestrial frame?

5.

Why should I, who aspire to the asylum and abode of cherubs, find a mansion here among the haunts of degraded forms?

6.

Should my heart's blood be stained with the dark hue of musk, be not surprised, for I am a fellow-sufferer with the musk-deer of Khotun.

7.

Do not contemplate the gay form of my orient robes alone, while I like a taper am consuming with the internal fires, which this breast of mine conceals.

8.

Come, my soul! draw the curtain of delusion from the eyes of Hafiz, for while thou art, no body shall learn from him, that he can really exist without thee.

XIX.

Ghuzul Meer Ummun Lootf kee.

1.

Hue ot julwue jan ka gilee budun mera,
Khoda kure ki core khak ho yih tun mera.

2.

Qufus men dooniya ke kya bole mooji sa khoosh
ahung, udun men chuhchuh maroon, woor hue chumun mera.

3.

Nu sunjha yih ki kuhan tha uor ub kuhan aya.
Huzar huef ki ghafil hue fuhm o zun mera.

4.

Kuroon muen kyoon ke bhula lamukan kee
suer, ki ub
Phunsa hue qued men khakee budun kee mun mera.

5.

Humara ghur to hue hooron kee ankh kee pootlec, Gulee men muckushon kee kyoon ki ho wutun mera.

6.

Khuta nuheen jo mere khooni dil se mooshk
kee boe,
Mile tojhe ki hue dil nafue khoonun mera.

7.

Yih nuqshi jamu,e zirkush mera nuheen jon
shumu,

Ki huega purdu,e fanoos pueruhun mera.

8.

oot̤ha too hustee ko Hafiz kee ake uz ruhi Loot̤f, Ki ko,ce soone nu tere sam̤hne sookhun mera.

Paraphrase of the above.

1.

Hail, heavenly spark ! that glorious day,
When thou, releas'd from circling clay,

May soar to realms of bliss :

No longer shall this frame confine,

A soul inspir'd by love divine,—

Pure bird of Paradise !

2.

God's mystic scheme I vainly scan,

And grasp his mind infus'd in man ;

These—far transcend my song.

Thro' death's deep gloom, how wing my flight,

To that eternal source of light—

Eclips'd from me so long ?

3.

Eccentric spirit ! why first roam—

To earth—from heav'n thy native home,

Where kindred angels dwell ?

How like the bounding musky deer,
 Thou still art doom'd to anguish here—
 This yearning heart can tell. *

4.

Those radiant orbs, earth's vernal bloom,
 Lose all their charms, while I consume
 With melting sighs on sighs :
 Yes, bright Intelligence ! I see,
 My SELF † cannot ascend to thee,
 Till mortal HAFIZ dies.

* The animated allusion to the musk-deer by Hafiz, in this verse, can be relished by those only who will examine the natural history of this animal. If we add to this, the coagulated contents and general structure of the musk-bag, evident upon dissection, we shall find they are not very dissimilar to a heart, supposed to have its blood curdled and scorched by the ardour and anguish of disappointed love.

† The reader will perceive my notions of Self, both in Metaphysics and Philology, in this extract, from the Persian Grammar, by Sir W. JONES, whom in this respect I implicitly follow.

I here use his self and their selves instead of the corrupted words himself and themselves ; in which usage I am justified by the authority of

A Translation of the above Paraphrase.

1.

Ue purinde khould ke is dami khakee se riha,
Hoke corjae too os ja tha juhan basa tera.

2.

Upnee phoolwaree qudeemee kee kure phir
deed too,
Juon se din men, toojhe wooh din moobaruk
hoga.

3.

Ue ki too jeeta hue ishqe ezudee ke shuoq men,
Kur sukega phir nu toojh ko qued pinjra khak ka.

4.

Rooh insan ke lutafut ke subub pata nuheen,
Phir milega kisturuh moojh ko nishane kibriya.

Sidney, and of other writers in the golden age of our language; self seems to have been originally a noun, and was, perhaps, a synonymous word for soul, according to Locke's definition of it: "Self is that conscious thinking thing, which is sensible or conscious of pleasure and pain, capable of happiness and misery." If this observation be just, the Arabs have exactly the same idiom; for their nufs, soul, answers precisely to our self, as—subiyoon ruma nu'suhoo fee nuhrin, a boy threw his self into a river.

Jo chhipa ankhoṇ se ho kis tūruḥ se awe nuzur, Dekhīye kyoṇ kur oṣe, upna kuhaṇ yih murtubu.

6.

Uor jo yih chahoon ki oṣka bhed koochh zahir kuroon,
Moṇh nuhceṇ rukhta hoṇ uesa, upnce goya,ee so kya.

7.

Muot ka muedani teeru tūe kurega kis tūruḥ,
Uese undhiyare se kyoṇ kur ja,ega toojh se oṛa.

8.

Is kuṣafut meṇ jo tḥa too, kub phir awege nuzur, Chushmu,e noorce qudeemee hue jo moḍdūt se chhipa.

9.

Hueṇ muluk humjins jis meṇ oṣ wuṭun ko '
chhoṛ kur,
Bhoola bhutka duhr meṇ phirta hue kyoṇ ue bewufa.

10.

Moḍturub ahoo,e moṣhkeen sa jo dookh bhur-ta hue too,
Bun meṇ yuhaṇ oṣko dile khustu hue mera jānta.

11.

Jub muen juljata hoon upnee ahi atushbar se,
Ye sitare poor ziya uor baghi dooniya poor fiza:

12.

Tub niput be roothu uor nacheez ate huen nuzur, Yuune ub hasil nu koochh howega inse mood-du.a.

13.

Ue khoda! tub tuk nuhogee jan kee toojh tuk
puhcooch,
Jub tuluk jawe nu mur yih Hafize khakee mera.

XX.

1.

Baten kidhur gucen we teree bholee bholiyan,
Dil leke bolta hue jo too ub ye boliyan.

2.

Hur bat hue luteefu o hur yek sookhoon hue rumz,
Hur an hue kinayu o hur dum thutholiyan.

3.

huerut ne osko bund nu kurne dee phir kubhoo,
Unkhiyan jis arsee ne tere moonh pu kholiyan.

4.

Undam i gool pu ho nu quba is muze se chak,
Jyon khoosh-chhubon ke tun pu musaktec
huen choliyan.

Kin ne kiya khiram chumun men ki ub şuba,
Latee hue boe naz se bñur bñur ke jñholiyan.

6.

Saqce puhonch shiṭab ki toojñ bin is ubr se,
Purte nuheen tugurg burustec huen goliyan.

7.

Kya chahiye toojñe sur i ungtoosht pur ñina,
Jis be goonuh ke khoon men chahen doobeliyan.

8.

Jyon burf hogu e huen khoonuk ub bootani hind,
Nisbut onñhon kee gurm huen kabool kee loliyan.

9.

Suoda ke dil se şaf nu ruhtee ðee zoolfi yar,
Shane ne beech pur ke girhen oskee kñholiyan.

Literal Translation.

Where are thy kind innocent expressions now, that, having captivated my heart, thou talkest to me thus?—All thy words are gibes, and every sentence is raillery.

Not a moment without sarcasm, and each breath has become a taunting joke.

Admiration hath not yet allowed the mirror to sleep, that opened its eyes on thy countenance.

The capsule of the flower doth not burst with such charms, as when the garment of the fair gives way.

Who hath been walking in the garden, that now the zephyrs come overloaded with the perfumes of blandishment?

Come quickly, my beloved, for without thee the clouds are not discharging hail, but bullets.

Why shouldst thou dye the tips of thy fingers with hina*, while they can be dipped in the blood of victims (to thy love)?

The damsels of India have become as cold as ice, and are rivalled in affection by the maids of Kabool.

The tresses of my love were not in concord with Suoda, till the comb, interposing, unravelled their (prejudices) contortions.

* The ligustrum indicum, or eastern privet, called also menhdee, and much used for staining the nails, hands, and feet, of a red colour.

Paraphrase.

1.

Was thy innocent prattle divested of art,
That formerly ravish'd my ear,
With the view of insidiously stealing this heart?
Ah! whence these harsh words I now hear?

2.

Why thus constantly poison whate'er you express,
With scoffs, gibes, and taunting unkind?
Can satirical wit on a lover's distress
Become a benevolent mind?

3.

Since the morn I beheld thee so lovely and gay,
These eyes have been strangers to sleep;
All the night for my fairest I ravingly pray,
Whole days, can do nothing but weep.

4.

Not a bud where the lily just peers do I see,
So charms its admirer above,
As the muslin receding can fascinate me,
To gaze on thy snow-balls of love.

5.

When Aurora from Phœbus comes tripping it by,
Her shape, breath ambrosial, and air,
Are so much my dear nymph's, I distractedly cry,
Whence, whither thus early, my fair?

6.

Though yon clouds burst with peals we have nothing to fear,
Since the skies will relenting avert,
While such innocence, beauty, and goodness, are near,
Each shaft but thy own from my heart.

7.

If kind nature, not art, lilies, roses, can grace,
With pencil and colours divine,
Shall paint sacrilegiously beauties deface,
Each bloom sees with envy in thine?

8.

How, ye damsels of Hind, prove more frigid and cool,
Than hills cover'd over with snow,
As our genial warm plains, while the maids of Kabool
With love amid icicles glow.

9.

Are those locks not intended to rivet thy chain?
Fly, Suoda, enchantment is there!
What comb hath the power to release thee
again,
From jetty fell ringlets of hair?

---

By way of variety, and to accommodate my juvenile military students with something more immediately in their department, I shall in this place present them with the words of command, generally adopted in the British Indian armies, and also with a few of the Articles of War, in the Hindoostanee language, as a knowledge of these will serve to introduce them to all the rest, to be found either in those works I have already published, or in some future publication, for the particular use of East India cadets.

Preliminary and Supplementary Observations, by the late Lieutenant ROBERT WEBSTER, of the Bengal Military Service, and by the AUTHOR of these Sheets.

The following Military Terms, made use of by the natives in their own and our armies, may be of service to any young officer who is appointed to a Sipahce corps, immediately on his arrival in India. After becoming master of them, he might attend every drill, observing carefully the expressions which the drill-serjeant makes use of in explaining the English words of command, when teaching the recruits their exercise. The whole should then be noted down, very carefully and alphabetically, in a memorandum book, the officer paying due attention to their orthography. When he thinks he has obtained a sufficient number of words to be able to instruct a squad, he might, with his commander's leave, take charge of one, which he should exercise, morning and evening, for near two months; pronouncing the words of command at first slowly and distinctly with the extent of his voice. Rapidity of utterance will come of its own accord afterwards. By so doing he will get acquainted with the men, and they accustomed to his command, the advantages attendant on which are well known to every officer, but more especially to those who belong to the native regiments.

The military scholar will do well to recollect, that many useful words must be omitted in the Vocabulary, from their having no such expressions in the Hindoostanee. In these instances, however, he must use the English word more or less corrupted, according to circumstances, with which a little practice will soon familiarize the learner. Some few of the corruptions in question will appear in the Second Volume, which will afford no bad clue to all the rest, and those in Italics here, are commonly preferred in our armies. It cannot be expected that the natives, in every regiment of the service, will make use of all the words of command exactly as they occur in these pages, since every one will take a certain latitude in his own translation of the English. At all events, those used by the late Lieutenant Webster will be generally understood, and may serve as a good model for others, who may feel inclined to bring this department of military duty to the perfection which it certainly merits, in every point of view, in our armies. Many of the words which are inserted in the Second Volume, are probably omitted here, and a few in the present list belong exclusively to the artillery, as I at first intended to have given, not only all their terms, but those belonging to the sea service also.

After examining the written materials that my friends had collected for the above purpose, I found such a chaos of corruptions and intermixture of tongues, as to make me relinquish the attempt, at least for the present. I may at some future period, be induced to prepare a more complete military and naval vocabulary, than I could accomplish now, especially if I be fortunate enough to receive any intermediate assistance and encouragement, to enable me to proceed in such a task, with private satisfaction and public advantage.

A.

Accoutrements, keel kanta, saṣ saman.

Aim, deeth, shust, (to take) shust-bandhna.

Advance to, samne chalna, burhna.

Ambush, danw, gara, ghat.

Ammunition, jungee-tonṭa, baroot golee, saman jungee.

Angle, goshu, kona.

Anvil, ghun, nihaṛee, sundan.

Approaches, morchu, morchal, urguṛa.

Alarm, pokar, hank pokar.

Armistice, wuqfu, mohlut, ṭuhrawa.

Armour, buktur, jhool, charaṇnu.

Arms, huthiyar, hurbu, silah.

Arsenal, silah-khanu.

Articles of war, luskuree aṇnu.

Artillery, topeṇ, top-khanu, (man) golundaz.

Attack, hulla, dhawa, churhaṛee, humlu.

To attack, (ie front) mohra, marna, (the rear)

pichharee-marna, (in flank) kashur- (ya) ka nee-marna, v. flank.

Axle-tree, dhooree.

Axe, tubur, tubul, koolharee, (pick) guentee.

B.

Baggage, boon, gah, cheezbust, baher.

Barrel, peepa, (gun) nulee.

Barrier, urgura, phatuk.

Base, ne, o, jur, booniyad.

Bastion, boorj.

Battery, morchu, dumdumu.

Belt, purtula, dab, duwal.

To blockade, gher-lena, nakabundee-k. mooha
siru-k. gird-k.

Blunderbuss, dhumaka, qurabeen.

Body of men, guroh, risalu, ghol, toomun.

Bomb, hooqqu, ghobate ka gola.

Bombardier, golundaz.

Breach, koombpul, boogharu, durar, phoot, shigaf, (practicable) chalta boogharu.

Breast-plate, chupras.

Brigade, dustu.

Brimstone, gundhuk.

C.

Carriage, ruhroo, ruhkula, tukht.

Camp, para, o, tushkur-gah.

Cantonments, chha, onee.

Cavalier, dumdumu, v. trooper.

Capitulation, quol qurar.

Carabine, qurabeen, dhumaka.

Cartouch, tosdan.

Cartridge, toṇṭa, (light) juloosee, sulamee, (grape) chhuṣṭa.

Casement, murhulu.

Cavalry, toork-suwar.

Centre, beech, naf, qulb.

Cessation of arms, moohlut, soolook.

Chamade, chadur-dopuṭṭa-kilana*.

* To wave a sheet or cloth of any kind round the head repeatedly, implies that the people who do so, consider their selves in the power of the enemy, and mean to submit accordingly. This in day light answers every purpose; but the rude state of military tactics in the East, has not yet provided an adequate expedient, during hostile attacks at night. The natives would, under such circumstances, give over firing, call out uluman, uluman, or uman, uman, and probably wave a light or torch circularly in the air, to show that they had submitted, and expected mercy accordingly. In the day time, even when a man leaves the ranks and approaches the enemy unarmed, he is considered as sacred as a person among us

Chamber of a gun, top kee kothee.

Chain, zunjeer.

Challenge to, lura, ee mangna, mooqabulu-chahna,

(as a sentry) tokna, rokto-k-k.

Colours, nishan, jhunda, bueruq.

Commission, cohdedaree-sunud.

Company, biraduree.

Compliment, sulam.

Convoy, qafilu, budruqu rusanee.

To countermarch, kawa deke phirna.

Court-Martial, lushkuree udalut.

Cuirass, chara, eenu, jhool.

Cymbal, jhanjh, munjeera.

D.

Decamp to, chule-jana, ooth-j. kooch-k.

Defences, ar, ot, urgura, bucha, o.

Defile, duru, naka, ghat, gulee.

Deserter, bhugora, firaree.

Detachment, ghol, risala, v. brigade, &c. tu, cenatet.

Division, tola, tolee, v. body.

Discharge, burturfee kee chithee, (to) nam-katna juwab-d.

Drum, tumboor, tublut

---

bearing a flag of truce, and will be received in the light of a pacific messenger demanding a parley, &c. from the adverse army.

Drummer, tumboor-chée.

Duty, baree, khidmut, kam, nuokuree, chuokee.

E.

Embrasure, rund, top ka jhuroka.

To Enfilade, aga-marna, or bandhna.

Encamp to, deru-or mookam-k.

Evolution, hurkut.

Exercise, quwa id.

F.

Fascine, jhoonka, antee, lukree.

Feather-spring, kumanee.

Feint, bhoolawa, dhokha, buhanu.

Field-piece, top ruhkulu, top julebee.

Flank, bughul, kumur, kunee, kanee.

File, pant, pura, qutar.

File off to, qutar qutar-or kawa de ke-chulna.

Forlorn hope, * ommedwar sipahiyon ka jutha, janbazon ka ghol.

Forage, kuhee, rusud, lut la seedha panee.

Form to, bunna, bunana, pura-band na.

Fort, quluu, guruh, guruhet

* Were this translated literally, the inauspicious name alone would prevent the natives from comprehending what was intended by the expression among us. It is in cases of this nature, where not only the skill of a linguist is Fosse, khundug, pueghar. v. ditch.

Furlough, ruza, chhoottee.

G.

Gabion, tokree.

Gate, phatuk, durwazu.

General, surdar, bukhshee, (in chief) meer-bukhshee.

Gin, thekee.

Glacis, pooshtu, dugram.

Grenade, hooqqu, (thrower) hooqqe-baz.

To Ground, solana.

Guard, chuokee, puhru, (advanced) hurawul, qurawul, ugaree, (rear) chundawul, pichhatee.

To Guard, nigahbanee-k. khubur-lena, hifazut-k.

Guide, hurkaru, duoraha, rah-bur.

Gun-carriage, urabu, v. carriage.

H.

Helmet, top, khod.

Hide, cham, chursa.

Howitzer, urabu.

Hospital, beemar-khana.

Hurdle, thuthur.

requisite, but that discrimination also, which can be attained from a real knowledge of the manners and customs of the people, through their vernacular tongue alone.

I.

Infantry, puedul, piyade.

Intrench to, morchu bundee-or şulabut koochu-k.

K.

Knapsack, jhola.

L.

Laddle, chumuch, do,ee.

Laboratory, baroot-or kar-khanu.

Limber, ruhroo, v. carriage.

Line, pura, şuf.

M.

Magazine, mukhzun, v. arsenal.

Mallet, mekh-choo, mogree.

Match, jamgee, diya sula,ee.

Mine, soorung, (to spring) scorung-marna.

Mortar, hooqqu, pan, gheobara.

Motion, hurkut.

Mould, sancha.

Mutiny, dunga, fusad, hungamu, fitnu.

O.

Oblique, kona kanee, tirschha.

Officer, surdar, ophde-dar, v. general.

Ordnance, chuo chukkee, v. gun.

Outpost, aspas, kee tu, genstec.

P.

Parade, quwa id-gah, v. exercise.

Parley, juwab suwal, (to talk) kooja-hilam,
v. chamade.

Party, jutha, risalu, tu, eenatee.

Pass, nikasee kee chiṭhee, dustuk rahdaree, purwanu, (strait) dura, ghaṭ, v. defile.

Patrole, tilawa, tilayu.

Park, top-khanu.

Palisade, kutghura.

Peace, mel, scoluh.

Picket, mekh, kḥoontee.

Picquet, tilayu, girdawuree, itaqee.

Pivot, kḥoont.

Pioneer, bel-dar.

Plan, nuqshu.

Platform, chubootru, muchan.

Port-fire, muhtabee, huth-phool, v. match.

Pole, phur, jooa, bum.

Priming wire, sozun, sooa.

Priming (powder) runjuk, (poach, &c.) runjukdan.

Q

Quadrant, costoorlab.

R

Rammer or pounder, mḥosul, doormos.

Rampart, fuseel, kumut-koṭa, deewar.

Range (of shot, gole ka) tṭappa, pulla, mar, chot.

Rear, pichḥwara, peechha.

To recoil, pulutna, hutana.

Redoubt, merchu.

Y y

To relieve, budul-lena, budlee-kurna.

Rendezvous, udḍa, mujmū.

Reserve, phaltoo, oobaroo, faḥil.

Retreat, puhloo-tihee, (to) huṭna.

Rocket, ban.

Roll, ismnuwcesee, furd, fihrist.

S.

Sally to, khcorooj-k. oobhurna.

Sand bags, bakoo kee ṭhuellee.

Sash, jalpuṭka.

Scaling ladder, kumund, v. ladder.

Shovel or spade, belchu, koodal, phuora.

Sight, mussa, mukhee, decd-ban.

Sling, duwalee, v. belt.

Sponge staff, soombha.

Squadron, ghol, dustu, jhond.

Stockade, kumur kota, v. palisade.

Sword, kirch, neemchu, tulwar.

T.

Target, chand.

Tarpaulin, ghuṭa ṭop, mom-jamu.

Tent, deru, khuemu, tumboo, pal.

Touch-hole, runjuk-ghura, (ya) -soorakh.

Tompion, duṭṭa.

Trigger, lublube, kul.

Troop, toomun, risalu.

Trooper, suwar.

Trunions, purkan.

Tumbril, peṭee.

V.

Vanguard, hurawul, agaṛee, mohṛa, v. guard.

U.

Uniform, sipahyanu bana

W.

Wadding, kusun, nuwalu.

War, jung, luṛaṇee.

Weapons, ḥurbu, luṭhiyar, v. arms.

Wing, puhloo, bughul, kancee, (right) mucmauna, (left) muesura.

Y.

Yoke, jooa, joowaṭ, juwalee.

Order arms, bundooq ootaro.

Fix bayonets, sungeen chuṛhaṇo.

Shoulder arms, bundooq kandhe pur rukho.

Present arms, sulamee ka hath.

Charge bayonets, sungeen ka hath.

Make ready, ghora do paṛe pur chuṛhaṇo.

Half-cock firelocks, ek paṛe pur ghora rukho.

Present, shuṣṭ lo (ya) bundooq jhookaṇo.

Fire, chhoro, dagho, or maro.

Handle cartridge, tonṛe pur hath rukho.

Open pans, phirjoola- (ya) piyalu-kholo. .

Prime, runjuk pila,o.

Load, tonta bhuro.

Draw ramrod, guz nikalo.

Ram down cartridge, tonta guz se maro.

Return ramrod, guz phir do.

Seize the firelock with a firm grasp, bundooq moothiyake pukuro.

Prime and load, runjuk pila,o, tonta bhuro.

Recover arms, kan se mar.

Dress by the right, duhcene nuzur kuro, burabur hoja,o.

Dress by the left, ba,en nuzur kuro, burabur
hoja,o..

Eyes to the right, duheene nuzur.

Eyes to the left, ba,en nuzur.

By the right backwards dress, duheene dekḥ peeche hutke burabur hoja,o.

By the left backwards dress, ba,en dekḥ peeche
hutke burabur hoja,o.

By the right forwards dress, duheene dekḥ age burḥke burabur hoja,o.

By the left forwards dress, ba,en dekḥ age burḥke burabur hoja,o.

To the right face, duheene phiro.

To the left face, ba,en phiro.

To the right about face, duheene se adha chukkur phiro.

To the left about face, baen se adha chukkur phiro.

Rear ranks take open order, pichharee kholo.

Rear ranks take close order, pichharee milo.

Pile arms, bundooq je,oree kuro.

Ground arms, bundooq sola.o.

Stand at ease, hath mila.o (ya) maro.

Attention, jang se hath mila.o.

Keep up your heads, sir oottha.o.

Ordinary time, march, thumbe qudum se age chulo.

Step short, eree angoothe ke pas rukh dheere qudum chulo.

Quick march, juldee qudum oottha.o.

Step out, lumba qudum rukho.

Change the step, qudum budlo.

Halt, khure ruho.

To the right wheel, duheene khot pur samne se chukkur kha.o.

To the left wheel, baen khot pur samne se chukkur kha.o.

On your right backwards wheel, duheene khot pur peechhe se chukkur kha.o.

On your left backwards wheel, baen khot pur peechhe se chukkur maro.

The company will step back six paces, kumpunec chhu qudum peechhe hutega.

To the left or right oblique, baen ya duheenc tirschha qudum chulo.

Point your toes, panw ke punje dubao.

To wheel on the center, beench ke khood pur chukkur marna.

Mark time, upnee juguh khure ho qudum ootaha.

To march in file, qutar qutar chulna.

The company will advance, kumpunee age burho.

The recruits will go to ball practice every evening, hur roz sham ko niye sipahec chand marree ke waste jaenge.

There will be an inspection of arms to-morrow morning, see that they are all very clean, fujur kul kante kee dekhae hogce, dekhi ki sub uchheer turah saf ruhen.

Take care that the supernumerary arms are cleaned every day, khuburdar ki surunjam jo oobaroo (ya ufzood) hue roz roz mula jawe.

Bring me a written report of the company daily, kumpunee ka uhwal roz roz humare pas likhlaya kuro.

When were you enlisted? toon kab nuokur hooe?

Press the butt well to the shoulder, koonda
mondḍhe pur uchḥee ṭuruh duba.o.

Pull the trigger strong with the middle finger,
beeḥ kee unglee lublubee pur zor se dabo.

Tell off the company into three sections, kum-punee ko teen ṭolee kuro.

The company will wheel in echellon of sections, pulṭun tircḥee ṭolee hoja, egce, or pulṭun seerḥee ka kam kurega.

At what time does the battalion march tomorrow morning? fujur kis wuqt pulṭun kooch kuregee?

How many men are for picquet? aj rat ketṇe juwan ṭilaye kee nuokuree ke waste huen?

---

---

Articles of War.

Article IV. Section 2.

Any officer, non-commissioned officer, or soldier, who being present at any mutiny or sedition, does not use his utmost endeavours to suppress the same, or coming to the knowledge of any mutiny, or intended mutiny, does not without delay give information thereof to his commanding officer, shall be punished by a court-martial with death, or otherwise, according to the nature of his offence.

IV. 2.

Chuothee aeen doosre bab kee.

Jo koee chhota burā cōhdedar ya sipahee, ki-see dunge ya fusad men hāzīr hoke, upne muq-door bhur cōsee ko mulmet nu kure; ya kiso dunge ya cōs ke irade se waqif hoke, trōnt upne surdar ko iskee khubur nu puhcōnchawē, tuo suza cōskce court-martial kee tujweez se qutl hoga, ya uor turuh kee tumbech upnee tuqseer ke laiq pawega.

Article V. Section 2.

Any officer or soldier who shall strike his superior officer, or draw, or offer to draw, or shall lift up any weapon, or offer any violence against him, (being in the execution of his office) on any pretence whatsoever, or shall disobey any lawful command of his superior officer, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as shall, according to the nature of his offence, be inflicted upon him by the sentence of a court-martial.

V. 2.

Panchween aeen doosre bab kee.

Koee cōhdedar ya sipahee, jō upne se bure ya qudeem/cōhdedar ko mare, ya tulwar cōspur khuenche, ya khuencha chahe, ya kisoohutliyar ko othawe, ya kisee turuh kee zuburdustee numood kure, 'kisoohut se; ya upne se bure, ya qudeem ophdedar ka koee wajibee hokm nu mane tuo wosh mardalaja,ega, ya uor koee uesee siyasut jo os ke goonah ke moowa-fiq hogee, so court-martial kee tujweez se os ko deejagee.

Article IV. Section 5.

Whatsoever officer or soldier shall be convicted of having advised or persuaded any other officer or soldier to desert the service, shall suffer such punishment as shall be inflicted upon him by the sentence of a court-martial.

IV. 5.

Jo koee ophdedar, ya sipahee, kisee uor ophde-dar, ya sipahee ko nokree se bhagne ko kuhe, ya sikhawee, no yih os pur shabit ho; tuo osko uesee siyasut milegee jueseec court-martial kee tujweez se thuhraee jaagee.

Article III. Section 10.

Every non-commissioned officer or soldier, who shall be convicted at a court-martial of having sold or lost, or spoiled through his neglect, his horse, arms, clothes, or accoutrements, shall undergo such weekly stoppages (not exceeding the half of his pay) as a court-martial shall judge sufficient for repairing the loss or damage, and shall suffer imprisonment, or such other corporal punishment as his crime shall deserve.

III. 10.

Teesree a,cen duswen bab kee.

Hur ko,ee huwaldar, ya uor ko,ee chhoṭa oḥ-dedar, ya sipahee, jo upne ghore, huṭhiyaṛon, kupṛon, ya sipahiyane surinjamon ko beche, kḥo,e, ya upnee ghufut se bigaṛe, uor yih court-martial men oos pur ṣabit ho ; tuo uesa dand hur aṭhware ooskee adḥee tulub se liya ja,ega, juesa ki court-martial ṭuhrawe, oos nooṣan uor kumtee ke poora kurne ko ; uor qued bḥee hoga, ya etnee mar kḥa,ega, jetnee ooskee tuq-ṣeer ke la,iq ho,ege.

Article I. Section 11.

All non-commissioned officers and soldiers, who shall be found one mile from the camp, without leave in writing from the commanding officer, shall suffer such punishment as shall be inflicted upon them by the sentence of a court-martial.

I. 11.

Puehlee a,een egarwen bab kee.

Sub ko,ee huwaldar, ya uor ko,ee chhoṭe oḥdedar, ya sipahee, jo lushkur ke moḳam se adh kos pur pa,e jawen, upne surdar ke rookhsut kee chitṭhee bina; tuo con ko uesee tumbeeh milegee juesee court-martial kee tujweez se tuhhra,ee ja,ee.

Article II. Section 11.

No officer or soldier shall lie out of his quarters, garrison, or camp, without leave from his superior officer, upon the penalty of being punished, according to the nature of his offence, by the sentence of a court-martial.

II. 11.

Doosree a,een egarwen bab kee.

Chahiye ki ko,ee oḥdedar, ya sipahee upne surdar kee purwangee bina, kuheen bahur rat bḥur nu ruhe, upne dere, qilue, ya lushkur ke moḳam, ya chḥuonee se, nuheen to, suza pawega, upnee tuqṣeer ke moḳawafiq court-martial kee tujweez se.

Article III. Section 11.

Every non-commissioned officer and soldier shall retire to his quarters or tent at the beating of the retreat; in default of which he shall be punished, according to the nature of his offence, by the commanding officer.

III. 11.

Teesree aeen eagarwen bab kee.

Hurek huwaldar, ya uor kisoo chhote qhdedar o sipahee ko chahiye, ki sham kee top ya tumbor bajne pur, upne upne dere men, ya qhikane pur jaruhe, nuheen to upnee tuqseer kee see suza wuhan ke surdar se pawega.

Article IV. Section 11.

No officer, non-commissioned officer, or soldier, shall fail of repairing at the time fixed, to the place of parade, of exercise, or other rendezvous appointed by his commanding officer, if not prevented by sickness, or some other evident necessity; or shall go from the said place of rendezvous, or from his guard, without leave from his commanding officer, before he shall be regularly dismissed or relieved, on the penalty of being punished according to the nature of his offence, by the sentence of a court-martial.

IV. 11.

Chouthee aeen, eagarwen bab kee.

Ugur kee chhota ya bufa qhdedar, ya sipa-hee qoosoor kure bur wuqt puhconchne men qu-wajdgah pur, ya uor jugili jumū hone kee, ki jo surdar ne thuhra,ce ho, bughuer beemaree, ya uor ko,ee zuroorut zahirec; ya osce jugili se ya kisce chuokee puhre se upne surdar ke kuhhe bina, ya moowafiq dustoor upnee budlee ya chhcoṭṭee ke age oohjawe; tuo court-martial kee tujweez se juesee oskee tuqseer thuhregee wucseehee suza os ko milegee.

Article V. Section 11.

Whatever commissioned officer shall be found drunk on his guard, party, or other duty under arms, shall be cashiered for it; any non-commissioned officer or soldier so offending, shall suffer such corporal punishment as shall be inflicted by the sentence of a court-martial.

V. 11.

Panchween aeen egarwen bab kee.

Jo ko,ee buṛa cōhdedar, upnee chuokee puhre pur, ya tu,eenatee, ya kisoo uor khidmut pur, huthiyai bandhe hoo,ee mutwala paya jawe; tuo is bat ke waste burturuf hoga, uo ko,ee chhoṭa cōhdedar, ya upahee jo uesa goonah kure, etee mar kha,ega jatee court-martial kee tujweez men thuhra,ce ja,eege.

duswen bab kee, puehlee, doosree, chhuithween, terhween, solhween, beesween a seenen egarwen bab kee. Tis pur bhee pultun ke nishan ke samne chahiye ki cosko age ka shurt namu zahir kiya jawe, uor age kee qusm cose khila, ee jawe cos ke deen o dhurum ke iqtiqad ke moowafiq.

Declaration.—"In time of peace, after having served three years, on making application for your discharge, through the commanding officer of your company, it will be granted to you, in two months from the date of your application, provided it will not cause the vacancies in your company to exceed ten, in which case you must remain until that objection be removed; but in time of war, you have no claim to a discharge, but must remain, and do your duty, until the necessity of retaining you in the service shall cease."

Shurt namu.—scoluh ke wuqt teen burus kee khidm kurne ke buud, nokree se juwab mangne pur, upnee company ke surdar kee muarifut, toomharee durkhwaast se do muheene ke beech men toomko milega: is shurt se, ki toomharee company men dus adme se ziyadu kum nu hon; aheen to, toom ko ruhna hoga, juktuk yihce hookm tun o mun se manooonga, O hur ek but men, upne ta,een nibahoonga, juaan bhule sipa-hee, uor Company ke wafadar nuoktr ko phabe;

uo wuesahce hoke jo kisoo thoreesee upnee khidmat men qasoor kuroon, tuo muen quboor kiroonga suza,en jo likhee hoo,ee huen a,een lustr-kuree men uor mere roqburoo purhee gu,een huen.

---

In the passage to India, as the subsequent Collection, however imperfect, may prove highly useful to the Hindoostanee scholar, it is here at his service, under the title of—

A Naval Vocabulary, English and Hindoostanee.

It must be well known to every person, that in the high state of perfection to which naval tactics have been brought among Europeans, and the very low state in which they have always been among the natives of India, (or I may perhaps say, Asia) we must have a great many different articles, which they knew nothing of when they came into our ships at first.
The conclusion I mean to draw from this is,
that an immense number of English; Portuguns, and other names, are still used for many parts belonging to a ship. Many of these words even are mutilated, sometimes, so much as to render it difficult to say whether they be mere corruptions or not. As an example, though bumba be a very different sound from pump, still I have little doubt of its being the latter word, only sounded ever after, according to the impression it first made on the ears of the natives; because b and p are not only congenial consonants, but the Indians are fond of affixing the final a to many words corrupted and adopted from other tongues. That mumb signifies a spring, fountain, or gush of water, in Arabic, the Compiler will allow, without in the least invalidating thereby his own conjecture. Another remark worthy of attention is, there are many parts of a ship which a British officer seldom, perhaps never, has occasion to speak of to a native of India, hence there are no Hindoostanee names used for such parts. This last intimation was necessary to prevent the Compiler from being blamed for leaving out the names of many, otherwise essential, parts of a ship.

He claims very little merit to himself, but cannot forbear mentioning, although unautho-ized to do this, how much he is indebted to Captain William Ramsay, of the Country Service, who was so kind as to give him verbally, not only the English part of this Vocabulary, but also the Hindoostanee, pronouncing the whole of the words exactly as he had been accustomed to hear them used in actual practice. Notwithstanding all our care, many of the names must be rather incorrect, from the impossibility of learning, with sufficient precision, any language by the ear alone; but I am confident, from the experience of Captain Ramsay, that any person, pronouncing the words as they are here spelt, cannot fail to make his hearers understand him. He, of course, must not expect this desirable consequence, until he knows the key to the orthography.

It was the intention of the Editor of the present Work, to insert it in his East Indian Guide, had the papers reached him in sufficient time for that purpose. To the friend from whom he at last received them, the British Indian naval world are indebted for the present Vocabulary, which has long been one desideratum among the many sea-faring people of all nations who frequent India. They will not only find these pages highly useful from port to port in that country, but also when necessity forced mariners, in distant voyages, to avail themselves of the peoples services from that part of the world, no man can doubt of this small work producing the most beneficial consequences. At all events, it may serve as the foundation of something much more useful, in this hitherto neglected department of the Indian tongue. The few phrases which have been given, will be no bad specimen of the rest which are still wanted to render the Work a complete guide at sea, as well as on shore, wherever the Hindoostanee language may be concerned in the safety of vessels and their navigators.

Sir Home Popham was some years ago at the trouble of compiling a naval vocabulary for the use of the fleet under his command in the east; we cannot therefore well despair of seeing some valuable work yet published, expressly upon the subject in question. Though nobody will dispute that the language of Indian sailors is at best a medley or jargon, still any man may assert, that bad as it is, and nothing can well be worse, it is nevertheless better than no language at all. When we recollect, that all sciences must be rude and crude in their first outset, we shall not too severely censure this Vocabulary. Besides, if the lives of people depend on prompt orders, it signifies very little how barbarous and ungrammatical the language of such instructions may be. Indeed we have a very popular lesson in our own speech, in matters of this kind, in the story of "Extinguish that nocturnal illumination aloft." "No such rope, an please your honour, in the whole top." "Douce the glim, Jack!" "Aye, aye, Sir." After these few preliminary observations, we shall leave the praise-worthy Compiler to speak for his self.

A.

Aback	Baksee.
Abaft,	Peechhil.
Able-bodied,	Bhula bhāee.
Aboard-ship,	Juhaz pur.
— main-tack,	Bordoo burā moora.
About,	Pher, pherke, ghoomake.
Aburton,	Ara.
Acorn,	Kalsur kee toppee.
Adrift,	Chhoota.
Afore,	Agil.
Aft,	Peechhil.
After,	Peechhil ka.

Aground,	Chheeta, laga, sookhe, pur churha.
Ahead,	Agil.
A-lee,	Bordoo.
Allowance,	Resum, from ration .
Aloft,	copur, dol pur.
Along-side,	Bordoo men, bhirke.
— shore,	Kinare kinare.
— lying,	Kurwut hoke.
Aloof,	Door, tufawut.
Amain,	Ek dum, sub milke.
Amid ships,	Beecha beech, beech men.
Ammin (for the lead)	Proom kee churbee.
Anchor,	Lungur.
— shank,	— kee dundee.
— eye,	— ke aril
— ring,	— ka anu.
— nut,	— ka kan.
— crown,	— ka nok.
— stock,	— ka dang.
— bill,	— ke soopre ka nok
— sheet,	Sheet lungur.
— best bower,	Bura lungur.
— small bower,	Chhota lungur.
— kedge,	Kedge lungur.
— stream,	Stream lungur.

Anchor, to cast,	Lungur-dalna or ehhorid.
—— at,	—— pur.
—— comes home,	} — kusar kurta.
—— drags,
—— is foul,	{ men bolta;
	{ purā hue.
—— a-trip,	—— coṭha.
—— an end,	—— khura.
Anchorage,	—— baree or lungur
	kurne kee juguh.
A-peek.	Peek.
Astern,	Peechhil.
Ashore,	Kinare.
Athwart-house,	Samne ara purā.
Avast,	Bus. *

---

* In my passage home I commenced a regular vocabulary myself, and would have finished it completely, had not the requisite application and study menaced my constitution with a relapse to the very complaint in my head that drove me from India. This unpleasant sensation, during the voyage, deterred me from prosecuting the work farther than a few of the first letters, which have all been lost since, but the first, or A, above, and even it on board is capable of still greater extension, and that improvement which cannot be obtained on shore. A task of this nature may yet serve to beguile the tedium of a long passage, and furnish the nautical world with a work of great utility, something on the plan of the

Awning,

Chhutree.

B.

Backstay, (breast)

Per fruedee.

(after)

Peechhil fruedee.

Ballast,

Neelum.

Belaying pin,

Folit.

Bell,

Ghuree.

Bentick shrouds,

Falta arvil.

Between decks,

Tootuk ke beech.

*Bill boards, **

To broach to

Phir-jana,

Bight,

Goobba.

To bale,

Panee-nikalna.

Bends,

Kumur bund.

Birth,

Juguh, mukan.

Barnacle,

Kaloolona ke . . .

Boarding-netting, .

Bordoo kee .

Bay,

Ghop.

only part to which I was capable of devoting any time and attention, now published in the expectation of thereby stimulating some other person fairly to finish what I had just begun, when bad health arrested my career in the outset.

* Those which have no Hindoostanee, but were in Italics, to show they are used by the natives, as it would be unnecessary to repeat the same word. These and other blanks every person can fill up, when he finds better expressions than the more English for them.

Beacon,	Buota.
To Bilge,	tootna, toṛna.
To belay,	Bandhna.
Bank or shoal,	Chur, khurabu.
To break bulk,	Khan-kholna.
Binnacle,
—— lamps,	Sheeshee.
Bitts,
—— stopper,	Bit ka bcorsa.
Block,	Koopee.
—— shelve,	Koopee ka rāda.
—— pin,	Koopee kee chabee.
Boat,	Muchwar.
—— long,	Burā muchwar.
—— hook,
Boatswain, &c.	Surhung, tundel.
Bobstay,
Bolt,
Boom, Bowline
—— cringle,
—— bridle,	Bowline ka mat.
Bow,	Agil.
Bowsprit,	Subdura.
—— cap,	—— ka took.
—— shrouds,	—— labran.
—— gammoning,	Boṛee bandh.

Brace,

Brail,

Broken backed,

Break-water,

Bucket,

Bull's eye,

Bunt,Buntline,Buoy,

Stringee.

Kumree.

Pooshtu.

Baltee.

Lada.

C.

Cabin,

Cable,

——— sheet,

——— best bower,

——— stream,

——— bits,

Camboose,

Canvas,

Carpenter,

———'s mate,

Cap,

Cape,

Cargo,

Carronade,

Capstern,

——— bar,

Kumra.

Umar.

Sheet umar.

Bura umar.

Stream umar.Umar ka bit.

Chooldag.

Seer ka kupa (lit. sail's cloth)

Mistree, soot.

——— ka mate.

Took.

Sees, tek.

Bhurtee.

Tumboora top.

Duor.

——— ka bar.

Capstern pall,	Duor ka pall .
Cat block,	Cat koopee.
Cat block fall ,	———— ka fall .
———— harpings,	Arvil.
———— head,	Cat .
———— stopper,	— ka boorsa.
———— hook ,
Caulker,	Kalputee.
Caulking mallet,	———— ka moogra.
———— iron,	———— ka loha.
Chain board,	Mez or Mej.
———— plate,	— ka loha or puṭṭa.
Charnel,	Mej.
Chissel ,
Cleet ,
Clew,	Konya.
Clewgarnet,	Stringee.
Clewline,	Stringee.
Coil, (of rope, &c.)	Sankla.
Coir , (ditto)
Compass ,	[and galley .
Cooking place or galley,	Chōoldan, v. camboose
———— kettle,	Bura handee.
Crook , (for stock)	Moorghee ka kapera.
Colours,	Nishan.
Creeper,	Chhōṭa grapline, v.
	grapline .

Cross-jack,

Shag-seer.

Cross-trees,

Koorsee.

Crow,

D.

Davit,

Mutam.

Deadeye,

Buraproom, v. hand lead.

Deep sea lead,

—— kee russee.

—— line,

Deck,

Tootuk.

—— Orlop,

Neeche ka tootuk.

—— Gun,

Beech ka tootuk.

Dog-stopper,

Agil ka boorsa.

Dolphin-striker,

Downhall,

ootara.

Driver,

Goosee.

—— boom,

—— boom.

Dock,

Godee.

E.

Earing,

Mutwur.

Ensign,

Nishan, v. colours.Eye-bolt,Eye-let-hole,

F.

Fall,Fidd,Fish-fall,

—— hook,

Fish-pendant,	Fish ka mat.
Foot-brails,	Neeche ka stringee.
Fore ( mast , &c.)	Trinkut.
Foreward	Agil.
Funnel ,

G.

Gaff,	Goosee purwan.
— top sail,	— gavee.
Galley,	Choldan,
Gasket ,
Glass,	Sheeshee, v. log , half-hour glass .
Grapline,	Burā grapline , v. creeper .
Grapnel ,
Gun-room,	Gunner khanu.
Gurwale ,
Guy ,

H.

Half-hour glass,	Ek ghuree kee sheeshee.
Haulyards,	Hunjies.
Hammer,	Martel.
Hammock,	Joollee.
— stauncheon,	— ka stauncheon .
— netting,	— kee jalee.
Hand-lead,	Hath ka or chhotā proom.
— line,	Chhotā proom kee russee.
— pump,	Chhotā bumba.

'Handpike,

Hanks,

Kura.

Hatchet,

Kralee,

Hatch-bar,

Falka ka loha.

Hatchway,

Falka.

Hawser,Hawse-hole,

Heart,

Mutam.

Helm,

Sookkan, putwar.

——'s *man,*Sookkanee, a seacunnie!

Hold,

Khanu, k̐han.

Hook,Horse,or Thana.

Hose,

Kebee.

J.

Jack,Jeer,Jib,

K.

Keel,

Ural.

Kelson,

Falta ural.

Kentledge,Knee,

Kurva.

Knight-head,

Moot.

L.

Landyards,

Goola.

Larboard,

Duwa.

Leasling,	Seezador.
Lee-side,	Barugee turuf.
Lift,	Muntel.
Log,	Top.
—— line,	—— kee russee.
—— reel,	—— kee churkhee.
—— glass,	—— kee sheeshee.
Lower,	Neeche.
Lower trussel trees,	Koorsee.

M.

Magazine,	Baroot khanu.
Main (as mast, &c.)	Bura. *
Mallet,	Moogra.
—— serving,	Fral ka moogra.
Man-rope,	Boordoo kee russee.
Marlin-spike,	Pasad.
Mast,	Dol.
—— top,	Kavee dol.
—— top-gallant,	Subur dol.
—— royal,	Tubur dol.
Mast-stopper,	Dol ka boorsa.
Middle-stay-sail,	Falta suvo,ee.
Mizen	Kulmee.

---

* By placing the native words for mast, sail, stay, &c. &c. after fore or mizen, in this way, many compound words may be left entirely to the reader's own ingenuity.

Mizen vangs,
 ——— peak,

Turnal.
 Kulmee peeka.

N.

Netting,

Jalee.

O.

Oakum is called stop,

but mangled to Estop.

Oar,

Hesa.

P.

Pasline,

Peak-brails,

Pulung.

Pendant,

Lumba macee.

Pirate,

Dukuet.

Pinnace,

Pitch,

Damur.

Point,

Reef ka soo ee.

Port,

K̄pirkee.

Pump,

Bumba.

——— stauncheon,

——— ka stauncheon.

——— bolt,

——— ka keble.

——— brake,

——— ka lath.

——— spear,

——— ka lumba jooj.

——— box,

——— ka chhota jooj.

——— leather,

——— ka chumra.

——— tacks,

——— ka preg.

——— hook,

——— ka hook.

——— sounding-rod,

——— ka seekh.

Pump hose,	Bumaka kebee.
Puttock shrouds,	Puttock labran,
—— plates, !	—— kailoha.

R.

Rail,
Ratline,	Eesket.
Reef-band,
—— cringle,	[robin.
—— point,	Mutwur kee seekee, v.
Ridge-rope,
Rigging,	Labran, v. shrouds .
Ring-bolt,	Khura.
Ring-rope,
Robin,	Mutwur kee seekee.
Rope yarn,
Royal,	Tubur.
Rudder,	Sookkan, v. helm .
—— pendants,	—— ka mat.

S.

Sail, corrupted to	Seer.
—— fore, !	Trinkut.
—— main,	Bura seer.
—— mizen,	Kulmee.
—— top,	Gavee.
—— top-gallant,	Subur.
—— royal,	Tubur.
—— sky-scraper,	Bubur.

Sailors plates ( for eating off )	Toopra.
Scupper-hole,	Burnul.
Scuttle,	Chhor khirkee.
Service,	Fral.
Shank painter chain,	Zunjeer bosu.
Sheet,	Duman.
Side-rope,	Boordoo kee russee.
Shrouds,	Labran, v. rigging .
Slabline,	Pulung.
Slings,
Snatch-block,	Gul kuta koopee.
Spring, ( stay, &amp;c. )	Falta (suvoee).
Sprit-sail,	Subdura, v. bowsprit
Spunyarn,
Standards, &amp;c.	Kurva.
Starboard,	Jimnee.
Stay, ( the rope )	Tie.
Stay, ( the sail )	Suvoee, or suvaee.
Stay-tackle,	Suvaee ka eree.
Stopper-bolt,	Boorse ka loha.
Studding-sail,	Dustur.
———— lower, &c.	Neeche dustur, &c.

T.

Tack,	Mora.
Tackle,	Eree.
Truck,	topée.

Truck fore,
 ——— yard,
 ——— stay,
 ——— block,
 ——— pendant,

Taffrail,

Tail block,

Tar,

Thimble,

Throat-bralls,

Tie,

Tiller,

—— rope,

—— wheel,

Timber-head,

Top,

Top-maul,

Top-rope,

Tow-boat,

Tow-line,

Trusses,

fall,

Try-sail,

Twine,

Trunkut-eree.

Purwan ka eree.

Suva,ee ka eree.

Eree ka koopee.

—— ka mat.

Sat wala koopee.

Gulle kee stringee.

Sookkan ka laṭh or bukra.

—— kee russee.

—— kee churkhee.

Moot.

Panjra (perhaps pinjra, as it is something like a cage).

Sar.

—— ka fall.

Goosee (and I believe) kulmee.

Scotlee.

V.

Vessel,

Juhaz.

W.

Waist-cloth,

Boordoo ka purdu.

Wales,

Kumurmund.

Water-cask,

Panee ka pipe (misnamed peep).

— hose,

Kebee.

— scoop,

Scoop (mistermed koop).

Weather-side,

Bapur turuf.

Windlass,

Duor, v. capstern.Windsail,

Y.

Yard,

Purwan.

— arm,

— ka lash.

The following are a few necessary words of command in working a ship, without any regard to their order, as every sailor understands that perfectly well.

• Ready about,

Tueyar ja, ega, ja, ega.

Helm's a lee,

Gos bordoo.

Main-sail haul,

Phira burā seer.

---

* By placing the words for main, fore, mizen, main-top, &c. &c. all the yards will be found, which it would have been superfluous to insert here.

Haul forward,	Phira, o. agil.
Haul aboard the fore- tack,	Tan neeche trinkut mora.
Brace up and haul aft,	Lag* brace , tan duman.
Haul the main top bowline,	Tan agil burā gavee bowline .
Haul aft the foresheet,	Tan peechehil trinkut duman.
Hoist the jib,	Hoonkar jib .
Back the main top sail,	Booksee † burā gavee.
Fill the main top sail,	Bhur burā gavee.
Square the yards,	Purwanyuham burabur.
Flat in foreward,	Haleloo agil.
Let go the top sail haul-yards,	Chhordoo gavee hunjes.
Clew up the main-sail,	Stringee burā seer.
Let go the top-gallant braces,	Chhordo subur brace .
Furl the mizen top sail,	Bandh kulmee gavee.
Reef the fore top sail,	Reef bandh trinkut ga- vee.

---

*. I am apt to think, this should be lug or luga, from lu-gana, and meaning that people should fix upon the braces; however, this is mere conjecture.

† This word (booksee) may be from our own word back.

Let go the anchor,	Chhoṛdo lungur.
Heave, or hoist,	Anesh.
Hoist away,	Hoonkar.
Moor under fours,	Char lungur kuro.
Lower,	Aniyo.
Avast,	Hoho.
Belay,	Bandh.
Heave the lead,	Proom ḍal.
———— log,	Top ḍal.
Our ship does not an-	Humara juhaz sookkan
swer the helm,	ko nuheen manta.

The following Officers Names could not with propriety come into the body of the Vocabulary.

Ship's owner,	Juhaz ka malik.
Captain , and if a Native,	Na-khooda.
Pilot,	Urkaṭee.*
Mate,	Malum.
Boatswain ,
Purser ,
Steward ,

---

* It is supposed they got this name from the only pilots, formerly, in this part of the world, being in the service of the Nuwwab of Urkaṭ (Arcot) which, I think, seems very probable.

The foregoing sheets of this useful Work were kept in type for several months, in the fruitless hope of receiving some little assistance from the seafaring gentlemen in India, among whom the Editor distributed a number of copies for correction and enlargement. Want of leisure, or a dread of appearing in print, has probably been the cause of failure on this occasion, among those who were invited to aid the undertaking. Now that it is before the Public, we may be more fortunate, by the time a second edition is called for, and every intermediate communication will be printed, with or without acknowledgment, as the parties concerned may desire. The orders which appeared most essential in a work of this kind, were such as might tend, when promptly obeyed, to save the lives of people who fall overboard, or to prevent the loss of a vessel and crew, perhaps, in particular emergencies. I could not with propriety venture to give these in the grammatical language of Hindoostan, lest men long accustomed to a corrupt dialect might not instantly comprehend what may be communicated in that way, by people still more ignorant of the language than those they address, amidst dangers which admit of no delay. Were a Lushkuree (Lashun) in a dark night to say, Muen muoje ko nuzdeek phootte monts hoon, I hear the breakers not far off, a vessel might be upon the rocks, merely because the officer did not understand the poor fellow's lingo, time enough to put about and preserve the lives and ship under his charge from instant destruction. Dead men tell no tales; if they could, we would probably learn, that many fatal accidents, by sea and land, originated in ignorance of the popular speech of India, which is every day becoming more important to those at all connected with the British interests in that part of the Empire. In this point of view, I cannot help recommending the completion of a Naval Vocabulary to the serious attention of good Orientalists, either on the passage from or to the East Indies, as they only can then accomplish so desirable a Work.

---

BEFORE we close this Volume, it is my wish fairly to try the learner's real progress in the syntax and etymology of the Hindoostanee; for, without some share of etymological acumen, and no small adroitness in the application of general principles in grammar to any one language, he never can become a great proficient in Oriental tongues. That no excuse for ignorance may now remain, it seems just, before we proceed to the intended ordeal, that I should indulge the reader with the following digression.

The derivation and composition of words in this language cannot well be very difficult to those who have studied the significant particles and words, from page 62 to 103, in the beginning of the present Work; I shall nevertheless resume the subject here, that as little as possible of this momentous portion of the Hindoostanee may be omitted by me or neglected by the diligent student. Much will depend on the interchangeable letters being well recollected, with a facility of accounting for the suppression or addition of certain letters, either to prevent a disagreeable hiatus or monotonous repetition, of which instances in abundance have been produced, when treating of the Orthoepigraphical Hindee-Roman Alphabet.

. Ee is the most common final significant particle, and applicable to so great a variety of meanings, often contradictory in themselves, that practice alone can enable the scholar to handle it with much dexterity in the ninety-nine instances of a hundred, where it occurs etymologically in this tongue. Be-eeman, faithless, udhurnee, dishonest; be-eemancee, faithlessness, udhurm, dishonesty,—is one proof of a thousand, being in fact an inconsistency which must pervade every language derived from several such opposite sources as the Hindoostanee, viz. the Sanskrit, Arabic, and Persian.

Tee, nee, gee, oee, aee, on some occasions, usurp the place of ee: Kum, deficient, kum-tee, deficiency, chand-nee, moon-light, lachar-gee, helpless-ness, nek-oee, good-ness, udhik-a,ee, over-plus, gurm-a,ee, heat, toorsh-a,ee, sour-ness, acid fruits, &c.

Gee is the ordinary adjunct of Persian participles in du, or adjectives in u, nu: Zindu-gee, life, living, murdanu-gee, manli-ness, and in some words it is applied adjectively, whence khan-gee, domestic, pesh-gee, money advanced. Lest the reader might still miscall this particle as jee, let him now learn that deewan-gee, from deewanu, mad, signifies mad-ness, while deewan-jee, denotes a respectful address to a factor, steward, &c. equivalent to our Master Factor! &c.

Anu, applies to adjectives, places, and things: murd-anu, manly, or the men's apartments, dust-anu, gloves, or hand-covering, ungoosht-anu, a finger-ring, tulub-anu, dunage, muh-eenu, a month, moon-course. Consult page 95.

U seems to bring khan-u, a house, domus, from khan, dominus, a lord,—pesh-u, a trade, from pesh, before,—and hurkar-u, a messenger, &c. from hurkar, every business; but, on the whole, little can be added on this head to pages 64, 65, &c.

The imperative plural of many causal verbs is used as an abstract noun; thus, buna,o, management, duba,o, influence, churha,o, ascent, mila,o, concord, bika,o, sale, muna,o, persuasion, from bunna, to do, be made, &c. bunana, to make, manage, dubna, to be squeezed, dubana, to squeeze, press down, churhna, to climb, churhana, to raise, mount, milna, to meet, milana, to conciliate, join, unite, manna, to mind, munana, to advise, &c.

Buchu, may now and then be met with for chu, &c. of page 89, chuh-buchu, a trough, &c. from chah, a well, Mooghul-buchu, or Moogh-buchù, a young Mooghul.

The old infinitives which terminated in un or wun, are still used as verbal nouns: Julun, heat or burning, dhowun, washing, kuturun, pa- ring, mānjun, scouring, or tooth-powder; so are the ancient present tenses, lugut, expence, burhut, increase, &c.

Wa, a, woo, ya, &c. are diminutives, &c. in murd-wa, a māwīkin, Peera, Peerwa or Pirwoo, a, for Peerun of page 82, and yaroo, from yar, friend, khet-iyā, a little field, bhoom-iyā, a landlord, mukhūn-iyā, a butter man.

Loo, ora, eroo, iyara, oṛa, are mere deviations of wal, wār, in page 96: Punkh-erōo, a feather'd animal or fowl, jhugra-loo, a wrangler, ḍunt-aloo, a biter, oo-loo, an owl, from its cry, oo oo, i. e. the oo oo wala, or howlet, ghus-iyara, a grass-cutter, bhūṭiyara, a cook, hunṣorā, a laugher, lurkorā, lurkorēe, a parent, &c.

In khul-ṛee, the foreskin, pug-ṛee, a turban, dum-ṛee, half a farthing, guth-ṛee, moṭ-ṛec, a bundle, ṛee marks them as diminutives of khal, skin, pug, a large turban, dam, a piece of money, ganṭh, and moṭ, a bale.

Uwul, implies frequency or excess of any action: Lūr-uwul, mutual blows, pil-uwul, copious and social potation, khet-uwul, romping, &c.

A, applies to weights, numbers, &c. so,—udh sera, ek sera, doo sera, by which they weigh things of half a ser, equivalent to our pound, as the ser is nearly two of our pounds, sometimes more. Ekka, the ace, doo'a, the dent, &c. Hath, the hand, sur, the head, moonh, the face, mouth, ankha, the eye, &c. thus express hand-ed, hutha, headed, sura, faced, moonha, unkha, eyed, applicable to a great many words in this way. See page 63, &c.

Wala, besides its meaning formerly noticed, expresses both the present and future participle: Jane wala, a man going, jane walee, a woman going, bhagne wala, fugiens, fugiturus, bhagne walee, fugitura. It also means able, in words like khañc walee rotee, eatable bread, likhne walee bat, a speech proper, or fit to be written. Kuonsee ghoree laoon, which of the mares shall I bring? kalee walee lao, bring the black one.

Ala, and war, are local particles in sew-ala, the temple of Jupiter, hurwar, a burial place. The last, as war or bar, denotes a day, as in page 207.

Ar and r, are evident in chum-ar, a carrier, sona-r, a goldsmith, loha-r, an iron smith, lon-ar, a salt pit, deed-ar, sight, vision, gooft-ar, speech, from cham, hide, sona, gold, loha, iron, lon, salt, &c.

Uet, ueta, ueta: dukuet, a robber, bhuluet, a spearman, kurkuet, a bard, churhueta, a rider, bughueṭa, a young tiger,—respectively from ḍaka, robbery, bḥala, a spear, kuṛka, a war song, churḥna, to mount or ride, baḡh, a tiger.

Ukuṛ, wukuṛ, a particle of agency in the following examples: kood-ukuṛ, a leaper, peewukuṛ, a drunkard.

Ban, mihr-ban, friendly, &c. from mihr, friendship, bad-ban, a wind-catcher, or sail, deed-ban, the sight of a gun.

Dost, friend, and dooshmun, foe, are thus used; wu.un dost, a patriot, zun dost, fond of women, zun dooshmun, averse to women,—resembling our words philo and anti, in composition.

Yab, and ran, obtaining, found; whence kum-yab, scarce, kam-yab, or -ran, obtaining one's wishes, fortunate.

Goozar, rendering,<sup>1</sup> shookr-goozar, grateful, mal-goozar, paying taxes.

Goostur, distributing, udl-goostur, administering justice.

Shikun, breaking, uhd-shikun, breaking a promise.

Bar, shedding, &c. ushk-bar, shedding tears, ghur-bar, household, dur-bar, levee, court, gusan-bar, heavy laden.

Put, suena-put, commander of an army.

Dookhtu, pierced, stitched, jigur-dookhtu, heart-pierced, chushm-dookhtu, hood-winked.

Rus, rusan, jooz-rus, penetrating, parsimonious, fuez-rusan, generous.

Pizeer, affecting, able, &c. dil-pizeer, touching the heart, turbiyut-pizeer, tractable, murummut-pizeer, repair-able.

Mal, trodden, beat down, &c. pa,e-mal, ruined, roo-mal, dust-mal, a handkerchief, towel, &c.

Bundee, jumuu-bundee, a rent-roll, zuban-bundee, an affidavit, danu-bundee, an appraisal of grain.

The adjunctive and prepositive form of composition may even give an opposite meaning to the compounds, as sal-khord, stricken in years, khord-sal, of tender years.

Roo, rookh, face, &c. puree-roo, fairy-faced, gool-rookh, rose-cheeked.

Ha, at, gan, an, jat, present themselves as Persian plural signs in the Hindoostanee: bar-ha, times, murdan, men, buch-gan, children, bagh-at, gardens, zilu-jat, provinces.

Kuha kuhee, altercation, mara maree, mutual blows, is a form occasionally thus used.

Many verbs are formed by adding na or ana to adjectives or nouns, whence moṭa, fat, moṭana, to fatten, kulee, a bud, kuliyaana, to bud, unglee, the finger, ungliyana, to finger, lura, green, huriyana, to grow green, kuchcha, raw, timid, kuchchiyana, to flinch, &c.

Besides the verbs enumerated in page 195, there are several others used in the same way: marna, to beat, strike, crack, bore, try, &c. with other verbs, it means to fill, moot-marna, to be-piss, bhur-marna, to bedaub.

Muchna, muchana, coṭhna, coṭhana, to rise, raise, excite, &c.; ghool-muchana, to kick up a dust, make a noise.

Bandhna, to form, invent.

Dourana, to exert, &c. to which a great many others may be added, with meanings obvious enough from their own signification, in the Vocabularly.

Some causals are formed, by la or al instead of a: khana, to eat, khilana, to feed, peena, to drink, pilana, to cause drink, buethna, to sit, buethalna, to set, dena, to give, dilana, to cause give.

Bikna, to be sold, has bechna, to sell, chhootna, to get loose, chhorna, to let loose, and phutna, to crack, has pharna, to burst, tear, &c.; but such irregulars are comparatively very few, and all the others are readily discriminated and acquired from practice.

DERIVATION.

A reduplication of the neuter or active preterite, with the causal, denotes any thing ready done, as buna bunaya, ready made, seekha sikhaaya, ready taught, pukka pukkaya, ready cooked.

A few infinitives spring, as Hindoostanee verbs, regularly from the Arabic or Persian; they are chiefly the following, and subject to the same formation as other verbs in the causal.

Azmana, to try.*	Khuruchna, to expend.
Buhuṣna, to argue.	Kufunana, to shroud.
Budulna, to change.	Luruzna, to shake.

---

* Several of these may be arranged under the classes they appertain to, being so far assimilated with the rest, as to possess their various neuter, active, and causal forms. Besides these in the text, there are some others, in which the coincidence with the Persian verbs is very great; kurna, kurdun, to do, churna, chureedun, to graze, tupna, tupeedun, to heat, or grow hot, mulna, maledun, to rub, murna, moordun, to die, dena, dadun, to give,—all of which probably spring from the same origin with the Sanskrit, as the list might be easily increased, had we leisure to select more.

Bukhshna, to grant.	Nuwazna, to present, to offer.
Daghna, to mark.
Dumna, to spring.	Nuzuranna, to give.
Dufunana, to bury.	Quboolna, to agree.
Furmana, to order.	Qurzna, to borrow.
Furrana, to snort.	Runjana, to vex.
Goozurna, to pass.	Rungna, to colour.
Gurdanna, to infect.	Tuhseelna, to collect.
Khumna, to bend.	Turashna, to pare.
Khureedna, to purchase.	Ungezna, to bear.
Khurkhurana, to snore.	Wurghulanna, to whee-
Khurashna, to scrape.	dle.
Khuradna, to polish.	zidna, to wrangle.

An extensive class of attributes results from the junction of adjectives (participles included) and nouns, or adjectives with adjectives; as another also does from two nouns repeated or conjoined, thus :

Kooshadu-dil, open-hearted.

Shikustu-khatir, } broken-hearted, &c.
Mun-muleen, }

Zur-must, } purse-proud, &c.
Dhun-mudhee, }

Tihee-dust, } empty-handed, &c.
Chhoochha-bath, }

Tun-doorcoot, healthy, well.

Kul-jeebha, } foul-mouthed.
Siyah-kam, }

Pust-boolund, }
Nusheb-furaz, } rough, rugged, uneven, &c.
Ooncha-neechea, }

Bhula-chunga, } sound, safe and sound.
şuḥeeḥ-salim, }

Doobla-putla, slender.

Moṭa-tazu, plump.

Door-duraz, distant.

Chuora-chukla, spacious.

Khurab-khustu, ruined.

colṭa-poolṭa, } topsy-turvy.
Zer-zubur, }

Ga,o-doom, taper, sloping, a cow tail.

Moonḥ-zor, } headstrong, hard-mouthed, un-
Şeenu-zor, } ruly, obstinate, &c.

Ahoo-chushm, } fawn-eyed, timorous, bashful,
Mirg-nuen, } &c.

Goolab-chushm, meek-eyed, &c.

Mahee-poosht, convex, fish-backed.

Sug-şifut, currish.

• Bun-manoos, savage.

Murd-mizaj, manly.

Poombu-duhn, mealy-mouthed.

Nouns of reciprocation, &c. are formed in this manner :

Kuha-kuhee, altercation.

Chooma-chatee, dalliance.

Mara-maree, scuffle.

Dekha-dekhee, emulation.

Duora duoree, hurry, flurry.

Mookka mookkee, } fisty cuffs.
Ghoosum ghoosa, }

Bat cheet, }
Goof o goo; } chit chat,
Qeel o qal, } conversation,
Gup shup, } tittle tattle.

Galee giluoj, a brawl.

Ghool ghupara, } uproar, hubbub, noise,
Shor shur, } hurly-burly.
Dhoom dham, }

Peech-panee, wish-wash.

Saz baz, }
Cheez-bust, } furniture, baggage, gear.
Kul kanta, } Deru dunda, }
tunt ghunt, }

Ugur bugur, } stuff, trash, trumpery.
Bulae booghma, }

Ghur bar, }
 Khan o man, } family, household.

Mukur-chukur, deceit.

Khoord-boord, embezzlement.

Jhooth mooth, a lie, fiction.

Pech pach, erasion.

Heelu-huwalu, }
 tal mutol, } precarication.

and generally by a kind of alliteration that seems quite congenial with a Hindoostanee ear, there being few motions or accidents connected with sound, hurry, &c. which are not accurately discriminated by a large class of imitative verbs for this purpose that may properly be styled reitative; whence jhun jhun, jingle; thun thun, clink; bhin bhin, buzzing; sun sun, simmering; phoos phoos, whispering; khul khul, undulation; kilbil, a peristaltic motion; dhuk dhuk, palpitation: Besides these, we often meet with the colloquial repetitions which prove at first so disgusting to strangers, viz. rote-e-rote, chhooree-ooree, chuo-kee-uokee, basun-wasun, rusee-wasee, whose reiterated syllables are not always, in my opinion, wholly useless; on the contrary, they may occasionally possess a very comprehensive meaning; such as bread, or any thing of the kind to eat; a knife, or any cutting instrument, wanted in a hurry to cut with; a chair, stool, bench, seat; a plate, dish, vessel, bason, &c. and rusee-wusee, probably means a rope, cord, string, or in short any thing to tie with, when in great haste. To the foregoing may be added, lurke-purke, lurke-bale, kuchbuch, the young ones, brats, &c. with many more, which cannot be enumerated in this work.

Personal and other nouns, over and above those already inserted, are likewise expressed by the present and perfect participles; as the following all spring from infinitives, bukna, to speak, dhurna, to place, &c.

Bukta, eloquent, &c.

Bolta, the soul.

Dhurta, a debtor.

Lugta, expence.

Kurta, doer.

Data, a giver, &c.

Rumta, a pilgrim.

Mungta, a beggar.

Khata, a granary.

Chuheeta, darling.

Chhata, an umbrella.

Khoolta, open, &c.

Purta, average.

Janta, knowledge.

Manta, sway, influence.

Sookha, drought.

Multa, worn coin.

Pooja, worship.

Phirta, rejected, &c.

Ghera, a circle.

Many are also the same as the infinitive: rona, weeping, tearful, sona, sleepy, mootna, &c.

pisser, nuchna, a dancer, sikh, a scholar, jan, a conjuror; especially in composition, burbol, a boaster, dil-chul, brave, unkhmcond, inexperienced; and to this form by adding ee, we have boleee, speech, muree, mortality, pheree, a circuit, khojee, a searcher, joree, a pair. -

For words numerically compounded, consult pages 203, &c. observing that several names of places, &c. are thus formed, viz. chihil-sitoo,* bara duree, puch-muhla, tirpuoliya, tirsoolee, chihil-pa,e, char-pa,e, which are so obvious, that the least attention will make the learner master of this mode of composition.

The following proper names (with many more that cannot be enumerated here) are much used among the Moosulmans:

Buhadoor Ulee, the Warrior of Ulee.

Khooda bukhsh, the Gift of God.

Ubdollah, the Slave of God.

Ghoolam Moohummud, the Slave of Moohummud.

Kulb Husun, the Dog of Husun.

* Forty pillars, a palace at Ghazeepoor, so called, which our countrymen, who attend little to true pronunciation, very easily convert to Chelsea-tomb!

Uzeez collah, Dear to God.

Moueyoon ood deen, Defender of the Faith.

Usud Ulee, the Lion of Ulec.

Sher Moohummud, the Tiger of Moohummud.

And as few names in this language are not derivatives compounded, the Hindoos also have their Krishoon-ducal, Gunesh-das, Ram-singh, &c. though it must be admitted, that the natives of every description are apt to give their children, on particular occasions, the most humiliating appellations, from a superstitious notion, that this will appease, or propitiate an offended diety: Whence—Koorkoot, sweepings, Phenkoo, outcast, Ko,ela, charcoal, Kookur, dog, Kale, blackey, Chhekuoree, six cowries, Chirkit, dregs. Some names have their origin in the time or place of the person's birth: thus Mungulee, Boodhoo, Etwaree, Ramzancee, Jungulee, Lushkuree, Muedanee; while others are in fact a kind of titular compellation assumed by or conferred on individuals or particular classes of men; such are—

Mirza,	$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Moghuls, \&c.} \\ \text{Beg,} \\ \text{Agha,} \\ \text{Khaja,} \end{array} \right\}$	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{sir, lord,} \\ \text{master.} \end{array} \right.$	Meer, sueyuds.
Beg,			Shekh, shekhs.
Agha,			Khan, puthans.
Khaja,

Muha raj,	} prince,	Sah,	} bankers,
Koonwur,		Sc̄h,
Rana,	} &amp;c.	Shah,	} mendi-
Moola,	} doctors,	Gosa een,
Muoluwee,		Gooroo,	} monks,
Pundit,		Peer,
Ra,e,	} rajpoots,	Bhugut,	} and holy
Singh,		soofee,
saḥib,	} lord, sir,	Pande,	} titles of
ṭhakoore,		Tiwaree,		} various
Baboo,		Misur,			} classes
Lala,		Dhoobe, &c.		} of Brah-
Jee, Ruora,
Miyan,

Khoodawund, huḡrut, ap, junabi alee, qiblui alum, moonee, and some others are used for worship, highness, saint, &c. but they are best acquired by practice ; yet we must not omit here those conciliatory appellations that are so commonly used in Hindoostan for people in humble stations, since it clearly shows to what lengths the natives carry their flattery and politeness to each other.

Mihtar, a prince,	a sweeper, (called also hulalkhor) weaver, vintner, &amp;c.
Khuleefu, a caliph,	a tailor, cook, shoemaker, tradesman, &amp;c.
costa, a master,	a barber.
Chuodhuree, } chief,	various people, such as buniyas, dealers in grain, koerees, gardeners and bearers.
Muhto, } head, Muhra, }
Bihishtee,* divine,	a waterman.

The names of places may in general be traced by attentively considering what I have already said in page 102 on this subject; and the learner will recollect, that besides their founders, the Indians also use the names of the different divinities, prophets, saints, &c. compounded with abad, poor, nugur, &c. formerly enumerated, (and sometimes with ganw, whence Chut-ganw, Burag-anw, Kuhl-ganw, more familiarly Chittigong, Buragong, and Colgong). When any occur, without one or other of these particles, they may in general be considered as primitives, or compounds involved in impenetrable obscurity, to those who are not well versed in the Sunskrit language.

---

* Too often degraded, by bad pronouncers among us, to beasty!

---

A sort of mechanical table of the Arabic forms, most common in the Hindoostanee, may be now submitted to the learner, who will hereafter reap advantages from it, proportioned to the pains he may bestow on the whole of the examples below, as they all apply to the Persian and Arabic languages, both of which he may yet find it his duty and interest to acquire, as well as the Hindoostanee.

There are certain letters termed servile, viz. u h y ee n w oo m t l s, because they alone assist in all the changes and inflexions to which words are subject in Arabic; the rest, including also the serviles, are all found as radicals, or such letters as must always remain in the vocabulary under discussion, in whatever state it may be found.

To distinguish the serviles in each example, they and their short vowels will appear in Italics, but the intermediate diacritical points, or short vowels of the roots, u i oo, though constantly changing their position, may be generally retained as Roman, since one or other of ~~them~~ must exist in every word, which is not the case with respect to the serviles, whose relative position and peculiar effect, however, will best appear from inspection.

Fu,ul, act, and its branches, fa,il, agent, mu-fool, object, &c. are the standard forms in Arabic grammars, but from the equivocal letter u, were so troublesome to the Hindoostanees, that they have for a long time preferred zurb, &c. below, as a much easier model than fu,ul. I have therefore followed their example in this respect, though, in syllabling words, they generally call the first, fa'kulimu, the second, uen kulimu, and the third, lam kulimu, from the component letters of fu,ul, viz. fa f, uen u, and lam l, the u being merely a short letter, not counted as a radical, but so essential to the pronunciation of each root, that I have marked those vowels only in Italics, whose appearance depends entirely on the serviles in each, as in zurbut, the t being a mere servile letter, whereas the radicals z r b, will be traced in the remotest branches, moozaribut, &c. In some of the various inflexions, the learner will discover a reduplication of the radical letter, and should recollect this circumstance, along with the different positions of the shorts u i oo, the long a ee'oo; and the serviles t m, &c. these being, in fact, the grand pivots whereon the whole scheme of the Arabic conjugation, declension, &c. hinges, the general mechanism of which will appear perfectly simple and evident in the annexed Hindee-Arabic Prospectus. This tabular view will answer almost every useful purpose of the practical Hindoostanee, Persian, and Turkish scholar, while it will, at the same time, greatly promote the study and knowledge of Arabic, so essential for the profound Orientalist, that it ought, sooner or later, to be acquired by every person who wishes to cut a capital figure in the Moosulman department of Eastern learning.

Hindee-Arabic Mirror, or Prospectus.

zurb	These are termed simple trilite-zirb	ral roots, or infinitives, which serve zorb	as a model for the inflexions of all zurub	such Arabic words, whose active zirub	participles become like zarib , and zoorub	the passives muzroob ; the local nouns
zurib	muzrub ; instrumentals mizrub ; in-zurab	crementals uzrub ; hyperbolicals
zirab	zurrab ; the concretes often are the zorab	same as some of the roots or radi-zurbut      cals here, viz. zurub, zoorab, &c. or zirbut      resemble the incrementals uzrub;

 zoorbut      but the most common in the Hinzurubut      doostanee are zureeb and zoorob.
 zuribut      From any one of these forms in the zurabut      margin, similar examples might be zirabut      produced, and may occur in every zoorabut      page of the Turkish, Hindoostanee, zurba      and Persian tongues, but two or zirba      three only must suffice as a speci-zoorba      men of the whole: Qutl, slaughter, zurban      qatil, a slayer or slaughterer; muq-zirban      tool, slain; muqtul, place of execu- zoorban      tion; miqtul, instrument of death;
 zuruban      uqtul, not in use; quttal, murder- zuroch      ous; quteel, &c. not in use. For the zoorob      two forms of this word not used, zoorobut      we may produce ukşur, general, zureeb      from kuşrut, frequency, of the form zureebut      zurbut, and uzlum, tyrannical, from zurboobut      zoolm, oppression, like zoorb; ghu-zurabiyut      reeb, humble; ghorbut, (zoorbut) hu- muzrub      mility; and as few radicals in Aramuzrib      bic are ramified through every form muzrubut      in that language, the scholar theremuzribut      fore must not wonder at roots oc-muzroobut      casionally being defective in some one or other of their branches, or at his being now and then puzzled with certain changes, until, as an accomplished Orientalist, he can acquire the information respecting the tuuleelat from Arabic grammars, that will ultimately obviate every difficulty.

We have now reached the augmented trilateral infinitives, whose active and passive participles occur thus :

izrab	moozrib	moozrub	The qua-
tuzreeb	moozurrib	moozurrib	driliterals,
moozarubut	moozarib	moozarub	as they are
iztirab	moozturib	moozturub	called, from
inzirab	moozrib	moozrub	zurbubut to
tuzurroob	mootuzurrib	mootuzurrib	tuzuorooob ,
tuzarooob	mootuzarib	mootuzarub	make their
izribab	moozribb		appearance
istizrab	moozturib	moozturub	so rarely in
izreebab	moozrabb		either the
zurbubut	moozurbib	moozurbub	Persian or
tuzurboob	mootuzurbib	mootuzurbub	Hindoosta-
izrinbab	moozrunbib		nee, that
izribbab	we might have easily dispensed
zurnubut	with their insertion, had I not
zuorubut	wished to exhibit a general view

~~zurwabut~~ of these curious forms, many of ~~zurerubat~~ which will aid the scholar in the ~~zurucubat~~ derivation and composition of in~~zurbat~~ numerable vocables in the four ~~tuzurbab~~ grand languages of the Moosul~~tuzurnoob~~ mans, by a slight attention to the ~~tumuzroob~~ mechanism of zurb alone, through ~~tuzurbat~~ every stage of its various transform~~tuzuorob.~~ ations in the present sketch.

Plurals in Arabic are divided into regulars, duals, paucals, and multitudinous, thus: The duals are all known at once by the addition of uen to any form, whence zidduen, opposites, waliduen, parents, and turufuen, both parties.

~~moozrib~~ moozribat These are termed per~~moozurrib~~ moozurribat fect plurals; at is the ~~tuzurroob~~ tuzurroobat most common of them ~~moozrib~~ } moozrib-een in Hindoostanee.*
 moozrib } moozrib-oon

---

* When the noun ends in ut, this at once becomes at, as halut, a condition, halat, afut, calamity, afat, &c. Een is more used than oon, though neither are very frequently met with in the Hindoostanee.

zurub	}	uzrab	turuf, side , utraf, shu-
zureeb			reef, well-born , ushraf,
zoorb			gentry , is the only form
zurab		uzribut	of these very familiar
zirub		uzroob	in the Hindoostanee,*
zoorab		zirbut	though not, as in Arabic, restricted to nouns of paucity ; ghoolam,			a slave , has ghilmut in the plural, like zirbut, also ghilman, but they seldom occur.
zurb		zooroob	thus khootoot, letters , hooqooq, rights .
zureeb		zooruba	shoorufa, gentry , hookunia,
			physicians , &c.
zaribu		zuwarib
zirabu		zurajib	risalu, troop , rusa'il, troops .
izreeb		uzareeb	uqaleem, climates .
zirb		zirab
zurb		uzriba	nubee, a prophet , umbiya.
muzrub		muzarib	munshuh, a post , munasib.

---

* Plurals of the form uzrab, may belong to radicals like zoorb, zurub, and some others, as well as zureeb ; an observation that may be extended to the rest, kumal, kumalat, perfections ; and some have two plurals depending upon one or different singulars, though their signification be the same.

muzroob	muzareeb	mushhoor , notable , musha-heer .
zuṛb	zurabee	uhl , a person , uhalee .
zurba	zuraba	futwa , a decree , futawa .
zoorban	zurabeen	scoltan , a king , sulateen .
uzrub	uzarib	ukbur , great , ukabir .
tuzreeb	tuzareeb	tuṣweer , a picture , tuṣaweer .
uzrubeē	uzaribut
zirbub	zurabib	dirhum , a drachm , durahim .
zirbut	zoorub
zoorb	zoorb
zirab	zoorcob	kitab , a book , kootcob , books .
zarib	zurubut
zarib	zoorrab	jahil , ignorant , jooḥ-hal .
zirab	zirban	ghizal , a fawn , ghizlan .
muzreeb	zurba
uzreeb	zooraba
tuzribu	tuzarib	tujribu , experiment , tujarib .
zirbab	zurabeeb	qirtas , parchment , quratees .
zurbeeb	zurabibut

Some of the forms, especially those left blank, are of no great use in the Hindoostanee. Words having medial a or uo in the singular, are often thus formed in the plural, like uzrab, hal, state, uḥwal; bab, chapter, ubwab; mal, wealth, umwal; fuoḥ, army, ufwaj; muḥ, wave, unwaj; in which the radical letter corresponding with r of uzrab, is converted, by a process peculiar to the Arabic, to w, as in the foregoing examples, and in yuom, a day, weyam, days; which may serve, in the meantime, as a model of all the rest.

Reduplicated final consonants were formerly omitted by me as inconvenient and uncouth; yet, as their mere appearance can do no harm, but rather some good, in the Arabic department of the Hindoostanee, I have endeavoured to preserve them in the Roman character also; whence huqq, right, khutt, epistle, hudd, boundary, hiss, sense, rudd, rejected, diqq, veered, especially as these now prepare us to meet with khootoot, epistles, hooqooq, rights, hoodood, boundaries, muhdood, bounded, moohuqqiq, having a right, muhsoos, sensible, murdood, condemned, mudqooq, hectic, agreeably to the standard for each respectively, viz. zurb, zirb, zuroob, muzroob, moozurrib, to which the reader may refer, contrasting the three radicals of zurb with those of huqq, hudd; of zirb with hiss, diqq, and so on with all the rest, as they may yet catch his eye in the Hindoostanee, Persian, Turkish, and Arabic languages; to the whole of which my present ne plus ultra scheme of Hindee-Roman Alphabet, will apply with the greatest ease and perspicuity; nay, with two or three slight additions, it may be extended as a universal character to every tongue under the sun. By way of exercise, let us suppose the existence of a word, such as huld, varied through all the radical forms, as hild, hoold, hulud, &c. as far as tuhuolood, corresponding with tuzuorob, we have nothing more to do than to frame from these in rotation thus: halid, muhlood, muhlud, mihlud, uhlud, hullad, huleed, moohlid, moohlud, moohullid, moohulud, moohalid, moohalud, moohtulid, moohtulud, moonhulid, moonhulud, mootuhullid, mootuhullud, mootuhalid, mootuhalud, moolhidd, &c. &c.

It may be said, that many of these forms, in any given word, are not in use; be it so, but they may all occur in half a dozen of examples, and it signifies nothing to the expert scholar whether insaf, justice, moonşif, just, tuşneef, composition, moonşunnif, an author, be the examples under inspection, or their prototypes, izrab, ihlad, mozrib, moohlid, tuzreeb, tuhleed, mozurrib, moohullid, or any other conformous vocables. Some instances like ilm, knowledge, alim, knowing, muuloom, known, &c. uql, rea- son, aqil, wise, muuqool, reasonable, &c. may, at first sight, seem more intricate than they will prove in reality, as the knack of forming them also is very readily acquired by the attentive student.

In page 288, the diligent reader will recollect what was observed on the transposition of poetry to prose; for his sake, therefore, we shall exhibit the exercise in that easy prosaic dress, which I have recommended, taking the natural order of construction for our guide, without paying great attention to that idiomatical collocation of the whole, to which due deference would otherwise have been paid on the present occasion.

1.

Jub tuk juwanee ke ueyam (huen tub tuk) buhar
hue,

Jo peeree a ee (hue) to khizan phir ashkar hue.

2.

Ugur (too) hoshyar hue goshi jan se pund son!
Ghuflut khoob nuheen hue, yih wuqt (too) ghuneemat jan!

3.

Ikhtiyar abhee hue, jub moo'e soofued ujul ka puegham

Lawega, tub koochh (toom se) nu hosukega.

4.

Yār gur (toojhe) tumeez hue, kur (too) furq
 soofued o siyuh men
 Gurdishi luel o nuhar eksañ nu hue.

5.

Too uch-chhe umul kur, ilm kee tuhseel kurke,
 Isee se admee ka wuqar alum men hue.

6.

(Too) pueda kur kumal ugur chahe ho izeez (hone ko)
 Uor be kumal chushmi khulaiq men khwar hue.

7.

Na murd jo keene kee zaban duraz kurte huen conhon kee tegh o qulum ka shiyr toohmut hue.

8.

Hur ek con men ghatee hue uor nabukar hue
 Nek namee ko husud ke dum se qutl kurte huen.

9.

Ub kun hue, Nuosheerwan o Hatim o Roostum se?

(Tahum) conhon ka nami neko suda yadgar hue!

10.

(Too) ikhtiyar kur udl o sukhawut uor shujaat.
 Ek ek kee bina juhan men paedar hue.

11.

Tera' dil bequrar hue hoosni arizee pur
 Muhwe jumal ho coska, jisko zuwal nuheen,

12.

Mue ghoroor peekur budmust nu hoojiyo
 Uor koochh ooska khoomar nu hue jooz durdi sur.

13.

(Ue) juwan ooska dil, a eene kee numut be ghoo-bar hue

Jisko koochh kudoorut kisee se nuheen hue.

As the learner may readily find the meaning of every word above in page 323, he shall be left to his own industry to collect them at leisure, if now necessary, to enable him, without consulting mine, to give a good idiomatical English version of this admired poem, previous to the perusal of a still more celebrated moral ode, by Qoodrut, which I shall translate as literally as possible, and at the same time analyse agreeably to the rules of construction, in order to instruct the reader effectually how to do so himself with any piece of writing in this dialect, that he may hereafter wish to attend to, as a student, translator, or Oriental linguist. As such, however, should he aim at a very distinguished place, he will find it advisable to dip also occasionally in the sources themselves, viz. the Arabic, Persian, and Hinduee tongues.

Is t̤uruh se kul huwus turgheeb detee t̤hee m̤oj̤he Kya-hee moolk e Room, kya-hee surzumeen e Roos hue.

In this manner, ambition was yesterday giving me encouragement, how very charming the country of Greece! and how truly grand the empire of Russia!

---

Is, the proximate demonstrative pronoun, yih, he, this, &c. in its singular oblique, and governed by the postposition se, with, of, and here meaning in; t̤uruh, manner, way, modus; a feminine noun from the Arabic, and like the Latin word, or the Hinduwee kur, d̤hub, d̤uol, very useful in the composition of many pronominals or adverbials, kyoon-kur, kist̤uruh, how, already explained in page 111. Is t̤uruh se, therefore means, in this manner, thus, so; t̤uruh, though ending in uh, is little subject to inflection in the singular, and belonging as it does to some nouns noticed in the declension, we may now venture to assert, that those of this class terminating in h, called h̤ae h̤oottee, seldom or never admit of such a change in writing, as altogether to warrant the pronun-

Gur mco,yussur ho to kis ushrat se keejiye zindugce
 costuruf awaz i tubl eedhur suda,e koos hue.

If they could be acquired, then with what delight one might enjoy life; on that side the melody of the lyre, on this the cheering sound of the warlike drum :

---

ciation that is observed in speaking them; for instance, is tureh se, seems too full, and is turih se, even is not just the thing required. Kul, (or, according to the Hindoos, kulh) yesterday, is here an adverb, though with our own word likewise a noun, but, unlike it, signifies to-morrow also. Huwus, ambition, a desire, is an Arabic word of the feminine gender, as is turgheeb, instigation, encouragement to evil; it here forms with dena, (and hona, as the auxiliary sign, was) a compound verb, to instigate, in the imperfect of the indicative and feminine gender, detee thee, was giving, from the nominative huwus, being, as above observed, feminine.
 Turgheeb, is an Arabic infinitive or verbal noun, and feminine by page 159, q. v. It comes from rughbüt, desire, which forms raghub, de-

Stonte-hee ibrut yih bolee yek tumasha muen toojhe

Chul dekha, con too jo qued e az ka muhboos hue.

Hearing which, wisdom thus addressed me,
come along that I may show thee a spectacle,
O thou who art a captive in the bonds of desire.

---

sirous, murghoob, desirable, like several of the Arabic vocables, enumerated in pages 414, &c. Moojhe is the inflexion of the personal pronoun muen, I, with its affixed postposition e, and in this state it greatly resembles the Latin dative mihi, while moojh ko bears a similar relation to ad me, being the oblique of muen, with the postposition ko, but used indiscriminately as a dative with moojhe above. Kya-hee is a sort of neuter pronoun of kuon quis, who, like quid, quod, what, with the energetic adjunct hee: it is on the whole a curious, but very useful little vocable; in the oblique it seems to have at times kahe, but this in general is so blended with or lost in the masculine and feminine inflexion kis, that it is not an easy task to discriminate the one from the other. Kya-hee ap-

Legu,ee yek bargee gor e ghureeban kee turuf
Jis juguh jan e tumunna suo turuh mayoos hue.

She conducted me at once towards the graves of the lowly dead, in which place the restless spirit of avarice is every way frustrated.

---

pears to be used as an interjection of praise, kya-hee moolk, what a charming country! the hee conferring an energy on the expression, that I have tried to preserve in, how very charming! and how truly grand! for, in fact, we shall frequently be obliged to translate this word kya, by how, in many parts of our progress through the language. Moolk e, a country, an Arabic noun, with the Persian genitive sign, called izafut, attached to it, that here exactly corresponds with our of, and is long by page 52. Room, the name which the Asiatics confer on Greece, whence, Sikundur Roomer, Alexander the Grecian, though they certainly extend it beyond the limits of that empire. Kya-hee surzumeen e Roos hue, the first, and the e of the second, have been before explained: this is a Persian feminine word, compounded of sur the head, surface,

Murquden do teen deklakur lugée kuhne
monjhe

Yih Sikundur hue yih Dara hue yih Kuekaoos
hue.

Having pointed out two or three tombs, she began to tell me, this is Alexander the Great, here lies Darius, and there the mighty Mede :

---

or here, probably, the whole; and zumeen, land, ground, &c. Sur, in composition, perhaps confers some kind of precedence or superiority on the compound; whence I would consider zumeen, as the object of tillage, culture, &c. sur-zumeen, that of government or philosophy, as a kingdom, climate, &c. Roos, the Oriental-~~maine~~ of Russia, which though till lately little known in Europe as a great empire, has long held an elevated rank in the annals of Asia; for indeed this Roos, Roosee, must be the country or people we now call Russia, &c. Hue is the irregular auxiliary in the present tense of the indicative, and answering to the Latin est, is, the infinitive of which, hona, greatly resembles esse, to be. Gur, if, contracted from the Persian conjunction ugar. Mooyussur is an Arabic

Poochh to-in se ki jah o muknut e dooniya se aī Koochh bhee conke sath ghuer uz husrut o uf-soos hue.

Well, ask of these, whether at present even any part of the magnificence and splendour of their worldly possessions be left with them, excepting their sad repentance and lasting regret.

My friend, Colonel D. T. Richardson, (whose extensive knowledge of the Oriental languages and poetic talents are far surpassed by the goodness of his heart) obliged me with the above word, much used to express attainable, procurable, &c.; with hona, it forms the very useful verb, to be got, procured, had, found, &c. Ho, the contracted aorist of hona, in the third person singular, and governed by gur; the nominative of which must either be each of the countries taken separately, or a wish to get them may be understood to ho, as a sort of optative mode; thus,—Gur (yih arzoo) mooyussur ho, could this (wish) be accomplished; and, what is equally probable, the singular aorist is compatible enough with two nominatives. To, is a translation freely versified, which I have now the pleasure of submitting to the public in his own words.

---

Once on a time Ambition fir'd my mind,
And to its grasp the realms around consign'd.
Behold! she urg'd, there Greece displays her charms;
Here Russia great, amid the clang of arms.

---

sort of expletive indeclinable particle, but may be here rendered by then, well, truly, &c. See page 85. Kis, the inflexion of kuon or kya,* what? governed by se, with, mentioned

---

* Kya, what, has, like our word, various applications that use only can demonstrate. Kya is se kya cos se akhir humara dil oodas hoguya, what with this, and what with that, my spirits became dejected; but for which, if we substitute koochh, partly, something, the meaning is considerably altered. Muot kisee ko nuheen chhortee kya ghureeb kya comde pur kis kis husrut se ye murte huen bu nisbut ghureebon kee, death spares no one, neither (and whether they be) the low (and or) nor the high, but with what (how much) anguish these die, compared with the poor.

There the sweet music of the lyre is found;
And here the warlike drum's inspiring sound.

---

above. ushrut, delight, pleasure, an Arabic noun of frequent occurrence in the Hindoostanee, ush-ushrut generally expressing the luxury, dissipation, enjoyed by the rich, the idle, and the gay, while they freely gratify their several passions for wine, women, &c. Keejiye, is one of the irregularities of the active verb kurna, to do, which ought properly to be ku-riye. This form may be called its impersonal, potential, precativè, or optative mode, and seems, in some respects, analogous to the Latin subjunctive tenses in em and sem, which we express by might, could, would, should, &c.; but it appears to agree with the third person only, and is, on the whole, one of those peculiarities of a language which experience alone can make the learner fully master of. Consult pages 282, &c. recollecting that this strange impersonal tense, (to which ap, ko ee, or some other agent must be understood) in all regular verbs, is formed by adding ie to the contracted infinitive: sak-ye, la-ye, rola-ye, ho-ye, ja-ye, mar-ye, chul-ye, kuh-ye: The whole assume Regions like these the conqu'ring sword invite,

And such, subdued, would every toil requite.—

---

ga, with little or no alteration in their meaning; whence keejiye, in the present quotation, might have been kee-jiyega, and furma-iyega, a-iyega, though this ga, like o, perhaps at times confers a future signification, maniyo, ruheiyo. Zindugee, is a Persian word expressive of life, as a state or condition, connected with the means thereof; thus, zindugee-kurna, to live well, enjoy life, is very different in its application from zindugee-kaṭna, to spend one's days. The irregular Persian verb zeestun, to live, gives zeest, life, mere existence, the participle zindu, alive, living, assumes the gee, noted in page 394, to form the noun in question, zindu-gee. cos, is the oblique case of the remote demonstrative, woaḥ, he, that, &c. which must be governed by one or other of the postpositions, pur, men, &c. understood; cos, in its remote capacity, applies to Roob, and stands contrasted with eedhur, is turaf, as applicable to Roos. turaf, is an Arabic feminine noun, (pl. utraf) meaning a side, right or left, party, &c. whence turaf-dar, partial; few vocables are of greater

With that she ceas'd.—Then Wisdom forward came,
 And said, Oh! captive in the bonds of fame,

---

utility in the Hindoostanee than this, as may be seen by referring to the adverbs of place, where, there, those ending in ward, and so on; adverting, at the same time, to the reason just assigned for its pronominal component parts appearing inflected; kis-turuf, is-turuf, &c. supply ko, pur, men, se, &c. Awaz-i, voice, sound, melody, a Persian feminine noun, with the iza-fut i, standing in construction with the next word tubl, a small drum, but which I termed a lyre, in contradistinction to the next instrument, and as more characteristic of Greece. The word is Arabic, and better known here by tublu, which seems the Persian mode of pronouncing and writing it, for they call the performer upon it, tublu-nuwaz; the diminutive tubluk is also in use among the poets. Idhur, (for the measure's sake, eedhur) isturuf, on this side, is an adverb of place, pronominally compounded with dhur, some old word like the Saxon and our ther, in hither, idhur; codhur, thititer, kidhur, whither, jidhur, whithersoever.

Ah! quit Ambition's call, and with me tread
The cypress grove, where lie the lowly dead!

---

tidhur, thithersoever, which I have now exhibited in their relative and correlative relation to each other, and the pronouns yih, wooh, kya, jo, to. See pages 76 and 107. suda-e, a Persi-Arabic noun, feminine, which means, sound, echo, the affixed e, is the izafut i, (under the form it acquires, when attached to words ending in a vowel) that here joins suda,e with koos, the large kettle-drum, a word from the Persian, which the learner must pronounce very long, that he may not confound it with koos. Hue, having been noticed already, we come next to Sonte-hee, the inflected present participle of the verb sconna, to hear, resembling the case called absolute in Latin, and which signifies, on hearing, having heard, to which the hee gives the force of, the very moment she heard. ibrut, an Arabic feminine, signifying terror, example, &c. which I have personified also as a female, under the name of wisdom,

We court fair wisdom, that celestial maid. YOUNG.

to preserve the consistency of the feminine

There all the restless passions of mankind
 Quiescent sleep, "nor leave one trace behind."

---

verbs that follow, which would have had an uncouth appearance with ibrut, translated death, or the king of terrors, as it certainly might have been done, and perhaps with more propriety. ibrut ke waste, occurs very often for in terrorem, and I think may occasionally stand for conscience, virtue, religion, death, &c. as monitors to mankind; for I do not yet know one good common word to express what we mean by conscience, so little are the natives apparently acquainted with this monitory guard on their actions. Yih, this, and though rendered thus in the translation, we need not enlarge on it now. Bolee, is the preterite feminine from bolna, to speak, say, tell, agreeing with ibrut, as the subject, and englished by thus addressed me, that is, said what follows. Yek, ek, the Persian numeral one, representing our indefinite an, a, preceding the noun tumasha, a sight, scene, sport, show, spectacle, from the Persian, whence tumashabeen, a spectator, idler, &c. Muen, I, the first personal, and applicable to the aorist a little farther on. Toojhe, has the very same relation

See Philip's son, Darius, or the Mede,
And ask, that now, from life's vain bustle freed-

---

to too, tuen, that moojhe, formerly explained, has to muen, and cannot therefore require any farther illustration; it is governed by the following active verb. Chul, the imp. singular of chulna, to go, come, walk, &c. in the second person, expressed by too, thou, which is just at hand. Dekha,oon, the present of the subjunctive, first person, (agreeing with the foregoing muen) from the causal verb dekhaana, to show, from dekha, to see, though this generally has dekhlana. Jo, who, is the relative after its antecedent too, neither of which can possibly be difficult in the present sentence, since the nearest verb hue, takes the relative as its nominative. Qued e, an Arabic feminine vocable, with its izafut e, to express captivity, bondage, bonds, prison; whence quedee, a prisoner, qued-khanu, a prison-house; it is now and then in use, with its original plural, thus, qued qoodood-kurna, to imprison, throw into gaol. Az, a Persian word for desire, passion, but little used, except in poetical composition; it has the genitive or possessive sign ka after it, agreeing in gender and

If aught, except remembrance sad remain,
Of former greatness and its faithless train?

---

number with the masculine singular. Muh-boos, an Arabic participle, signifying imprisoned, a captive, &c. from hubs, imprisonment, prison, and from this also hubs-khanu. Hue, the substantive verb art, to which jo is one nominative, and muh-boos the other; because the line could run thus, too chul jo hue muhboos, &c. come thou who art a prisoner. Legu,ee, the preterite feminine of lejana, to transport, carry, with its inherent pronoun she: this verb is compounded of lena, to take, and jana, to go; the conjugation of which last it very naturally follows. * Yek bargee, instantly, a Persian adverb,

---

* These compound verbs in poetry, as well as in conversation, have their component parts sometimes transposed and disjoined, and might puzzle the learner where he is not put on his guard as to this circumstance, in such cases as,

Le deedu,i tur jidhur gu,e hum

Dubre jo the khooshk bhturgu,e hum.

Suoda;

Wherever I carried these gushing eyes of mine, I filled the puddles, that were drying up, with my tears.

resembling our at once, all at once, being composed of the numeral yek and bar, a time, turn, with its affixed particle gee, mentioned in pages 95 and 394. Gor e, is the Persian for a grave, and of the feminine gender; the e connects it with the following word, gor e ghureeban; which last seems applied much in the way as we do poor to a deceased friend, only in a more extended sense, and generally to the dead; expressed here by the humble, lowly, poor, ghureeban being the Persian plural of ghureeb, an Arabic word that means a traveller, stranger; but in India it is mostly applied to express harmless, inoffensive, quiet, humble, meek, poor, wretched; thence ghureeb-purwur-nuwaz, kind to the poor, cherishing strangers, and on the contrary, ghureeb-mar, oppressing or oppression of the poor. ujeab ghureeb, and their plurals ujaib ghuraib, apply to any thing wonderful, rare, strange, rarities, &c. Ghosbut, is the noun, and signifies humility, meekness, indigence, like the abstract ghureebec. Gor-istan, is a burial place, gor-kun, a grave-digger. Keeturf, to-wards: this has been in a great measure pointed out above under turf, and as it is a feminine noun, the reader will recollect why hee is in that gender also. Jis, the inflexion of the relative jo, which, with a postposition understood to it, and jugh, a place, a word that like turuf, turuh, and some more, is very useful in the composition of adverbs, and on the same principles. Jan-e, is a Persian word, and generally feminine, it means life, soul, beloved, and I have here translated it by a restless spirit, as the tan is substituted for the subject, since the author means to say, that a life spent in ambitious pursuits is every way frustrated in the grave. Tumana, a feminine Arabic noun for avarice, covetousness, whence mootumunna, covetous. Suo, a hundred, but used here, with turuh, to express every way, many ways, the numerals often occurring indefinitely and hyperbolically. Mayoos, Arabic participle, signifying disappointed, from yas, to grieve, disappointment, which may also be rendered by mayoosce. Hue, is, to which jan is the nominative, and mayoos its participial adjective. Murquden, is the Hindoostanee nominative plural of a feminine Arabic noun of place, murqud, a tombs, monument, a place of rest, from ruqd, rest, not used in this language. Do teen, numerals, expressing two, three, a few, with which murquden stands in concord plurally, but from the want of a postposition not in the oblique.

though governed by the following active verb in the preterperfect participle. Dekhlakur, having shown, after showing, when she had shown, from dekhlana, noticed already under dekha-on: No part of the verb seems so useful as this participle, which, like the other sconte, above, resembles the absolute case, and produces, in many sentences, a conciseness and force that we cannot always imitate; besides elegantly suspending the meaning, through several members of a period; till it is finally closed by some other tense. Lugee, the feminine perfect of lugna, to begin, commence, get, have recourse to, fall, set about, &c. which has its inherent pronoun, lugee, she began. Kuhne, the inflected infinitive kuhna, 'o say, tell, governed by lugee, or the postposition ko, understood, as we sometimes hear, rone ko luga, he began to cry, or fell a-crying; though rone luga be more common, as all the infinitives here can more easily dispense with ko, in that mode, than ours can with to; but this may be partly owing to ko being synonymous with for, and na with to. Lugee kuhne, is probably an idiomatical expression, peculiar to the Oriental tongues; whence we may account for the Scriptural phrase, “And the Lord spake unto Moses saying,* i. e. The Lord began to reign. Me is to me, governed by kahle, in the dative, which has been treated at large in the foregoing pages. Yin, this, agreeing with the verb huc, is, and Sikundur a proper name. Yin Duchue, exactly as the last member, but, for the sake of variety, I have translated it, here is Darius i. e. Codomanus, who was conquered by Alexander. Yin Kuxaacos huc, Kucha being the last name of the son of Hystaspes, I have changed this part of the sentence and thus, 'and there the mighty Mede.' All objects of ana are, they both, correspond with Yin Sikundur huc. Pooch is the imp. singular of pooch ya, to ask, enquire, to pull, the conj.

---

* From the obscurity and confusion that now surrounded the names of those once illustrious kings, it is very difficult indeed to discriminate one potentate from another, whence I shall add, that this same Kucha is also Namrud, and Pharaoh, in other words, whether with more propriety than the name of Darius above, I cannot determine. A circumstance, however, that so far corresponds with the moral of the text, and the words of the wisest of men, "Vanity of riches, vanity and vexation of spirit."

tive; in se, the plural oblique of yih, this, with its governing postposition se, from, of. Ki, is a troublesome equivocal particle, that is at one time a conjunction like ut, at another it becomes a relative pronoun like qui, and, as in this place, it often appears almost to be a mere expletive to us. I imagine that it is intended to fill up the vacuity left, when the speaker pauses at the words he is about putting into another person's mouth; whence it is called the (kaf buḡa niyu) explanatory ki, and may be englished by that, or whether, &c. according to circumstances, as in the following examples. Jaḡo maleḡ se kuhdo ki wuqt bone ka apuhoncha, go tell the gardener that the season for sowing is set in: Poochho to cos se ki too ne ub tug beej kḡ oon nuheen boḡa uor poochho to ki beej aj boḡa ki nuheen, also ask him why he has not yet sown the seeds, and enquire whether he will sow the seeds to-day or not. Jah, a Persian noun; it means grandeur, pomp, dignity, and is much joined with other similar words, jah o julal, pomp and splendour; jah o hushmut, grandeur and state; ālee-jah, of exalted dignity; ṣahib jah, præcūsus dignitate; ṣahib muknut, præditus potestate. O, is the conjunction et, and; it occurs two times in these lines as a copulative of similar words, but requires no further elucidation here. Mul is an Arabic word, power, potency, &c. see jah, above. Dooniya, Arabic, the world, universe; it is feminine, and indefinitive, as this will account for its not being inflected, though coming in -a, by the position so that in metrically follows it. This word is of the most frequent occurrence in Hindoostani, with the same signification nearly that word has in our language, and its various derivatives preserve similar affinity. Dooniya, world, dooniya day, long, a promise, a logman, world, wedded to the world, &c. From it may be understood to allude to the sensual apathy prevailing it, as the Mahomedans wish to inculcate, that not even the shadow of glory, nor a single vestige of all these heroes' wealth remained, except the bitter reflection, that their former power and riches were now no more, or that these were not applied to nobler purposes. Aj rahe, present time, to day, at present. Aj rahe and aj rahe to night, &c. by the Hindoos, used like our word meaning this night; while the Mahomedans generally indicate and by these very words to night and express to night, this night, by the Mahomedan night, indefinitely, vide page 207.

the ingenious reasoning of Horne Tooke in his philological works, which deserve the serious attention of every scholar; hosh-yar, attentive, from hosh, senses, and yar, for which mund is also used, and ee may be added to both, hosh-yar-ee, mind-ful-ness; gosh, ear, whence gosh-u, a corner, khur-gosh, a hare, ass-eared, gosh-goo-zar, whispering, and many others; gosh-bu-gosh, cheek-by-jowl; goshi-jan, the ear of the soul, savours too much of materialism for our ears, though we do not scruple to talk of the mind's eye, perhaps from this organ being deemed the spy-glass or mirror of the soul, whence she looks abroad, or may be reflected with more animation than by any other medium, for one glance of the eye will often express inutterable things, and shed light on a countenance, in other respects, of a dreary complexion; pund, counsel, whence pum-namu, ethics; ghu'lut, inattention, an Arabic word of the form zaribut, whence ghafil (zarib), inattentive, tughafu' (tuzarcob), affecting indifference, and any others with which the reader may meet in his studies, having the radical letters gh, f and l, such as ghuffal, ghuffeel, mootughafil, &c.; yih wuqt, this time, in the nominative, instead of is wuqt ko, the accusative of the verb jan, consider; uoqat, times;

izt, is the Arabic plural of smat, like those on page 418, and vulud, effatig, zamat, zamat, with many more of this form; gubceeb (gureeb), plunder, gain, bleasing, from gubceeb (zureeb), enemy, foe; **ikhhtiyar* (ixhtirab) power, from the root khar (zurb), he was, whence khut (zurb), well, kumriyut (gureeb but), wifce, and mukhlut (moozaurub), free, absolute, &c. more scanned, the inverted form requiring the izt, e, which, scanned more, white hair, would not, by pa the, moo-miyat, hair or slender scanned, moo-sheeb-ee, hair split er, -ing, may not appear also scanned-u, white lead, and scanned business, &c.; purgham, message, pur, honor, passage, proper; sukega, the third person singular masculine of the compound verb hoshana, to be able to do, to come, in which there can now be little intricacy to the reader; yasee, friendship, in the relative, us, being understood, yara, friend.

* This being one of the nucleus, stated on page 415, is given here rather as an imperfect key to the rest, than as a complete account of it, even, and the same difficulty will occur in every ae po w up y are met with, as in khur above.

in common use for my lads! &c.; yawur-ee, likewise means friend-ship, help-er, aid, &c.; tumeez (tuzreeb), discrimination, distinction, from maz,* he separated, whence imtiyaz (iztirab), respect, and moomtaz (moozturub), distinguished, illustrious; mootumueyiz (mootuzurrib), sagacious, discerning; furq (zurb), difference, firaq (zirab), separation, absence, 100faruqut (moozarubut), distance, &c.; tufreeq (tuzreeb), discrimination; tufarcoq (tuzarcoob), difference; mootufurruq (mootuzurrib), different; siyuh, siyah, black, dark, siyah-ee, blackness, ink; gurd-ish, turning, revolution; gird, gurd, gurde, gurdan, all denote something rotary, like gird-ab, a whirlpool or water, gird-bad, a whirlwind, sur-gurdan, a vertigo, shub-gurd, a right-watch or patrol; luel o nuhar, night and day, Arabic words often introduced in Hindoostanee poetry; ek-san, uniform; umul (zurb), act, amil (zarib), actor, muumool (muzroob), habit, mooamulut (moozarubut), transaction; the plural mooamulat, is * Another of the tuuleelat, discussed in the last page, to aid the student mechanically, through such forms, as they cannot be properly explained within the compass of a Hindoostanee grammar.

---

[illegible]

less he recollects that h and s are sometimes interchangeable, ho is the auxiliary sign, which the aorist can take as well as the indicative; uzeez (zureeb), dear, esteemed, from izzut (zirbut), honour, izaz (izrab), honouring, mco,uz-zuz (mcozurrub), honoured, honourable; uor in this place implies, I think, for, because, since; chushm, eye, chusm-u, fountain, spectacles; khula,iq (zura,ib), plural of khulq (zurb), created being, &c. khaliq (zariq), creator, mukhlooq (muzroob), creature, plural, mukhlooqat; khwar-ee, despicable-ness, &c. perhaps connected with khar, a thorn; n-murd, unmanly (people); keene, the infl. of keenu, spite, whence keenu-kush-wur-ee, spite-ful-ness, shootor-keenu, rancorous, having the spite of a camel, which generally bites the piece out; zoban, zuban, tongue, speech, language; zoban-ee, verbal; zoban-duraz, long or four-tongued, abusive; toohmut (zoorbut), calumny, ittiham (iztirab), slandering, moottuhi (mcozturib), slandorous; ghat-ee, wily, from ghat, a snare, ambush; a very different word from ghat, a narrow pass or defile, which, by a bad military linguist, might be mistaken for each other, and thereby occasion, in critical situations, a great deal of mischief to our arms; na-bu-kar, not for use, worthless, good for nothing, also expressed by nukaru, nikumma, useless, waste, &c.; hek-nam-ee, good-name, reputation; husud (zurab) envy, hasid, envious, muhsood, envied; dum, breath, dumu, asthma, dum-bund, speechless; dum is much used in composition for moment, &c. dumî marg, at the point of death, dum bu dum, constantly; qutl was explained in page 414; mooqatulut (moozarubut), carnage, is likewise in use. Nuosheerwan, &c. the names of a king, a generous man, and a hero renowned in Persian history; ta hum, or tuobhee, nevertheless, still; nami neko, good name, the o is redundant; yad-gar, memorial, assisting the memory; udl (zurb), uđalut (zurabut), justice, adil, just, iatidal (iztirab), moderation, mooitudil (moozturib), moderate; sukhawut (zurabut), generosity, sukhee (zureeb) generous, but one of the most difficult tuuleelat, not easily explained here; shuja'ut (zurabut), courage, shoojau (zoorab), brave; bina (zirb) foundation, banee (zarib), founder, another of the tuuleelat; juhān, the world; pae-dar, stable, from pae the foot, and dar, holder; be-qurar, restless, qurar (zūrab) rest, stability; iqrar (izrab), promise; mooqurrur (moozurub), certain, tuqurreor (tu-zurroob), certainty; tuqreer (tuzreeb), declaration, mooqir (moozrib) declaring, affirming; hoosn (zoorb), beauty, husun, huseen, (zurub, zureeb), beautiful, uhsun (uzrub), very beautiful; tuhseen (tuzreeb), praising, beautifying, melioration; whence tuhseeni tuluffooz, the euphony of speech; arizee, fleeting, from urz, representation, &c.; muurooz (muzroob), represented; ariz, accident, &c.; muhw, muho, absorbed in; jumal (zurab), beauty, jumeel (zureeb), beautiful; tujumool (tuzurroob), lustre; zuwal/decay, be zuwal, in-violate; mue, wine, mue fuqosh, a wine merchant, ghooroor (zooroob), pride; mughroor (muzroob), proud; bud-must, intoxicated; zur-must, purse-proud; as must means drunk, lascivious, proud, &c.; hoojiyo is the future or precativ of ho-jana, to become, resembling those noted in page 122; khoomar (zoorab), crop-sickness, from khumr (zurb), leaven, ferment, khumeer (zureeb), fermenting; mukhmoor (muzroob), drunk, and some others not much used; jooz, except, but, a sheet of paper, whence probably joozwee, a little, few, and joozrus-ee, penetrating, parsimonious, attentive to minutiae; durdi sur, headache, dil, heart, mind, breast, &c. whence dil-dar, a beloved object, and a vast quantity of other such compounds; a, eene, inflected by kee from a, eenu, a mirror; muhut, manner, used here as a fem.

postposition; ghobar, dust, gloom, ghobar-aloodu, dusty, gloomy, dismal, dreary; jis ko, jo, or juon, who, in the dative singular; kndoorut, impurity; kisee se, the ablative of ko, any person.

The scholar has no doubt by this time acquired a tolerable notion of Arabic roots and their derivatives, which will help him forwards with all the rest, whether he may yet study the Arabic regularly or not, since, as a military officer merely, he never may find it so very essential as the Persian and Turkish must prove to those in civil and diplomatic situations in Asia. I hope the learner can give an English version of Hadley's Hindoostanee story from the Arabic, which was introduced in the preface merely to be contrasted with his jargonic farrago, under that title, at leisure, if the reader still preserve patience enough to look at so curious a production, ungrammatical and absurd in the extreme, but one that continues, some how or other, to be palmed on unexperienced youths annually, to a considerable amount, by men interested in keeping up the deception as long as possible. The only tolerable part of Hadley's Grammar of Jargon, as he calls it, having been purloined from my labours, I have a better right than any man to speak out and expose the imposition in the Preface to public notice, which will, I trust, at last prove effectual.

Though the materials of the present Volume be not perhaps arranged in the best possible manner, I believe they will be found so full and distinct, that any man, with adequate talents for such an office, may form from the whole a very complete course of lectures on the Hindoostanee language. If every word, with its meaning, in the foregoing pages, be diligently collected and formed into a regular vocabulary, to be reversed also at leisure, the learner will thus be in possession of a most useful collection at his first outset, without the disgusting dudgey of conning the whole by heart; and as learning the languages of the East, on the principle stated in page 62, will be attended with the best effects, the practice cannot be too frequently inculcated.

By way of winding up this Volume, I shall now present the student with a wild plaintive ode from Yuqeen, which has always been admired as the most happy of that poet's effusions.

Kya faidu jo ghuer se wooh hum kunar hue,
 Moojh se to ubtuluk wooh dar o mudar hue.
 Ek roz sueri gori ghureebon ko muen गया,
 Yuene wuhan boozorgon ka ukhur muzar hue.
 Dekha muen ek qabr pu nurgis hue surnigoon, Poochha muen ne cose ki too kyon shurmsar
 hue?

Kuhne lugee ki yar! too nurgis moojhe nujan,
 Ankhen hoon muen cosee kee yih jiska muzar
 hue.

Tub muen kuha ki meree turuh chushm wa hue
 kyon?

Ane ka kis ke tere tuen intizar hue?

Ashiq tha ek kafiri be ruh pur yih shukhs,
 Ubtuk cosee ka is ke tuen intizar hue.

Tubse moojhe Yuqeen hooa hue yihee ki ah!
 Ashiq ko buud murg ke bhee izzitar hue.

What doth it avail, if while she is kind to another, the same deception as before is still continued to me. One day I went to visit the mansions of the dead, where the tombs of slighted lovers abound; there I beheld a daffodil pensive on a grave, and I thus addressed it: Well, why art thou dejected? To this it returned, O, friend, do not thou mistake me for a narcissus, I am the eyes of his self who owns this shrine ! I then said, But why do they seem longing, like mine? whose arrival dost thou expect? This mortal was the admirer of a relentless maid (replied the flower), and he still waits in fond expectation for her. Thence it appeared evident to me, that, alas ! a lover's soul is distracted even after his decease.

END OF VOLUME FIRST.

---

Printed by WALKER & GARRICK, Foulis Close, Edinburgh.

January 1, 1818.

WORKS

RECENTLY PUBLISHED BY

BLACK, KINGSBURY, PARBURY, AND ALLEN,

Booksellers to the Honourable East-India Company,

LEADENHALL STREET,

London.

---

MILLS' MUHAMMEDANISM.

An HISTORY of MUHAMMEDANISM; comprising the Life and Character of the Arabian Prophet, and Succinct Accounts of the Empires founded by the Muhammedan Arms: an Inquiry into the Theology, Morality, Laws, Literature, and Usages of the Muselmans, and a View of the present State and Extent of the Muhammedan Religion. By Charles Mills. The Second Edition, Revised and Augmented. 8vo. 12s. boards.

RAFFLES' JAVA.

The HISTORY of JAVA, containing a general Description of the Country and its Inhabitants, the State of Agriculture, Manufactures, and Commerce, the Nature of the Government and Institutions, and the Customs and Usages peculiar to the People; together with an Account of the Languages, Literature, and Antiquities of the Country, and the Native History of the Island, principally from Native Authorities. By Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles, F. R. S. and A. S. late Lieut. Governor of that Island and its Dependencies, late President of the Society of Arts and Sciences at Batavia, Member of the Asiatic Society at Calcutta, and Honorary Member of the Literary Society at Bombay. Two vols. 4to. 6l. 6s. boards; royal 4to. 8l. 8s.

This Work is accompanied by a Map of Java, reduced from the best Surveys, many of them made during the Administration of the British Government, and is further illustrated by numerous Plates, executed principally by Daniell, exhibiting the Costume of the different Classes of Society, the Implements of Agriculture, &c. and the Remains of the Arts (which appear to have risen, at one period, to a very high pitch in the Island), consisting of various Idols and Temples, sacred to the Ancient Worship of the Country, &c. &c.

MILNE's SACRED EDICT.

The SACRED EDICT; containing Sixteen Maxims of the Emperor Kang-He, amplified by his Son the Emperor Yoong-Ching; together with a Paraphrase on the whole by a Mandarin. Translated from the Chinese Original, and illustrated with Notes, by the Rev. William Milne, Protestant Missionary at Malacca. 8vo. 7s.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

---

BERTOLACCI'S CEYLON.

A VIEW of the AGRICULTURAL, COMMERCIAL, and FINANCIAL INTERESTS of CEYLON; with an Appendix, containing some of the principal Laws and Usages of the Candians, Port and Custom-House Regulations, Tables of Exports and Imports, Public Revenue and Expenditure, &c. &c. By Anthony Bertolacci, Esq. late Comptroller-General of Customs, and Acting Auditor-General of Civil Accounts in that Colony. 8vo. with Map, 18s.

WARD'S HINDOOS.

A VIEW of the HISTORY, LITERATURE, and RELIGION of the HINDOOS: including a minute Description of their Manners and Customs, and Translations from their principal Works. By the Rev. W. Ward, one of the Baptist Missionaries at Serampore. 2 vols. 8vo. 18s.

EPIDEMIC FEVER.

MEDICAL, GEOGRAPHICAL, and AGRICULTURAL REPORT of a Committee appointed by the Madras Government to inquire into the Causes of the EPIDEMIC FEVER, which prevailed in the Provinces of Coimbatore, Madura, Dindigul, and Tinnivelly, during the Years 1809, 1810, and 1811; of which Dr. W. Ainslie was President, Mr. A. Smith second Member, Dr. M. Christie third Member. 8vo. 6s. 6d.

SKETCHES OF INDIA.

SKETCHES of INDIA; or, Observations Descriptive of the Scenery, &c. in Bengal: written in India, in the Years 1811-12-13-14. Together with Notes on the Cape of Good Hope and St. Helena: written at those Places in February, March, and April, 1815. 8vo. 7s.

COLLYER'S LECTURES.

LECTURES on SCRIPTURE DOCTRINES. 8vo. 14s.

— FACTS. 8vo. (Third Edit.) 14s.
By William Bengo' Collyer, D. D. F. A. S. Honorary Member, and Vice President of the Philosophical Society of London, &c.

CORMACK'S INFANTICIDE.

ACCOUNT of the ABOLITION of FEMALE INFANTICIDE in Guzerat; with Considerations on the Question of promoting the Gospel in India. By the Rev. John Cormack, A. M. Minister of Stow. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

CREIGHTON's RUINS OF GOUR.

The RUINS of GOUR described and represented in Eighteen Views, with a Topographical Map, compiled from the Manuscripts and Drawings of the late H. Creighton, Esq. 4to. 2l. 2s.

WOODHOUSE's GRAMMAR.

A GRAMMAR of the SPANISH, PORTUGUESE, and ITALIAN LANGUAGES; intended to facilitate the acquiring of these Sister Tongues, by exhibiting in a Synoptical Form the Agreements and Differences in their Grammatical Construction. By Richard Woodhouse. 8vo. bound, 6s.

ASIATIC JOURNAL.

The ASIATIC JOURNAL and MONTHLY REGISTER for BRITISH INDIA and its DEPENDENCIES. Containing Original Communications, Memoirs, History, Antiquities, and Poetry, Review of Publications, Debates at the East-India House, Proceedings at the Colleges, Military and Commercial Intelligence, Appointments, Promotions, Resignations, Births, Deaths, and Marriages, Shipping Intelligence, Lists of Passengers and Ship Letter Mails, Lists of Company's Shipping, Notices of Sales, London Markets, Prices' Current, Variations of India Exchanges, Company's Securities, &c. &c.

The above Work, from its Commencement in January 1816 to December 1817, may be had bound in four volumes 8vo. price 3l. 10s. and the succeeding Numbers, as published, 2s. 6d. each.

ANDREW's GRAMMAR.

INSTITUTES of GRAMMAR, as applicable to the English Language, or as Introductory to the Study of other Languages; systematically arranged, and briefly explained: to which are added, some Chronological Tables. By James Andrew, LL. D. 8vo. 6s. 6d. bound.

THORNTON's COMPENDIUM.

A COMPENDIUM of the LAWS and REGULATIONS concerning the TRADE with the EAST INDIES. The Duties of the Customs and Excise on Goods imported from thence, the Drawbacks allowed on their Exportation, and the Duties payable on British and Foreign Merchandize exported to the East Indies and China; with a concise Historical Account of the principal Articles of Import from those Parts. To which are subjoined, Schedules of Rates charged by the East-India Company for the Management of Goods imported by Private Merchants, of Dock Dues, &c. &c. By Thomas Thornton, East-India Office Custom-House. Second Edition, corrected to the present Period. 8vo. sewed, 7s.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

POPE'S ARDAI VIRAF NAMEH.

The ARDAI VIRAF NAMEH; or the Revelations of Arda Viraf. Translated from the Persian and Guzerattee Versions, with Notes and Illustrations. By J. A. Pope. 8vo. 5s.

HAYTER'S PERSPECTIVE.

AN INTRODUCTION to PERSPECTIVE DRAWING and PAINTING. In a Series of pleasing and familiar Dialogues between the Author's Children; illustrated by appropriate Plates and Diagrams, and a Sufficiency of practical Geometry, and a Compendium of genuine Instruction; comprising a progressive and complete Body of Information: carefully adapted for the Instruction of Females, and suited equally to the Simplicity of Youth and to Mental Maturity. By Mr. Hayter, Portrait Painter in Miniature and Crayons, and Teacher of the Principal Elements of the Art. The Second Edition, considerably enlarged and improved. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

TUCKEY'S MARITIME GEOGRAPHY.

MARITIME GEOGRAPHY and STATISTICS; or a Description of the Ocean and its Coasts, Maritime Commerce, Navigation, &c. &c. By the late Capt. James Hingston Tuckey. 4 vols. 8vo. 2l. 16s.

This Work, compiled on an Original Plan, is equally calculated for the general Reader, for the Sea Officer, for the Use of Academies, and as a universal Naval Gazetteer.

TYTLER'S STATE OF INDIA.

CONSIDERATIONS on the PRESENT POLITICAL STATE of INDIA; embracing Observations on the Character of the Natives, on the Civil and Criminal Courts, the Administration of the State of Justice, the Land-Tenure, the Condition of the Peasantry, and the Internal Police of our Eastern Dominions; intended chiefly as a Manual of Instruction in their Duties, for the younger Servants of the Company. By Alexander Fraser Tytler, late Assistant-Judge in the Twenty-four Pergunnahs, Bengal Establishment. Second Edition. 2 vols. 8vo. 18s.

CHASE'S MESSIAH'S ADVENT.

MESSIAH'S ADVENT; or, Remarks on the Moral Tendency of the Doctrine of Christ's Manifestation in the Flesh. By Samuel Chase, M. A. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Of BLACK and CO. may be had, a List of Books in Oriental Literature necessary to Writers, Cadets, and Gentlemen going to the East Indies.

